The title Hunt will assume in his new job is General Manager of the Incline Village General Improvement District. Though titled differently under Nevada's system of local government, the position is basically similar to that of a city manager.

Incline Village, a community of about 6,000, is located on the northern shore of Lake Tahoe near the California-Nevada border and is about 250 miles east of San Francisco.

A Mayville, Michigan native and University of Michigan graduate, Hunt was named Charlevoix city manager in October, 1981 following the resignation of James Brinker who is now city clerk-treasurer. Before coming to Charlevoix, Hunt was assistant city manager at Steamboat Springs, Colorado.

His tenure as the city's third city manager since the position was created by the 1977 city charter was almost cut short in April, 1982 when he resigned over a disagreement with the council. That resignation was later rescinded.

Hunt will stay on the job until August 3 and has offered to stay one week after that date to help council screen applicants for the position which has had a yearly salary of approximately $28,000.

"The City of Charlevoix has made a great deal of progress over the past three years," wrote Hunt. "We have come a long way toward understanding what it takes to make professional government work and I believe we are now beginning to see some of the fruits of our labors."

He acknowledged the frustrations of dealing with a newly chartered form of city government saying, "It has not been an easy task to guide the community through the changes mandated or implied by the new city charter. Neither the mayor nor council has received the credit they deserve for their perseverance."

Charlevoix's capacity for teamwork is a source of great strength. But teamwork, under the best of circumstances, is difficult to achieve and requires enormous energy, commitment and patience to maintain. I apologize if I have appeared drained as a result. I remain grateful for the opportunity to be part of your efforts."

Michael acquitted in building scam; four others convicted

Following almost 12 hours of deliberation Saturday, a federal district court jury in Cincinnati found Charlevoix attorney John R. Michael not guilty of participating in a fraudulent business operation out of Charlevoix up to two years ago that collected deposits on farm-pole buildings but never delivered the products.

Four other defendants, however, were found guilty on numerous counts of mail fraud and conspiracy in the case.

Lowell J. Bayers and his wife May were each convicted of one count of conspiracy, 17 counts of mail fraud and two counts of interstate transport of money obtained by fraud.

Duane J. French was convicted on one count of conspiracy, six counts of mail fraud and two counts of interstate transport of money obtained by fraud.

David C. Dietz entered a plea of guilty earlier in the trial to one count of conspiracy, two counts of mail fraud and one count of perjury before a federal grand jury.

According to an indictment filed by the U.S. Attorney General in September, 1983, a firm known as Detroit Steel Pre-engineered Bridge and Building Corporation with an address listed at 228 Bridge St. in Charlevoix advertised steel farm buildings in such agricultural magazines as Michigan Farmer and Ohio Farmer.

When people responded to the ads, according to the indictment, Bayers and French would follow up with a telephone call and arrange for Dietz to make a sales presentation to the potential customer in person.

Between January, 1981 and February, 1982, the phony firm collected and deposited $264,000 in down payments but, claimed the Attorney General's office, never intended to produce any buildings.

Michael was accused of depositing some of the Detroit Steel proceeds in his client trust, knowing that they had been obtained by fraud. He claimed all along, however, that he had no knowledge of the actual nature of the phony business and was only providing a routine service to a corporate client.

"I was sucked into this monumental scam just like all the farmers whose money was taken," said Michael on Monday. "They (the other four defendants) retained me as their attorney and basically conned me into depositing their money in my trust account."

Forty-eight individuals were claimed by the prosecution to have been defrauded in the scheme. Many of those victimized testified in the trial which lasted about three weeks.

The trial was held in the Southern Ohio federal district court because most of the victims of the fraud were from that area. None were listed as being from the Charlevoix area.

Michael, a former Charlevoix County prosecutor who has practiced law locally for over 25 years, was represented by Ohio attorney Daniel O'Brien.

Two killed, two injured in auto mishap

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is investigating a two car accident near East Jordan late Saturday that took the lives of two young Flint women.

The accident happened on M-66 in South Arm Township approximately one-half mile north of the East Jordan city limits near Lord Road at 11:25 p.m. Saturday, June 30.

Dead are Tami L. Hancock, 25, who was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Reed Freidinger, Charlevoix County Medical examiner, and Susan E. Kazmier, 21, who was pronounced dead at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The second passenger, Catherine L. Benson, 22, Davison, was treated for minor injuries.

The driver of the second vehicle, Matthew L. Rogers, 18 of Alma, was transferred to the Little Traverse Division of Northern Michigan Hospitals after being treated briefly at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

All were transferred to the hospital by East Jordan ambulances.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's deputies were assisted at the scene by East Jordan City Police and the East Jordan Fire Department.

Hospice volunteers trained, ready

by PEG OHLE

The Charlevoix County Hospice, which was formed last November, now has a staff of 21 volunteers who have been through a training program and are ready to assist terminally ill patients in a number of ways.

According to Margaret Lasater, executive director of the hospice, these volunteers can provide family patient care, individual patient care, bereavement condolences, clerical work in Hospice headquarters, and assistance with fund-raising to keep the organization going. Up to now, it has depended on dues, memorials, and donations.

The Charlevoix County Hospice recently elected new board members, many of them professional people, who come from all parts of the County:

Camille Green, Marian Kohn, Dr. David Strawbridge, Ron Winchester, Kathy Boss, Sara Gay Damman, and Clara Wilcox of Charlevoix; Carol Alpert, Carol McTaggart, Michael Conklin, Linda Mansfield, and Renate Smith of Boyne City; Patrick Cassidy of Wallon Lake, and Ted Townsend of

Myrna Curtis of Charlevoix is in charge of patient care for the Hospice.

Several measures concerning Hospice organizations and other home health care groups are now being considered by State Legislators. Also, Governor Blanchard recently signed into law a bill that exempts small hospices staffed by all volunteers which provide services to fewer than seven patients monthly, from paying State license fees. The Charlevoix County Hospice falls into this category.

In other legislative action designed to ease the burden of health care for elderly persons:

The Michigan House has passed a series of bills requiring commercial health insurers and Blue Cross-Blue Shield to offer Hospice and home health care coverage to persons when renewing or issuing new policies covering outpatient care. The matter must still be considered by the Senate. (This does not apply to the Charlevoix County Hospice because its services are free.)

In yet another effort, a bill that would provide $17 million in tax credits for persons who care for older family members with functional disabilities has had an initial hearing before the Senate Finance Committee. Senate Bill 141, sponsored by Senator Robert Geale, would allow tax credits of up to $1,000 for persons taking care of family members at least 75 years old. Eligible expenses would include un-reimbursed medicine or physical aids, food, clothing, transportation, lodging in some instances, and personal care provided by a third party.

This bill would also allow families to claim a one-time credit of up to $500 for any adaptations or renovations to their home or the home of the older person. This would include such items as barrier free doors, ramps, and bathroom modifications.

The East Jordan Health Center donates office space to the Charlevoix County Hospice and the Charlevoix Area Hospital donates training and meeting rooms as well as use of their emergency telephone number.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Hospice office, 536-2842, weekday mornings.

City fees covered everything in 1904

by PEG OHLE

The village of Charlevoix had some "big city" ideas back in 1904.

If you wanted to conduct an auction in the city, it would cost you $3 a day for a license; if you brought a circus or menagerie, or both, to town, it would cost $10 a day for a license; if you had a side show in connection with a circus or menagerie, there would be an extra $1 fee; if your business was that of a street fakir, advertiser, or street showman, the license fee would be $3 for the first day and $1 a day after that; if you were involved with a theatrical concern, variety show, public show, or exhibition, the license fee would be $1, and if you did business as a transient trader or dealer, the license fee would be $3 for the first day, $1 a day for the next 30 days, and 25 cents a day thereafter.

If you operated a more permanent business such as a bowling alley, the license fee would be $5 a year per alley; for a skating rink (ice or floor), the fee would be $50 a year; and for a shooting gallery, the license fee would be $1 a month or $10 a year.

If your business was that of a solicitor for a hotel, public house, boat, or railroad, your license would cost you $10 a year; and if you were a driver of a cab, omnibus, carriage, sleigh, express vehicle, or any vehicle used for hire, the license fee would be $10 a year.

Apparently the only other licenses required at the time were for dogs (10 male and $2 female) and building permits within fire limits (50 cents).

All this vital information is from a Village of Charlevoix License Fee rate card dated July first, 1904, loaned to us by Hugh Mayne.

A new and generous scholarship to be known as the Dorothy Ikens McRae Memorial for the remaining two Scholarship has been years.

The award could also be used for a Charlevoix High School graduate who has completed a National College of Education at Evanston, another institution and wishes to get a Master of Arts degree in teaching at the National College of Education.

The scholarship recipient will need to meet the designated admissions criteria of the college; show need for financial aid; write a letter explaining why they want to become an elementary teacher; have been a student of Mrs. McRae's in the Charlevoix school system (preference will be given here but this criteria is flexible) and visit the college (optional but helpful).

Contact persons for implementing the scholarship will be the guidance counselor at the Charlevoix High School and Dr. Sherrel Bergmann, former Charlevoix resident, a professor on the staff at the Graduate School at the National College of Education.

The award is for $2500 annually for each of the four years. However, if a student is attending another college during

The scholarship has been established in memory of Mrs. McRae, a graduate of the National College of Education, who taught kindergarten for 39 years, 37 of them in the Charlevoix Elementary School prior to her retirement in 1979. EDITORIAL

Time to start planning is now

As of Tuesday morning, no decision had been made by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources on a request by the developers of the Hemingway Pointe Club for a permit to construct a marina at the condominium development's Lake Charlevoix site.

Birchwood Farms Construction Company of Harbor Springs is seeking DNR approval for a 3.5 acre marina dredged partially inland to provide 72 boat slips for the condominium owners.

Regardless of how the Hemingway Pointe Club matter turns out, however, an invaluable service has already been performed by the debate over the marina project.

At a time when Lake Charlevoix appears on the brink of a wave more development, and thus more intensified use, Hemingway Pointe has put into clear focus the need for a more responsible stewardship of this precious resource.

It has never been more evident how many different - and not always compatible - interests have a stake in the future of Lake Charlevoix. Fishermen, lake property owners, developers, cities, townships, boaters, environmentalists, state resource managers, chambers of commerce - we have heard from them all.

What makes the debate over the Hemingway Pointe marina especially complex is that not everyone is arguing the same question. The developers want a simple "yes" or "no" on the environmental soundness, under existing statute, of the project.

Opponents, on the other hand, see the decision as a bellwether of future trends and warn that approval of the marina would essentially give a green light to wholesale, unplanned development of the lake shore.

One puzzling aspect of the situation is why such concerns were not voiced three years ago when Eveline Township first granted approval to the 72-unit complex. Surely, it was evident then that some means of boat mooring would eventually be proposed.

Past events aside, the task before us is now clear. For the first time ever, all those concerned with the future of Lake Charlevoix are going to have to sit down together and make some long range plans. It isn't gonna be easy. As it stands, the many townships and municipalities surrounding the lake have widely varying ordinances governing development. For a start, these must be standardized.

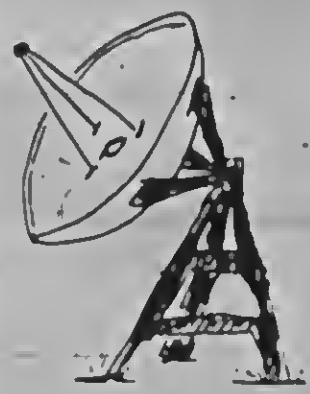

Many other issues must be addressed including a growing sport fishery impact, water quality trends and increased boating pressure.

Initiating the move toward a lake master plan, since the resource is completely within the province of the county, is clearly the job of the county planning department. We urge that a process be set in motion immediately to formulate such a plan.

Two assumptions should guide us: first, that Lake Charlevoix is this area's most precious natural resource, and, second, that it is becoming more attractive to developers every day.

The sooner we can agree on what the lake is going to look like in 10, 20, 30 years, the better.

Less Canadians

By Bob Clock

Either Huey Lewis and the News doesn't sit well with Canadian music fans, or Saturday's concert wasn't promoted as widely "overseas" as other Castle Farms extravaganzas.

In any event, there were far fewer cars with Ontario plates heading north out of town after the Huey Lewis show than there normally are after a concert. After some performances, a full third of the northbound cars have Ontario plates.

Merchants who sometimes end up with a tidal wave of Canadian money on concert days also noticed a drop in the number of visitors from Ontario. All of which could mean that the disparity between the value of the U.S. Canadian dollars is finally catching up with us, causing many Canadians to think twice before crossing the border.

Last week, the Canadian dollar was worth approximately 75 percent less than the American dollar, a situation which makes a trip to the United States a costly excursion for the average Canadian wage-earner.

BUT CASTLE FARMS concerns have put Charlevoix on the map, insofar as the average Ontario resident is concerned. Chances are he has never heard of the Venetian Festival or the Waterfront Art Fair; but when you mention Charlevoix, he'll say: "Oh, that's where they have those rock concerts." If he hasn't already been here, he wants to come some day. "I hear it's a pretty little town - with a lake or something right downtown."

The Clocks made a fast trip to the Georgian Bay area last week, and the comments of strangers were interesting whenever our point-of-origin cropped up in the conversation.

Most Canadians, of course, have had some French in school and would like to pronounce our town "Charle-VWA". But we wouldn't let them. There is a Charlevoix County in Quebec Province, and "VWA" is the accepted pronunciation in those parts.

There is no specific theme this year - other than "creativity." Lights are available at the Chamber of Commerce so there's no good excuse not to participate.

For application blanks or more information, contact the Chamber office.

British 'bobby' pays a visit

for this work. It is the theft of such tools that makes "theft from vehicles" so prevalent.

Burglaries from homes and other places are also frequent crimes in Norfolk County. In 1983, there were 8,018 such crimes. On the same per capita basis, there would have been 229 burglaries in Charlevoix County. Needless to say, there weren't.

Drugs are just now becoming a problem in Norfolk County, according to the Superintendent, with heroin readily reaching the area by ship and plane. The effort to combat the sale of drugs has been directed toward pushers, he said, but the lack of enough police officers make the job difficult.

Drunkenness is a problem in Norfolk County, created largely by night clubs, which are drinking clubs with dance facilities. While the well-known English pubs are patronized mostly by families, they create some problems because of the temptation of owners to sell alcoholic beverages to young people under 18. This is especially true during this recession period when anybody's money is welcome.

Superintendent Mansfield says. All of this seems to add up to law enforcement problems familiar to both Norfolk County in England and Charlevoix County in Michigan. To handle the problems, there is one police officer for every 537 inhabitants in Norfolk County. In Charlevoix County, there is one for every 1,000 inhabitants. In Norfolk County, police officers do not carry firearms on normal patrol. In Charlevoix County, they do.

On the personal side, Superintendent Mansfield is an appointed career officer. At 43, he has come up through the ranks, beginning with an appointment as a cadet in his late teens. He feels he is well paid, with fringe benefits including a substantial housing allowance.

When you are introduced to John Mansfield, you will find a soft-spoken man. He will probably give you a lingering handshake and perhaps touch your shoulder. He believes that touching is an important part of human relationships, even in his line of duty as a police officer.

Congress Negotiates $50 Billion Tax Hike

"The art of government consists in taking as much money as possible from one class of citizens to give to the other."

Voltaire, Dictionnaire Philosophique

ON OUR WAY home we traveled the southern route, which took us through Essex County, a fertile, sun-drenched flood plain bordered by Lake St. Clair, the Detroit River and Lake Erie. Because of the soft, moist climate and the abundance of sunshine, the area is sometimes referred to as "Canada's Sun Parlor" by local chambers of commerce.

I have never seen an area so intensively cultivated - not even the Dutch farms in Pennsylvania. Every backyard is a truck garden and vacant lots in town are planted right up to the sidewalk. Rows of sweet corn stretch as far as the eye can see, straight as a string.

Despite the fertile land and pleasant climate, enterprising Canadians have put literally thousands of acres "under glass" in order to extend the growing season. Greenhouses - thousands of them - are found behind homes in town and in clusters on farmlands.

Roadside stands last week were selling field-ripened peas, zucchini, cucumbers, strawberries and potatoes. The first field-ripened tomatoes probably will go on sale this week.

The British place names in the area are straight out of an Anthony Trollope novel: Leamington, Colchester, Harrow, Kingsville and of course, Essex.

To wide-eyed wanderers - from Frigid Northern Michigan, Essex County is a tropical paradise.

IF YOU ASK Don Wells for the time this week, chances are he'll consult his new gold wrist watch. Wells marked his 25th anniversary with American Mold (D-M-E Co.) on June 30.

Weddings

Hicks-White

Joy Hicks and Mark White were married June 16 at the United Methodist Church before approximately 300 guests.

The Reverend David Yingling officiated at the double-ring rites in which the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Orville and Bonnie Hicks and Mark and Donna White, all of Charlevoix, are the parents of the newlyweds.

The bride's gown was fashioned of sheer organza and Brussels lace and featured a Queen Anne collar, open neckline, full bishop sleeves, and a pearl-encrusted belt effect across the bodice. The bouffant skirt was styled with a cascade of ruffled tiers down the back to a graceful chapel train.

Colleen Wilhelm was the bride's maid of honor, and Jody Hicks and Brenda Boss served as bridesmaids. They wore gowns of peach chiffon and carried peach carnations with a touch of purple statice.

Becky Blissett, as flower girl, wore the same type of dress. T. J. Carey was ringbearer.

Scott Way attended the bridegroom as best man, with Kevin Swanson and Tim Carey serving as groomsmen and Bob Holtzman and Bruce Meggison serving as ushers.

Ken Boss sang the wedding music, including "Truly" and "The Lord's

Schorsch-Miltimore

Michelle Schorsch and Randall Miltimore were married on Saturday afternoon, June 23, at the First Assembly of God Church in Huron, South Dakota.

The bride is the daughter of the Reverend and Mrs. Donald Schorsch of Huron, formerly of Charlevoix. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Miltimore of Nekoosa, Wisconsin. Both the bride and bridegroom have been making their home in Minneapolis, where she is employed by the Noren Clinic as a receptionist and he is employed by the Marquette Bank of Minneapolis.

The bride's father and her grandfather, the Reverend C. L. Strom of Ellendale, North Dakota, performed the rites.

Kristi Schorsch assisted as maid of honor, and Lori Eskew, Melinda Klooster, and Kim Miltimore were bridesmaids. Pam Brazer served as the bride's personal attendant.

Mark Miltimore was best man, and Scott Lankford, Ross Miltimore, Jr., and Scott Miltimore were groomsmen. Helping seat the guests were Dan Nelson, Jim Morrison, Pat Miltimore, Kerry Miltimore, and Corey Miltimore.

Reborn boat parade

By Glenn Knight

Over the past few years, if there has been one comment about the Charlevoix Venetian Festival that has been repeated more often than any other, it has been the lament that the Saturday evening boat parade is not like it used to be.

Indeed, the boat parade is - or should be - the real showpiece of Charlevoix's annual summer blitz out. Originally, it was the Venetian Festival. Before the carnival rides, the queen's contest, the street parade, the footrace, the drum and bugle corps and all the other trappings came along, the lit boat parade, modeled after a colorful tradition on the canals of Venice, was the sole event.

Now I am happy to report that an industrious committee has set its collective mind to revamping and reviving Charlevoix's Venetian Boat Parade.

Under co-chairmen John Ochs and Tom Hawley, the committee has been meeting regularly since last year developing an exciting new gameplan.

This year there will actually be three separate parades. At 8 p.m., Saturday, July 28, the first parade will feature sailboats circling Round Lake under sail. At 9 p.m. while it is still light out there will be a parade of "classic" boats.

At 10 p.m., as darkness falls, the lit boats will parade in two categories. The first is free and is open to virtually anybody who wants to participate. The second category of lit boats requires a $25 entry fee and will offer prizes of $200, $100 and $50 cash for the top three finishers.

The first two places in each division will receive trophies and the first three places will be awarded framed photos of their boats taken on a "victory pass." Awards will be presented immediately following the fireworks at the Yacht Club.

This year, the boat parades will assemble off Ferry Avenue so that people who don't want to battle the crowds downtown can view the boats from the Ferry Beach park. Another new twist has the parade circling Round Lake clockwise and it is hoped by the committee that an area in the moored spectator boats in the middle of the lake will be marked by buoys to relieve some of the congestion in the parade route.

There is no specific theme this year - other than "creativity." Lights are available at the Chamber of Commerce so there's no good excuse not to participate.

For application blanks or more information, contact the Chamber office.

Outdoor Report

From the DNR Gaylord District Office. Excellent walleye fishing continues in Mullet Lake where many limit catches are reported by fishermen drifting and trolling with minnows and crawlers in water depths less than 15 feet. Bass and bluegill being taken in good numbers from most all waters as these fish remain in shallow water for spawning. Night crawlers, minnows and plugs all are producing good success. Trout streams are in excellent condition with fair to good catches of trout being taken from such streams as the Sturgeon, Pigeon, Maple and Manistee. Good results reported on line bait and the fly fishermen can have good success late evenings.

District 5 walleye ponds are being harvested. To date the following walleye fingerling plants have been made: 60,000 Thunder Bay River below Hillman, 60,000 East Twin Lake, Montmorency County, 7,500 Doris Lake, Oshtemo County, 3,000 Crooked and Prickler Lakes, Emmet County, and 10,000 Carp Lake, Emmet County. Many people are now enjoying lake picking and people are reminded that maps are available by stopping at the DNR District Office. They are also enjoying a drive through the forest just to see the deer, elk, and wildflowers.

Wildlife Biologist Douglas Whitcomb almost had to step off an old trail to permit two large black bear to go by. Many people call to make reservations at Forest Campgrounds and you are reminded that reservations can be made at State Parks NOT Forest Campgrounds. Activity in campgrounds will increase rapidly as we get near the weekend.

Kwikie leads division

Kwikie duplicating has taken over the lead in the Women's Division of the Charlevoix Slowpitch League following five nights of play. On Tuesday, Kwikie shut out County State Bank 4-0 and the Charlevoix Health and Fitness Center edged Township 4-1. In the opener, Township was unable to take advantage of the nine hits given up by Carol Williams. Sue Barta allowed seven hits. In the second game, Kwikie scored four runs on the 10 hits allowed by Maxine Brackney. Lisa Hilton, the winning pitcher, gave up five hits. Charlevoix Health and Fitness Center split, winning over County State Bank 10-3 and losing to the league-leading Kwikie duplicating 14-3 as they made up a game from June 12. Carol Williams gave up six hits to 12 for Max Brackney as Health and Fitness rolled to a 10-3 victory. In the second game, Lisa Hilton pitched Kwikie to a 14-3 win despite allowing 13 hits. Lori Holtzman scored a home run for the losers. Carol Williams gave up 20 hits. Township defeated County State Bank 13-12 to bring their season record to 3-2 behind the pitching of Teri Wilson who allowed 13 hits. Brackney gave up 17.

Angels win opener

In the opening game of the Charlevoix Little League Association, the Angels defeated the Royals 14-0. Stacy Steel was the winning pitcher. D'Arcy Moore the losing pitcher. In the second game of the night, Melissa Boss pitched the Indians to a 2-4 win over the Orioles. Stacy Tilton was the losing pitcher. The second game saw Scott Carr pitch the Dodgers to a 10-4 victory over the Cubs. Scott Miller was the losing pitcher.

Herriman paces Lodge

In the major league of the Charlevoix Little League Association, Tom Herriman had 13 strikeouts as he pitched Round Lake Lodge to a 6-2 win over the American Legion. He allowed only three hits. Dan Terryberry allowed five hits. Herriman had two hits and Tim Jervis. Scott Dixon and Ryan Holmes one each for the Lodge. Terryberry, Corey Richardson and Chris Dombrowski had one each for the Legion.

GG leads men's league

Grey Gables with a 7-1 record moved into first place in the Men's League of the Charlevoix Slowpitch League sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department, dropping Wojan Aluminum 7-2 to second place in the standings. In action Monday Grey Gables handed Charlevoix Garbage its ninth loss by a score of 7-2 behind the pitching of Ray LaVoie who allowed nine hits. Bob Smith allowed 12. In other games, the Lander edged the Juilet-Fireweed 8-11 on the 16 hits off the losing pitcher, Howard Zoet. Bill Brodin gave up 18. Paul Boyan Lanes with Mike Crain on the mound, defeated Swanson's K&D 12-6. The Lanes had 14 hits off Phil Skeel; Swanson's had 10. 10 games played in the standings.

Wojan Aluminum won over Air Force 11-4 and Paul Bunyan Lanes shut Wednesday, Juilet-Fireweed defeated Swanson's K&D, 9-2.

CHIP Counseling Center offers unique lineup of summer programs for all ages

Four unique educational programs focusing on "maintaining and improving family mental health" are being offered this summer by the Chip Counseling Center.

This marks the first time the Center, which serves Charlevoix, Antrim and Emmet Counties, has offered an extensive summer schedule of programs.

Said Julie A. Shankland, substance abuse prevention educator for the center and coordinator of the summer activities, "School's out but education need not cease for the summer months. In fact, summer may be considered a good time for revitalization."

Ms. Shankland, a Petoskey native, is a recent graduate of the University of Michigan where she majored in social work administration. She joined the substance abuse prevention staff of Chip Counseling Center earlier this year.

The line-up of programs she has developed for this summer includes everything from puppet shows for young children to workshops for adults on identifying sources of stress.

Following are brief descriptions of the summer programs:

McGroup This six week program is designed for children 6 to 10 years of age from divorced, separated or single family homes.

It got its name from pilot programs in two school systems in which children had an opportunity to explore and talk about themselves, their families and their feelings about both the self-esteem building experience teaches children children to recognize and identify feelings in themselves and others, to verbalize feelings and to think about alternatives to destructive expressions of anger.

According to Ms. Shankland, this small group experience is limited to six children and participants will be asked to attend all of the six sessions.

In Charlevoix the McGroup will be held at the Charlevoix Public Library from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. on Thursdays starting July 12, and continuing through August 16.

In Petoskey, the sessions will be held at the Chip office at 207 E. Mitchell on Tuesdays starting July 3 and continuing through August 7.

The cost at both locations is $24 per child for the entire six weeks.

Film Series: Aspects of Alcoholism This educational film series on the dynamics of alcoholism runs for nine consecutive weeks and will be shown in Charlevoix, Petoskey and Bellaire. The first film in the series is being shown this week.

Topics include alcohol use in our society, medical and physical effects of alcohol, alcohol and family dynamics and treatment of the alcoholic.

The films average a half hour to 45 minutes in length, said Ms. Shankland, and time will be reserved at the end of each showing for questions and discussion.

The series is free of charge and is open to individuals, families and professionals interested in learning more about the disease of alcoholism.

In Charlevoix, the films will be shown at 4 p.m. at the Charlevoix

Public Library on Mondays through August 27. In Petoskey, they will be shown Mondays at 7 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church and in Bellaire on Thursdays at 4 p.m. at the Chip Counseling Center office at 3500 Derenz Rd.

BABES BABES stands for Beginning Alcohol Basic Education Studies. It is an educational program for children from 3 to 8 years old which features a colorful cast of puppets to entertain and instruct.

This three-week program is composed of seven lessons designed to assist children in self-expression and exploration in order to facilitate individual development of valuable coping skills.

Also provided is basic information regarding use and abuse of alcohol and other drugs.

The cost is $24 per child or $5 a session.

Registration is limited to 15 children who will have the opportunity to meet Myth Mary, Donovan Dignity, Rhonda Rabbit, Recovering Reggie, Buttons and Bows McKitty and Early Bird.

Sessions will be held at Boyne City and Harbor Springs. At Boyne, they will be Tuesdays and Thursdays, July 24-August 9 from 9:30 to 11 a.m. at the Boyne City High School. At Harbor, they will be Tuesdays and Thursdays, July 3-19 from 9:30 to 11 a.m. at the Harbor Springs High School.

The cost is $24 per child or $5 a session.

New cookbook has distinctly local flavor

by PEG ORLE

This summer's special memento of Charlevoix is "A Taste of Charlevoix," a 500-recipe cookbook compiled and produced by Xi Epsilon Gamma chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, the international sorority dedicated to community service.

The Intensive Care Unit of the Charlevoix Area Hospital will benefit from sales of the cookbook, as it has from many sorority projects in recent years.

The recipes were supplied by summer visitors as well as year-around residents. "The response to our request for recipes and other help was overwhelming," said Suzi Reis, who helped put the book together. "People in Charlevoix really care about our hospital."

Local artists Sue and Russell Bell donated the cover design for the cookbook as well as interior illustrations.

depicting familiar local Charlevoix scenes. Thirty-three local merchants donated money to help pay printing costs.

"A Taste of Charlevoix" is fully indexed by categories, including appetizers, beverages, soups, breads, salads, main dishes, vegetables, side dishes, and desserts.

Take, for instance, Jeannine Wallace's comment about her Russian Vegetable Soup: "Looks pretty to have one whole tomato in each soup dish with some creaming."

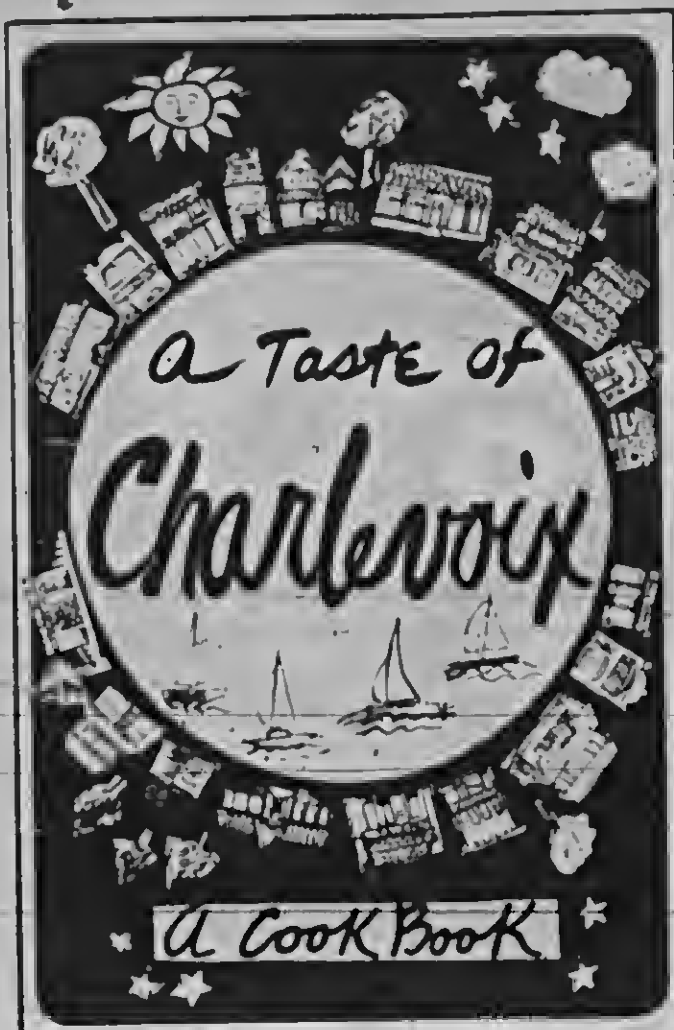

Ore Melissas a Kieswetter's suggestion for her Luscious Avocado, Papaya, and Shrimp Salad: "Serve with a light fruit nut bread and a chilled Chardonnay for a refreshing midday summer meal or a light summer supper by the sun."

Or Kay Ball's note

Phillips open their new Phillips Hill on the Boyne City Road for a reception introducing "A Taste of Charlevoix."

Dave will prepare a bouillabaisse, punch, and hors d'oeuvres from his recipes and Sue and Russell Bell will be on hand to autograph copies of the cookbook. Members of the sorority will also be on hand to answer questions about the cookbook. They will be dressed in black and white, the theme colors of "A Taste of Charlevoix," so as to be readily identified. The public is cordially invited to the party.

In the meantime, copies of "A Taste of Charlevoix" are available at Burnside's, The Apple Tree, Shop of the Gulls, and the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce for $10. Copies may also be ordered by mail from Xi Epsilon Gamma, c/o Suzi Reis, corner of Park and Bridge Streets, Charlevoix.

Afterglow at Windmill to follow Art Train again

The Art Fair Afterglow is scheduled again this summer, the day after the Charlevoix Art Fair, on Sunday, August 12 at Windmill Farm on the Boyne City Road, noon to 5 o'clock. The Off Bridge Street Artists will display their works. A buffet luncheon and folk music by "The Leather Britches" will highlight the affair, which will benefit Planned Parenthood of Northern Michigan.

Obituaries
REGINA M. CURTIS
Funeral services for a former Charlevoix resident, Mrs. Regina M. Curtis, 69, who died June 29 at a Taylor hospital following a brief illness, were held Tuesday morning at St. Mary's Church. The Rev. R. Dale Magoon officiated. Interment was in Brookdale Cemetery.
The former Regina M. Mayer was born at Bay Shore Oct. 2, 1914, and was raised in Detroit. She was married to Russell E. Curtis at Pontiac on Jan. 10, 1933. They lived in Pontiac until coming to Charlevoix in 1948. In 1953 they returned to southern Michigan returning here in 1960. Mr. Curtis preceded her in death Nov. 21, 1960. She returned to the Detroit area in 1969.
She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Robert (Corrine) Russell of Charlevoix and Mrs. Mayo (Barbara) Wood of Mt. Clemens; two sons, William of Reedwood City, Calif., and David of Westland; 16 grandchildren; two great-grandchildren and two brothers, Edward Mayer of Wildwood, Fla., and Christopher Mayer of Bruce Crossings.
The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

CHS Flag Corps attends camp

Members of the Charlevoix High School Flag Corps attended a camp, the girls raised $1,300 with two car washes, a can drive and an egg sale. While at camp they learned a series of routines and participated in various competitions during the week.
The flag corps will be marching with the Charlevoix High School marching band at all home football games this fall.
Becky Resch has been assisting the flag corps since last September.

Registration now open for 4-H camp on Beaver Island

Registrations are now being accepted for the annual Charlevoix County 4-H camp on Beaver Island to be held Sunday, July 29 through Thursday, August 2.
The $20 cost of the camp includes boat fare, camping fee, food, insurance, bus, trips and supplies.
The program for senior campers (13 and older) includes boating, Beaver Island history, community service, campfires, outdoor cooking, swimming, games and more.
Junior campers (12 and under) will learn outdoor cooking, crafts, swimming, games, Olympic contests, campfires, biology studies, Beaver Island history among other things.
A non-refundable $10 registration fee accompanied by an application and notarized health form is due by Wednesday, July 25.
A few places are still available. If an older, will be needed to assist with the junior campers. Those interested are asked to indicate their interest on the application. They will be notified if chosen and asked to attend a training meeting.

"Did you know that you're in a LATA?"

All about LATAs, long distance calling, and Michigan Bell discounts.

LATA is a telephone term that's new to all of us.
Explaining that LATA stands for Local Access Transport Area doesn't help much, but LATAs are really very simple. They're telephone service areas. There are five LATAs in which Michigan Bell provides telephone service.

LATAs and long distance calling.
If you look at the map, you will see the five Michigan LATAs, including the LATA you are in. Now here's how LATAs work. When you place a long distance call from one LATA to another telephone number within the same LATA, Michigan Bell carries the call for you over its own network. When you place a call from one LATA to another LATA, rather than Michigan or another state, it will be handled by the long distance company that provides that service to you (not Michigan Bell).

For example, if you call from Detroit to Flint (two cities within the same LATA), Michigan Bell will still be able to handle the call as in the past. But if you call from Detroit to Traverse City (from a city in one LATA to a city in a different LATA), a long distance company other than Michigan Bell will carry the call. As you may know, there are now a number of different companies you may choose from to provide your long distance service.

Your long distance bill(s).
When you receive your Michigan Bell telephone bill, you'll find a page that lists your long distance calls handled by Michigan Bell. You may also find another page that lists long distance calls handled by other companies. This is because Michigan Bell may provide billing services for other long distance companies. Or you may receive a separate long distance bill directly from the company you've selected to handle your long distance calls.

Long distance discount periods.
Michigan Bell continues to offer discounts on direct dialed long distance calls within each of the five LATAs. We suggest you save the chart below as a reminder of the times when you save 30% to 50% off the Day Full Rate.

NOTE: When you begin a call during one rate period, your call will be charged at that rate, however should that call pass into a different rate period, your charges will change to the rate of the new period. For example, a weekday call that begins 01 minutes before 5 p.m. and ends 01 minutes after 5 p.m. will be billed at the full rate for the first 10 minutes and will be billed at the 30% discount rate for the last 10 minutes.

Save up to 50% on direct dialed long distance calls. Schedule for direct dialed long distance calls within Michigan LATAs.

EVENING DISCOUNT PERIOD 30% DISCOUNT*

*During the Evening Discount Period, you pay 30% less than the Day Full Rate Charge for direct dialed calls within each of the Michigan LATAs.
*During the Night and Weekend Discount Period, you pay 50% less than the Day Full Rate Charge for direct dialed calls within each of the Michigan LATAs.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Page

Sanborn-Page

Rebecca L. Sanborn became the bride of James L. Page early in May at the Haslett Community Church. The bride is the daughter of "Bud" Sanborn of Haslett and Al and Mary Breeze of Charlevoix, and the groom is the son of Walter and Carolyn Pace of Haslett.

For the occasion, the church was decorated with pink and white flowers and green plants.

The bride who was given in marriage by her parents, wore a gown with five tiers of tulle and a cathedral-length train.

Her style high neckline, sleeves, belt and bodice were accented with pink and white flowers.

Sanborn served her sister as maid of honor. Peggy St. Amour, Kristie Jackson, and Robin Ellis were bridesmaids. They wore long tulle dresses with high necklines and lace.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the Harley Hotel in Lansing following the wedding. They were assisted by Karen Page. The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at the Country House in Okemos.

Following a wedding trip to the Bahamas, the newlyweds are at home in Haslett. The bride is employed by the Lansing School District as a computer operator and also attends Lansing Community College. The bridegroom is employed by the Student Bookstore in East Lansing.

County social services offices contracts with state for emergency aid

In an effort to meet emergency needs of area residents, the Charlevoix County Department of Social Services has contracted with the State Department of Social Services to provide food and shelter not provided under other State programs.

The aid comes in three separate categories: Food pantry items will be dispensed direct from storerooms and store vouchers will be issued for selected Charlevoix County residents. Shelter vouchers will be issued to pay the minimum rent, deposit, motel expense, or what is needed to provide shelter. Utilities vouchers will be provided for the minimum expenditure required to purchase, prevent disconnection, or restore utility services.

Those seeking any of the above emergency services will be asked to complete a one-page declaration of need. The income guideline is available from the Department of Social Services at 547-4471. Those living in or near used for the surplus Charlevoix may also call the Rainbow Shoppe at 547-2815. Someone according to Doug McCombs of the County Department of Social Services. Extenuating between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Names In The News

JANNA WIELAND, an Alma College freshman from Charlevoix, was one of 28 students who spent Alma's four-week Spring Term in Jamaica. The students were there to gain cross-cultural experiences and increase awareness of life in Third World countries through Alma's Jamaica V service-learning program.

The Jamaica program, which Alma has offered since 1980, took place this year in the western village of Green Island. There Alma's students were housed with local families, taught or made presentations in primary and secondary schools, and worked on a theatre-classroom construction project at the Green Island secondary school.

Some also assisted in repairing or rebuilding homes for destitute families and others helped take a survey of households in Crawl, one of the poorest communities in Jamaica. Several of Alma's premed students worked directly with physicians in clinics, hospitals and rural communities.

All kept journals detailing their experiences. In addition to their work, the students also had two side trips, one for scuba diving, and the other a two day holiday at Seawinds Resort.

Janna, a 1983 graduate of Charlevoix High School, is the daughter of Thomas and Ardeth Wieland, Charlevoix.

Senior Airman JEFFERY A. WARD, son of Richard J. and Nancy A. Ward of Oregon, Ohio has been selected for career status.

Assigned at Cape Canaveral Air Force Station, Fla., Ward was approved for reenlistment by a board which considered character and performance.

The airman is an aerospace control and warning systems operator with the 23rd Air Defense Squadron.

Image, a talented group of students from Anderson College, will present a musical concert this Friday, July 4, at the Church of God campground, Loeb and Veenstra Roads, in Charlevoix, according to Rev. Walter G. Hastings, host pastor. The concert is in conjunction with the Charlevoix Family Camp, sponsored by the Churches of God in Northern Michigan.

Image group members include: Brenda Damiana of Wexill, Pennsylvania; Brenda Chambliss of Lake Wales, Florida; Robin Kupisch of Flint, Michigan; Todd Braschier of St. James, Missouri; and keyboard arranger Jay Rouse of Lake Wales, Florida. Image is one of several touring groups representing Anderson College of Anderson, Indiana.

Image attempt to communicate their faith in Jesus Christ through Christian music. Their concert will include a wide range of hymns, gospel songs, and original praise songs, with a rich interweaving of voices in harmony. Their mature voices and warm spirits have been used to uplift and inspire audiences throughout the Midwest.

Arts Council to offer three summer workshops

Crooked Tree Arts Council announces three special workshops for the summer of 1984 held at Petoskey's Virginia McCune Arts Center.

WILLARD PIERCE, noted tenor and Director of the Theatre Arts Department at Bay View, will be offering private voice lessons on Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays from now until August 25. Mr. Pierce was educated at the Juilliard School of Music and has performed across the country with leading symphony orchestras and theatre companies. He has appeared as a soloist at Radio City Music Hall and was a member of the NBC-TV Opera Company. He currently teaches voice in New York City and is on the faculty of the Camerata School of Music and Dance in West Hartford, Conn. Mr. Pierce also instructs speech and diction, opera coaching, and special workshop classes if enough students are interested. Cost of lessons is $10 per half-hour, minimum of four lessons.

RUSSELL BOLT, area artist, will offer a watercolor workshop July 9 - July 11 from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each day. Students may be beginners or advanced, and some instruction will take place outdoors. Students should supply their materials. Cost of this workshop is $75 for the three days.

ZOLTAN SZABO, artist from Arizona and Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, will offer a watercolor workshop August 20-24 in the Arts Center's Community Room. This workshop is also designed for instruction at all levels of experience. The class is limited to 25 students and there are currently eight spaces left. Cost is $225 for five place in the class. days, and a $50 deposit is required to reserve a

Have you met
'Big Olaf'
at Cravings yet?

By TAMMY CURRIER
One of Charlevoix's most unique new taste treats this summer comes by the unlikely name of "Big Olaf".

Big Olaf is a deluxe ice cream cone first developed in Europe and introduced in the United States about three years ago. The cone is only one of many tasty items that can be found at Cravings, a newly opened gourmet take-out located on the west side of Bridge St. near the channel.

Cravings is owned and operated by Mary Behan Walker, a lifelong Petoskey resident who also has Cravings shops on Mackinac Island and in Harbor Springs.

Mrs. Walker became interested in starting her own business after having worked at Symons General Store in Petoskey for four years.
She opened her first shop offering Big Olafs in Harbor Springs in May of last year.

That was successful enough to encourage
Mrs. Walker to expand.
She was drawn to Charlevoix, she said, by the beauty of the area and the people.

"I thought it would be a great way to get to know Charlevoix and its people a little better," said Mrs. Walker of her decision to open the local Cravings which offers fresh-baked croissants and cookies
as well as Big Olafs.

The Big Olaf is a descendant of the Danish

"supercone", a wafflelike sugar cone introduced in the U.S. three years ago by a young entrepreneur who developed his own recipe after studying the European original.

In addition to Big Olafs, Cravings carries four kinds of fresh-baked cookies, 13 kinds of fresh-baked croissants from Vie de France, both Haagen
Daz and House of Flavors ice creams and fresh fruit and candy toppings. The shop will also soon feature a line of fresh-baked breads including rye and pumpernickel.

The keys to successful business, says Mrs.
Walker, are "great service, consistent quality and excellent products."

"I hope to have a great summer in Charlevoix and do my best at making Cravings a fun place to come into because, after all, what's ice cream without a little fun?" she said.

Ready to introduce new customers to "Big Olaf" and many other treats is the counter staff at Cravings,
Boduc, Jamie Johnston, Lorraine
Paul, Lesli Miller and Tammy Currier.

City lifeguard staff features much experience

Lifeguards are already on Charlevoix's major beaches and swimming lessons are scheduled to begin this week at the Ferry Avenue Beach, according to Dwight Boss, City Recreation director.

Boss, in announcing these services made available through the Charlevoix Recreation Department, is introducing his staff by presenting a thumbnail sketch of each.

The swimming instructors are Kelly Carson and Patti Cook. Kelly, 21, who comes from Lansing, will graduate from Western Michigan University in December. This is her third summer as swimming instructor and lifeguard. Her major is Speech Pathology and Education.

Patti, 20, whose home is in Charlevoix, is back for her second season as instructor and lifeguard. She will be a junior at Central Michigan University in September. Her major is Elementary Education.

The lifeguards, who are at the Depot and Ferry Avenue beaches on Lake Michigan and at the Lake Michigan beach south of the piers are: Gerard Doan, 22, who has returned for his fourth season as a lifeguard, is a Charlevoixan who will be a senior at Lake Superior State College, majoring in Criminal Justice when he returns to school this fall.

Michael Martin, and Don Baum of Waco, Texas, have returned for a second season on the beaches. Martin, 19, of Charlevoix, will be a second year student at North Central Michigan College studying Liberal Arts, when he returns to school in September. Baum, 21, will be a senior at Indiana University majoring in Business Marketing.

Dave McCardel, 20, of Lansing and Todd McNitt, 19, of Wyoming, are newcomers to their job. McNitt will be a second year student at Central Michigan majoring in Elementary Education and McCardel a senior at Northwood Institute majoring in Business Management.

Five finalists advance in Hawaiian Tropic competition

The Dreams continue for live lovely ladies as they represent Northern Michigan in the Hawaiian Tropic search for the most beautiful girl in the world.

Radio station WKHQ brought ladies together from all over Northern Michigan to the Dinner Cruise on the glamorous Star of Charlevoix on Friday, June 29th. Even the weather cooperated as the weeks' gloomy skies gave way to sunshine and right smiles from the contestants and emcee Mark Kage.

Attorney for Hawaiian Tropic, Kevin Hansen-Persnall Employment Specialist for Glens, Josh Nash and Cyndi Smith of KHQ, Robin Randels - Charlevoix Courier, John Russell - Chief Photographer of Traverse City Record Eagle and Lindy Smith of the Bahnhof) came between the serious business of evaluating each contestant.

Judges rated the contestants on Swimsuit, Question Response, Poise and Overall Appearance, and although the job was difficult, came up with live outstanding representatives.

They are: Cynthia McWilliams of Charlevoix, Kimberly Bowen of Northport, Karen Budek of Petoskey, Christine Fletcher and Kim Hall, both of Traverse City. These "5 hopefuls" attend the state competition, to be held at the attractive Detroit Metro-Airport Holiday Inn this Friday, July 6.

Other Regional Finalists from Saginaw, Grand Rapids and Detroit join our National Michigan representatives in hopes of continuing on to the Miss Hawaiian Tropic U.S.A. finals in Daytona Florida.

From there, four more winners make the exciting trip to Honolulu, Hawaii to compete for the International Title. Grand prizes include a Monark Ski Boat, Porsche 944, a dream vacation for two anywhere in the world, a national modeling assignment and more.

Consent agreement settles air pollution suit against Medusa

by DAVE KNIGHT

A consent agreement entered Monday with the 33rd Circuit Court in Charlevoix ends a lawsuit filed jointly against the Medusa Cement Company last November by Michigan Attorney General Frank J. Kelley, Walter and Alvin Team Charlevoix, Inc. (WATCH) and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

The suit filed by Kelley and the other plaintiffs charged that Medusa's Charlevoix Township plant violated Michigan Air Pollution and Environmental Protection Acts. It alleged that Medusa, after converting its manufacturing operation from a "wet" to a "dry" process violated emission standards set by the Michigan Air Pollution Commission.

As part of the consent agreement signed by Circuit Court Judge Martin B. Breighner in a brief court proceeding Monday morning, Medusa will establish an equipment malfunction abatement program, a fugitive dust control program, will reimburse the state $15,000 for surveillance costs and will continue to conduct regular emission monitoring.

Under the terms of the agreement, the Medusa operation will be controlled by court decree for the next 10 years. II. Medusa complies with all phases of the agreement during that period, then both the state and WATCH are required to support the issuance to the company of a "Permit to Operate" which Medusa has never obtained for its new manufacturing process.

Should the permit be issued, all the requirements of the consent decree will be incorporated into the permit and enforcement will be the responsibility of the DNR.

Also, the agreement allows Medusa to seek relief from stack opacity standards set by the state which all parties realize are not realistically attainable.

Said Howard F. Nelson, president of WATCH, "When WATCH requested in the fall of 1982 that Attorney General Kelley file suit against Medusa to require that Medusa comply with state laws regarding air pollution, WATCH was determined to obtain relief for the citizens of the Charlevoix area from the intensity of the problems caused by cement dust from the Medusa plant. WATCH is happy to report that today's consent decree requires that Medusa adopt programs which contain all practical solutions available for the reduction of the cement dust problem."

Major portions of the consent agreement are as follows:

-A 25-point Malfunction Abatement Program establishes a schedule of preventative maintenance on all equipment in the plant critical to dust handling and control.

The program was included as a major feature of the agreement because equipment breakdowns in the past have often been responsible for episodes of excessive dust emissions.

Under the program, Medusa will conduct annual training of all employees - at least one hour per employee annually - involved with malfunction abatement.

Also, monthly reports will be required to be submitted to the DNR Air Quality Division within 15 days after the end of any month when repairs are made.

-A 14-point Fugitive Dust Control Program is aimed primarily at preventing the dust raised on quarry

Council leans toward East Park plan for restrooms behind bandshell

by DAVE KNIGHT

At a joint work session Monday night with the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) and the Parks and Recreation Commission, the Charlevoix City Council appeared to reach consensus on the first phase of an improvement project for East Park.

At least five members of the council indicated their willingness to embark on an estimated $25,000 program that will create new restroom and shower facilities on the south east side of the bandshell in East Park.

Also under the program, the current restroom facilities located on the upper floor of the Chamber of Commerce building will be renovated into increased office space by the Chamber while the restrooms on the lower level will be expanded.

A gradually sloping walkway is planned from street level near the Parkside restaurant to the lower level so that the public restrooms will be accessible to handicapped users, according to the plan.

At least three DDA board members opposed the plans, however, saying that other park improvements should have higher priority.

DDA board president Jeffrey Porter told the group that the DDA's preference was to improve the landscaping in the parking lot behind Bridge St. north of Clinton and to construct landscaped cul-de-sacs at the feet of both Clinton and Mason Streets.

Council had budgeted $25,000 for East Park improvements this year, an amount which was supplemented over the winter by a $10,000 bequest from the Robert Bridge estate.

Shirley Roloff was the lone opponent among council members of the restroom program.

Porter also voiced his dissatisfaction with the council's recent sidewalk improvement program.

He charged that the program concentrated on residential areas of the city at the expense of the downtown where sidewalks receive the heaviest use and are in bad repair.

"It's unfair to spend money in the residential areas where the voters are," said Porter, "and leave the downtown floundering. We (the DDA) feel that the downtown should have the safest sidewalks in town but that it has been ignored."

Council directed staff to start a survey of sidewalk conditions in the downtown. There was also a consensus to consider the downtown sidewalk needs when the budget for street and sidewalk repair for next year is developed.

Marina permit put on hold

Michigan Department of Natural Resources Director Ronald Skoog said last week that, although a permit for a 72-slip marina at the Hemingway Pointe Club on Lake Charlevoix has not formally been denied, he has asked DNR staff and the developers of the project to look into alternative plans.

The project, as proposed by Birchwood Farm Construction Co., would involve use of public surface water and that aspect of the plan is what prompted Skoog's concern.

He said that an alternative will be investigated which would locate the marina farther inland and that a final decision on the project could come as early as this week.

Norwood turns out for Centennial party

by PEG OMLE

In Norwood last Saturday, the white clapboard houses looked whiter and the newly-mown grass looked greener.

There was an air of festivity all around, from bunting-festooned rural mail boxes to the "dress-up" garb of yesterday.

Norwood was celebrating the Centennial of its founding. Residents of the village on Lake Michigan south of Charlevoix recalled in many ways its busy past as a lakeport and lumber milling community. They also expressed contentment with their present-day quiet activities in church and village.

Neighboring Banks Township sent its shined-up fire engines to add color and provide rides for little boys and girls.

Some who live on the "Lower Level" of Norwood labeled themselves "beach boys" and rode motor-bikes, while others proclaimed their presence by period dress and signs.

Nearby businesses sent over some pieces of heavy equipment with sneering horns.

A clown provided many laughs with his acrobatic antics.

Some of the shiniest antique automobiles in the area honked their way past the viewers.

Office-seekers found the parade to their liking and sought to sweeten their chances of election by tossing out candy tidbits.

All in all, it was a fine parade, followed by flag-raising ceremonies at the Township Hall and a recitation of Norwood history by long-time resident of the Township, William Parsons.

The Hall offered a great display of historic artifacts - tools, household equipment, books, magazine, pictures, clothing and other treasures of local families.

Then there were "sports events", including volleyball, horse shoe pitching, apple dunking, water balloon throwing, pie eating contest, tug of war, sack race, and cross-cut saw competition. No directions to the places of competition were necessary. "Everyone knew where 'Hank's Pond', 'Rid's', and other places were located.

Obituaries

HELMUTH F. ECKERT

Funeral services for a former Charlevoix resident, Helmut F. Eckert, 75, of Boyne City who died Saturday, July 7, at the Little Traverse Division of Northern Michigan Hospitals, were held Tuesday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. James Plackner of the Bethany Lutheran Church in Charlevoix officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Born in Birch Run, June 29, 1909, Mr. Eckert was raised in the Boyne City area and, at the age of 16 years, came to the Eckert farm at Phelps in Marquette Township. He lived there until 1941 when he returned to Boyne City to make his home. He was a landscape gardener in Petoskey and Charlevoix until his retirement. He was a member of the Bethany Lutheran Church.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Esther Parsons of Petoskey, Mrs. Edna Blondin and Mrs. Helen Grosch, both of Flint.

The family suggests memorials to Bethany Lutheran Church in Charlevoix. Envelopes will be available at the funeral home.

JOHN E. ROWE

Funeral services for John E. Rowe, 77, owner of "Rowe's" Garden who died unexpectedly at his home July 3, were held at the Winchester Funeral Home Thursday, July 5. The Rev. James Plackner of the Bethany Lutheran Church officiated.

Born in Detroit, Jan. 26, 1907, Mr. Rowe was married to the former Pearl G. Krusinski in Dearborn Nov. 19, 1929. They made their home in Detroit where he was general manager of the Groszold Spring Goods Company for 35 years. They came to Charlevoix in 1963 and have owned and operated Rowe's Garden since that date.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Norbert (DeeDee) Dittmar of Livonia; four grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; and a sister, Mrs. Jean Westendorf of Lapeer.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Ambulance Service.

MARCELLA R. ANTINOSKI

Funeral services for Marcella R. Antinowski, 26, of Ellsworth, were held Saturday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. R. Dale Magoon of St. Mary's Church officiated. Interment was in the Ellsworth Cemetery.

Mrs. Antinowski died in a two-vehicle traffic accident in Emmet County July 3.

Born in Redford Township Feb. 1, 1964, the former Marcella Liddon was graduated from Redford Union High School in 1982. On Aug. 12, 1983, she was married to Nicolas Antinowski at Dearborn and the same year they came to Banks Township, Antrim County, to make their home. For the past nine months she had been a crew chief at McDonald's of Charlevoix.

She is survived by her husband; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Liddon; a sister, Mary Margaret G. Liddon; a half-brother, Thomas F. Enoch; and two half-sisters, Mrs. Sabrina L. Trestain and Mrs. Tammie L. Roberts, all of Redford Township; her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Liddon of Lowell, V. Va. and her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Marcella R. Van Domelen of Redford Township.

The family suggests memorials to the charity of one's choice.

HAROLD A. CARTIER

Word has been received of the death May 26 of Harold Cartier, 83, in Hedbrook, N.Y. Mr. Cartier came to Charlevoix with his parents in 1902 and graduated from Charlevoix High School. Most of his life was spent as a civil engineer in New York City.

He is survived by three sons, John and William of New York City and Fred in Redbrook; a daughter, Barbara of Long Island; a brother, Stanley, of Stone Mt., Ga. and a sister, Betty Cross, of Kinsville, Ontario. Services were held June 12 in Redbrook.

B.I. boat company deal goes through

by FRAN MARTIN

The purchase of the assets of the Beaver Island Navigation Co. by the Beaver Island Boat Co., which was initiated earlier this year, was completed Friday, June 29, according to Edward B. Wojan, president of the new company which was incorporated Feb. 13, 1983.

The transaction marks the return of the ferry service which links the mainland at Charlevoix to the northern Michigan island to the control of island residents. The ferry service had been operated by the navigation company headed by Fred Annand of Williamston since 1981 when the company acquired controlling interest of the now-defunct Beaver Island Boat Co.

Under the terms of the sale, the new company has purchased the 95 ft. steel motorship Beaver Islander constructed in 1962; the 65 ft. motorship South Shore, built in Cleveland in 1945 and brought to Charlevoix in 1975; the dock and adjacent property at St. James harbor on the island, the assignment of the municipal dock at Charlevoix and the mortgage on the former Erber building on Clinton St. in Charlevoix.

Following the incorporation of the new boat company on Feb. 13, 1983, the company sought and received permission to sell stock in order to finance the purchase.

Wojan said $370,000 in stock has already been sold and the sale would continue for the present. Another $120,000 was borrowed from the Charlevoix County State Bank thus giving the new company the necessary $490,000 to make the purchase and an additional $50,000 to underwrite the costs of the sale and operating expenses for the present.

The final papers were signed in Charlevoix on Friday.

At the same time, the boat company initiated its summer schedule with the South Shore operating out of St. James harbor and the Beaver Islander out of the company's Charlevoix terminal. The ships will make two trips daily Sunday through Friday and three trips on Saturday through Aug. 26.

In announcing the purchase, Wojan commented on the support the business venture had received not only from island residents but the business people and others in Charlevoix. "The fact that we now have 250 stockholders and, hopefully, will pick up a few more before the sale of stock is halted gives you an idea of the fine response we received. Island residents are elated to have the company under their control again."

He went on to say that it was unfortunate that they lost control. However, he continued, it made them aware of how important it was to them. As a result, the response to the sale of the stock was excellent.

He commented also on the speed with which the Charlevoix City Council approved the transfer of the lease arrangement on the dock at Charlevoix and the mortgage on the Erber building. "It was gratifying to have the support of the people during the stock sale and that of the city council. It made us feel that they cared," he added.

Wojan went on to say that the board of directors which he heads realizes it has taken on a great responsibility but the fact that the company is now owned by those most interested in its success is going to make the venture, a successful one.

The South Shore and the Beaver Islander will be operated by Russell Green and Kevin McDonough as skippers with Jerry LaFreniere and Michael Green in charge of the engine rooms. Other personnel will be hired as needed.

Wojan heads the Beaver Island Boat Co. as president. William J. McDonough is vice president; Richard L. Speck, secretary-treasurer; Timothy J. McDonough, Ronald L. Wojan, Richard L. Gillispie and William J. Cashman, directors.

To celebrate the culmination of the purchase, island residents turned out for a big party at the Shamrock Friday night Wojan said.

Auction plans set

The Third Annual Petunia Auction will be held Saturday, July 21, 1984 at East Park in downtown Charlevoix rain or shine. Registration begins at 11 a.m. and the auction from 1-4 p.m.

Auctioneer for the event is Carl Miller assisted by "no bull, no bologna" Pat McKown.

Unlike last year, food and refreshments will not be sold during the auctioning as there are 18 locations within two blocks of East Park where visitors can enjoy everything from whitefish to chocolate chip cookies. Instead of a garage sale the lower priced items will be packaged as a unit and sold as a unit for surprise bags or "jewel boxes." Included in these will be kitchen related items, bedding, etc.

Katie and Paul Burlew, co-chairpersons, advise that, in addition to the usual cruises, gourmet dinner, sailboat, wicker furniture, antique cars and collectibles offered at the Petunia Auction, Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, the Ethel Wiesinger estate. Also, the gold-leaf letters advertising the former Leutheuser restaurant will be auctioned individually. Miscellaneous items, antique combs, fans and jewelry, baby crib and similar items will be offered.

Once again, as a unique feature of the Petunia Auction, local clothing merchants will give clothing which will be modeled in a fashion show arranged by Beverly Eby.

Donations for the auction are still being accepted at Accents by Burlew in Charlevoix.

Charlevoix County not affected by Supreme Court's reapportionment

by PEG OHLE

All of Charlevoix County remains in the 103rd State House District, just as it was two years ago when a representative to Lansing was last elected.

According to Deputy County Clerk Janis Williams, Charlevoix County has not been affected by reapportionment or the recent Supreme Court decision governing new House Districts.

However, several areas around Charlevoix County have been affected by the reapportionment. The southern part of Emmet County, including the City of Petoskey, which briefly was in the 103rd District, has been returned to the 107th District. Also, the part of Oscoda County in which the city of Fairview is located has been changed from the 106th District to the 103rd District.

These changes have made considerable difference to two candidates for State representative. Mike Coulter of Petoskey was a long-declared candidate for the 103rd District seat while Petoskey was in that District. He has had to refile, this time for the 107th District seat. Jonathan D. Kurtz of Fairview was a candidate for the 106th District seat and has had to refile in the 103rd District.

Competition for the 103rd District seat, now occupied by Halph Ostling of Roscommon in Roscommon County, is crowded. Ostling, a Republican, is being challenged by Republicans May F. Lance, also of Roscommon, professor emeritus of Central Michigan University, and Kenneth A. Staley, mayor of Charlevoix and former Charlevoix County Commissioner.

Democrats Jerry Brabant of Roscommon, Peggy Stuckling Duss of St. Helen in Roscommon County, William J. Bohl of Waters in Oscoda County, and Kurtz, as mentioned above.

The 103rd State House District is made up of the counties of Charlevoix, Antrim, Oscoda, Crawford, Oscoda, and Roscommon.

Roscommon County, which has produced four candidates for the 103rd District House seat, is located in the far south section of the District.

Medical Examiner voices concert concerns to Board

Dr. Reed K. Freidinger, Charlevoix County Medical Examiner, appeared before the County Board of Commissioners last week to plead for their help in reducing the number of traffic accidents following concerts at Castle Farms.

Dr. Freidinger told the Commissioners that there have been too many traffic accidents after rock concerts, and that the previous Saturday one accident resulted in the deaths of two young women.

Dr. Freidinger was called to the accident, which occurred in heavy traffic on M-46 in South Antrim Township between 11 p.m. and midnight.

"It's not fun to have to tell parents that a child has been killed in an auto accident," he said. "I'm sure it would help," he said in the way of suggestions.

The County has no gathering ordinance and its only involvement with the concerts is the Sheriff's Department surveillance and patrol of the events.

"How many deaths must we have before something is done? I want to help parents. I have two children of my own and I understand Rose Kennedy's remark that the most unnatural thing in life is burying one's own children."

Dr. Freidinger said he believes that fatigue is probably as responsible as alcohol for such traffic deaths.

Knight on the Town

Behind the agreement

by Dave Knight

For courtroom drama, Monday's session in Circuit Court of a consent agreement between the Medusa Cement Company, the State of Michigan and WATCH, Inc. was no great shakes.

The proceeding took all of five minutes, even including perfunctory comments by lawyers of both sides. In the end, everyone shook hands and praised the consent agreement as being a fair and equitable document.

What this quiet finale climaxed, however, was an arduous - and, at times, unlikely - series of events that have taken a winding path over the past several months.

Facts, Monday morning's session could have just as easily seen the opening round of oral arguments in a long, unpleasant court case were it not for Dow Chemical, a Detroit Free Press headline and a couple of well-timed ham sandwiches.

To explain, I must backtrack about eight months. In November, 1983 Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley announced at a Traverse City press conference that his office had joined in a lawsuit against Medusa along with WATCH, Inc., Water and Air Team Charlevoix and the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR). The contention was that Medusa was unnecessarily fouling the air with cement dust.

Naturally the first aim of all parties involved was to seek satisfaction out-of-court and thus avoid costly litigation. This was the main thrust of a December 19, exploratory meeting attended by all the participants and their attorneys.

It became evident right away, however, that WATCH would not budge from its demand that Medusa's compliance with state clean air standards be enforced by the court and that Medusa was equally as determined to avoid the court's intervention.

Talks broke off and the wagons began to circle. Winter months were spent accumulating reams of testimony on both sides as what was shaping up to be a long, drawn out legal battle.

What made the situation particularly uncomfortable was the desirous effect it was having on the community. WATCH was perceived by many area residents as an attempt by "resorters" to shut Medusa down at the expense of the "locals".

Emotions soon overshadowed the technical merits of the case as one would expect in a town where steady employment has been pretty hard to find in recent years.

Motions were filed back and forth and by April, both sides appeared to be on a collision course for the Circuit Court chambers.

It was on a sunny, late April morning - the 20th, I believe - that Bruce MacArthur called me at the Courier office. He had just picked up the morning Free Press and was immediately drawn to a front page article announcing an agreement between Dow Chemical and the State of Michigan involving funds for research on dioxin contamination in state rivers.

"Don't you think," he said, "that if Dow Chemical can settle something like this without a court case, Medusa can too?"

My initial reaction was one of skepticism. At that point, it seemed to me, any chance of reconciliation had long since passed. From conversations with both camps, I knew each to be not only stubbornly determined but also confident that they had solid cases.

Besides, the whole thing had been turned over to the attorneys which, to me, made a court confrontation all but inevitable.

Nonetheless, I listened to Bruce's suggestion.

Why don't you call Jack Schmidt (Medusa plant manager) and I'll call Howard Neilson (president of WATCH) and we'll have lunch at my house."

I was still not optimistic but we placed the calls. To my surprise, both Neilson and Schmidt agreed to have lunch. (That very day, Schmidt was in the process of giving a deposition to the Attorney General's staff and attended the lunch at MacArthur's against the advice of his lawyers.)

If I was surprised at the willingness of the two men to meet, I was even more surprised at how much they actually saw eye to eye.

Over ham sandwiches hastily picked up from a downtown deli, both acknowledged the capability of the plant to operate cleanly.

"Jack," said Neilson looking at the smokeless Medusa stacks from spreading to nearby properties. The program calls for regular chemical treatment of unpaved roads, extensive use of high powered vacuum truck and street sweeper to keep the grounds clean, a new, truck-mounted high pressure water

A chicken barbeque and dancing rounded out the day for the young and old of Norwood. The years leading up to Norwood's Centennial make up a history rather unique in the area. The first lumbering done in Charlevoix County was done in and around Norwood. Its harbor provided dock space for steamers from all over the Great Lakes which carried away such lumber products as railroad ties, posts, shingles, and boat propellers.

Norwood was, in effect, a company town, with the first sawmill being started by O.D. Wood, followed later by the Van Pelt and Nashes. The Nash store was stocked with merchandise brought to Norwood in the steamers that then loaded up with lumber for Chicago or Milwaukee or other growing Great Lakes cities.

The sawmill burned down in 1901 and was never rebuilt. The big steamers stopped coming to port and the town began to dwindle away. Some who remained took to raising milk cows, cattle, grains, and fruit. Others sought employment in nearby towns such as Charlevoix.

While Norwood was never a large resort community, for many years there was a small colony of summer home owners, mostly from Chicago. At least two of these houses still remain, now remodeled into lovely year-round homes. As with all unincorporated areas, it is difficult to define the geographical boundaries of the village of Norwood, but those who live there think there are about 25 families. As noted above, most of the houses are white, and all are spic and span.

The highway which once went through Norwood was re-routed a mile or so to the east, so there is now no traffic except that generated by residents and visitors. There are no stores and no post office; in fact no public buildings except the Township Hall and the Church and its Fellowship Hall.

Bertha Parsons, unofficial Norwood historian, has recounted the change in verse, part of which reads: This quiet little village, Where people were all friends Is not so very different Than it was away back then. With all the modern modes of living And the better travel, too The telephone still gingle When there's someone needing you. It's a quiet place to be Folks stroll, jog and ride their bikes And are friendly, secure and free.

(Next week, the Courier will run a story about the Norwood Church, which is having its Centennial service on July 21.)

Clockwise

Nothing typical here

by Bob Clock

After 19 years in Charlevoix, I have come to the conclusion that there is no such thing as a typical Charlevoix summer.

A typical Charlevoix winter also is a figment of someone's imagination. Thanks to the vagaries of Lake Michigan, you never know just what to expect. There probably are few areas in the world with such wide temperature ranges within the various seasons.

Last summer, for example, Charlevoix was downright hot. Lake Michigan failed to freeze during the previous winter and the water warmed up in a hurry. Ninety degree temperatures in July and August were not uncommon. The swimming had never been better.

This summer is a different story. Friday's nor'wester brought in temperatures in the 40's. The house got so cold, I was forced to take the remnants of last winter's woodpile into the living room and start a fire. The cats deployed themselves around the stove, in order to take advantage of the unexpected BTUs.

Last year, the stove stood idle from the end of May until late September; but so far this summer it has scarcely had a chance to cool off.

THE EXCITEMENT over the rising fortunes of Michael Jackson and his brothers has left me once again feeling like a visitor from outer space.

Michael is the hottest property in the entertainment world today. His present tour is raking in literally millions of dollars a night.

There is no doubt Michael is a personable young man - but to my knowledge I have never heard a single one of his hit songs. When I ask my friends to hum a few bars of one of them, they politely change the subject.

The same thing happened a few years ago when a recording of

The Charlevoix Yacht Club Summer Series, the World Series of Yacht Racing, starts tonight (July 11) and there are some revisions from the Spring Series. The starting order will be, 3:30 p.m. Warning Signal, 6:00 p.m. Start for both JAM (Jib and Main) and No. 3 PHRF 200 & over Fleets, 6:10 p.m. Start for Fleet No. 2 (PHRF 150-199), 6:20 p.m. Start for Fleet No. 1 (PHRF less than 150). A 5 minute Preparatory Signal will precede each start. There are also a couple course revisions on the new Sailing Instructions, so be sure to have the latest version on board.

Thanks, "Spectator", for the kind letter. I'm sorry I can't reprint that column on the course. I didn't save it but for all you that enjoy watching (and for some of us!) but are confused - here's what goes on... Picture a very large baseball diamond which is "almost" always laid out with second base directly upwind from home plate. We start at home, go upwind to 2nd then to 3rd, back to home, again upwind to 2nd, straight back downwind to home, back upwind to 2nd and may finish there or if 2nd base isn't at CYC go on to finish at the Yacht Club. This is pretty much a standard Olympic Course which is always sailed stakes (marks) to Port (counter-clockwise). We have several variations, for example: if the wind direction and the location of our six racing marks don't permit us to use 3rd base, the Race Committee may have to select a course that substitutes 1st base and we sail it Stakes to Starboard (clockwise). Not desirable as it causes more tough protests by giving right-of-way to the wrong yachts at the windward mark, but it may be necessary when the race course layout is restricted by a shoreline.

The spectator will see us in a cluster before

Home tour to feature six lakeside residences in area

by PEG OHLE

There will be something special to do in Charlevoix on Thursday afternoon, July 19.

That is the date of the Third Annual Home Tour sponsored by the Charlevoix Chapter of Kappa Sigma Sorority for the benefit of the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The tour, which will begin at 1 p.m., will continue to 5 p.m., will feature three condominium homes and three separate homes, all located on Lake Charlevoix, Lake Michigan, or Round Lake.

There will be the Dunes Condominium home of Mrs. Charlotte Steffes overlooking Lake Michigan. The Dunes is located on Michigan Avenue on the former site of three houses. It was built in 1974 by the late Ronald Steffes. Architect Jack Begrow designed the Mediterranean-style structure with irregular roof lines and upper decks facing the lake. The custom design of Mrs. Steffes' unit provides a spectacular view of Lake Michigan.

There will be the Harbour Club Condominium homes of Bill and Jean Martin and John and Carol Hisey.

Hisey. Once a private boathouse and later the Harbour Club Condominiums were conceived by Douglas Bath and developed by JAH Development.

The Martin's 1956 48-foot boat will also be shown.

There will be the country home of Mike and Ann Rosenthal, situated on 200 feet of sandy beach on Lake Charlevoix. This home's interior was completely redesigned by the Rosenthals and architect Hans Weiner. The contemporary structure of this home blends with the landscaping by Tom Louisville and the picturesque backdrop of the lake.

There will be the Cedar Creek lodge at Water's Edge, located on the south shore of Lake Charlevoix on 11 acres. This custom-built log cabin was constructed in 1979. It features an appealing blend of country and traditional furnishings and a perfect setting for family living.

The 90-foot yacht Annadale will also be open for viewing at Cedar Creek.

There will be the home of Robert and Jane Sooy, nestled deep in the woods overlooking Lake Charlevoix. The main emphasis of this lovely coral and pink contemporary home, built in 1980 by Dick Way, is toward low maintenance and informal living and entertaining. Architect David Troutman's design and the Sooy's love of the out-of-doors is evidenced all around.

Claudia Kenfick and Sue Bartlett are co-hostesses for the Home Tour. Judy LaFave is in charge of refreshments, Jeanne Heinger is in charge of ticket sales, and Penny Gregory is in charge of publicity.

Tickets, at $10 per person, are available at the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce building on Bridge Street. Children under 12 will not be permitted on the tour.

A "thank you" party for all who helped with the home tour and those who opened their homes will be held after the tour at the Grey Gables Inn.

MORE ON RELIGIOUS AUTHORITY

God has made two covenants with mankind. He made the Old Law, or Testament, with Moses and the Israelites. He then, many centuries later, gave the New Covenant or Testament, through Jesus, His Son.

When God gave the new Testament through Jesus, He fulfilled the Old and did away with it, naming it to the cross of Jesus. (figuratively) Matthew 5:17, Hebrews 1:1-2, Colossians 2:12-14. After his resurrection, Jesus made it known that He had "all power, authority" and that the apostles were to go and teach what he had commanded them, Matthew 28:18-20, not what Moses taught.

The entire book of Hebrews tells us that the Law given to Moses was only a shadow of the true way that is found in Jesus. Read Hebrews chapter 8, especially verse 5, and chapter 10, especially verse 1.

We must conclude from these passages that the only Covenant that is in force today is that one that was given by Jesus Christ.

Sponsored by the Church of Christ-547-4222.

The Whaler Outrage. Built to take the fight out to the fish.

You can't buy more fishing performance than you get on a powerful, blue water Outrage. It's built to roam far offshore, and rigged to bring 'em back by the boatful. And on the days when the weather kicks up, it's built to bring the fishermen back, too. Because every Outrage is built with the unique, unsinkable Boston Whaler foam sandwich construction. There isn't a safer hull made. Come in and see a Boston Whaler this weekend.

For the neophyte who has never crossed the Rockies, those words coupled with a first view of the snow capped peaks beyond the civilized confines of Denver, cause him to pause and reconsider. On Friday, Mrs. Donald Yenni, auxiliary members will be out throughout the county for the Auxiliary's Tag Day. The group's major fund-raising project. Proceeds from Tag Day are used to purchase wheelchairs for the use of the patients at the facility.

On Thursday, new officers will be installed by Mrs. Edith Chamberlain of Charlevoix following a luncheon at 12:30 p.m. at the facility.

Trip west was high anxiety

by ANNE KELLY

"What it is about the West that worries you," explained my old high school friend Charlene, "is that the West is largely uncivilized compared to what you're used to."

Charlene and I grew up in the civilized Midwest. Now she works professionally in civilized Denver, but claims to have the avocation of being a mountain woman with a cabin somewhere near Pike's Peak.

"What really worries me," Charlene said, "is the fact that the West is largely uncivilized compared to what you're used to."

And sometimes there aren't any guard rails at all," she added. "The writers of the AAA TripTik are subtle. Never do they come right out and say 'Go back, you fool!' There are little boxes on each page, sort of made inconspicuous by the authority of the wide green marker which cuts through the mountains like a kindergarten exercise. In them they 'advise'."

"...crosses through rolling rangelands in northern third. Especially beautiful, majestic mountain remainder. (Sharp grade and alignment). Extreme caution advised for trailer traffic on mountain passes."

For the neophyte who has never crossed the Rockies, those words coupled with a first view of the snow capped peaks beyond the civilized confines of Denver, cause him to pause and reconsider. mother had wet palms in a glass enclosed shuttlebus. By the Telons, I was beginning to relax. I climbed aboard a chair lift ascending some mountain with the expansive nature of a good sport who agrees to ride Space Mountain "just for the heck of it."

But Yellowstone lay beyond, and with it horror stories of well-meaning friends who told tales of roads out of the park where when (and if) you reached the bottom, you would find trailers and campers with their hands being pried loose from steering wheels.

Oh, give me a home where the antelope roam, Give me the wild dogs prowling the streets of Kayenta, the grey desolation of Tuba City, a wild moose or even a grizzly provided I'm inside of a metal motor home, but spare me another 8 percent grade I beseeched my husband who remained unruffled through all this. Obviously he inherited different genes along with the kids.

The hero of our trip has got to be Gutson Borglum, that gutson alpine sculptor who engineered the carvings on Mount Rushmore. Now men have come and men have gone who have climbed mountains and played flags on peaks. But Gutson Borglum was something else. He and his men hung like window washers over that great mass of stone and granite for years working with air hammers and chisels. It boggles my equilibrium. And then to be prostituted by having your portrait advertised on Rushmore-Borglum Story on the painted sides of endless semi's for a hundred miles in either direction. That too, is another height.

"What was the most frightening experience of the trip," I am often asked by those who are impressed by my survival of a 3 week, 5,000 mile journey which was mostly up or downhill on "serpentine roads with poor alignment?"

"Crossing the Mackinac Bridge on the way home," I must honestly reply. "It's the only time I saw my husband get white knuckles in three weeks. 'Something about the wind.'"

Annette Nesbary is Charlevoix, one of the more than 190 entries in the Charlevoix Craft Show, displays colorful kites and windsocks she and her sister, Cathy Johnson, of Petoskey will enter in the show under Crafts on Friday and Saturday.

Craft Show is Saturday

East Park in downtown Charlevoix will be the site Saturday for the sixteenth annual Charlevoix Craft Show, sponsored by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Approximately 200 craftsmen entered in the show will exhibit and offer for sale a wide variety of hand-crafted items ranging from toys of every description to a wide variety of home furnishings, including hand-knit or crocheted afghans, clocks, dried flower arrangements and utilitarian items for use in the home.

"The list goes on and on. I couldn't start to tell you all the items that are on display," said Jacquie Meritt, executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce and a show organizer.

It was not that the show was so large, she said, there were so many entries that she had to turn down some of the late entries.

The show, a spinoff of the Waterfront Art Fair which will be celebrating its 25th season, August 11, came into being when items which did not qualify as art were not accepted in the Waterfront Fair. However, the show was accepted.

The show will open at 10 a.m. and continue throughout the day. Some exhibitors will remain during the early evening hours.

The matter of hiring elementary teachers for the 1984-85 school year was postponed until the July 18 meeting.

In other action, the building and grounds committee recommended that the committee of local craftspeople who will welcome the visitors and visit the exhibits during the day.

School Board renews food contract

by FRANK MARTIN

Following the organizational meeting of the Charlevoix Board of Education, June 2, the board went into regular session to renew the contract with the Canteen Service Company, accept a bid for removal and installation of floor tile in the gym in addition to naming depositories and signatories, meeting times and dates for the 1984-85 school year.

The board voted to renew its contract with the Canteen Service Company for operating the school's cafeteria for a second year. The board last year opted to engage the company to operate its food service in an effort to cut the deficit which was $16,318 during the 1982-83 school year. During the past school year, the deficit was trimmed to $5,182, Vincent Olach, business manager, reported. The goal is to turn it even more in coming years he said.

The bid of Whitley Floor Covering in the amount of $1,759 for removal of old tile and installation of new tile in the gymnasium was approved. The bid included two boxes of extra tile. A second bid in the amount of $1,994 was received from Bartlett's.

The matter of hiring elementary teachers for the 1984-85 school year was postponed until the July 18 meeting.

In other action, the building and grounds committee recommended that the contract for engineering plans drawn up by Arthur Banger in the amount of $3,500 be approved. The plans and specifications included in the contract is for work on three parking areas at the high school and includes his services as consultant throughout the entire project. After approving this contract, the committee recommended that the work on the parking lot south of the gymnasium be done this year and that specifications be prepared in order that bids can be accepted and the work completed before the opening of school in September. The board approved the recommendations presented by the committee composed of Doris Pearl and Elaine Martin.

Supt. Gordon W. VanWieren presented a report on the Math Curriculum Committee that has completed an updated math curriculum for the kindergarten through the twelfth grade.

The first and third Mondays of each month were designated as regular meeting dates for the board of education, 7:30 p.m. on those dates as the time and the high school study hall as the meeting site.

Depositories are the First State Bank for Title I, hot lunch, old and new debt retirement, 1979 debt retirement, central office internal, high school office activities.

JOYCE AND GEORGE DUKE OF Charlevoix presented a check for $6,000 to the Charlevoix Area Hospital last week with the hopes, they said, that others who value the services of Charlevoix Area Hospital will be inspired to follow their example.

Mr. and Mrs. Duke presented the check, above, to Patient Services Manager Kathy Boss, left, and Charlevoix Area Hospital Board President Louis Holloway, right. A plaque memorializing the gift from "Joyce and George Duke and Family" will be placed in one of the patient rooms in the Gilbert Saltonstall Wing.

In making the presentation, Duke said, "We hope this will serve as a reminder to others that the development of the hospital is a continuing project. There are many parts of the hospital that have yet to be memorialized and there are always continuing equipment needs."

Names In The News

STEVEN M. HUFFORD, son of Walter J. and Ann Hufford of Charlevoix, recently won two first-place medals and a second place honor in the Lambertville, N.J. and Schuylkill Navy (Philadelphia) Rowing Regattas held June 23.

Rowing for Vesper Boat Club of Philadelphia, Hufford placed first in both the intermediate four with coxswain race and the intermediate eight race at the Lambertville Regatta. He and three other Vesper oarsmen, rowing in the intermediate four with coxswain, placed second in the 2,000 meter race in the annual Schuylkill Navy Regatta.

A graduate of Michigan State University, Hufford rowed with the varsity crew for four years. He is a 1978 graduate of Charlevoix High School.

The National Association of legal Assistants, Inc. has announced that VICKIE VOISIN of the Charlevoix law firm of Thomas D. Pointner, P.C. has successfully completed the two-day certified legal assistant examination and is now entitled to use of the "CLA" designation. Mrs. Voisin is among 31 Michigan legal assistants who have attained this goal and among 820 nationwide.

Charlevoix Middle School student JULIE BREWSTER has been awarded a music scholarship to the Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp for summer study.

Andy's Store robbed

The armed robbery of Andy's Party Store at 205 W. Garfield at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, July 4, in which an undetermined amount of cash and checks were taken remains under investigation by the Charlevoix City police.

The suspect is described as a non-caucasian six feet tall and weighing 200 pounds with collar-length hair. He was wearing a dirty blue shirt and jeans and leather boots. He left the store on foot. He used a semi-automatic handgun during the hold-up. The store is owned by Andrew Essenberg. The police were assisted by the Emmet County tracking dog but no arrest was made.

Air Force band to present Thursday concert in park

Flight One, part of the U.S. Air Force Band out of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio, will present a concert in Charlevoix Thursday evening while on a tour through northern Michigan.

The 13-member band, directed by Marine Sergeant Jim Robinson, will appear in concert in East Park from 7 until 8 p.m. Thursday playing old standards, top 40 hits and same variety music. A vocalist, Marcus Perkins, will appear with the band.

The band also has played for the Cherry Festival while in northern Michigan. The band's appearance in Charlevoix is being sponsored by De- tachment Six U.S. Air Force at Bay Shore and the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

A CHECK FOR $700 from the Charlevoix Lions Club will allow three Charlevoix County youths to attend Eagle Village this summer. Making the presentation to juvenile court officer Brad Campbell, right, is Scott Beatty, president of the Lions Club. Eagle Village summer programs are aimed at youngsters from troubled homes and provide participants with a wide range of outdoor activities, not unlike the popular Outward Bound programs. According to Beatty, the donation was made possible by the local Lions Club's continuing fund raising efforts.

Prof. Huybrechts to return for special organ recital at St. Francis Church

Professor August Huybrechts, organist of St. Francis-Xavier Church in Petoskey for 30 years, will return to play an organ recital at St. Francis on Tuesday, July 17 at 7:30 p.m. Admission will be by donation.

Professor Huybrechts now lives in Albuquerque, New Mexico, where he is active in the American Guild of Organists and serves as organist of Our Lady of the Assumption Church. He has performed twice with the Albuquerque Symphony Orchestra this past year, and is also teaching organ and piano privately in the Albuquerque area.

He received his Masters Degree from the Lemmens Institute, which is affiliated with the University of Louvain in Belgium. He also received the Prix D'Excellence of Lemmens Institute.

From 1966 to 1972, August Huybrechts was a faculty member at the Interlochen Arts Academy in Piano and Organ. For more than 35 years, he has been a teacher of piano and organ, with many of his students winning prizes in their field and scholarships to advanced study.

A composer of numerous organ and piano works, Professor Huybrechts has had a number of masses, choral works and liturgical psalms published and sung throughout the United States. His Mass Honoring St. Francis won the J. Fischer and Bros. Centennial Prize for Composition, and the Diocese of Gaylord commissioned him to write a number of Psalms which are sung at Liturgical Celebrations.

Including on Tuesday evening's program will be Chaconne by Minor by Bach, Fanfare Flor Peeters. The Crooked Tree R. Simmons Jr., and the Novice Division, Arts Council announces benefits the work of the Council in Emmet and Charlevoix counties. There are four classes of entries in this fun tournament: Open (professional, collegiate), Intermediate (ranked player), Advanced Players, and Novice Division. Semi-final and final matches will be held on Sunday. This fundraiser for the Arts Council, in honor of the late Daniel Tournament play will take place at locations throughout Charlevoix and Emmet Counties, including Birchwood Farms Golf and Country Club, the Little Harbor Club, L'Arbre Croche, Boyne Highlands, Little Traverse Racquet Club, Walloon Lake Country Club, and on Charlevoix tennis courts.

Entry fee is $17.50 donation to the Crooked Tree Arts Council, and should be sent to Keehn Landis at 8470 Pleasantview Road, Harbor Springs, Michigan, 49740. Chairperson of the 1984 Benefit Committee, Mrs. Daniel R. Simmons, relates that her committee includes the following persons: Alexander Butcher, Mrs. Russell Farrell, Mrs. Julius Gilbert, Mrs. Uri B. Grannis III, Mrs. John W. Hauser, Mrs. Elizabeth Ferguson, Jean, Keehn Landis, Mrs. Arthur Lätimer, Michael Mehas, Mrs. Dalton O'Connor, Mrs. Margaret Lilly, Ruemenapp, and

Edward Watson III. Donations have already been received from many area businesses, including a Kneissel White Star Graphite-Tennis Racquet with Leoina 66 String from the Bahnhof Shop in Petoskey. This racquet, which will delight the most discriminating tennis player, will be given away at the awards presentation the afternoon of Sunday, July 15 and the winner need not be present to win. Tickets can be obtained from any of the committee members or court hosts or hostesses, and all proceeds will benefit the Arts Council.

Court hosts and hostesses include Mr. Ann Aikens and Jane Petzold at L'Arbre Croche, ffelmut and Nancy Schleunder at the Walloon Lake Country Club, and in Charlevoix, Edith Gilbert, Doris and Gunnar Lundteigen, and Chuck and Joan MacGillivray. The Crooked Tree Arts Council is a non-profit, volunteer organization that promotes the visual and performing arts in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties. The council has sponsored symphony orchestras, ballet and theatre companies and other cultural events for Northern Michigan audiences. Besides encouraging the development of local artists, the Council brings the Arts to area school systems in a variety of enrichment programs, most recently with the Detroit Youth Theatre's Prince Street Players who performed "Cinderella" for almost 4,000 area school children. The purchase and renovation of the historic United Methodist Church on Mitcheil Street in Petoskey as the Virginia M. McCune Community Arts Center has created a cultural center for the people of Northern Michigan. The center houses a theatre, an artists' consignment shop, "The Art Tree", a professional gallery of travelling exhibits, a community room and kitchen, a pottery studio, dance vocal and music areas, meeting areas for Little Traverse Civic Theatre and Artists North.

New shirt shop fits Charlevoix to a "t"

by TAMMY CURRIER

The hottest flash in t-shirt fashion this summer in Charlevoix comes by the appropriate words "World Class".

World Class is the name of a line of t-shirts first designed in Florida about two years ago. The t-shirt is one of the summer clothing items for sale at Channel Marker Shirts, a newly opened t-shirt shop, located on the west side of the bridge near the channel.

Channel Marker Shirts is operated by John Waiswilo, a former resident of Newburyport, Mass., and owned by Del Bunker, Gene Elmer and Sandy Fowler, of Florida, St. Ignace and East Jordan respectively. There are two other such shops in St. Ignace, Michigan and Montserrat, West Indies.

The shop is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily and sells not only short and long-sleeved t-shirts, but also golf shirts, hooded sweatshirts, and jackets, both silk and windbreakers at a very low price, said Waiswilo.

"We try to price our shirts as low as possible and still make a profit," he said.

Waiswilo said that the numerous designs for the t-shirts and other clothing are developed by 25 year old David Bunker of Melbourne, Florida. "Each color within the design is done separately in dots on plastic plates with a color pen and takes only 15 second for each t-shirt to be printed," he explained.

Waterskiing, sailboarding, scuba diving and sailing are only a few of the designs carried by Channel Marker Shirts. "Besides our individual designs," said Waiswilo, "we also design shirts for NASA, Sea World, Disney World and Wet-N-Wild; so come on down and check us out."

Two areas in the city of Charlevoix suffered a power outage for approximately two hours and 15 minutes on Friday when a surge of power burned out two switches at the sub-station on Ferry ave. according to Ed Whitley, utility superintendent.

The power went off line at 3:50 p.m. and came back on minutes later in all but the area east of Meech st. on the north side and west of State st. on the south side. The latter was without power until 6:05 p.m.

Whitley said he was working with Consumers Power Co. personnel in an effort to determine the cause of the outage.

Four new teachers offered contracts

by FRANK MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education, at its regular meeting Monday night, offered one year probationary contracts to four teachers for the 1984-85 school year, granted a year's leave of absence to another, approved to certificate of commendation for a former board member and granted a seventh semester completion of high school to a student.

Among the teachers offered probationary contracts for one year were Dorothy J. Miller, Allison J. Mellon and Marie Kerr Tallberg, who will be assigned to the elementary school. The fourth is Terry G. Smith who will teach French in both the high school and the middle school.

Mrs. Miller, who has a permanent certificate, is a graduate of Adrian College and has three years experience at Ludington and 13 years as teacher at the Charlevoix Cooperative Nursery. Mrs. Mellon of Boyne City also has a permanent certificate. She is a graduate of Wayne State University with 12 years experience in Detroit and has substituted for two years in schools in Charlevoix county including Charlevoix. Mrs. Tallberg, a University of Michigan graduate, has four years experience in Flint and three years substituting in the area including 10 weeks in Sally McKame's fifth grade. She has a provisional certificate. They will fill vacancies created by leaves of absence and by retirement.

Mr. Smith will teach French at the high school and middle school. A graduate of Manchester (Ind.) College with a B.A. degree in French and English and a minor in German, and an M.A. degree in Guidance from Central Michigan University. He taught at Manistee from 1967-72 where he was also assistant track and cross country coach and junior high basketball coach. He was also a clinical lecturer at the University of Western Ontario at London and was a counselor at Chip Counseling Center until October 1983.

Rebecca Berg, kindergarten teacher, was granted a year's leave of absence with the understanding that she will be re-employed if a vacancy exists for which she is qualified.

A request for a seventh semester graduation was granted to Susan Martz. She will be permitted to complete her high school at the end of the seventh semester (January 1985) and receive her diploma the following June providing all conditions for graduation have been met. She will have the required 20 credits at the end of the first semester next year.

The board also discussed present policies relating to honor students. Vane H. Smith, high school principal, was asked to review graduation requirements and valedictorian/salutatorian requirements. The curriculum committee will study the situation and make recommendations. The next meeting is scheduled for Aug. 6.

Seven to "Reach for the Stars" at pageant

by DAVE KNIGHT

No bull, no money...just an evening of good entertainment and some very attractive young women. That's what people can expect Thursday, July 26 when Charlevoix's Venetian Festival gets underway with the Miss Charlevoix pageant in the high school gym at 8 p.m.

Seven contestants will participate in this year's pageant which traditionally kicks off Venetian weekend festivities. They include Kimberly Ann Curtis, Katherine Dillon, Tonja Eakes, Ylandra Lee, Dianna Loder, Tina Marie McSawby and Melissa Sandahl.

The new Miss Charlevoix will be crowned by Beth Jones who won the title last year.

Lois Hodson, chairman of the pageant committee and chief choreographer, already has the girls rehearsing three nights a week at the Middle School and has lined up some popular local acts for additional entertainment between competitions at the pageant.

Master of ceremonies for the evening will be Pat McKeown of Erber-McKeown Ford in Charlevoix. Most familiar to area residents for his television commercials, McKeown promises "no bull, no money" for the pageant.

The general theme of the Miss Charlevoix pageant this year is "Reach for the Stars" with music and decorations set to an outer space format.

Street parade entries being taken

Another major Venetian Festival event, the street parade on Saturday, July 28, is also taking shape.

According to chairman Georgia LaBlance, applications for parade entries will be accepted until the Wednesday, July 25 deadline. Applications are available at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Mrs. LaBlance reminded all those planning to participate in the parade that all entries must be decorated and that no handing out of literature, throwing of candy or any other items will be allowed for safety reasons.

Fire engine fund tops $150,000; truck ordered

by DAVE KNIGHT

When a devastating fire destroyed the Lexalite manufacturing plant in Hayes Township three years ago this summer, it represented one of the largest single property damage losses in Charlevoix's history.

From the ashes, however, eventually rose not only a new plant but a strong concern about the adequacy of Charlevoix's fire fighting equipment.

That concern has now born fruit in the form of successful fund drive to purchase a new pumper for the Charlevoix Fire Department. In less than two years, the Volunteer Firemen of Charlevoix have raised over $150,000 in private donations from individuals, businesses and industries for the new truck.

The order has been placed for a truck with the capacity to pump 2,000 gallons a minute and 5,000 feet of large diameter hose that will be able to service all crucial fire fighting areas of the city using the ample supply of water from surrounding lakes. It will also be equipped with four-wheel drive to better serve outlying areas during inclement winter conditions.

According to James Elliott, who helped coordinate the fund drive, "It's all those who supported this effort can well be proud of the end result."

The roots of the drive were established when a committee was named, following the Lexalite fire, to study fire fighting equipment needs for the city department. On the committee were fire department members Douglas Bergmann, John Curtis, Robert Geer and Barry Wood; City Council member James Block, local industrialist Don Hufford, retail merchant Jeanine Wallace and citizens Condit Drury and Elliott.

One of the committee's findings was that most of the fire hydrants in the city were not able to deliver enough water to fight a major fire. In addition, the best pumper the fire department has is 17 years old and can pump only 750 gallons a minute, not enough to handle a big fire.

The answer, concluded the committee, was to utilize the unlimited supply of water from the three lakes surrounding Charlevoix by installing "dry hydrants" from which lake water could be pumped. This approach, however, required a substantially greater pumping capacity than the city had so the need for the new pumper became evident.

In July, 1982, the firemen voted to raise the $150,000 for the new truck and kicked off the fund drive with $2,000 from their own treasury.

By the end of that year, a mail campaign involving over 5,000 letters to area residents and personal calls to businesses, industries and other groups had raised $40,000.

Said Elliott, "Due to the late start of the effort in 1982, the total of $40,000 was reassuring. With the coming of 1983, and a full year ahead, the drive for funds really began to show excellent results."

Many of the fund-raising activities included the firemen's objectives with some enjoyable events. Cocktail parties were held at Duffy's of Charlevoix, the Grey Gables Inn and the Flight Deck. Breakfasts were held at the American Legion hall and Jullier's.

One of the most memorable of the fire engine fund parties, attended by some 300 people, was held on the Star of Charlevoix dinner cruise ship. An algalum made by Sally Geer was also raffled with good results.

Among area industries that responded to the drive with healthy donations were Lexalite, Consumers Power, Medusa Cement, Charlevoix Manufacturing, Storz Instrument Company and Bellinger Marine.

Service clubs and fraternal organizations also contributed, including the Charlevoix JayCees, Charlevoix Rod & Gun Club, Knights of Columbus, Round Lake Lodge 100F and others.

Summer residents responded eagerly with large donations coming from not only the Belvedere and Chicago Clubs but also from several individuals within the associations. The Rose Weston Foundation, representing the Weston family who are longtime summer residents, was a generous contributor.

By the end of 1983, the fire engine fund totalled $130,000. Early this year, money pledged previously was turned in and that plus the interest on money on hand, pushed the total over the $150,000 goal.

The new pumper, custom designed to specifications, has been ordered and is expected to arrive in the early summer of 1985.

Elliott and Doug Bergmann, president of the Volunteer Firemen, voiced their gratitude to the contributors to the fire engine fund, saying, "We would like to express our deep appreciation to all those who gave effort and their generous support to this worthy cause."

For Saints and Sinners

by Rev. D.W. Yingling
United Methodist Church
A meditation for the Charlevoix Courier
Prayer: Lord Christ, you have shown us what it means to be a servant. We ask for your grace and strength to be faithful. We pray in your name. Amen.
Readings: Psalm 31, Luke 14:25-33, Matthew 12:46-50, Acts 7:54-60, 2 Corinthians 4:7-18, 2 Corinthians 13:5-10, John 21:15-23.
Christian life is either involvement in political, economic, social concerns or activity which keeps the church intact and doctrinally pure. Right? I don't think so. Our primary orientation must first and foremost be to God, and not to an institution or some great cause. When our identity is in God we will know who we are and what we are to do. Our first act is prayer. To be human is to pray, to meditate on the love and activity of God. We are to be formed and transformed by the thought of God within us. Prayer is a disciplined dedication to paying attention. In prayer we can catch a vision worth inviting others to look at and respond to.
Hymn: "I'll go where you want me to do, dear Lord, over mountain, or plain or sea; I'll say what you want me to say, dear Lord, I'll be what you want me to be."
Prayer: Go forth as God's servants. Amen.

Seek more fees for senior meals

Senior citizens participating in the Commission on Aging's Nutrition Program will be asked to increase their contributions for the noon-time meals served at three places in Charlevoix County.

At its meeting last week, the Commission decided to ask for donations based on the annual income of participants. For the last several years, the suggested contribution has been 60 cents a meal for everyone. The new schedule calls for contributions as follows:

Income $6,000 to $10,000, contribution of 60 cents; income $10,000 to $15,000, contribution of $1.00; income of $15,000 to $20,000, contribution of $2.00; and income over $20,000, contribution of $2.50. It is hoped that on this basis contributions will average out to about $1.02 a meal.

Meal participants will not be asked to prove their incomes but will be relied upon to be honest, according to a spokesman for the Commission on Aging. It is expected that the same contribution schedule will be put into effect in Antrim and Emmet Counties since they operate under the same management as Charlevoix County.

The increase in contributions is necessary because of the increased demand for meals and the fact that Nutrition Program grant monies and funds from other sources will remain the same during the next fiscal year as this year.

In Charlevoix County during the last nine months, 24,826 meals were served from meal sites at the Charlevoix High School, East Jordan Senior Center, and Boyne City Senior Center. Of these, 6,202 were delivered to home-bound persons by drivers of Transit System buses.

Contributions for meals served in Charlevoix during this period averaged 61 cents; for those served in East Jordan, they averaged 64 cents; and for those served in Boyne City, they averaged 56 cents, for a County-wide average of 60 cents. Contributions for home-delivered meals averaged "95" cents in Charlevoix, 64 cents in East Jordan, and 58 cents in Boyne City, for a County-wide average of 72 cents.

The average cost of all meals provided under the Nutrition Program was slightly over $2.40.

Opinion

Opportunity is knocking

Some serious thinking has begun on what the Charlevoix area can expect when a major chinook salmon fishery starts attracting anglers in about two or three years. This was the major topic of a Charlevoix County Planning Commission public meeting Monday night and a study trip to Manistee by several community representatives a couple weeks ago.

Manistee, of course, was a very different situation when salmon fishing was introduced there in the 1870s. At the time, the coho and chinook were novelties to Michigan sports fishermen and, because of the great action, boards descended on an ill-prepared area.

That chaos is not going to happen here because salmon are now commonly found all along the Western Michigan coastline and in Lake Huron, too. There are plenty of venues for the travelling fisherman. But make no mistake - there will be plenty of cars, boats and people to accommodate come 1986. Charlevoix has a lot more to offer in the way of pleasant fishing conditions than Manistee, Ludington or many of the other salmon boom towns.

What impressed me the most about the way Manistee and Ludington have handled the influx during salmon runs is the blend of public facilities and private enterprise.

Briefly, Charlevoix is going to need more camping facilities, a public fish cleaning station or two that could be manned by high school students during the summer, more boat launching ramps and more parking.

Not all of this need be provided by city or township, however.

I think there is a great opportunity here for private enterprise to take a major role in providing some or all of these services, thus giving the taxpayers a well-deserved break.

Murderer confesses

An ax murder was committed in the 200 block of Dixon Avenue at 4 a.m. Sunday and the body was disposed of in the gutter.

The only witness was an angry black cat who wanted to do the honors herself. But she has been bribed with salmon and has promised not to report me to the humane society.

The victim was a hapless little bat which apparently found its way through the back door. I was the murderer.

But why an ax? Let me tell you. About 11 p.m. Saturday, just as fire engines were roaring down Dixon Avenue in response to a false alarm, Judy and the kids noticed a bat swooping around the kitchen and I was sent in with a broom to dispatch the creature while they hid outside on the front walk.

Swing! Swing! I knocked a stack of picnic supplies off the top of the refrigerator.

Swing! Swing! Connect! The bat fell to the counter top, but it was too close to a crock pot a second direct hit. While I was maneuvering for a better shot, the bat revived and swooped into the dining room just as Jennifer came through the front door. She watched in horror as the bat cut a wide arc through the french doors and careened into the living room where it disappeared.

IF THERE IS anything worse than having a bat in the house it is having a bat in the house and not knowing where it is. For the next half hour I searched every room and every closet, shaking curtains and probing under beds with my smelt dipping net, which Danny had retrieved from the basement.

Nothing.

"The bat is gone," I announced unequivocally to my family, knowing full well that the bat was still somewhere on the premises. "Everyone can go to bed and sleep soundly, because the bat has flown the coop. We won't be seeing any more of him."

So everyone went to bed and the house was quiet for the next four hours.

Then suddenly Judy was screaming in my ear drum. "The bat is back! I hear it clicking in the hall!"

She was referring to that ominous clicking noise bats make. It probably has something to do with their radar systems.

So I leaped to my feet, flipped on the light and grabbed my trusty smelt-dipping net, which has caught more bats than smelt over the years. Through the open door I could see the bat on the hall floor outside - an unusual place for a bat but I wasn't about to ask questions.

I raised the net and was about to bring it down when a cat's paw emerged from around a bend in the hallway. It was too late. Down came the net and the bat was my prisoner. The poor cat, which apparently had been toying with the critter, scurried away, deprived of her prize.

By this time, the still clicking bat was inextricably wound up in the net and I headed downstairs and out the front door. I didn't want to let the bat go, but I didn't know exactly how to get rid of it either. Then my eye fell on my ax, leaning against the porch railing.

I'll spare you the details, but if you really want to know you can ask the cat who watched the mayhem through the screen door.

They say a bat in the house is part of a good old-fashioned Charlevoix summer.

I'll take mosquitoes any day.

Seven Miss Charlevoix candidates to compete for crown...

As in years past, all seven contestants will present a musical dance number to open the show. With entertaining interludes in between, the girls will then take part in swimming, talent and evening gown competition.

Earlier that day, the judges will have an opportunity to meet and interview the contestants at a special luncheon.

Votes will be tallied at the close of the pageant and Queen Beth will officially transfer her title to the winner.

In addition to her crown, Miss Charlevoix 1984 will also receive a $250 first place prize. A $50 prize will go to the first runner-up.

Featured on the evening program will be Charlevoix vocalists Vince Chen and Fran Tolias.

Don Lantz of Petoskey, former Detroit radio personality, will perform on the piano and Harbor Springs music artist Ron Groop will offer a sample of his unique.

Following are brief background sketches of the queen candidates:

Kimberly Ann Curtis, 19, is the daughter of John and Katherine Curtis of Charlevoix. Kim is 5'2" with light brown hair and blue eyes. She enjoys several outdoor activities including competitive horseback riding. A 1983 graduate of Charlevoix High School, Kim attends Ferris State College and is also a licensed cosmetologist. She lists dancing as one of her interests and plans to perform a Mid Eastern dance for the talent competition.

Katherine Dillon, 17, is the daughter of John and Patricia Dillon of Charlevoix. Kathy is 5'4" with blond hair and blue-green eyes. She will be a senior at Charlevoix High School this fall where she has spent much of her spare time in the Performing Arts programs. Besides such activities as modeling and playing piano, Kathy also lists weightlifting as one of her hobbies. She is preparing a skit for the talent competition.

Tina M. Eakes, 17, is the daughter of Jon Kirk and Evelyn Eakes of Charlevoix. Tina is 5'7" with brown hair and green eyes. During her career at Charlevoix High School, where she will be a senior this fall, Tina has been involved in such activities as cheerleading and track. She has also done some modeling in area fashion shows and has been elected as a senior class representative on the CHS Student Council. Tina plans a dance routine for the talent competition.

Ylandra Ice, 17, is the daughter of Gilbert and Gloria Ice of Charlevoix. Ylandra is 5'3 1/2" with black hair and brown eyes. She has most recently attended high school at the Pellston Christian School where she was active in cheerleading and track. She was also an honor student. Ylandra spends much of her free time outdoors pursuing such activities as golf, horseback riding, jogging and swimming. She also listed baseball as one of her interests.

She is still deciding on her entry for the talent competition.

Danna E. Loder, 17, is the daughter of Gary and Hazel Loder of Charlevoix. She is 5'6 1/2" with blond hair and blue eyes. Dianna participates in numerous outdoor sports and lists photography and basketball as her interests. She has been very active in the Performing Arts programs at Charlevoix High School, where she'll be a senior and a member of the Student Council this fall. She played the lead role in the musical "Grease" her sophomore year and was choreographer for "West Side Story." She plans a song and dance routine for the pageant.

Tina Marie McSawby, 17, is the daughter of Alexander and Catherine McSawby of Charlevoix. She is 5'3" with dark brown hair and black eyes. Tina is artistically inclined and says her main interests are not only drawing and painting but also reading and writing poetry. She likes outdoor activities such as swimming and jogging and also enjoys listening to music. Tina is a student at Charlevoix High School and begins her senior year this fall. She plans a singing routine for the talent portion of the pageant.

Melissa L. Sandahl, 17, is the daughter of Gerald and Gertrude Sandahl of Charlevoix. She is 5'8" with brown hair and blue eyes. Melissa has been a regular participant in sports during her three years at Charlevoix High School and has earned varsity letters in basketball and softball. She has also been an honor student and has taken part in the Performing Arts programs at CHS where she will be a senior in the fall. Horseback riding and golf also keep her busy in the summer months. Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Steve A. Martin

Leonard - Martin

Deborah Louise Leonard and Steve A. Martin exchanged their wedding vows at a double ring service solemnized at the United Methodist Church recently.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Leonard and Mrs. Clara J. Martin and Phil G. Martin, all of Charlevoix.

The Rev. David W. Yingling officiated at the ceremony in the presence of 125 guests on June 30. A program of traditional music and the wedding march and processional were played by Glenna Willis.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of white organza over white polished cotton for her wedding. Fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, the bouffant short sleeves and skirt were accented with bands of white satin. The full skirt terminated in a chapel length train. Yellow roses and baby's breath were entwined in her hair which was done in a French braid. She carried a bridal bouquet of yellow roses, white daisies and baby's breath.

Tammy Mitchell, as her only attendant wore a waltz length gown of yellow print similar to the bride's and carried a bouquet of white daisies and baby's breath.

Craig Whitley assisted the bridegroom as best man. Thomas Leonard and Phil Martin, brothers of the couple, seated the guests.

A reception followed in the church dining room.

The couple will make their home in Charlevoix.

The bride is employed at Duffy's of Charlevoix. The bridegroom is employed at Moete Manufacturing of Harbor Springs.

A rehearsal dinner hosted by the groom's parents was held at Duffy's of Charlevoix Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. James Boss

Booher - Boss

James W. Boss and Linda K. Booher exchanged wedding vows May 19 in a candlelight service on the white sand beach of Negri, Jamaica. The double-ring rites were performed by local Jamaican minister, Percival Thompson.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Booher of Phoenix, formerly of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale E. Boss of North Point, Charlevoix.

For her wedding, the bride wore an off-the-shoulder satin taffeta gown. The bodice was decorated with sequins and seed pearls. The gown featured a cathedral-length train, which was bustled at the waist.

The couple honeymooned in Jamaica and traveled cross-country to Arizona and Montana. Upon their return to Charlevoix, they were given a reception by the bride's parents at the Boss home.

Approximately 150 guests attended the informal picnic and swimming pool party.

The couple are at home at North Point, where they will reside during the summer months. The groom is self-employed in Harbor Springs and Boca Raton, Florida, and the bride will be an art student at the Art Institute of Fort Lauderdale.

American Legion Aux. elects new officers

Officers for the 1984-85 season were elected at a recent meeting of the Charlevoix Public Auxiliary of the Leslie T. Shapiro Post No. 226, American Legion.

They are Sue Lochner who was re-elected president; Katie Curtis, first vice president; Gertrude Holt, second vice president; Linda Webster, secretary; Josephine Bindi, chaplain; Mary Ann Farkas, historian; Lillian Hull, sergeant-at-arms; Genevieve Smith, Betty McKenzie and Anna Crain, executive committee.

Plans were made by the organization to enter a float in the annual Venetian street parade scheduled for July 28. Anyone wishing to participate is asked to contact the president before that date.

Tentative plans were made for a tea scheduled for Sept. 23 at which time organizations which sponsored the attendance of local girls at the annual Girls State held at Central Michigan University in June will be guests along with the candidates from Charlevoix.

The state convention of the American Legion and its Auxiliary will be held at Dearborn July 19-22. Dues must be paid prior to attendance. A penalty of $2.00 will be charged for dues not paid by July 20.

Katherine Curtis reported on the success of the Poppy Day sales in May; the Auxiliary acknowledged the transportation of the girls to Girls State via van furnished by a Grand Rapids Veterans Facility were approved. The American Legion the Cancer Society and its Auxiliary meet at the post home at 6:30 p.m. the first Tuesday of every month for a potluck dinner followed by meetings of the two organizations.

JUDY CROWELL, above, of Charlevoix, was the winner of a Brother Knitting Machine in a contest sponsored the Leisure Time shop in the Market Mall in which people voted for the best job of knitting a sweater. The contest was started in April and Judy's sweater, which she is holding above, was one of over 30 displayed for the final voting.

School district faces suit over near-electrocution last year

Alva Nolrot, father of Timothy Nolrot, has filed a suit in Circuit Court on behalf of his son against the Charlevoix School District and the manufacturers, rental agents, leasing agents, and distributing agents of lighting equipment used at the Charlevoix High School during a Speech Program on June 3, 1983.

Timothy Nolrot, a student, was operating lights for the program, when, according to the complaint, he "suffered electrical shock from the equipment, causing him to fall with great force and violence, severely injuring him." The complaint further states that Timothy "hyperventilated."

The Nolrots are asking for a judgement against the defendants "in excess of $10,000 together with court costs and attorney fees and interest to date of judgement."

As of last Friday, none of the defendants had answered the complaint. Norman Robiner of the Detroit law firm of Hoffa, Chodak, and Robiner is attorney for the plaintiffs.

Norwood church to mark 100 years

by PEG OHLE

"Though it has been a struggle at times, the Church has been intact, with services for those willing to come. But from the beginning, there have been stout souls, believing laymen, and earnest preachers who believed this church in Norwood should continue."

This quotation is from a history of the Norwood United Methodist Church prepared by Anna Warner. The church will celebrate the centennial of its founding at Sunday services July 22.

As written, the history of the Church reflects the history of the village from its founding days as a lakeport and lumber mill town to a residential community.

The first mention of the Norwood Church that could be found was in 1868, in the Methodist Quarterly Conference reports. At that time, according to the report, four residents of Norwood were receiving the Christian Advocate, and the preacher was paid $400 for the year. On Thanksgiving Day, 1871, the Quarterly Conference was held in Norwood.

In the early days, church services were held in the log school building. Also, in the beginning, the Christian Crusaders played an active part in the area.

"They came in two's to four's and five's without food or money, stayed with local families, held meetings day and night, and did much visitation," Mrs. Warner reports.

The first Norwood Church building, which still serves the congregation, was begun in 1881 and completed in 1884. This is verified by a letter to the Quarterly Conference dated August 22, 1885, which reads: "The undersigned trustees of said (Norwood) Church report one church completed and dedicated during the past year. Valued at $2,400 and indebtedness about $400, provided for by notes and subscriptions." It was signed by William Harris, secretary of trustees, and John Jolliffe.

The Norwood Methodist Church was the hub of social activities in the village, as well as its spiritual center. The Women's Society flourished and set the standards for a "social and moral society," as Mrs. Warner puts it. They met every Wednesday and worked for missions as well as the local church.

To this day, the church furnishes a social outlet for Norwood residents with its Family Night potluck dinners.

A long-time resident of Norwood remembers Christmas activities at the church. "The Sunday School, and the school put on a big Christmas program, and everyone came from miles around by team and sleigh, with sleigh bells jingling all the way," she recalls.

Looking for women vets

The Veterans Information and Administration's contact Geer at the Women's Veterans Office of Veterans Affairs Committee affairs on the first floor of the county building concern for the need of an outreach effort to between the hours and a daily women a.m. and noon and 1 until 5 p.m.

It is believed that these women may not be aware of their entitlement to benefits. It is the aim of the Women's Veterans Advisory Committee to assure they have this information and know how to use it.

Geer went on to say that this is most important with reference health care, considering the fact that a large percentage of women veterans served during World War II and are now coming into the time of life when their health problems will begin to increase.

It appears to be possible, Geer continued, that some women veterans do not know or do not realize that they are entitled to precisely the same benefits as male veterans. Others may not know how to go about applying for and taking advantage of the benefits to which they may be entitled.

Anyone seeking this

"The teams of horses were put in the shed north of the Church building for the evening. There was always a beautiful big Christmas tree, and the most always appeared after the program to hand out gifts and candy with help from some of the children. It was the most exciting time of the year."

"Many families brought all their presents for each other to the Church tree and they were handed out there on Christmas eve. Usually these presents were for each child, probably mittens, or sweater, or some other article of clothing they needed."

Through the years, ministers of the Norwood Methodist Church have served a Circuit consisting of other Methodist Churches in the area. They have differed from time to time as Church populations dwindled or grew. Once the Circuit was made up of Atwood, Norwood, and Ellsworth; at another time, Central Lake, Ellsworth, and Norwood; later, East Jordan, Norwood, and Barnard; and, most recently, Norwood and Barnard alone.

Twenty-four ministers have served the Norwood Church from 1911 to the present, the period for which complete records are available. That averages out to almost three years for each minister, which is considered good for small churches.

The Reverend Glenn Britton, most recent minister of the Norwood Church, retired last month, and Robert Bellairs of Charlevoix has taken over the job as a lay minister. Mrs. Warner will recite the history of the Church at next Sunday's services, and Robert Bellairs will furnish special vocal music. The congregation will join in singing such favorite hymns as "Faith of Our Fathers" and "The Church's One Foundation." Everyone will join in a potluck picnic following the service.

The United Methodist Church in Norwood looks much the same today as it did when it was built 100 years ago, but the shed for sheltering horses shown in the above picture and the gaslight at the entrance are now gone.

Army Pvt. CARMEN S. MURPHY, daughter of Margaret M. and Maurice R. Murphy of East Jordan, has completed basic training at Fort Dix, N.J.

Army National Guard 2nd Lt. DANIEL L. SPENCE, son of Wendell L. and Linda L. Spence of East Jordan, has graduated from the U.S. Army engineer officer basic course at Fort Belvoir, Va.

During the course, newly commissioned Corps of Engineers officers were taught management principles and were familiarized with the weaponry and equipment used in their future duties as platoon leaders.

DAVID A. SOMERVILLE, a respiratory therapist aide at Charlevoix Area Hospital, has recently been awarded a $500 fellowship given by the American Lung Association of Michigan. Somerville, a Bay City native, will use the grant to pursue a program furthering his education in respiratory therapy.

A Charlevoix resident, Somerville has worked at the Charlevoix Area Hospital since 1981, after serving with the Army for three years as a medical aide.

The ALA awards grants each year to outstanding physicians, nurses and other health professionals in the field of pulmonary and respiratory care to further their education and specialty in lung disease medicine.

Three students from Charlevoix, NANCY DEHOLLANDER, SUSAN SIMMERMAN and WENDI WRIGHT, have been named to the Grand Valley State College Dean's List for the 1984 spring semester.

Dr. Edward Newcombe

Dr. Newcombe joins staff at Charlevoix hospital

Charlevoix Area Hospital announced this week that Dr. Edward Newcombe, M.D., has joined the hospital medical staff.

Dr. Newcombe, a physician specializing in Family Practice, joins Dr. Dennis Joy and Dr. F. James Stewart, with offices in Charlevoix and Central Lake. Dr. Newcombe will see patients in both offices.

Dr. Newcombe completed his residency in Family Practice at Midland Hospital in May 1984. A Wayne State University Medical School graduate, he also served his internship at Midland Hospital. In addition to his Family Practice Residency at office hours in Midland, Dr. Newcombe served as an Emergency Room physician for Standish week that Edward Newcombe and Frankfort Hospital.

A Certified member of the American Board of Family Physicians, Dr. Newcombe has been trained in a broad range of medical specialties including pediatrics, gerontology, internal medicine, obstetrics and gynecology and general surgery.

A Detroit native, Dr. Newcombe, his wife, Pamela, and their two daughters have bought a home in Charlevoix. He will have full staff privileges at Charlevoix Area Hospital, will serve the Emergency Room on a rotating basis, and will hold Practice Residency at office hours in Midland. Dr. Newcombe served as an

JOHN CROSS, seated at right, was honored at a special breakfast Friday by the Masonic Order No. 282 of Charlevoix. Cross was presented with a pin for 40 years of membership in the organization and also received a Lifetime Certificate which he is shown holding with his wife Hulda. Also on hand were his daughter, Mrs. Carol Stephan, standing at left, and his son Jack Cross.

Barron is new Pointner associate; firm announces affiliation

Attorney Daniel B. Barron has joined the Charlevoix law firm of Thomas D. Pointner, P.C. as an associate.

Barron is a graduate of George Mason University in Fairfax, Virginia, and the University of Detroit School of Law.

While pursuing his undergraduate studies, Barron served as an intern in the United States House of Representatives of Congressman Carl Pursell, and while attending law school, he worked with the Legal Aid and Defender Association of Detroit.

Barron worked in the Legal Department of the Michigan National Corporation Banks for two years prior to associating with the Pointner firm.

Thomas D. Pointner, P.C., a native of the Detroit area, Barron and his wife, Cheryl, are now residing in Charlevoix.

The firm of Thomas D. Pointner, P.C., has also announced that it has become of counsel to the firm of Simpson & Moran which maintains offices in both Birmingham and Cheboygan. The association between the firms will, according to Pointner, enable both firms to serve their respective clients in a broader geographical area and offer their respective clients expertise in a broad range of matters.

Immaculate 2 bedroom home on the Northside with the best of the City's golf course at the front door and the tennis courts at your back door. Walking distance to the beach. Anxious seller $49,500.

CHARLEVOIX'S NORTHSIDE

Lots of potential! This can be one large 14 bedroom, 2 bath home or two 2 bedroom apartments as it is presently divided or home and office. Situated on an extra large lot. Close to downtown. The home does need some work. Very liberal financing available to qualified buyers.

LAKE CHARLEVOIX

Warm, cozy, well built 3 bedroom home in Charlevoix School District with views of Lake Charlevoix. Also offering a 10 x 25 sunroom with southern exposure and wraparound decks. Located on approximately 1.5 acres of land. Close to boat dockage in litigation.

Norwood man killed in Antrim County accident

Delmore W. Swartwout, Jr., 55, Norwood Township resident, was killed in a one-car accident on the Old Dixie Highway in Banks Township, Antrim County, at 2:45 p.m. Saturday, July 14, according to the Antrim County Sheriff's Department.

According to sheriff's deputies, Mr. Swartwout was traveling south on the highway which runs parallel to U.S. 31 west of the trunkline when his car went out of control on a curve, left the roadway and struck a tree. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Donald Bills, Antrim County Medical Examiner.

The body was taken to the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

The accident remains under investigation.

Watershed plans annual lakes conference

The Watershed Association, Council of the Tip of the Mitt environmental organization will hold its third annual Inland Lakes Conference Saturday, July 28, at the Inland Lakes High School in Indian River.

The meeting is open to the public and everyone concerned with the future of lakes and streams in northern Michigan is urged to attend.

Business sessions, which will follow a luncheon, begins at 1:30 with a talk titled "A Citizen's Role in Lake Quality Protection," by Dr. John Gannon, limnologist and former director of the University of Michigan Biological Station's "Project Clear."

At 3 p.m., there will be four separate panel discussions. One will cover "Zoning to Protect Water Quality," with special reference to the zoning ordinances of Hayes Township in Burt Lake Township.

Another discussion will cover the "Ladophora survey" of Lake Charlevoix and "Project Vigilant" on Walloon Lake.

Another panel discussion will focus on "Strengthening Lake Associations," reciting activities of the Walloon Lake Association and the United Burt Lake

"I look upon public service as a privilege and not a right. A judge is elected by people's trust that he or she will see that justice is served. The principle serves as the bedrock of this country's past and future."

Work of Jan Glass to be featured at Art Center

by ANNE KELLY

"I've been drawing all my life," explained Jan Glass, Charlevoix artist to be featured at Virginia McCune Arts Center July 14-21st. "As a matter of fact, I've been drawing ever since I could pick up a pencil." Jan, whose love of flowers is expressed in meticulous realism, chooses watercolors for her medium and paints flowers early in the morning when they have the freshness and transparency she hopes to convey in her work. "I never paint anything that I haven't seen or actually have on hand."

This striving for authenticity is a trademark, and is facilitated by taking color slides and making on-the-spot sketches to check the accuracy of the reproductions.

"As you can see," she laughs, indicating the trappings in her home, "I'm surrounded by jars of flowers and wads of grasses."

Outside, an early summer garden is in full bloom, alive with the same vibrancy you find on Jan's easel. "I've planted it with flowers I knew I'd be using," Jan pointed out. "Take the poppies; I love poppies. They almost come right out and say, 'Paint me'. And the daisies - they twist and sing..."

Jan, who earned a B.S. in Art Education has taught or substituted in the Warren, Hudsonville and Charlevoix-School Systems. For a time she did graphic artwork and photography for the Char-Em Intermediate School District. It

Watershed Council adds three new

Tip of the Mitt 1979 by citizens Watershed Council has announced the addition of three new staff members. The Watershed Council is a non-profit conservation organization which works to protect water resources in Emmet, Charlevoix, and Cheboygan Counties. The Watershed Council was formed in

The new staff began work earlier this summer. Each has a field of expertise. Gail Gruenwald moved to Northern Michigan from the state of Washington. She has an Environmental Law Degree from University of Oregon and she is a member of the Washington State Bar Association. Originally a native of Michigan, Gail says she's glad to be back. Gail will be working on legal issues which relate to water quality. She will particularly focus on helping citizens strengthen township and county zoning ordinances to protect water quality. "Adding greenbelts, water front setbacks, and anti-funneling provisions will help keep our lakes and streams clean in the future," says Gail.

Jim Bricker is a long time resident of Emmet County and he is the Watershed Council's new Science Advisor. Jim has a Master's degree in Biology and worked at the University of Michigan Biological Station on Douglas Lake for six years, studying lakes and water quality. Jim and his wife Kathy are well known in the community for their nature programs and leadership in the Audubon Society. Jim is assisting lake associations with their water quality monitoring programs as well as looking into the environmental impact of development proposals on wetlands and other sensitive areas. "Unless we take steps to protect the water quality of our region, the loss on environmental quality will be inevitable," said Jim.

Tom Lagerstrom moved to Petoskey from staff members

Lansing. With him are his wife Diane and daughter Andrea. Tom is the Membership and Communications Coordinator for the Watershed Council. He is the editor for the Council's newsletter which reaches 6,000 residents in Northern Michigan. "The newsletter is free to anyone who requests it," said Tom. "Just call me at 347-1181." Tom has experience in building up conservation organizations. Earlier this year he received an award from the Governor for his efforts in starting a recycling organization in Lansing. Tom works halftime for the Watershed Council and halftime for Little Traverse Conservancy. The three new staff will be making presentations at the Watershed Council's Annual Conference to be held on July 28, beginning at 1:25 p.m. at the Inland Lakes Schools in Indian River. The theme is "The Citizens Role in Water Quality Protection" and the public is invited.

For Jan Glass, happiness is sharing her skills

Continued from page 1 — McCune Arts Center where she also displays and sells her work at the Art Tree. She has shown her paintings at local art shows and has currently been asked to display her watercolors at The Sandpiper in Mackinac City.

Encouraged by a family which she claims is entirely artistic and "right-brained", a term meaning perceptive rather than analytical, Jan came out of the "closet" and began believing in herself and what she wanted to say in her artwork.

She has taught art courses at the Virginia

McCune Arts Center where she also displays and sells her work at the Art Tree. She has shown her paintings at local art shows and has currently been asked to display her watercolors at The Sandpiper in Mackinac City.

"I'm happy with what I'm doing, and that wasn't always so," admits Jan. She digresses a bit to explain that she had to learn to overcome her fear of criticism and learn to "take a chance." She feels that both she and her work have grown through both criticism and praise.

"It's like going to school and taking a constant test," this act of producing from one's creativity, Jan would say.

"I believe that everyone is artistic, in his own way," Jan concluded. "My brother is an artist, a wood worker who has a shop and gallery in New Orleans. I have a mother, a sister and grandmother whose needlework is wonderful. I have another grandmother who was an artistic cook. I had an aunt, who in her 80's had the attitude when she came upon something she hadn't mastered, 'I don't know how to do that, but I'm going to learn.' My husband, who doesn't think he's artistic at all, makes wonderful things out of wood. Every family is artistic - my family just does it."

City Hall to computerize, says Council

by DAVE KNIGHT

Charlevoix's city government was ushered into the computer age Monday night with City Council's decision to purchase a $78,000 computer system designed to streamline many municipal functions.

At a special council meeting, City Manager Robert Hunt and computer consultant Jim Shrier of the Southfield firm of Plante and Moran reviewed the findings of a seven-month study commissioned by the council last year to solicit and analyze available systems.

Their recommendation, which the council approved unanimously, was to purchase a micro-computer from the Burroughs corporation for $62,000 and the necessary software, or programming, from the Manatron firm for $12,000. Additional charges of $3,800 will include installation, delivery, start-up supplies, software installation and training.

The Burroughs-Manatron package was the least expensive of four proposals ranging in total price to over $100,000 that were seriously considered in the study.

According to a financing arrangement explained by city clerk-treasurer James Brinker, the city will borrow the necessary funds from the Charlevoix County State Bank to pay for the system in installments. At a rate offered by the bank of 8.2 percent over five years, interest charges will amount to $19,936 making the total cost of the system $87,936.

By financing the total cost of the system, however, Brinker estimated that funds can be invested at a rate of return of 19 percent over five years thus creating a credit of $23,580. Other savings associated with the elimination of the Burroughs L-9000 billing machine currently in use at City Hall amount to an estimated $7,750 thus making the "actual" cost to the city of the new computer system $66,506, said Brinker.

Annual operating costs will include $9,000 in maintenance contracts for both hardware and software in the system. Added to the average annual payment for five years of $19,587, the total annual operating cost is estimated at $30,087.

A sum of $30,000 is earmarked in the city's 1984-85 budget for computer costs.

Hunt pointed out that the Burroughs-Manatron system was heavily favored by the City Hall staff members who will be using the system and who were closely involved in the selection process.

Unlike most other vendors who require all potential users of their systems to attend a formal school for training, Manatron, the programming firm, will conduct all necessary training of City of Charlevoix employees on the city's own equipment in Charlevoix, Hunt said.

Another advantage to the system proposed in the study is that it does not utilize a central "main frame" processing unit connected to a number of terminals. In the Burroughs-Manatron system, each of the seven micro-computers proposed for installation in Charlevoix will be doing its own processing, sharing only printers and hard-disk data storage.

Explained Shrier, this type of arrangement will more easily allow expansion by one component at a time and is less apt to totally break down since each of the terminal units functions independently.

Of the seven terminals proposed, two will be upstairs in City Hall in the accounting office for utility billing, payroll, general ledger accounting and system control; one will be downstairs in City Hall for accounts payable, accounts receivable and voter registration; one will be at the light plant for job cost accounting.

Presidential Yacht Sequoia finds welcome port here

by DAVE KNIGHT

There have been plusher vessels to visit the Charlevoix harbor, a favored port for wealthy yachtsmen for over a century.

But for richness of history, Charlevoix has never welcomed a more prestigious guest than the stately, 104-foot craft that spent part of last week tied up at Northwest Marine on Lake Charlevoix.

The Presidential Yacht Sequoia arrived in Charlevoix Wednesday evening for an unscheduled stop on her way to Mackinac Island.

The yacht, used as a pleasure craft by nine American presidents, is currently on a national tour that has taken her from the East Coast around Florida, up the Mississippi River and the Illinois Waterway to the Great Lakes.

After a weekend visit to Mackinac Island, she will proceed through the lakes and the New York State Barge canal back to her home port in Washington, D.C., making several stops along the way in major port cities.

According to Capt. Giles Kelly, the Charlevoix layover provided some well-needed respite for both boat and crew after a harrowing trip up Lake Michigan from Frankfort.

Heavy seas may be passe' for veteran Great Lake boaters but the Sequoia was built for quiet meanderings on inland waters.

"She has no business on any (seas) over four feet," said Capt.

Giles.

Thus the heaving swells encountered by Sequoia on her way up the West Michigan coastline Wednesday were a matter of no small concern. At one point, the narrow-beamed yacht was rolling so critically that the sturdy, 20-place dining table on the main deck went right over onto its side.

No damage was done, however, and the Sequoia made it safely to its Lake Charlevoix mooring for a day of housecleaning in preparation for its Mackinac Island gig.

The Sequoia, originally named Savarona, was built in New Jersey in 1925 for a Philadelphia family. She was sold to a Texas oil magnate in 1928 who renamed her Sequoia.

after the oil company he owned.

She was acquired by the U.S. Department of Commerce in 1931 to trap rum runners on the Mississippi River. It was during that tour of duty that she was summoned to Washington by President Herbert Hoover who used her to sneak off on fishing trips on the Potomac river.

On March 25, 1938, Hoover had the yacht commissioned as the USS Sequoia and for the next 41 years, she served under eight more U.S. presidents.

Over four decades as the "floating White House," Sequoia was used for such functions as war strategy meetings between Franklin Roosevelt and Winston Churchill.

Auction raises enough money for more petunias

The annual Petunia Auction held in East Park by Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc. Saturday was declared a success by organizers who said that the goal of $7,000 was just barely reached.

With the proceeds of the auction sales netting $6,800, a cash pledge of $250 from the Medusa Cement Company put the total over the top, said Keep Charlevoix Beautiful President Bruce MacArthur.

MacArthur reported that $12,700 worth of merchandise and services were auctioned off between 1 and 5 p.m. in the park.

About 400 items were included in the auction with the top money raiser being a 1961 Thompson boat with Johnson motor which brought a winning bid of $1,100.

Another big ticket item, a cruise on a high performance "cigarette" boat to the Ironton Landing for appetizers and back to Charlevoix for a gourmet meal, sold for $200.

Two of the more unique items to be featured in the auction were a pair of 12-week old Labrador pups donated by Hank and Joan Wagner of Charlevoix. The purebred pups, valued at $300 apiece, are to be sold to good homes by the Wagners with proceeds going to the petunia cause.

The Petunia Auction, now in its third year, is held to raise funds for Keep Charlevoix Beautiful's Operation Petunia. The community project is responsible for the 50,000 petunias planted each spring along four linear miles of U.S. 31 through Charlevoix.

Those still wishing to contribute to the project may purchase commemorative petunia T-shirts from Alyce Lesser or Joyce Boydston at the Ski & Shore Real Estate office in Charlevoix. Charlevoix license plates, with proceeds going toward Operation Petunia, are available at the Chamber of Commerce.

Leif Miller models an outfit as fashion coordinator for the New City sock makers.

One of the Labrador pups donated by Hank and Joan Wagner taken the auction stage.

Charlevoix Yesterday

This group of serious boys and girls are believed to be students in the old Charlevoix Elementary School on Grant Street between Mason and Clinton Streets. The parents of Gloria Taylor Gerritsen, who loaned us the picture, both attended the school, but she can't

Urge 'yes' vote

The employees of the Northern Michigan Community Mental Health Board have announced the formation of a committee to support passage of a ballot proposal on the August 7 primary ballot. This proposal concerns the Mental Health Board to withdraw from the Municipal Employees Retirement System. A "yes" vote on this proposal is number 162 on the Charlevoix County ballot. If passed, the Mental Health Board could withdraw to seek a better and more cost-effective retirement system for its employees.

The proposal was put on the ballot in response to employee request. Both the Board members and the employees are on record as being in favor of withdrawal. Due to certain requirements of laws governing the Municipal Employees Retirement Act, Act 133, 1943, the question of withdrawing must be put on the ballot for public vote.

"We are going after this vote because it would mean a better plan for our employees and no additional cost to the taxpayer," said Sam Kaufman, Director of the Mental Health Board. "The staff wants this, and the Board is behind them."

The Northern Michigan Community Mental Health Service Board employs approximately 100 people and provides mental health services to the counties of Emmet, Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Oshtemo. If anyone has questions regarding this question, the Mental Health Board suggests that you phone them at (616) 347-7890.

Two new members named to hospital board of directors

Two new members and one incumbent were elected to the Charlevoix Area Hospital board of directors at the annual meeting Tuesday, July 17.

Geraldine Brady and Mark Kowalske were chosen to fill the expired terms of William Sherman and Marcia Trimmer. Walter Hufford was returned to his position on the board. All are three-year terms.

Merle Plagge, M.D. is also new to the board in his capacity as chief of staff. He replaces former chief of staff F. James Stewart, M.D.

Dr. Plagge will direct a staff of approximately 30 active, consulting and courtesy physicians during his one-year term. The Charlevoix resident also serves as a member of the staff's professional activities executive committee.

This is Dr. Plagge's second stint as chief of staff for Charlevoix Area Hospital. He also served in the position from 1975 to 1976. A graduate of the St. Louis University School of Medicine, Dr. Plagge served his internship and residency at Pontiac General Hospital. Later, he became director of surgical education at Pontiac General, and was also on staff at Pontiac State Hospital.

Dr. Plagge moved to Charlevoix in 1974 with his wife, Barbara and three children: Mary, Peter, and Tim. The family lives on a farm south of the city, where Dr. Plagge breeds Simmental cattle.

Vice chief of staff is James Gels, M.D., and staff secretary is Thomas McKee, M.D. Geraldine Brady is the wife of William Brady of Charlevoix and a registered nurse in the employ of Charlevoix Public Schools. She is past president of the Charlevoix Woman's Club and a member of the State Federated Women's Clubs board.

Knight on the Town

Street talk

by Dave Knight

Question: Why did the chicken cross Bridge St.?

Answer: It's a moot point...he's still waiting for a break in the traffic.

Sometime around the Fourth of July, a stream of cars, cars with boots, vans, gravel trucks, trailers, Winnebagos, buses and motorcycles started pouring into Charlevoix from both ends and I don't believe it has let up since.

Perhaps the long winter dulls memories of summers past but I don't recall such an influx of traffic in the downtown area for at least the past four years.

Actually, there seems to be more traffic everywhere around the city, not just downtown.

Somewhere waiting to turn south onto U.S. 31 from M-46 on a busy day better pack a lunch. That intersection is becoming a real problem during the summer season.

There has been talk of and on about petitioning for some traffic control lights at that corner, at least on a seasonal basis, and I think the time has come to get serious.

Do you realize that in all of Charlevoix County there is a grand total of two stop-and-go lights, not counting the drawbridge? Tell that to a Detroit for a good chuckle.

To the visitor, driving in Charlevoix for the first time must be like playing a new golf course. There are several treacherous hazards seemingly devised to vex and frustrate.

The gauge of blending four lanes into two crossing south over the Pine River Channel is always entertaining - like stock car racing. Have you ever wondered why people like to congregate at the south end of the bridge? They're watching all the fun.

It has been mentioned lately that there are now more cars driving the wrong way on one-way E. Dixon Ave. than cars driving the right way.

But, going back to the chicken, the most adventurous maneuver in town is still crossing Bridge St. on foot on any crosswalk other than at the light.

If I were the enterprising sort, I'd set up a stand downtown renting baby carriages and nuns' habits for people who really want to get across the street fast.

Drivers just don't like stopping for pedestrians.

Part of the problem, of course, is that Northern Michigan pedestrians are just not as aggressive as their counterparts in the city. In New York or Chicago, you stride into traffic and if a vehicle has the nerve to pull up and challenge, you pound on its hood. If you're still standing.

Most of us rural types just don't have that sort of chutzpah however. We'll stand meekly, watching both ways...waiting for a break.

An imploring look is about as nasty as we get.

Maybe the time is ripe for some pedestrian assertiveness training workshops.

Until then, Charlevoixians on the east side of Bridge St. would do well to consolidate their business ventures to the west side of the street and vice versa.

And how about blocking off the street just for a few hours so that families who have been separated since the Fourth of July can be reunited?

Bat redux

by Bob Clock

Milroy loves company, and I apparently have lots of company in the bat department.

Last week's installment told how my cat and I managed to annihilate a bat that got into the house. Actually, I was quicker than the cat and got to do the honors on the front lawn with an ax.

Since the column appeared I have heard from neighbors up and down the street who have had their innings with bats this summer.

It's an encouraging, the bats seldom win.

Dave Fowler says a tennis racket works just as well as a small dipping net, although he may want to borrow my small net to corral a colony of kittens a stray cat spawned in the shrubbery next to his house.

If it isn't one thing, it's another.

FOWLER HAS learned over the years that it is futile to swing at a bat flying toward you, because its sensitive radar system tells it when to dodge.

He recommends waiting until after the bat passes and then clobbering it from behind. He hit one a terrific whack last week and the poor creature fluttered away and disappeared.

Of course, no one wants a dying bat around the house, so he and Nancy looked and looked, and looked. They finally found it dead in a sock drawer.

Wouldn't you just love to reach into your sock drawer some morning and pull out a dead bat?

JIM ANNIS, who lives on Nettleton Street, says Charlevoix's little bats can't compare to the gigantic "fruit bats" he encountered on the Solomon Islands in the Pacific.

He says he and his GI buddies would sit outdoors in the evening, watching movies or talking, when huge bats with three-foot wingspans would begin swooping around them.

"Big! They had heads as big as dog's heads," he recalls.

So I guess Charlevoixians are lucky their bats are descended from mice - not cocker spaniels.

Neither smell tests nor tennis rackets would be very effective against cocker spaniels with wings.

YOU'D ALMOST think bats are called bats because folks keep bating them around.

But according to Webster, that's not the case.

But is derived from the Middle English bakke, which is probably derived from the Scandinavian nafbakka, an order of nocturnal flying mammals with forelimbs modified to form wings.

As unpleasant as bats are to have around, they are tireless bugcatchers so I suppose they play an important role in the overall scheme of the universe.

But I, for one, would not mind seeing the bat on the endangered species list.

Seeks an apology

To the Editor:

I consider A. Nony Mouse's report of the Second Annual Women's Classic on July 8 very inappropriate. It's obvious the author of this article didn't take the race or our participation seriously. Let me assure you that those of us who raced that day were very serious and each did her best to finish well.

Therefore, I expect an apology in print from A. Nony Mouse for his report of this event.

Too often those in public service have to field the brickbats and too rarely are they commended. We trust that this letter, sincerely sent in good will, will help balance the scales. This letter will be read to our members at our annual meeting on July 21, 1984, as an acknowledgment of your valued assistance.

Howard F. Neilson, President WATCH, INC.

Please vote yes

An open letter

To Dr. Ronald Skoog, Director Department of Natural Resources As you already know, a consent decree was registered in the Charlevoix Circuit Court on Monday, July 9, 1984. Thus, the litigation with the DNR and WATCH, INC. vs. Medusa Cement Company has been terminated.

We in WATCH are confident that, if Medusa diligently complies with the letter and spirit of the decree, the Charlevoix public will have no further cause for air quality complaints in the future. At the same time, in concert with the DNR Air Quality Enforcement staff, we intend to maintain a vigilant posture. We are great believers in the old "saw": "fool me once, it's your fault; fool me twice, it's my fault."

The WATCH, INC. Board of Directors have asked that I write you to extend our appreciation and thanks to you and your staff for the very professional manner in which they proceeded with handling this matter. We especially were impressed with the competence, patience and spirit of cooperation as exemplified by the following members of the DNR staff:

This letter is written to urge the voters of Charlevoix County to vote yes on the proposal allowing the Mental Health Board to withdraw from the Municipal Employees Retirement System. The number of this vote on the Charlevoix County ballot is 162.

The Municipal Employees Retirement System is a mandatory system to which the employees must contribute. The employees have expressed their wish to withdraw from this system and, as a Board, we are behind them.

Due to certain requirements of laws governing the Municipal Employees Retirement System, the question of withdrawing must be put on the ballot for public vote. If passed, the Mental Health Board could withdraw to seek a better and more cost-effective retirement system for its employees. This change would come about with no additional cost to the taxpayer.

Again, allow us to withdraw to obtain a better plan for our staff: votes on this ballot proposal.

National tour hopes to raise funds for renovations, preservation of Sequoia poker games with Harry Truman and John F. Kennedy's last birthday party.

Her dignified ambience provided the perfect setting for summit talks with foreign leaders and negotiations with members of Congress. Presidents Johnson, Nixon and Ford used her extensively for such purposes.

But when Jimmy Carter decided that the opulence of a private yacht did not fit his administration's populist image, it was sold at auction for $226,000.

Over the next four years, three different owners tried unsuccessfully to market Sequoia as a tourist attraction. By 1981, she was linguishing as a cocktail lounge behind a restaurant.

It was at that point that the Presidential Yacht Trust was created to purchase the Sequoia for $1.1 million and return her to Washington, D.C. as a historical landmark.

Sequoia's current national tour is the first of what the Trust plans to make a regular event every four years. Along the way, the Presidential Yacht will be hosting several cocktail parties and other fund-raising events to benefit local charities as well as the Trust itself.

Arrangements were hastily made last week by some local summer residents for an evening cruise on Lake Charlevoix.

The Trust's ultimate goal is to raise a $10 million endowment for full restoration and future preservation of the Sequoia as a national landmark.

"The response by the American public to this old lady has amazed me," said Capt. Kelly. At some ports of call where Sequoia's arrival was well publicized in advance, he said, people have lined the banks waving American flags.

"I have seen some people so in awe of the history this boat represents that they had tears streaming down their faces," he said. "Actually, I am still in awe myself."

Kelly is a retired U.S. Navy captain who saw action as a commander during World War in seven major naval campaigns. He went on to a career with the Foreign Service and, following his retirement in 1971, was named adjunct professor of seamanship and sailing at American University in Washington, D.C.

While teaching at the university, Kelly made the connection with the Presidential Yacht Trust through one of his students who was a caretaker on the Sequoia at the time. Kelly, who has sailed the world from the Greek Islands to the River Nile to the English coast, said of his first exposure to Northwest Michigan and the Charlevoix area, "We were not prepared for the beauty of the area and the hospitality of the people. I just can't get over the attractiveness of the Charlevoix harbor, its simplicity, deep water and fantastic beauty. I am duly impressed."

Every bit as impressed were the scores of local residents who made their way down to the Northwest Marine yacht basin Thursday for a peek at the Sequoia which took up about eight slips at its temporary mooring behind the former Foster Boat Works.

Though the maintenance work being done prevented any public tours, reporters were allowed aboard for quick photo-sessions.

The main deck is dominated by the dining room which features the huge table surrounded by elegant fixtures, an ornately carved wooden bar and a piano that Harry Truman enjoyed playing during parties. Fore of the dining room is the wheel house and all is a parlor.

Belowdecks are suites for crew and captain amidships with a stateroom for the Secretary of the Navy and the Presidential Suite fore. All are paneled and furnished in rich, varnished woods.

Throughout the vessel, the walls are covered by photographs of presidents and other historic figures enjoying themselves on the Sequoia. The 104-foot Sequoia has an 18'2" beam, 47'2" draft, a speed of 12 knots and full displacement of 105 tons. She is powered by twin Detroit Diesel 671N engines that turn twin screws. A crew of ten is aboard for the tour.

Contributions to the Presidential Yacht Trust can be sent to 3413 Backlick Road, Springfield, Virginia. Credit cards may be used and all donations are tax deductible.

Far flung Wagners make trek home for rare reunion

by ANNE KELLY

Summer would not be complete around Charlevoix without a family reunion or two.

Last week found the Wagner clan of 300 E. Dixon enjoying a rare occurrence: a reunion of five of the six children of Clem and Jean Wagner, home for a few days, along with their families.

Present and accounted for were: Dr. Michael Wagner of Swaziland, Africa, where he has taught Geography at the University of Swaziland for the past five years; Corinne, with husband Dr. Ken Nowotny and daughter Shannon, of Las Cruces, New Mexico; Lisa, Mrs. Jim Teets, with children Sean, Tamara, and Amber of Detroit; Denise, Mrs. Michael Wood, along with sons Paul and Bobby of Kincheloe, Upper Peninsula; and Andrea, Mrs. Richard Teets of Detroit.

An international flavor comes naturally to the Wagners. Jean is a World War II war bride from England. The daughters would like to romanticize the story of their parent's meeting in England during the war and of the fact that first-born Michael was born there.

as office manager from 1945-1952. Before her voyage to the States, she served as President of the city council in Manitowish Wisconsin, and continued his active civic participation here.

Clem was a member of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, the Charlevoix School Board, and the Rod and Gun Club. He served as County Chairman for the Democratic Party of Charlevoix County, and was a founder and past president of the Charlevoix Federal Credit Union.

Since retirement, Clem has been given more time to their hobbies: golf for Clem, and Jean, knitting, reading, playing cards, tending a rose garden, and spending time with her grandchildren.

The Wagners have spent their last three winters in Arizona, Florida, and New Mexico, seeking the sun and visiting family.

Absent from the gathering was daughter Michelle, Mrs. Robert Boltz, of Sturgeon Bay, Wisconsin, who has two children, Sally and David.

License plate ABCs

by PEG OHLE

What is your automobile license plate number?

I had always thought mine was 125 CLA, but now I know it is something else to those who count - Sheriff's Department Deputies and other law enforcement officers around the County.

They say my number is "125 Charles Lincoln Adam."

That's according to the Phonetic Alphabet, which assigns a word name to each letter on a license plate. The reason is simple: Letters can be easily mistaken by sound; words in the Phonetic Alphabet are readily understood when spoken.

Communications officers in the Sheriff's Department and police stations use the Phonetic Alphabet when radioing requests for identifications, and for other reasons.

Charles Lincoln Adam is very popular in Charlevoix County because several hundred license plates bearing those letters were distributed from the Charlevoix office of the Secretary of State.

So were plates in the John Frank Robert series, the Charles Lincoln David series, and the Frank William truck license series.

Coming soon will be a Charles Frank Zebra series, according to a spokesman for the local Secretary of State's office.

The complete Phonetic Alphabet is as follows:

Adam, Boy, Charles, David, Edward, Frank, George, Henry, Ida, John, King, Lincoln, Mary, Nora, Ocean, Paul, Queen, Robert, Sam, Tom, Union, Victor, William, X-ray, Yellow, and Zebra.

What good is all this information? Well, you could call that pokey driver in front of you by his Phonetic name.

Or, you could teach the Phonetic Alphabet to your kids so they could play games when you're traveling: "Look, Dad, there's a Yellow Boy Zebra!"

inventory, and electric and water accounting; one will be in the clerk-treasurer's office for cash management, budgeting, job cost accounting and general inquiry and one will be in the city manager's office for word processing.

Also to be installed are a high speed printer for financial reports, a letter quality printer for correspondence and a dot matrix printer for electric and water reports.

In other business, the council:

Gave approval, by informal straw vote, for Fire Chief John Martin and has staff to develop a rough layout for an addition to City Hall to house more fire fighting and ambulance vehicles.

In a memo to council, City Manager Hunt strongly recommended retaining the fire department headquarters in the City Hall building rather than building a new fire station in a location outside of town. He cited the expense of constructing a new facility from scratch as well as the increased distance from central city areas as major factors in his recommendation.

Fr. Gary D. Heniser

Fr. Gary Heniser is new rector at Christ Episcopal Church

By PEG OHLE
College in McKenzie, Tennessee, attending school for two more years in Memphis, and receiving a doctorate from Lexington Theological Seminary, Father Heniser says he was ready to serve the Church anywhere.

He describes his ministry as being "Catholic, Evangelical, and Charismatic", explaining that the Catholic part is that of the sacraments, the Evangelical part that of preaching and teaching the scriptures, and the Charismatic part that of the gifts of the Holy Spirit.

At his induction as rector of Christ Episcopal Church early this month, Father Heniser surrendered any rights as rector to the leadership of Jesus in the parish. He says, "We intend to live in His leadership as the church, Father Heniser."

He describes his ministry as being "Catholic, Evangelical, and Charismatic", explaining that the Catholic part is that of the sacraments, the Evangelical part that of preaching and teaching the scriptures, and the Charismatic part that of the gifts of the Holy Spirit.

While in Montreal, Father Heniser was much a part of its founding member of the Anglican Renewal between his work and Ministry. Now he is in the parish. He says, "We intend to live in His leadership as the church, Father Heniser."

He describes his ministry as being "Catholic, Evangelical, and Charismatic", explaining that the Catholic part is that of the sacraments, the Evangelical part that of preaching and teaching the scriptures, and the Charismatic part that of the gifts of the Holy Spirit.

Local Grange members attend state camp-out

Members of the Barnard Grange, including Anna and Clyde Warner and a Bertha and Hill Parsons of Norwood, joined other Grange members from all over the State for a campout north of Harbor Springs last week. The campouts, in motor homes and house trailers, are a monthly summer feature of Grange activities, according to Mrs. Warner. Those who arrived on Thursday were treated to a tour through Kilwin's candy factory, and 61 members gathered for dinner at a Potosky restaurant. On Friday, the group took a hike along one of the Nature Conservancy trails, partook of a potluck dinner, and ended the day with a square dance. Some went home that evening, and others waited until Monday to break camp. "The Grange is a family organization," Mrs. Warner explained, "and many campers had children." The rain stopped Sunday morning, just in time for 72 of the campers to hold an outdoor church service, with Mrs. Warner serving as chaplain. That afternoon there was a picnic of the Northern Michigan group, 31 of them, at the Harbor Springs High School. Clyde Warner was honored with a cake commemorating his 80th birthday. As if that were not enough for a day, the Warners and others of the group took a ride on the Vesper Service boat in the Straits of Mackinac and watched as the Mackinac Bridge was lighted up. Some went home that evening, and others waited until Monday to break camp.

Spring campout. The next one is scheduled for August 10, 11, and 12 at Pickford in the Upper Peninsula.

In a tough year, an advertising cutback is the easy way out. (out of business that is).

Molly Wather's new Massage Room offers therapeutic and sports massage

by TAMMY CURRIER

The ideal location to get rid of your muscle quirks and pains, release tensions or just plain relax this summer is at The Massage Room.

The Massage Room offers therapeutic and sports massage by appointment only and is located in the Charlevoix Health and Fitness Center, US 31 S. Massages are offered from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on weekdays and from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturdays.

The massages are given by head masseuse Molly J. Wather and her assistant Ray Merchant. Both use the Swedish Massage technique, of which Ms. Wather believes is the most important element.

Actually, said Wather, Swedish Massage is a vigorous breaking technique employing the five basic strokes, of which the percussion stroke is her specialty. Ms. Wather explained that massage not only eliminates pain and tension, but also allows for increased circulation of not only the circulatory system, but the skeletal, muscular, skeletal and lymphatic systems as well. She also gets the primary therapeutic property of massage is such, which is beneficial both physically and mentally.

who've been to different masseuses and would swear by one and never return to the other," she said.

Ms. Wather has all the techniques of massage and developing her own technique out of those that she had been taught.

She has studied under a licensed masseur while living in Nevada, under Jane Ploeger of Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City, and under Carl Childress of the Michigan Therapeutic Massage Institute in Petoskey. Although the state of Michigan doesn't require a license as other states do, Ms. Wather has all the qualifications.

"In order to receive a license in other states," she said, "the person must know and understand the five body systems, such as the vascular and muscular, and they must know and be able to apply the five basic strokes, effleurage, friction, kneading and percussion."

Between massages, Ms. Wather can be found perfecting her rhythmic technique. She even plans to learn to play the bongos in hopes of learning new rhythms and incorporating them into her technique.

Ms. Wather said that she was drawn to the

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX COUNCIL MINUTES

PUBLIC NOTICE

The following Resolution was adopted by the City Council of the City of Charlevoix, by a majority vote of the Council, at a regular meeting held July 16, 1984.

RESOLUTION 14-75 CHARTER AMENDMENT

BE IT RESOLVED BY the City Council of the City of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, as follows:

1. That the City Council, by a 3/5ths vote of its members elect, pursuant to the authority granted by Act No. 279 of the Public Acts of 1909, as amended, proposes:

A. That Article III, Section 3.8 of the Charter of the City of Charlevoix, if approved by the electors shall be amended to read as follows:

The City Clerk shall be appointed by a majority vote of the entire Council for an indefinite term.

Provisions of existing Article III, Section 3.8 of the Charter of the City of Charlevoix, to be altered or abrogated by such proposal, if adopted, now reads as follows:

"The City Clerk shall be elected by a majority vote of the electors of the City at large for a two year term effective for the term commencing January 1st, 1982 and thereafter."

B. That Article II, Section 2.11 of the Charter of the City of Charlevoix, if approved by the electors shall be amended to read as follows:

"Each Councilmember, the Mayor, and the Deputy Mayor shall receive as payment for services a sum as determined by the local compensation commission, which shall be established in accordance with Public Act 1972, number 8, as amended."

Provisions of existing Article II, Section 2.11 of the Charter of the City of Charlevoix, to be altered or abrogated by such proposal, if adopted, now reads as follows:

"Each Councilmember, the Mayor, and the Deputy Mayor, and the City Clerk shall receive as payment for services a sum as determined by the local compensation commission, which shall be established in accordance with Public Act 1972, number 8, as amended."

C. That Article IV, Section 4.4 of the Charter of the City of Charlevoix, if approved by the electors shall be amended to read as follows:

"Registered electors seeking the office of Mayor shall file nominating petitions bearing the bona fide signatures of no fewer than Twenty-five (25) nor more than Forty (40) registered voters residing in the City at large."

Provisions of existing Article IV, Section 4.4 of the Charter of the City of Charlevoix, to be altered or abrogated by such proposal, if adopted, now reads as follows:

"Registered electors seeking the office of Mayor or City Clerk shall file nominating petitions bearing the bona fide signatures of no fewer than Twenty-five (25) nor more than Forty (40) registered voters residing in the City at large."

O. That Article IV, Section 4.7 of the Charter of the City of Charlevoix, if approved by the electors shall be amended to eliminate the first sentence of Section 4.7.

Provisions of existing Article IV, Section 4.7 of the Charter of the City of Charlevoix, to be altered or abrogated by such proposal, if adopted, now reads as follows:

abrogated by such proposal, if adopted, now reads as follows:

"The City Clerk shall be elected at the annual general election for a two year term effective for the term commencing January 1, 1982, and thereafter, by the balloting of the electors of the City at large."

AMENDMENT

A City Charter Amendment proposed by the City Council to amend Article II, Section 2.11, Article III, Section 3.8, Article IV, Section 4.4 and Article IV, Section 4.7 of the Charter to provide for the appointment of the City Clerk by a majority vote of the City Council instead of providing for the election of the City Clerk and for eliminating the provision for establishing the compensation of the City Clerk by the local compensation commission.

YES NO

3. The City Clerk shall forthwith transmit a copy of the proposed Amendment to the Governor of the State of Michigan for his approval, and transmit a copy of the foregoing Statement of Purpose of such proposed Amendment to the Attorney General of the State of Michigan for his approval, as required by law.

4. A proposed Charter Amendment shall be, and the same is hereby ordered to be, submitted to the qualified electors of this City at a General Election to be held in the City on Tuesday, the 6th day of November, 1984, and the City Clerk is hereby directed to give notice of the election and notice of registration therefor in the manner prescribed by law and to do all things, and to provide all supplies necessary to submit such Charter Amendment to the vote of the electors as required by law.

5. The proposed Amendment shall be submitted to the electors in the following form, to wit:

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO SECTIONS 2.11, 3.8, 4.4, AND 4.7 OF THE CHARTER OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX TO PROVIDE FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF THE CITY CLERK BY A MAJORITY VOTE OF THE ENTIRE COUNCIL INSTEAD OF PROVIDING FOR THE ELECTION OF THE CITY CLERK AND FOR ELIMINATING THE PROVISION FOR ESTABLISHING THE COMPENSATION OF THE CITY CLERK BY THE LOCAL COMPENSATION COMMISSION.

Shall the City Charter for the City of Charlevoix, be amended to read as follows: Article II, Section 2.11, Article III, Section 3.8, Article IV, Section 4.4 and Article IV, Section 4.7 be amended to provide that the City Clerk shall be appointed by a majority vote of the entire Council for an indefinite term and removing the provision for election of the City Clerk and provision for establishing the compensation of the City Clerk by the local compensation commission?

YES NO

6. At the General Election the City Clerk shall have the proposed Charter Amendment posted in full in a conspicuous place in each polling place.

7. The canvass and determination of the votes on said question shall be made in accordance with laws of the State of Michigan and the Charter of the City of Charlevoix.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that Resolution No. 14-75 is hereby repealed.

Resolved this 16th of July, 1984

Portside Art Fair is Aug. 4 and 5 at Elm Pointe

The 22nd Portside Art Fair will be held at Elm Pointe, on Highway M-66 just north of East Jordan, on Saturday and Sunday, August 4 and 5. Saturday hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday hours are 1 to 5 p.m.

Doris Huckle, who is publicizing the event, reminds art lovers that there is plenty of parking space at Elm Pointe as well as a limited amount of docking space for boats.

A special feature of this Art Fair is its proximity to the Portside Museum, where many regional artifacts are displayed. "People can easily visit both the Art Fair and the Museum," Mrs. Huckle points out.

Water colorist Elaine Wetherford of the Belvedere in Scottsdale, Arizona will return to show several of her works of art. She is a favorite exhibitor at the fair. Home made pies and ice cream will be available for purchase. Elm Pointe.

Potters hold first family reunion

A Potter family reunion, their first ever, was held July 9th at the Barnard Grange Hall, in the midst of the area where many of those attending had grown up.

Richard Potter, 88, the youngest of five brothers and three sisters and Mrs. Henry Nellie DeYoung, 87, were the two living representatives of that generation.

The remaining 224 attending were second, third and fourth generation descendants of the five brothers.

John, Hiram, Henry, Edward and Richard, and their three sisters, Mrs. Frank Libby Brock, Mrs. George Hamilton and Mrs. Albert Mary Klooster.

There were 38 second generation descendants representing all eight branches of the family. Representing the Brock family branch were Aaron, John, Jim, Harry, Alice McClanathan, Jennie VanPolen, Mrs. Jake (Ida) Brock and Lucy Hoffman.

Representing the Hamilton branch was Harvey Hamilton, his wife and family.

Representing the Klooster branch were Jake, Jennie, Hiram and Grace.

Representing the John Potter branch were Margaret Davis, Jessie Cunningham and Mrs. Janice Potter Tubman and their respective families.

Representing the Hiram Potter branch were Ernest, Agnes Warner, Garrett, Clara Bogard, Junior and Franklin, being all the surviving children and their respective families.

Representing the Henry Potter branch were Hattie Hoeksema, Jennie Hoffman, Lucille Himebaugh, Mildred Himebaugh, and Frances Ward, who with their respective families, joined their mother, Nellie Potter, for the day.

Representing the Edward Potter branch were Bessie Wilbur, Allan, Geneva Throop, Anna Jeltima and David, being all the surviving children, and their respective families.

Representing the Richard Potter branch were Harry, Marian Heeres, Eldon, Jean Cunningham, Robert.

New play by MSU professor tells colorful story of B.I.'s King Jesse Strang

A new play which chronicles part of the life and career of one of Michigan's most colorful legislators, James Jesse Strang, will have its premiere at Michigan State University.

Written by John Baldwin, MSU professor of theatre, "Strang! King of All the Nation!" will be performed Aug. 1-4 at 8:15 p.m. on the Summer Circle Festival Stage located on the banks of the Red Cedar River south of the Auditorium. Admission is free.

"Strang," Baldwin points out, was founder of the city of St. James and was known as the "Mormon King of Beaver Island," a title he bestowed at his self-coronation July 8, 1850.

Baldwin made an extensive study of Strang's life. This meant poring over old newspaper accounts in the Detroit Daily Advertiser, the Detroit Free Press and volumes of two newspapers edited by Strang, the Michigan Northern Islander and the Wisconsin Voree Herald.

On Beaver Island, a Strang biographer, Doyle Fitzpatrick, assisted Baldwin in turning up additional source materials.

Then came the formidable task of selecting stageworthy incidents in Strang's life to form the major scenes of the play.

Baldwin includes Strang's self-coronation, and also his polygamous scheme to preserve his first marriage by disguising his first plural wife (his second wife) as his male secretary, whom he called "Charles Douglass." "Charles" and Strang went to church meetings in Boston, Baltimore and New York, where their scheme narrowly missed detection.

In another scene, King Strang aborts an impending attack from non-Mormons on Beaver Island by firing a real cannon toward them during the traditional Fourth of July celebration in 1850. Baldwin, near the end of his play, even includes a battle at Pine River (now Charlevoix) which erupts over the enforcement of Mormon laws. Action of "Strang" is set in 36 different locations and has a massive cast - 31 in all. Many of them are prominent figures in the Lansing community. Featured in the title role of Strang is media personality, Howard Lancour, whose previous theatrical roles have included Willie Loman in "Death of Salesman", and Elwood P. Dowd in "Harvey".

Also featured in leading roles are Joyce Ramsay as Elvira Field Strang, the second wife, and William Helder as George Adams, a church elder. Kay Hickey plays Strang's first wife and Deake Pipes is cast as Ezekiah McCulloch, leader of the anti-Strang faction on Beaver Island.

Costumes are by Kay Baldwin and sets by Frank Rutledge.

James Jesse Strang played by Howard Lancour is crowned "King of Beaver Island" by George Adams an elder in his church played by William Helder. The docu-drama will be performed on the Summer Circle Free Festival Stage on the Michigan State University Campus, Aug. 1-4.

Water quality is topic for lakes conference

"A Citizen's Role in Water Quality Protection" is the theme of this year's Inland Lakes Conference. The Conference is sponsored annually by Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council and will be held on July 28 in Indian River. Admission is free and the public is invited.

Dr. John Gannon, previously of the University of Michigan Biological Station at Douglas Lake, is this year's Keynote Speaker. Dr. Gannon was responsible for water quality research and educational programs (known as Project CLEAR) in this area during the 1970's. Dr. Gannon is now working on Great Lakes water quality issues for the International Joint Commission out of Windsor, Ontario. "Many local residents will remember John Gannon's work, particularly on Burt, Douglas, Crooked, Lakes, and Walloon Lakes," states Dan Fisher, President of the Watershed Council. "We're very pleased to have him back as our speaker." Dr. Gannon still owns a summer home on Mullett Lake.

The Conference will be held at Inland Lakes School, located in Indian River on old 27 just north of the M-68 west intersection and across from Burt Lake State Park. The conference begins at 1:15 p.m. and adjourns at 4:30 p.m.

Following the keynote address, Jim Bricker who specializes in limnology (lake studies) will discuss water quality of the areas' lakes as well as monitoring efforts. Then Tom Lagerstrom, who has experience in building non-profit organizations, will introduce the topic of strengthening lake associations. Gail Gruenwald, who's specialty is environmental law, will speak on how citizens can use local zoning to protect water quality. Conference attendees will then choose to attend one of three panel discussions. The topic choices are: 1) lake water quality protection, 2) strengthening lake associations, or 3) local zoning. Participating in the panel discussions will be local residents who have experience in the subject.

"The Conference is designed to help local residents learn about water quality and realize how they can take an active role in keeping the lakes and streams of the region clean and beautiful," states Carol Magee, Executive Director for the Watershed Council. For more information call the Watershed Council Office at 347-1181.

Stage set for 26th edition of Waterfront Art Fair

It's an annual event. It lasts but one short day. Yet it effects one whole community, over 155 artists and thousands of visitors.

The Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair, celebrating its 26th year, on Saturday, August 11, is the premiere event of the summer, not just for Charlevoix, but for everyone it touches.

A carefully juried show, the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair brings visual artists, painters, ceramicists, jewelers, sculptors, and artistic photographers, to the incomparably beautiful waterfront park in the center of Charlevoix.

On Saturday, August

11, the park will be filled by 10 a.m., the fair's official opening time, with art collectors and buyers from around the midwest. Gallery owners will be scrutinizing artists' works. So, too will be the thousands of people who plan their vacations around the Charlevoix Art Fair. They will all leave reluctantly at 5 p.m.

Many people come to Charlevoix not only to buy art, but to visit what amounts to a one day outdoor gallery, displaying one of the most varied and excellent collections of art assembled in any show.

Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair evolved to its present status through years of careful planning by an indefatigable team of volunteers. In early spring the art fair committee begins viewing slides submitted by would-be exhibitors. The jurying process is "blind" — slides are viewed without names.

By art fair day, the park has been painstakingly mapped out, each artist has been assigned a specific exhibition space and programs printed. Charlevoix, already festive, just because it's summer and the town's three lakes (Michigan, Charlevoix and Round) are full of boats and swimmers, pulls out all the stops for visitors and artists.

To many artists Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair is not only successful in terms of sales, but has proven to be an ideal spot from which to launch public careers. Such well known artists as Pat Custer Dennison, whose ceramic paintings are generally only seen in one-person shows, credit Charlevoix for their initial exposure and recognition.

Dennison gave up the art fair circuit years ago. Yet last year she and many others who had gotten a start at Charlevoix returned for the nostalgic 25th Anniversary. Now fair organizers report, many of those "old timers" had such a good time they asked to come again this year.

Jim Millar sculptor of metal fountains had similarly left the art fair world. Again this year, Miller is traveling from Texas just to show in Charlevoix.

Established and new younger artists, exhibiting together at Charlevoix create a stimulating atmosphere of art. The range of art forms, the variety of media, the many styles, each contribute to the excitement of the day.

Among this year's exhibitors are: Hannelore Fasciszewski, an award winning and internationally acclaimed creator of non-functional porcelain;

Louis Torres, a self-taught welder of large metal sculptures;

Corinne Workmaster, an artist who builds white-on-white dimensionalized paper paintings; Steve French, a watercolorist whose work has been evolving its own impressionistic style;

Frank and Mary Anne Ettawageshik, potters whose functional stone-ware work reflects an Oriental influence; Gordon Freedman, a photographer who as a producer for ABC-TV's 20-20 has discovered some rare and exciting subjects; Henry Benson, an internationally acclaimed impressionistic watercolorist; and a multitude of other fine artists.

The impact of Charlevoix's Waterfront Art Fair on its host community is vividly apparent. Not only do such artists as Russell and Susan Bolt, Bonnie Staffell, Barbara Godwin, Norman and Judy Brumm, and Jerry and Lindsay Aydtott exhibit at the fair, but because of the fair they have chosen to make the Charlevoix area their permanent homes. Thus, visitors to the fair will also find many exciting studios, galleries open to them and an opportunity, before and after the show, to see many of the exhibitors at work.

Fudge is the tie that binds — binds one Charlevoix family to Juneau, Alaska and St. Thomas, Virgin Islands.

It all started when Charles and Betty Bergmann visited Juneau some years ago and noticed there were no fudge shops or candy kitchens. So, a little later when son Alvin was looking for a business, the Bergmann family set up the first fudge shop in Juneau.

It was so successful that they looked around for another location and found it while visiting St. Thomas. It just happened that a candy kitchen was for sale and the Bergmanns bought it almost overnight. So they owned two shops at opposite ends of the United States and its territories.

The St. Thomas shop did not make real American fudge; it was a soft, pan-molded candy. Now, its fudge is made on American-style marble tables out in the open so tourists can squash their noses against the windows and watch the kneading and cutting process just as they do in Charlevoix.

The Bergmanns' St. Thomas shop is located in a new shopping center near a dock where the cruise ships stop. Most of its business comes from people on the cruise ships because, as Betty explains, most of the natives have not yet found their way to the area.

What kind of fudge do people look for in St. Thomas? "Well, they're always looking for islandy things. We make a coconut fudge and also a pina colada with pineapple, rum, and coconut," says Betty.

The Bergmanns have a rather complicated schedule of who is where when. Last fall, winter, and spring, Betty spent ten months in St. Thomas. Husband Charles took a leave of absence from his job at Harbor Industries to spend four months with her. Son Alvin and wife Debra closed their Juneau shop and spent about five months in St. Thomas during the winter. Now they are operating their shop in Juneau.

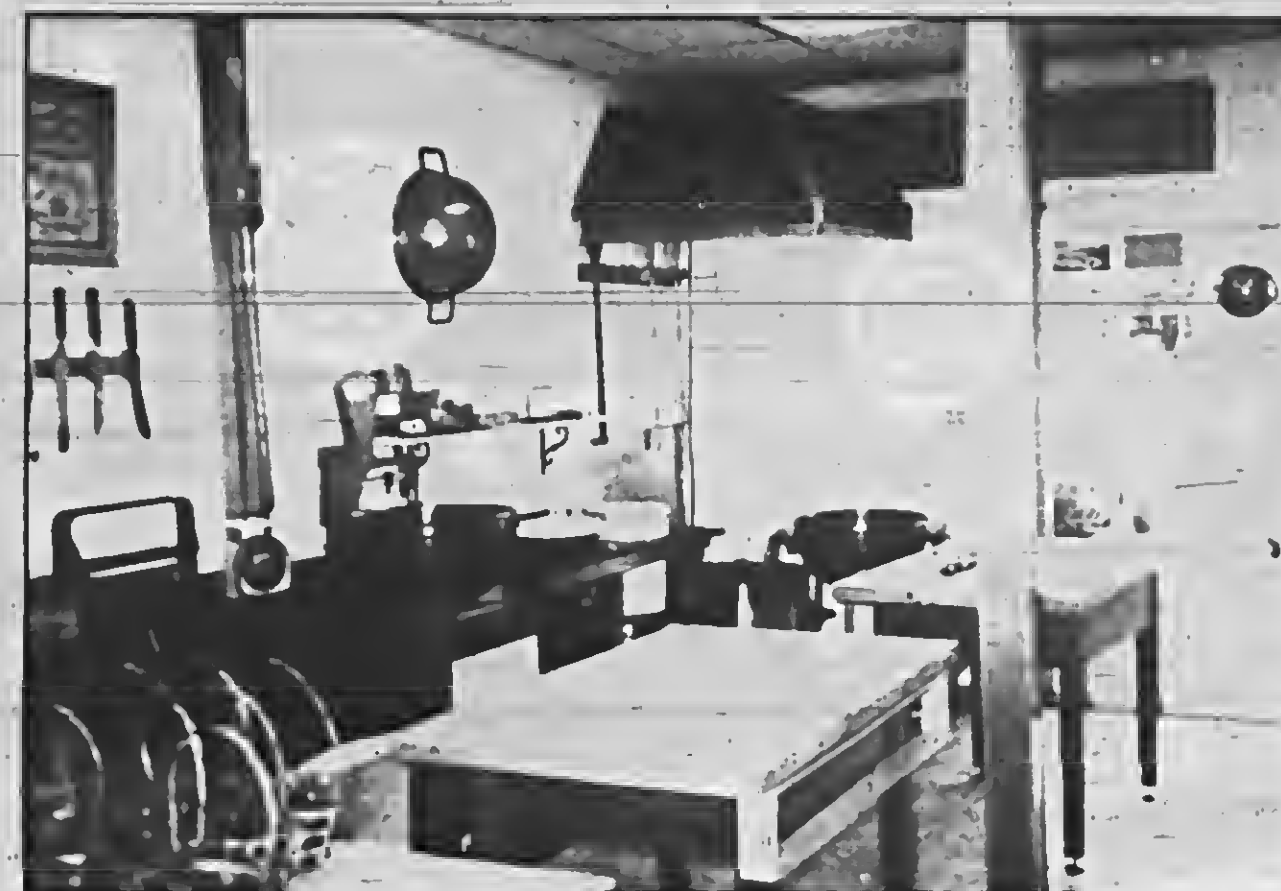

Betty has been home in Charlevoix since late spring, leaving operations of the St. Thomas shop to three employees. She hopes to be able to stay here through September so she can see the leaves change, something she missed last year.

"I like the weather in St. Thomas in the winter," she explained, "but in the summer not even the nights cool off."

Needless to say, Betty Bergmann is enjoying her summer in Charlevoix.

The marble tables used for making fudge should look familiar to most Charlevoixans.

Polo match at Windmill Farms will

All the pleasures of about riding and horsemanship, all the satisfaction of hitting the ball, and all the intricacies of teamwork combine to make polo the prince of games.

That name was given the sport by Winston Spencer Churchill, and during August, Northern Michigan will have its first Churchill was talking Richard Krueger, hospital administrator.

Financial contributions and donations have always been a very important method of keeping the quality of health care up," he said.

"The need for new technology is becoming more important, while at the same time we are increasing our efforts to reduce the cost of health care," Krueger said.

Last year, Charlevoix Area Hospital spent over $200,000 on new equipment, most of which has improved the quality of patient care and hospital efficiency, the administrator said. This year, the budget for new equipment is nearly as great.

Ken Swan, manager of Windmill Farm, says he hopes to admit 1,000 people to the benefit match. Ticket prices are $5 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

Following the benefit game, the Louisville Club has scheduled a series of five other matches with clubs from the mid-state region. Those games will be played over a period of two weeks, on a timetable yet to be announced.

Imagine hooves thundering as muscled horses fly at 20 to 40 miles per hour down a 360 yard field, turn on a dime, and maneuver with ballet-like grace to keep their riders in playing position.

Imagine reaching under the neck of a speeding mount with a four-foot mallet to strike a three-inch ball and send it streaking toward the goal.

Polo requires the ultimate in horsemanship, finesse, and gamesmanship. It is intense, exhilarating, and exhausting to play. It is also exhilarating to watch.

"I've seen two polo games in my life, and I've never forgotten them," Swan says. He hopes the '84 series will grow into a decade of summer polo for benefit Charlevoix Area Hospital

Northern Michigan.

It has taken nearly a decade to get the sport here. For seven years, the Louisville Club searched Northern Michigan just the right spot to play polo during the weeks when it's too hot to play in more southern climates.

Swan offered the club a high country playing field, with vistas that reach all the way to the Upper Peninsula on a clear day. The birch-ringed site and Swan's own enthusiasm for horses, sports, and the out-of-doors, won the day for Windmill Farm.

"Most polo clubs are located in urban areas," Swan says. "This country setting is something they dream about."

"I'm just glad I could let everybody up here see what polo's about," he said. "The game is beautiful, exciting, and dangerous. When those horses run, the ground shakes. It's really something to see."

Spectators sit on their cars to watch the game. Picnic lunches and tailgate parties are all part of the fun. Phillips's Mill, the new restaurant at Windmill Farm, will cater to the lunches of cold sandwiches, lemonade oriced tea.

Polo is played very much like hockey. Two opposing teams, comprised of four players each, try to drive the ball through their opponent's goal. Polo is played in six periods, called "chukkers." The word is derived from the East Indian word, chukka, meaning period of time. Play is so rigorous, horses are changed between each chukker, requiring each player to keep a stable of at least four horses.

Teams decide by lot which goal they will defend. Ends are changed after each goal is scored.

The mark of a good polo player is his ability to hit well on all four corners of his pony. Since a player mounts from the left, the pony's left is termed the "near side." The Pony's right is the "off side." The four fundamental strikes are called the off side forward, off side backhand, near side forward and near side backhand.

Members of the Louisville club will bring their ponies to Lake Charlevoix Farms about a week ahead of the Charlevoix Area Hospital benefit game and begin working with them on the playing field at Windmill Farm.

"If you want to talk to a player, pet a horse, find out more about us and polo, or just say hello, come mingle with us," says J.D. Cooper, president of the Louisville Polo Club.

"Don't be bashful," Cooper says. "We are a friendly bunch and our enthusiasm is contagious."

Third Annual Charlevoix Home Tour

The 3rd Annual Charlevoix Home Tour sponsored by the Charlevoix Chapter of the Kappa Sigma Sorority was once again a successful venture. Claudia Koenig, co-chairperson of the event, says that the sorority hopes to make the tour a regular event.

This year's tour had a definite theme: "The Home." As delighted visitors viewed their waterfront condominiums and three lake-front homes during the course of the afternoon.

The tour included the Charlotte Stettes Dunes condominium designed by architect Jack B. Brown. With its Mediterranean look, stained glass windows and mirrored bed alcove, the unit boasts a spectacular view of Lake Michigan. Overlooking Round Lake, the Harbor Club Condominiums conceived by Douglas Bath and developed by JAH Development, M.C., the Bill and Jeanne Martin and John and Carol Hisey units are unique, each in their own way. The Martin condominium in its shades of coral and pink and unusual decorating touches, the Hisey unit with its neutral tones and cathedral ceiling.

The Rosenthal home, situated on Lake Charlevoix, is the combined result of the Rosenthals and architect Hans Weimer's talents. The home emits a feeling of spaciousness and is graced by an inviting entrance courtyard. Cedar Creek on Water's Edge on the South Shore of Lake Charlevoix is a log cabin home decorated in appealing warm tones which speak of comfortable country family living. The solar heated contemporary Sooy home designed by architect David Troutman incorporates the Sooy's love of the outdoors with their obvious appreciation for fine furnishings.

An additional attraction on this year's tour were two yachts — the "Annadale," a research vessel converted to a family yacht, viewed at Cedar Creek at Water's Edge and the Martin's 1956, '48' Chris-Craft yacht.

In appreciation for those who offered their time and talents for the success of this year's tour, a cocktail party was held following the afternoon's activities at Grey Gables Inn.

Special thanks are extended to Village Car Care and Fisher-McKeown Ford for the use of the vans used in transporting tour participants to the Sooy home to Karl's Bakery who assisted in providing refreshments at the Rosenthals, to Traver Wood for his artists renderings of the homes, to Terry Salmonson for the photographs used for the drawings, and to Sue Bolt for the poster design used to advertise the Home Tour.

British Virgin Islands

The Beautiful British Virgin Islands

by Meg Brown
Bayside Travel

"If you want gambling and hustle and bustle with hot night life this is not the place to come — but, if you want perfect weather and wonderful beaches and glorious sailing this is the best spot on earth." So spoke the chairman of the British Virgin Island Tourist Bureau as he accompanied myself and ten other travel agents on our voyage by ferry from Road Town, the main town on the island of Tortola, to Peter Island Hotel and Yacht Harbor.

After spending last weekend in the British Virgin Islands, I concur enthusiastically with this gentleman's commentary, but I would add one more attribute of this area — friendly and gracious people.

From the air, the British Virgin Islands look like the scattered pieces of a green jigsaw puzzle floating languidly in a sea of luminous blues. They are edged by slim white beaches and giant boulders lined with palms and flaming poinciana trees. Their interiors rise into sudden hills studded with great cacti, prickly pear, golden century plants. But natural beauties aside, the thing you notice first about the British Virgins are the boats — tri-masked schooners and graceful ketches, speedy little Boston Whalers and rainbow striped catamarans, gorgeous old square riggers and trim Sunfish. They seem to be everywhere, rushing across channels breezing into bays, blowing into quiet coves. For sailors, these waters are out of a dream — 1,300 square miles of sea swept with steady breezes and curving into sheltered coves that are perfect for overnight anchorage. The B.V. Islands are home to the Caribbean's largest bareboat (i.e. sail yourselves) charter fleet, with an impressive collection of boat renting operations, provisioning outfits, and friendly, knowledgeable folk who make setting up a crewed or on-your-own sail admirably easy.

Tortola the largest island with a population of 9,000 is the business and shipping hub of the B.V.I. Road Town, the capital, offers interesting shopping and pleasant places to wine and dine. Sales Tax free, there are good buys on British China and the Caribbean-made jewelry, labrics, crafts. As well as rum, pepper sauce and B.V.I. Native recipes. As we wandered down the original winding, narrow streets of Old Town, we were reminded that pirates once walked here.

A smaller magnificent island in the B.V.I., Virgin Gorda named for the "fat virgin" its hilly silhouette resembles, is a dramatically scenic, blissfully peaceful island. It's marvelous, mysterious caves formed over the decades by rocky, boulder coastlines referred to as "the bathes" are a natural, and beautiful phenomenon which brings tourists back again and again.

Most of the accommodations on the islands are small and intimate. The Peter Island Hotel and Yacht Harbor — recently purchased by the Michigan-based Amway Corporation. But most of the hotels and motels are owned by individuals who make their homes on these islands, and seem dedicated to provide comfortable, and intimately, friendly resorts where the owners mingle with the guests. This cordial and caring atmosphere coupled with natural beauty and longer stay — come join me!

is cooled by the ocean breezes, makes the B.V.I. a glorious vacation haven.

Northwood Chamber Players Concert at Good Hart St. Ignatius Church

The Good Hart St. Ignatius Church is the ideal place for chamber music to be played says one musician performing there during the Northwood Chamber Players concert series opening Thursday July 26 at 8 p.m. in the historic building.

The two concert series features a music repertoire for the small ensemble. This year's musicians are flutist Darlene Drew, violinists Karieta Karieta and Rosemary Maloney, on viola is Anne Clough, cellist Crispin Campbell and on harp is Anne Preau. Three of the string players are members of the Interlochen String Quartet.

The first program includes the works of Mozart's Quartet in C for Flute and Strings, No. 1, Op. 40, No. 1, and the first movement of the String Quartet No. 1, Op. 40, No. 1, by Beethoven. The second program includes the works of Beethoven's String Quartet No. 1, Op. 40, No. 1, and the first movement of the String Quartet No. 1, Op. 40, No. 1, by Beethoven.

Tim Harbaugh: Reusch Jewelry In-Gallery Showing

Reusch jewelry, of Petoskey, announces an in-store gallery showing Wednesday, July 26-August 8, featuring the original jewelry of Tim Harbaugh. Michigan sculptor and metalsmith Harbaugh's one-of-a-kind items to be displayed include 14-k gold earrings, pendants, rings, and pins. There will be 30 pieces of jewelry in all, ranging in price from $55 to $4,000.

Harbaugh received his Master of Fine Arts degree in 1982 from Michigan State University in East Lansing, where he now resides. His work has been exhibited in Gallery One of Petoskey (1975), the Colorado Art Show in Denver (1976), the Mid-Michigan Show in Midland (1974, 1978), the Lansing City Hall Annual Exhibit in Lansing (1978), Jacobson's Annual Sculpture Show, East Lansing (1980), the Graduate Student Exchange in Kalamazoo (1980), and the Master of Fine Arts Show at MSU (1981).

Harbaugh's work was commissioned by Michigan State University in 1982 on a painted steel construction for the campus, and by Ferris State College in 1980 for a painted steel construction. He has also been commissioned by various private individuals.

Permanent Hair Removal

If you have a bothersome or embarrassing hair problem, you're not alone. Superfluous hair is a problem that may affect as many as 90% of all women to some degree.

Hereditarily, medications, the birth control pill, stress and normal hormonal changes are contributing factors in unwanted hair growth.

Electrolysis is the only permanent method to remove troublesome hair. The process was invented over one hundred years ago by Dr. Charles E. Michael.

In electrolysis a very fine probe is inserted into each hair follicle then an electric current is applied. The dermal papilla, which gives rise to the hair, is destroyed, loosening the hair in the process. Then the hair is lifted out of the skin.

Other methods of hair removal provide only temporary relief to the problem of unwanted hair, some methods even compound the condition. Waxing and tweezing sometimes distort the hair follicle, making permanent removal more difficult. Clipping and shaving, though tedious, are safe temporary methods. A woman tweezing facial hair will probably be pulling the same hair again in the next ten to twelve weeks. Any hair growing back before then would be different hairs.

Excess hair is a major beauty problem that no woman needs to suffer. Liberate yourself from the tedious and discouraging regime of short-term hair removal by consulting with a professional electrologist. Electrolysis should be considered a first step in your beauty program.

Venetian Fest will be weekend of color, fun

FIREWORKS OVER ROUND LAKE marks the traditional end to Saturday's Venetian Weekend festivities. The fireworks will be held immediately following the Venetian Boat Parade and can be viewed from anywhere in the Round Lake or Pine River Channel vicinity.

People visiting Charlevoix this weekend will be able to enjoy everything for the festival-goer - carnival food, musical talent, swimsuit, gown, and interview competition. The pageant will include entertainment by pianist Dan Large, former Detroit radio personality, and mime artist, Ron Grow. Tickets are $2.50 for adults, $1.25 for children under 12 and are available at the door.

Traditionally one of Michigan's top summer events, Charlevoix's four-day Venetian Festival will draw thousands of people to the city. The festival promises to live up to its reputation by providing everything for the festival-goer - carnival food, musical talent, swimsuit, gown, and interview competition. The pageant will include entertainment by pianist Dan Large, former Detroit radio personality, and mime artist, Ron Grow. Tickets are $2.50 for adults, $1.25 for children under 12 and are available at the door.

the candidates for individual interviews, join the candidates for dinner at Grey Gables in and adjudicate the contestants during the pageant at the Charlevoix High School gymnasium before making their final determination of who will wear the crown as Miss Charlevoix 1984.

The contestants themselves will name "Miss Congeniality". The contestants are Kimberly Curtis, 19; Katherine Dillon, 17; Tonja Eakes, 17; Dianna Loder, 17; Tina McSawby, 17 and Melissa Sandahl, 17.

Mrs. Zoerhof is widely known in this area for her appearance as a soloist and in various roles with the Little Traverse Community Theatre, Young North Americans and Bay View musicals. A native of Petoskey, she has studied at the Bay View Conservatory of Music and has a Bachelor's Degree in Applied Music from Michigan State University. She teaches piano and voice and is soloist and director of the Children's Choir at the United Methodist Church in Petoskey.

Mr. Heffron is known in music circles as director of the Traverse City High School band for the past 19 years and elsewhere as executive director of the National Cherry Festival since 1979.

Prior to moving to northern Michigan from Chicago and becoming a teacher in the Petoskey School System, the third judge, Beverly Holden had been active in radio, theatre and television since the age of six years. As a performer and/or writer, she was associated with the live television shows such as "Playhouse 90" and "Studio One" and, in Chicago, appeared on the "Don McNeill Breakfast Club", "Picture Playday" and "Kukla, Fran and Ollie". Since living in the north she has been an active member of the Little Traverse Civic Theatre, for the past 14 years—and performed with the Bay View Summer Theatre. She recently directed the LTCT production, "A Streetcar Named Desire."

In the Queen's Pageant to be staged at 8 p.m. Thursday, the contestants will open with the production of "Reaching for the Stars" dressed as space cadets in a song and dance routine. During the show each will make solo appearances during talent presentations and swim suit and evening gown appearances.

Beth Jones, 1983 Miss Charlevoix, will be crowned the event by crowning her successor.

Appearing on the program will be Vincent Chew and Fran Tollas, well known area soloists, and Don Large of Petoskey, former radio personality with WJR in Detroit and presently is director of his own Chorale in Northern Michigan.

$500,000 bond is for city's share of water plant

by DAVE KNIGHT

With no primary races for city offices featured in the upcoming August 7 election, City of Charlevoix voters will have only one local ballot question to decide next Tuesday.

A $500,000 general obligation bond proposal is being put to the voters with the primary purpose of funding the city's share of a lake water treatment plant.

When it decided to place the bond proposal on the August primary ballot, however, City Council made it clear that a plant capable of providing 3 million gallons per day will be built - with the necessary city cost participation - whether or not the general obligation bond issue passes Tuesday.

The advantage to the city, according to city hall officials, is that by seeking voter approval (required for general obligation bonding), a more favorable interest rate may be realized. Council could still issue limited obligation bonds, without voter approval, to fund the city's share of the project.

The decision to put the bond proposal on the August ballot rather than wait until the November general election also had to do with interest advantages. With speculation that interest rates will continue to escalate in the coming months, council opted to obtain early approval to secure the present rates.

Kim Curtis crowned Miss Charlevoix at pageant

Kimberly Curtis, 19, 5'3" blue-eyed blonde, was crowned Miss Charlevoix 1991 Thursday night during the Miss Charlevoix Pageant held before a record crowd of approximately 1,000 at the Charlevoix High School Gymnasium.

The daughter of Jack and Katie Curtis and a Ferris State College business administration student, Queen Kim received her crown from the 1989 Miss Charlevoix, Beth Jones.

First runner-up was Dianna Loder, 17, daughter of Gary and Hazel Loder. Missy Sandahl, daughter of Gerald and Gertrude Sandahl, was named Miss Concinnity by her fellow contestants.

"I'm excited, thrilled. It was unexpected but I'm really happy," Queen Kim said following the coronation ceremony.

For her talent, Queen Kim presented a mid-Eastern dance.

Lois Hodgson was the producer of the pageant whose theme was "Reaching for the Stars". She said of the pageant and the contestants, "I enjoyed working with the girls. They were a fine group. I am proud of them."

Pat McKeown served as Master of Ceremonies for the program which also featured Vincent Chew who sang a medley of songs

Young Kim Keller wowed the crowd with a lip-synched version of Kate Smith's "God Bless America".

It is my perception, based upon my varied experiences in our local court system that litigants should be treated with dignity and respect and that turmoil, especially in divorce cases can be avoided. Mediation techniques can and should be utilized to avoid costly litigation and embarrassment to litigants and swift and sure punishment should be dealt out to convicted criminals as the best deterrent to crime. Township tax appeals tax county equalization staff

by PEG OILIE

Several members of the Charlevoix County Equalization Department recently spent their working week in Lansing defending the County Board's equalization of property values in Peaine and Boyne Valley Townships before the Michigan Tax Tribunal.

The townships had petitioned the Tax Tribunal to hold a hearing to decide whether the valuations of the County of Charlevoix as determined by the Equalization Department were "improperly equalized and proceed to make deductions from the valuations of real property classes so as to determine the Township real estate levels to the average level of assessment of the other units of Charlevoix County...and into conformance with constitutional township had appealed the assessment of residential and commercial property, but its arguments for residential assessment were dismissed during the hearing. Boyne Valley Township had appealed the assessment of industrial, commercial, and timber cutover as well as residential, but withdrew its appeal on residential.

Awaiting the Tax Tribunal's decision, therefore, are Peaine Township's assessment of commercial property and Boyne Valley Township's assessment of commercial, industrial, and timber cutover. It is expected that the Tax Tribunal's opinion will not be known for four to six weeks.

The Charlevoix County Board raised the 1984 Peaine Township Board of Review assessed value of residential property from $7,794,760 to $8,407,180 and the value of commercial property from $60,600 to $63,382.

The County Board raised the 1984 Boyne Valley Township Board of Review assessed value of commercial property from $5,055,091 to $5,248,000; the value of industrial property from $28,100 to $29,097; and the value of timber cutover from $62,100 to $62,048. However, the County Board lowered the Township Board of Review assessed value of residential property from $10,718,000 to $10,444,824.

Richard Reed, an attorney in the Kalamazoo law firm of Bauckham, Reed, Lang, Schaefer and Travis represented the two townships at the hearing. Samuel McKim, an attorney with the Birmingham law firm of Milley, Canfield, Paddock and Stone represented the County.

Charlevoix County Equalization Director, Joan Blanchard, her assistant, Carla Spencer, and three other members of the Equalization Department: Tom Wolf, commercial-industrial appraiser; Floyd McCracken, appraiser; and Judith Hamill, appraiser, attended the hearings for five days by subpoena.

The boat that made Boston famous.

Times can't choose to have one legend. Legends are born only when a large number of people agree that something great is in 25 years the unsinkable Whaler Spat 13 has been the boat that has meant fun on the water to America. Fishing, skiing, dining or just messing around it's fast, rugged, stable and unsinkable.
And it's from the Coast Guard to two generations of kids have learned they can count on it. Come in this weekend and meet America's Number One boating legend.

Opinion

Knight on the Town

At least they're talking

Many local sportsmen watched the largescale plantings earlier this year of chinook and other game fish species in the area with a skeptical eye.

A comment heard often was that it made little sense to plant huge numbers of fish while the problem of gill netting, a factor allegedly involved in the depletion of stocks in the first place, was still unresolved.

It appears, however, that in the year since Dr. Ron Skoug assumed the directorship of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, substantial progress has been made toward a settlement of the Indian fishing rights controversy.

Last week saw a significant development in the form of an agreement between the state and tribal officials that will result in the closing of gill net fishery at Lake Michigan to Indian gill netters as of August 15.

There will be one section of the lake including Grand Traverse and Little Traverse Bays, however, in which crews from the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians will be allowed to continue fishing. That section is delineated by a line from Good Hart to the tip of the Leelanau Peninsula, south of which fishing by the Grand Traverse Band will be allowed.

Members of the South St. Marie and Bay Mills Bands, the other two tribes involved in the treaty fishing dispute, will not be allowed to fish the area for the rest of the year.

Quoted in the Traverse City Record-Eagle, Assistant State Attorney Stewart Freeman said, "The significance of the agreement cannot be lost. We came up with an order that many people said was impossible. It is proof it can be done...that all the user groups can live together in peace."

The agreement, in its entirety, outlines detailed regulations for whitefish management units in Lakes Superior and Huron as well as Michigan. A report issued in June by state, federal and tribal biologists concurred that whitefish stocks were being seriously depleted in the areas fished most heavily by both commercial and tribal crews.

The Indians wanted to gradually diminish the fishing pressure in the Great Lakes with first sports fishing being closed down and then commercial fishing. That would have left the fishery to the Indians alone in the months of August, September, October and December but not November when the fish are spawning.

The state didn't like that idea, though, and came back with the aforementioned pact. The clause allowing continued fishing in that area by the Grand Traverse Band probably had the most to do with eventual acceptance of the agreement by tribal attorneys.

As for the Beaver Island area, all Lake Michigan waters south of the Beaver archipelago will be closed to gill netting from August 15 through the remainder of the year. In the immediate Beaver Island waters, gill netting will also be halted August 15 but will be allowed to resume in December after the November spawning period.

Obviously there is still a long way to go before everyone is happy. But the fact that both tribal officials and the state are talking and actually agreeing on some points is a good sign.

Tax hearings

Commissioners were also in Lansing for part of the hearings: Don Smith, Tom Breakey, and Lee Moerland, members of the County Board's Equalization Committee; and Oral Sutcliffe and Larry Matthew. Obviously, it is going to cost Charlevoix County considerable money to defend its equalization practices, not only for the lawyers, but for the living expenses of County representatives while in Lansing. The township will not get off easily, either. Peunne Township supervisor Richard Burris was in Lansing, as was Boyne Valley Township supervisor Joe Tymoc, and they, too, will have to pay their lawyer.

As Mrs. Blanchard says, "In an equalization hearing, nobody wins. The taxpayer loses."

Mouse replies

To: Mary Keem
From: A. Nony Mouse
Via: The Charlevoix Courier
Dear Mary:

Sorry, no apology, but the comments are respectful. A. Nony is almost never written by one who does not witness the event—this was true of the Second Annual Women's Classic. Nevertheless, unpaid ghost writers are few and far between and that particular ghost writer merits special defense.

1. No one submitted any info on the results despite my request in the column the week before the event—that's why it wasn't covered a week earlier. I "drafted" the individual, who happens to be the husband of one of the rather successful female skippers of that race (and knows the seriousness of the racers) the night before deadline—one full week later! 2. He prepared, on short notice, the complete coverage as printed, edited only by the addition of "Ms." On rereading, the only comments that would seem to provide any grounds for offense would be the references to the legs over the rail or the tea break. If those trouble you, think of what some of the Wednesday Night Skippers put up with in these columns.

3. He thought all the skippers and crews did a great job in the strong breeze; sorry it didn't read that way to you.

Mary, please be kind to those who do contribute to this poor column: A. Nony is speaking into microphones in the North Channel, so another Ghost-Writer has penned the epistle on this week's sports page.

Vote yes

To: The Editor
I am writing as an employee of the Northern Michigan Community Mental Health Board to provide the young public with some information regarding a ballot proposal which will appear on the August 7, 1984 primary ballot. This proposal concerns the Mental Health Board's withdrawal from the Municipal Employees Retirement System (MERS). Both the Board and the staff are in favor of this withdrawal, and are seeking a YES vote. In fact, the question was put on the ballot in response to employee request. The employees would like a voluntary system of their own choosing that would be better than the current system. MERS is a mandatory system that the employees contribute approximately 4.5% of their income to.

Many questions have arisen over the past few weeks that have been talking to people in the community about this withdrawal. One is the question of why we would want to withdraw from the system, as most people desire a benefit of this type. The answer to this is that we are seeking a better system. Another question is whether this would be a greater cost to the taxpayer. The answer to this is NO. Some people have questioned whether we are attempting to withdraw from the Social Security System. Again, the answer to this is an emphatic NO. MERS is not related to Social Security.

Probably the most frequent question, though, is why we are putting this question on the ballot. The reason has to do with laws surrounding this retirement system. A provision in the law requires that the question of withdrawal be put to a vote of the public. Since we are a four county program, the proposal will be on the ballot in four counties. Obviously, the effort involved in educating the public regarding this issue is great.

That is why we are asking the public to vote on August 7 and to vote YES on this proposal. A YES vote is numbered 182 on the Charlevoix County ballot and 170 on the Emmet County ballot. Thank you. Sam Kaufman Director Bond proposal...

Protection Agency announced in May that it would fund 50 percent of a 2 million gallon per day plant and the state indicated that it would provide the other ten percent. The actions were taken as a means to eliminate the trichloroethylene (TCE) contamination of city water first discovered almost three years ago.

State Department of Public Health officials will not license a plant with less than 2.4 mgd capacity, however, and City Council has opted to build a 3 mgd plant to accommodate future growth.

It is the cost of the difference between the 2 mgd plant and the 3 mgd plant for which the city will be responsible.

Just how much the city's share of the plant will amount to has not yet been determined. Present estimates range around $200,000 but, depending on engineering studies due later this fall, that amount could reach closer to the $500,000 figure, according to projections.

Should the city's share be substantially lower than the $500,000 in the bond proposal, council indicated last month that the excess proceeds from the issue will most likely go toward extension of sanitary sewer into the city's north side industrial park.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Steven J. Trent

Hollow - Trent

Deborah Ann Hollow and Steven John Trent exchanged marriage vows on Saturday, July 21, at St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix.

The double-ring rites were read by Father R. Dale Magoon, assisted by Father Robert Humilt.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis John Hollow of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Trent of Hedgesville, New Jersey.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory chiffon fashioned with a lace bodice, Queen-Anne neckline, long, flowing sleeves with lace cuffs, and chapel-length train. Her veil was attached to an ivory lace cap. She carried a bouquet of orchids, stephanotis, and baby's breath.

Karen Sussman assisted her sister as maid of honor, with Lori Hollow, Michele Hollow, and Laura Nelsen assisting as bridesmaids. They wore tea-length gowns of light orchid voile with ivory lace trim and carried bouquets of blue delphiniums, violet statice, light pink asters, and baby's breath.

James M. Trent served his brother as best man. Nicholas Trent, Scott Pickens, and Mark Hollow served as groomsmen.

Organist Marina LaBlance provided a selection of classical music for the ceremony.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the Harbour Inn in Harbor Springs following the ceremony. The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Grey Gables Inn.

Following a wedding trip to Bermuda, the newlyweds will return to their professions. The bridegroom is Manager of Corporate Acquisitions for the Viking Corporation in Hastings, and the bride is a teacher in the Grand Rapids Public Schools. (Photography by Terry Salmonson of Aartvark Studio)

Clockwise

Blue-weed by any other name...

By Bob Clock

I'VE NEVER SEEN "a field of heather, but since driving to Boyne City Saturday I think I know what heather looks like.

Viper's bugloss, a blue-flowered weed common on Beaver Island, appears to be more abundant on the mainland this summer than ever before.

It is so thick along the Charlevoix-Boyne City Road that one field just west of Maple Grove Road appears to be carpeted in blue shag—a sight just as spectacular as the reds and golds of hardwoods in October.

When the Clocks lived on Beaver Island we were intrigued by the course, wavy plants with the showy blue flowers that grew everywhere. Not knowing the proper name, we called them "the blue weeds."

Then one day a canoe full of botanists traveling the northern islands stopped at our house.

"What do you call those blue-flowered plants?" I asked, pointing to a clump of weeds growing near the porch.

"Oh, that's viper's bugloss," one of them answered. "But we just call it 'the blue weed' for short."

So if "the blue weed" is good enough for experts, it's good enough for me. Although "viper's bugloss" has a nice ring to it.

EVERYONE HAS his favorite horror story about the Pine River Channel bridge, which always seems to be open in the summer whenever you're in a hurry to get across.

But traffic was so heavy during the Venetian Festival that the only time you could cross Bridge Street without walking all the way down to the traffic light was when the bridge was open.

There's a positive side to every crisis. If you only look hard enough.

THE FESTIVAL, as usual, was a huge success. Oh, there are a few things I would have changed. The Scottville Clown Band should be required by law to participate in the Venetian Street Parade. Those crazy gentlemen were absent this year and I missed them.

I also missed the Epsilon Jazz Band. Remember how the band used to ride Petoskey's old fire engine, playing Dixieland jazz from one end of town to the other? Then, when the parade ended, the band would march through the Town Parade. Those crazy gentlemen were absent this year and I missed them.

Friday night Judy and I trooped downtown hoping the festival people would have their portable dance floor set up on the lawn so everyone could dance to the music of Al Anderson. But someone forgot the dance floor and no one danced. I flatly refused to gambol on the village green like a sheep.

From the Miss Charlevoix Pageant to the fireworks, the festival was a masterpiece of organization, professionalism to a fault. Isn't it nice to have such competent folks in town?

DSS warns of false child removals

The Charlevoix and Emmet County Departments of Social Services are warning residents of both counties to be alert to anyone attempting to remove children from their homes on the pretext of child abuse.

There have been several reports of persons falsely representing themselves as employees of the Department of Social Services or the Health Department and attempting to remove children from their homes.

On July 25, two women made such an attempt in Millersburg, near Onaway in northern Michigan.

In May, five other incidents were reported in the Beaverton, Sanford, Alma, and St. Louis areas.

Two suspects were involved in the May impersonations, and it is not certain whether one of these suspects was joined by a third in the Millersburg incident or if it was two different people. Descriptions of the four suspects have been released:

The first suspect was described as a white female, 30 to 40 years of age, 5'8" to 5'10", 100-250 pounds, broad full face, large nose, mole on upper lip and lower left cheek. She has yellowed or stained teeth, bad breath, and strong body odor. She uses makeup base only or heavy makeup and is probably wearing wigs as her hair is described from dark brown to strawberry blonde.

The second suspect is a white male, 34 to 40 years of age, tall, heavy, stocky build, black curly hair, bushy eyebrows, large broad flat nose, and round full face. He talks with a southern accent and his right little finger is missing. He dresses in a three-piece suit and has well manicured hands.

He uses Old Spice after-shave lotion and wears mirrored sunglasses.

The third suspect is a tall white female, 30 to 35 years of age, with dark hair. She has a very prominent scar on the right side of her neck.

The fourth suspect is a

RICHARD PAJTAS

Candidate for 33rd Circuit Judge
Speaks Out On The Issues

RAPE:

"Insensitivity to the trauma of rape is a vexing problem. We must stop treating rape as a sex crime... it is a crime of violence. It is the most degrading, severe battery and deprivation of privacy, dignity and equality a person can endure short of homicide. It should be treated accordingly."

PRISON OVERCROWDING:

"I believe that if a person OESERVES to go to prison he or she should be sent there. The condition of our prisons is a legislative problem, not a judicial problem. The refusal to send repeat and serious offenders to prison does not solve the prison overcrowding problem. It creates a more serious problem in the long run if it CONTRIBUTES to the overcrowding situation by failing to deter crime."

CHILD ABUSE:

"Having worked as a juvenile officer and children's worker, I have had the opportunity to observe the devastating effects that criminal sexual conduct has upon children. Many of them bear the psychological scars for the rest of their lives. It is a tragedy. The shocking volume of such crime we must send a message to those who are going to engage in such conduct, they assume the risk of receiving substantial punishment."

SENTENCING:

"The failure to impose a fair sentence INSULTS the victim and OUTRAGES the community. It leaves the criminal free to commit further crimes. We need more and better treatment programs and we should always strive to rehabilitate. However, sentences that lack the element of PUNISHMENT to deter CRIME, degrade the victims and outrage everyone's sense of fairness."

Four different vehicles have been described in these incidents. They include an older model AMC

Gremlin, a dark blue 1975 Oldsmobile or Ford station wagon, a brown

Volvo, and a green Chevrolet. Occasionally, the cars have had some type of shield on the door.

Social Services employees do not remove children under any circumstances.

Since the employees intervene to protect an endangered child they must have a court order and/or be accompanied by a police officer before they can remove a child from its parents' home. Its suggested in such situations that people call their local police department and the Office of Inspector General in Lansing at (517) 373-8485.

A MEMORIAL PLAQUE honoring the late F. Ivan Whitley, a long time member of City Council, has been presented to the city by Whitley's high school graduating class of 1954. Mrs. Elaine Whitley, left, and Pat Ranger, representing the class, are shown with the plaque to be hung in City Hall. Other class members attending a July 21 reunion were Gordon Mott, Robert Miles, Sue Beaudoin Lochner, Cynthia Smith Postmus, Bonnie Brown-Voorhes, Gail Krahmke Evans, Darlene Houck Doctor, Larry Burns, Mark White, James Bearss, Keith Mort, Dick Smith, Dolores Wells Hart, Ken Allison, Carol Paul McPherson, Jerry Paul, Bill Golden, Karen Smith Lewis, Joyce Hardy Ketchman and Marguerite Colburn Trujillo.

This CANDIDATE for CHARLEVOIX-EMMET CIRCUIT JUDGE devotes much of his spare time to helping others and helping his community.

HIS ACCOMPLISHMENTS ARE IMPRESSIVE:

- He has been a member of the board of Northern Michigan Hospitals for 15 years, and is a former chairman of the Board.
- He is a founder and trustee of the Little Traverse Conservancy.
- He is a member and former president of the Little Traverse Regional Historical Society.
- He is past president of the Charlevoix-Emmet Bar Association.

The reason is that he cares about others and he cares about our community.

THIS SAME CANDIDATE has spent his entire life in this area — half in Boyne City, "growing up", and half in Emmet County building a successful law practice. HE IS ONE OF US. HE CAN BE TRUSTED. WE KNOW HIM. HE KNOWS US.

Local team pulls out tourney

The Charlevoix Merchants captured the title in the Ninth Annual Venetian Festival Fastpitch Tournament held here over the weekend under the sponsorship of the Charlevoix Recreation Department. Winning the title was no easy task for the Merchants who found themselves going into extra innings before defeating Spartan Roofing of Lansing 4-3 in 13 innings. The Merchants had won over the Roofers 5-1 in the semi-finals in the way with Charlevoix scoring a run in the first inning. Vic Cerna hit an inside-the-park homer in the third to tie the score. The tie remained until the top of the ninth when the Spartans scored two runs to go ahead 3-1. The Charlevoix Merchants came back in the bottom of the ninth to tie the score and send the game into extra innings. Thirteen became a lucky number for the Charlevoixians who scored the winning run in the bottom of that inning. Jim Potter on the mound for Charlevoix allowed nine hits. Vic Cerna, who hit a homer for his team, gave up four hits. Jerry Casens hit a home run for the Charlevoix Merchants. In their first meeting with Spartan Roofing, Potter pitched a five hit game while Cerna gave up 12 hits. Cerna shut out Butkovich Realty 3-0 in the game that sent Spartan into the finals. He allowed only two hits while Pete Hunter gave up four for the Canadian team.

The finals which went into extra innings was one of four such games in the tournament. Dwight Boss, city recreation director said "It was a great tournament...just about the best we've ever had. There were a lot of close games. It was an exciting tournament." In the first round of play, Charlevoix Merchants shut out the defending champions, Little Caesar's 1-0. Petoskey 1-0; Cheboygan Knights of Columbus defeated Hornepayne 1-0. Little Caesar's defeated Hornepayne Merchants 8-0; Spartan Roofing 3-0 and Budget Rent-A-Car 5-1. Budget defeated Cheboygan 6-3 before Charlevoix Merchants sent Spartan Roofing to the loser's bracket by a score of 5-1. Butkovich Realty won over Cheboygan Knights of Columbus 4-3 and Budget Rent-A-Car 5-1. Travelers 2-0; Cheboygan K.C.'s defeated Hornepayne Merchants 8-0; Cheboygan K.C.'s eliminated Spartan Roofing 4-3. Butkovich Realty won over Cheboygan K.C. 13-11 in the final game.

Wojan atop men's league alone after win

Wojan Aluminum moved into sole possession of first place in the Men's Division of the Charlevoix Slow Pitch League after defeating Juliette-Fireside 12-11 Monday. Grey Gables dropped into a tie for second place after losing to Paul Bunyan Lanes 9-7. The tie places the Lanes in second place with a 12-4 record. Wojan's with a 13-3 record edged Juliette-Fireside 12-11 Monday. Joe Jones had a home run for the losers. Mike Crain, the winning pitcher, allowed 16 hits. Clayton Jones hit in the winning run. The hapless Charlevoix Garbage team, occupying the league cellar, dropped another game, this one a 13-3 loss to the Air Force. Brent Darby allowed six hits to 17 by Bob Smith.

Townhouse wins women's regular season

The Townhouse captured the title in the Women's Division of the Charlevoix Slow Pitch League after defeating Charlevoix Health and Fitness Center 9-3 in the play-off game Tuesday night. The teams had met four times during the regular season with each team winning two games. In the title game, Townhouse hitters took advantage of the 16 hits went into a double elimination tournament.

Ten Hodge's home run was one of the 12 hits Kwikie collected from Sue Barta, the losing pitcher. Vicki Flower, on the mound for Kwikie, allowed eight. In the second game, Bonnie Withrow and Jill Williams allowed 12.

Total candidate's names when there are several candidates for one position; one card is a precinct end card which tells the computer to stop and check the count of ballots it has gone through. The count must tally with the number written in the precinct poll book. If it doesn't, the ballots are run through again, and a search is made for any ballot that might have been lost. The final card is an "okay" card indicating everything is coming out even. Seven of these nine control cards are placed on top of the pile of ballot cards brought to the County Clerk's office by election inspectors of each precinct after the polls close. They are all put into the computer, along with the last two control cards "count" and "okay" which are put at the bottom of the pile of ballot cards. The computer is turned on and it begins counting at the rate of 200 ballots a minute. The number for each candidate, 4,236 votes

ATTENTION MARION TOWNSHIP!!
I am running for Clerk of Marion Township. I feel a time has come for a change and some new ideas. I believe strongly about road improvements and the present pension program. The present board has spent $13,116.88 in the last four years on a pension plan for themselves. I feel this is not a good use of taxpayers money. I would strongly vote against it. If there is anything you would like to see done in the township or if there are any questions please call me at 547-5287. I would ask that you please take the time on August 7th to VOTE for Wilson "Bud" Boss, Republican Candidate for Clerk, Marion Township.

218 Bridge St. represents realization of Warths' dream

by DAVE KNIGHT

How about this story line for a new TV sitcom: Man and wife both quit corporate jobs, sell their home in the big city and move the family to a small resort town up north where they buy a restaurant and plan to run it, even though they have absolutely no experience in the restaurant business before.

Just not believable," a network producer would probably say.

Maybe not for Hollywood but in Charlevoix, the saga is unfolding daily.

Just months ago, Tom and Jane Warth were living the quintessential corporate life in the metropolitan Detroit area. Both were employed in white-collar positions by Michigan Bell and they lived with their two sons in a nice, modern home in Farmington Hills.

Today, however, you will find them worrying not about quarterly reports and inter-office memos but rather about how a spot rot onto a coffee cup or how many peaches go into peach barbecue.

As new owners and operators of 218 Bridge Street, the familiar downtown Charlevoix eatery formerly known as Leutheusers, Warths have completed the 180-degree change in lifestyle. And while the transition has not been without its share of surprises, the early analysis is that they made the right move.

"In the 19 years I spent with Michigan Bell," said Tom, "I had minimal direct reward for any innovation. Any good ideas just got swallowed by the corporation. I found it more and more frustrating and decided it was time to go into business for myself."

With Tom's latent desire to run a restaurant in a resort area and both he and Jane's desire to find a rural community in which to raise their two sons, Charlevoix was a logical choice. But the method by which they discovered Charlevoix was purely coincidental. "I just opened a map of the state and looked for a place for Tom to sail his boat," said Jane. "As we looked along the coastline we saw this little town surrounded by lakes. It looked perfect."

The Warths visited Charlevoix for the first time last September. Lo and behold, a nice restaurant was for sale. By late winter the deal was done and, following a complete remodeling, 218 Bridge St. opened for business on Memorial Day weekend.

"Most people told me to open early in the spring when business is slower and we could learn the routine gradually," said Tom. "But we opened right in the thick of the summer and I think it was good because we were immediately put under the microscope. We were forced to solve any problems in a hurry."

In preparation for his new career, Tom took courses in restaurant management at Oakland Community College over the winter.

Asked if the quick education has come in helpful, Tom said,

"Since we opened, I haven't even had a chance to think about it. Maybe in September or October I'll have a minute to look back in my textbooks to see if what we were doing was right."

Tom and Jane Warth in the renovated entryway of 218 Bridge St.

One of the most difficult parts of managing a restaurant in Charlevoix, Tom has found, is planning staff schedules.

"Having the right amount of staff on hand at the right times is much harder than I thought," he said. "There is such an ebb and flow of customer volume and there doesn't seem to be any steady pattern to it."

The new layout of the restaurant features three dining areas: the cafe nearest the street, the dining room overlooking Round Lake, and the deck atop the building.

The cafe is open from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. five days a week with simple breakfast and lunch menus. On Saturdays and Sundays, a breakfast buffet is served from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m. daily, a light supper menu is available.

The dining room shares the cafe breakfast and lunch menu from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. but from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m. it features a more formal, gourmet menu developed by Chef Richard Kent, formerly of the Star of Charlevoix.

The open-air deck is open from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., serving a first lunch buffet and later a dinner buffet.

One of the most striking features of the remodeling, is the two stories above, is lit entryway off Bridge St. by skylights and which has been opened decorated with colorful up all the way to the roof. Oriental kites.

The main dining room of 218 Bridge St. overlooks Round Lake.

Art auction is for good cause

For an evening of fun and excitement, and a chance to pick up original art works and antiques often at rock-bottom prices, plan on attending the Crooked Tree Arts Council's Fifth Annual Art and Antique Auction on Thursday evening, August 8 at the McCune Arts Center in Petoskey.

Things will get underway at 6:30 p.m. with a preview showing and cocktail party. Auctioneer, Dory Diggs, a real pro, will take the stage at 7:30 p.m. and the large array of quality original art objects and antiques will go on the block.

Many of the items will be on display in the Gallery at the McCune Arts Center, Mitchell at Division Streets. Petoskey beginning Wednesday morning, August 1, through the day of the Auction. Gallery hours are Mondays through Saturdays from 10 till 5.

To mention a few of the early donations - two watercolors by Frances Desloge of Harbor Springs, "French Village" and "Large Plant", a Betty Beeby watercolor, "Night Trees", a walnut box with ash inlay by award winning woodworker Tom Clark of Traverse City, a watercolor titled "Spring Rain in the Afternoon" by Harbor Springs artist Margaret Tvedten who recently won an American Cancer Society invitational competition for a Christmas card design, a signed work by Jean Lau of Bayview, "Harbor House", and a sculpture "Arcadia Reclining" by Walter Midener of East Jordan, former President and Founder of the Center for Creative Studies who was honored this year as the sculptor giving the most significant contribution to the arts and his field in the State of Michigan.

Also to be auctioned off will be numerous other lithographs, oil paintings, pieces of antique furniture, batiks, a hundred year old quilt, a piece of Brumm sculpture, a stained glass panel, jewelry and numerous other items. A golf weekend at Boyne Mountain and other donations from area businesses will be interspersed with the art works.

At 10:00 p.m. the $10,000 Grand Prize will be awarded.

The Auction for the Arts is always a fun party, and all proceeds go to assist the Crooked Tree Arts Council in its work in the arts throughout Emmet and Charlevoix counties and in the operation of the McCune Arts Center in Petoskey. Further information on the Art Auction, for which there is a $2.50 admission, can be obtained by calling 547-4337.

TWO DOZEN INFANT CAR SEATS were donated to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department last week by the Charlevoix Lions Club and Erber-McKeown Ford. Scott Beatty, left, president of Lions, turned over half of the new batch of seats to Sheriff George Lasater while Pat McKeown of Erber-McKeown Ford provided the other half. The seats will be available to area residents for a deposit fee which will be returned when the seat is turned in. Michigan state law now requires that children under 4 years old be restrained in an approved child seat while riding in cars.

Antique autos will be on display the weekend of August 11 and 12 when the Boyne Country Region of the Antique Auto Club of America sponsors its 11th Annual Antique Auto Show and Flea Market at Veteran's Memorial Park in Boyne City on the shores of beautiful Lake Charlevoix.

Cars will be judged on Sunday only with 45 trophies awarded at 3 p.m. Car registrations will be taken until noon on Sunday.

One of the vehicles featured at the show will be a 1923 Gray Depot Hack, above, owned by Judge Harvey Varnum of Boyne City.

There will be food on the grounds and free spectator admission both days from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

First woman ensign on Mesquite "doing fine"

There's a new ensign aboard the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite which calls Charlevoix its homeport.

So what's new about that, you ask. The answer is easy: the name is Monique Foster and she's the first woman to be assigned to the buoy tender which as a crew of 52 officers and men is commanded by Lt. Cdr. Robert E. Young.

A native of Rochester, N.Y., Ensign Foster was among the 14 women in a class of 194 who were graduated from the U.S. Coast Guard Academy at London, Conn., in June.

Ensign Foster said she has found the duty much as she expected. It is her first experience aboard a buoy tender, she said. Her previous training aboard ship had been on larger ocean-going ice breakers. She said she is treated much as any other officer aboard the tender, has assigned duties as anyone else and carries them out as any other officer would. She said she takes a bit of good natured kidding but, she added, "That's to be expected."

Lt. Cdr. Young said that she is "doing fine. About what I'd expect of any new ensign. She has been aboard nearly a month, carries out assigned duties of a new ensign and shortly will become qualified to stand under way watches just as any new ensign would."

Pact reached with teachers

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education has tentatively reached an agreement with the Charlevoix Education Association, according to Max Novak, president of the board.

Novak made the announcement following an hour-long executive session of the board Monday evening.

Novak would not reveal details of the proposed contract, which has been in the negotiating stage for several months, but said that it will likely be ratified at the next meeting of the board scheduled for August 20.

In other action, the board accepted bids on two projects, designated a representative for emergency funding, approved the math curriculum recommendation made by the math curriculum committee and hired a cheerleading coach.

Two bids for the work on the parking areas at the high school were received. The bid from Manthel Development Corp. the lower of the two, was accepted.

The parking lot improvement project will entail the rebuilding and resurfacing of the lot area south of the gymnasium, the service entrance, the May St. entrance and the area at the front of the high school including the entry at the main level and across at May St.

The Manthel bid was for $181,388 for the entire project.

A second bid of $188,462 was submitted by Hodgkiss & Douma. The deadline for completion of the project is Sept. 3. Arthur A. Rancier, engineer for the project, recommended that the entire project be done as a package rather than piecemeal. He will be overseeing the project on behalf of the school district.

The parking lot work will be financed with funds remaining from the 9 mill levy for 1989 years for renovation of the high school plus approximately $40,000 from the general fund.

The second bid approved by the School Board Monday night was for construction of a 20-foot by 40-foot addition to the school bus garage on May St. Four bids for this project were received.

The bid from KeyStone Construction of Charlevoix for $10,350, the lowest of the four, was accepted. Other bids ranged as high as $13,972.

In other action at the meeting, Mrs. Joyce Ketchman was named cheerleading coach. She succeeds Mrs. Marcia Trimmer who recently resigned after five years in the position.

The Charlevoix County Emergency Services coordinator was designated by the board as its fiscal agent to act on behalf of the district in applying for funds in case of a natural disaster or emergency.

The math curriculum committee presented a copy of its recommendations to the board following research and study of the existing curriculum. The object of the study was to coordinate the math curriculum from kindergarten through the twelfth grade. The committee was commended for a job well done.

Board President Novak named his committees for the coming year.

MEMBERS OF THE Louisville Chapter of the Kentucky Polo Association are shown in action, above, just as they will be Saturday at Windmill Farms for an exhibition match to benefit Charlevoix Area Hospital. The 1 p.m. game will christen a new polo field at Windmill Farms which will also be the site of a series of games to continue over the next two weeks. See Knight on the Town, page 4.

County Planning Commission initiates study of Lake Charlevoix's future

by PEG OHLE

Lake Charlevoix is located entirely within the boundaries of Charlevoix County. It is an integral part of life in the County, from its harbor of refuge and recreational facilities to the locations it provides for year-around and seasonal cottages, houses, and condominium units.

What happens to Lake Charlevoix in the future is, therefore, of great importance to everyone in the County. Many government agencies and private groups have begun expressing the thought that a comprehensive assessment of the lake and adjacent lands should be made so there would be a solid basis for decisions on lake uses.

To this end, the Charlevoix County Planning Commission has decided to play a leadership role in conducting a study of Lake Charlevoix and its shoreline, and to help coordinate the efforts of all units of government concerned with the future of the lake. This would include townships as well as County and State agencies. The Commission is applying for $12,500 in Coastal Management funds to make the study.

Two particular concerns seem to need immediate attention, according to a Planning Commission statement.

The introduction of large numbers of salmon into the Jordan River and Medusa Creek will necessitate more launching ramps, parking lots, fish cleaning facilities, marina slips, etc. How many additional facilities will be needed and where should they be located? How much boat traffic can Lake Charlevoix handle, with sailboat races, ocean-going freighters, and fishing boats all vying for the same body of water.

The conflict of private property rights and the rights of the public to use and enjoy the surface water area is on-going and was the subject of a recent Department of Natural Resources decision denying construction of a large marina to be sold on a condominium basis, with deeds to the bottom lands being provided to the purchaser of each slip.

And, over all, is the concern that excessive use of Lake Charlevoix in any number of ways could adversely affect the water quality of the lake.

The Charlevoix County Planning Commission has set up a 10-phase outline for its study of Lake Charlevoix. It begins with the establishment of an advisory committee consisting of one individual from each community having Lake Charlevoix frontage, one member from the County Board of Commissioners, and one member from the Lake Charlevoix Association.

The Planning Commission will conduct an attitudinal survey of County residents to learn how they feel about lake-related issues; it will collect data on land use adjacent to the lake; current usage of the lake; water quality; environmental matters; and existing laws and policies (zoning, among others).

All of the data will be analyzed to determine shortcomings and voids that must be considered in further development of both Lake Charlevoix and adjacent land. Alternatives will be developed for lake and land uses, based on environmental data and responses to attitudinal surveys.

Eventually, the Planning Commission will release the draft copy of a Management Plan which will include listings of current and possible future conflicts, environmental data regarding the ability of Lake Charlevoix to handle additional development, and to what extent.

The final phase will consist of working with municipalities to incorporate recommendations into their plans and ordinances, and to recommend changes in State laws and policies as appropriate from time to time.

SAILBOARDS WERE IN PROFUSION at Ferry Beach over the weekend as a major Weyer Sailboard regatta attracted boarders from all over the country for races, clinics and other events. See the Summer Shorelines section for more on the regatta.

Big Rock emergency plan is first in nation to be approved

by PEG OHLE

Consumers Power Company proudly announced last week that its Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant has become the nation's first nuclear plant to receive full approval from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) for its emergency preparedness plans.

There are 77 nuclear plants in the United States. The emergency preparedness plans ensure that the appropriate emergency responses will be carried out by Big Rock and State and local agencies in the event of an accident at the plant. Full approval of the plans was made possible by the recent FEMA certification of Charlevoix County's emergency alert and notification system, which consists of 12 emergency sirens located within a five-mile radius of the plant and eight tone-alert radio receivers located at radio station WYOY-KHQ, the Charlevoix Area Hospital, and other facilities.

The siren system, which is tested the first Saturday of each month at noon, was installed by Consumers Power but activation of the system is the responsibility of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department. The sheriff may also use the system in the event of a natural disaster or other emergency.

At a small gathering last Friday, David P. Hoffman, Big Rock plant superintendent, personally thanked several local officials for their hard work in making the FEMA approval possible: County Commissioner Lee Moerland, Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater, Emmet County Sheriff Richard Zink, and Preparedness Coordinator Earl Muma; and Emmet County Emergency Preparedness Coordinator John Thiesen. Lt. James Tyler of the Michigan State Police Emergency Management Division was also present and received thanks for his agency's participation in preparing the emergency preparedness plan.

Officials of Consumers Power point out that Big Rock Point has always had an emergency plan, but a more elaborate plan was required by the Federal government following the accident at Three Mile Island. Approval of Big Rock Point's new plan came only after several years of exhaustive planning and testing to ensure that the system would work if it should ever be needed with the hope expressed

On hand for ceremonies Friday marking FEMA approval of the Big Rock emergency plan were, from left, Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater, Charlevoix County Board Chairman I. Lee Moerland, Emmet County Sheriff Richard Zink, Charlevoix County Emergency Services Coordinator Earl Muma, Big Rock plant superintendent David Hoffman, and Emmet County Emergency Services Coordinator John Thiesen.

New game in town

Tell your buddy that you're going out to see a couple good chuckers this weekend and he'll probably thank you for it to Tiger game.

Wrong.

Chukkers - six of them - are the periods of a polo game. Most Charlevoix area residents can be excused for missing that question in Trivial Pursuits since polo is not what one would call a common staple of the local sporting scene.

This changes Saturday, however, when the Louisville Chapter of the Kentucky Polo Association stages a benefit game at 1 p.m. for the Charlevoix Area Hospital at Windmill Farms. The benefit will initiate a series of games between the Louisville club and other Midwestern teams to be played at the Windmill site over the next two weeks.

According to Ken Swan, manager of Windmill Farms, games are scheduled for Wednesday, August 15, Saturday, August 18 and Sunday, August 19.

At least two semi-loads of polo ponies are due to arrive Wednesday at Lake Charlevoix Farms where they will be stabled during the two-week series.

A healthy supply of horses is essential since players ordinarily change mounts between each 7½-minute chucker. That is one indication of the fast pace of the game. Most players like to have a stable of four horses on hand for a polo game.

Teams are made up of four players to a side. The object is to a whack a willow-wood ball through the opponents' goal with a four-foot bamboo mallet while astride a horse running from 20 to 40 miles an hour.

A regulation polo field is 300 yards long and 160 yards wide with the goal posts 24 feet apart at the two ends of the field.

Swan is hoping that the new polo field he has recently completed, and which will see its first action Saturday, will be the home for a regular summer series of polo matches.

Such future planning depends to a large extent, of course, on the acceptance of the unique sport by the public. Thus Swan urges local residents to check out the action this weekend. Tickets are $5 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

People can either pack a lunch and tailgate at the game or enjoy some refreshments by provided by Dave Phillips of Phillips Mill.

Letters from our readers

To the Editor:

The Charlevoix Woman's Club, and the community, remembers. Remember, not only our dearly loved member, Ethel Wiesinger, whom we lost last spring, but also, all of the members and friends who have contributed books, and hours of selling assistance during the fifteen years the Club has held the Annual Book Sale.

At the time the Club was founded in 1969, Mrs. Charles Bellinger became its president; you will find her selling this year too. In 1969, Mrs. Robert Martin, president and a committee of civic minded members decided that our native American children in the Charlevoix area needed more encouragement to participate in, and retain their interest in local school activities.

Thus, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Charles Duerr, Mrs. Robert Barnum and Mrs. Hewitt Johnston created CHICO (Charlevoix Indian Children's Opportunity). This fund, a trust, continues to be administered by Mrs. Martin and Mrs. William Brady, working in conjunction with the Woman's Club.

To raise money for this purpose, the first book sale was held, and so continues annually. Marg Duerr chaired the original event, and has had the dubious honor of holding this position more often than any other member.

Ethel Wiesinger, whose memory we cherish today, could coax more workers, beg more books, and manipulate her friends into spending more money than following chairman would dare dream of doing, served in the capacity three times. One of her sales produced the largest sum ever celebrated.

With the example of these two, Marg and Ethel, it seems a hard pattern to follow.

During the administration of Julia Leedy Baer in 1974-76, it was voted to expand our service, and in those two years, the sale supported also, the construction of the Lake Michigan Waterfront Park.

Since, other community youth and civic needs have been added to the list of Woman's Club contributions. The current president, Mrs. Ivan Witthoft, and the sale chairman, Ed and Julia Leedy urge you to browse and buy at the library, Friday and Saturday, August 10 and 11, 10:00 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Congress is running out of time

by Congressman Bob Davis

Time is growing short for Congress to take action on several key issues which have been on the minds of legislators this year, yet have not been dealt with this session. With a shorter session than usual because of the national political conventions and the election-year campaigning recess, Congress is under pressure to deal with several major issues that need to be resolved.

The first of these issues, immigration reform, has been studied by both the House and the Senate. There are differences, however, in the two bills that need to be worked out in the conference committee. This piece of legislation is vitally needed and the problem of illegal aliens in the United States needs to be addressed now. With the increasing number of aliens entering the country illegally every year, more American jobs are being taken away by those willing to work for a minimum wage.

Unemployment is one of this nation's most serious problems and we cannot sit idly by and let people cross our borders illegally and steal American jobs from American workers. The U.S. Border Patrol and the Immigration and Naturalization Service report that they apprehended over one million illegal aliens last year and yet estimate that they were able to catch only between 25 and 35 percent of those crossing the border illegally. At one southern California border crossing, the Border Patrol has apprehended 40,000 people per month so far this year. The main provision of the bill deals with sanctions against those employers who knowingly hire illegal aliens. The type of sanction to be placed on these employers is one of the differences that will need to be worked out by the conferees. A second difference is the criteria for amnesty eligibility for those illegal who have been in the country for many years.

A second issue that Congress will be dealing with is Central American aid. The House and Senate have not yet agreed on what type of aid and how much to offer. Incorporated in a foreign aid authorization bill, the House has approved military aid for both El Salvador and for anti-government guerrillas in Nicaragua. Opposition in the Senate to Nicaraguan aid makes passage of the aid bill uncertain. The fact that President-elect Duarte was in Washington recently convincing legislators of his hopes for a democratic government may help pave the way for continued aid at least to El Salvador.

The third major issue that both houses of Congress must deal with concerns Department of Defense authorizations. Both the House and Senate versions of the authorization bill are now in the conference committee, with a few differences yet to be ironed out. One of the major controversies has been the authorization for the MX missile program. While the President had originally requested funding for 40 missiles, the House Armed Services Committee reduced this number to 30. The full House further reduced the funding to 15 and added language to prevent the money from being spent until April, and then only if Congress voted to release the money. This was added as an incentive for the Soviets to get them to return to the bargaining table. The Senate version of the bill funds 21 missiles and has no language specifically aimed at bringing the Soviets back to the table.

These three issues are not simple, however, there is only a short amount of time left for legislators to take action.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Otmanowski

Axford-Otmanowski

Jennifer Axford and Kenneth Otmanowski exchanged marriage vows on Saturday, June 16, at the home of the bride's parents in Gaylord.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Axford, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Otmanowski of Charlevoix.

The Reverend Charles Hewitt officiated at the double-ring ceremony in a white gazebo decorated with hanging baskets of pink geraniums.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a Victorian wedding gown of chiffonette, fashioned with a long train and a floor-length veil with blusher. Her headpiece was a floral wreath.

Amy Axford was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a pink dotted Swiss floor-length gown and a straw hat with a wreath of flowers. She carried a basket of mixed pastel flowers. Other attendants were Kathleen Oswald Forsythe, Mary Kaye Rugg, Ann Marie Dreffs, and Dianne Axford. They wore gowns similar to that of the maid of honor except in shades of lilac, yellow, peach, and blue.

Six-year-old Lindsay Keskinne served as flower girl wearing a pink dotted Swiss dress with a white eyelet pinafore. She dropped rose petals along the bridal path.

James Stowe of Charlevoix served as best man. Other attendants of the bridegroom were Steven Otmanowski, Jeff Peters, John Mason, and Dwight Dyksterhouse. Ushers were Chuck Otmanowski, Joe Otmanowski, Jeff Axford, and Bill Axford. Ringbearer was Jay Estelle.

Music for the ceremony was provided by harpist Ellabeth Forsythe and vocalist Don Meyer. A reception at the Charlton Township Hall followed the ceremony. The rehearsal dinner was held at the Holiday Inn.

Following a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., the newlyweds are at home in St. Louis, Missouri, where the bridegroom is employed as a mechanical engineer at McDonnell-Douglas Aircraft. Both he and his bride are graduates of Lake Superior State College.

Engagements

Penny Leitner and Ronald Beck

Leitner-Beck

Mrs. Patricia Young Leitner of Charlevoix announces the engagement of her daughter, Penny Lee Leitner of Bloomingdale, Illinois, to Ronald E. Beck of Chicago. He is the son of the Reverend and Mrs. Dallas J. Beck, Sr. of Lupton City, Tennessee.

The bride-to-be is also the daughter of Carol B. Leitner of Hart, Chicago. She graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1976 and later attended North Central Michigan College and the College of DuPage in Glen Ellyn, Illinois. Presently she is employed by the Iron Castings Society in Des Plaines, Illinois as a receptionist.

The intended bridegroom is a 1977 graduate of Virginia High School in Bristol, Virginia and a 1983 graduate of Bryan College in Dayton, Tennessee, where he earned a bachelor of arts degree in church music and Christian education. He is presently a missionary for the American Messianic Fellowship in Chicago.

The wedding will take place Saturday, September 15, in the Des Plaines Bible Church.

Himebauch-Matchett

Mr. and Mrs. William Himebauch of Harbor Springs announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Linda, to Tim Matchett. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Matchett of Charlevoix.

The wedding will take place August 18 in the rose garden of the home of the bride's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Woland of Charlevoix.

The bride-elect is a 1976 graduate of Charlevoix High School. She later attended North Central Michigan College and is now employed by the Sunset Dairy Farm.

Her fiancé is a 1976 graduate of Charlevoix High School, 1978 graduate of North Central Michigan College, and 1980 graduate of Michigan State University's Institute of Agricultural Technology. He is self-employed as operator of the Matchett Sheep Farm.

JR's Deli is new downtown eatery

by TAMMY CURRIER

Homemade soups, a variety of sandwiches, and fresh whitefish. Not too much in common, right? Guess again.

These are only an outline of the menu items offered at the newly opened JR's Valley Deli.

JR's Valley Deli opened in Charlevoix on June 28 and is located in the Oleson's Shopping Plaza. The deli is owned and operated by Jerry Uhrick, a Charlevoix resident, and is open 7 days a week from 7:00 a.m. to 11 p.m.

The deli offers two to three homemade soups daily, sandwiches, and some seafood, which includes whitefish and shrimp.

"Of the sandwiches offered, said Uhrick, which include pastrami, corned beef, roast beef, roast ham and whitefish, the Reuben would have to be his best selling item."

Uhrick in no way lacks experience in the restaurant business. He has done everything from cooking to a maintenance in such Florida cities as Naples, Sun City and Sarasota, as well as here at the Grey Gables. This experience helped him with his decision to open his own restaurant, he said.

"After having been involved with the Uhrick Cabins here for many years," he said, "I decided to get into something I thoroughly enjoyed."

Uhrick plans to stay open year-round and even plans to introduce lunch and dinner specials to his menu.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ruth C. Egbert, 78, of St. James, Beaver Island, were held Saturday at Holy Cross Church at St. James. The Rev. Gabriel Fox, O.F.M., officiated. Interment was in Holy Cross Cemetery. The rosary was recited at Holy Cross Church Friday evening.

Mrs. Egbert died Tuesday, July 31, at her Beaver Island home.

The former Ruth Conklin was born at Ludington April 19, 1906. On July 7, 1926, she was married to George L. Egbert, Sr., at Ludington. They always made their home in Lansing until moving to Beaver Island in 1978. They had spent the summers on the island for 25 years prior to making it their permanent home.

She is survived by her husband; four sons, George L. Jr., of Jacksonville, Ala., James Frank of Fairfax, Va., Daniel Joseph of Carmichael, Cal., and Lynn J. of Lansing; two daughters, Mrs. Robert (Alice Louise) Scoville of Marshall and Mrs. John (Lynda) Evers of Traverse City; 16 grandchildren; a brother, Wallace Conklin of Brownsville, Tex., and two sisters, Mrs. Bernadette Beverford of Grand Rapids, Minn., and Mrs. Harry (Anne) Louden of Fairmont, W. Va.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

DAVID POTTER

Funeral services for David Potter, 52, of Ellsworth, were held Saturday at the Barnard United Methodist Church. The Rev. Glenn Britton officiated. Interment was in the Barnard Cemetery.

Mr. Potter died Aug. 1 at the Ingham Medical Center in Lansing.

Born in Charlevoix Sept. 11, 1931, Mr. Potter was married to the former Martha Vandenberg in Banks Township Feb. 27, 1953. They made their home on the family farm in Marion Township until moving to Banks Township in 1977. He was employed at International Disk Corp. An avid horseman, he raised and raced Appaloosa horses throughout the state.

Surviving are his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Paul (Vicki) Lindemier of Ellsworth and Mrs. Kenneth (Deanne) Ranville of Charlevoix; two sons, Douglas and Kenneth of Ellsworth; Ernest Erolin who made his home with the family; one grandson, a brother, Allan of Ellsworth and three sisters, Mrs. Bessie Wilber of Charlevoix, Mrs. Wesley (Geneva) Throop of Kaniha, Ida., and Mrs. Richard Jeltama of Grand Rapids.

The family suggests memorials to the Michigan Heart Association.

The Hastings Funeral Home of Ellsworth was in charge of arrangements.

RALPH M. WADE

A memorial service for Ralph M. Wade, 86, will be held at the Winchester Funeral Home at 10:30 a.m. Friday, Aug. 10. The Rev. Raymond Griffin and the Rev. Philip G. Schaibum of the First Congregational Church will officiate.

Mr. Wade died Aug. 2 at the Little Traverse Division of Northern Michigan Hospitals. Born in Bay City May 18, 1898, Mr. Wade was the first deputy commissioner of the Michigan Insurance Commission. From 1933 until 1966 he was affiliated with Michigan Mutual Insurance Co., retiring in 1966 as treasurer and vice president.

He was a member of the First Congregational Church, the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club, Masonic Lodge and the Shrine.

On Jan. 30, 1969, he was married to the former Mrs. Viola (West) Ranger at Birmingham. They made their home in Charlevoix and Florida.

He is survived by two sons by a former marriage, Richard Wade of Chicago and Thomas Wade of Monroe; a step-son, Alvin Ranger of Charlevoix, a step-daughter, Mrs. Virginia Finney-Lahde of Wisconsin; several grandchildren; several great-grandchildren; a brother, Edward Wade of Nashville, Tenn., and a sister, Elsie Wade of Monroe.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club or the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Sea lamprey elimination program now underway on Jordan, Boyne Rivers

The continuing battle against the sea lamprey by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) will soon come to the Jordan and Boyne Rivers.

Sea lamprey control basically consists of eliminating lamprey larvae in streams flowing into the Great Lakes, thereby protecting the Lakes' fish population.

A FWS crew of fishery biologists and technicians with experience in sea lamprey control will arrive from Ludington on July 31 to set up mobile living quarters and laboratory facilities at the East Jordan Tourist Park.

Initial work will include stream velocity and volume measurements, water chemistries, bioassays, and placement of control equipment, according to Robert Norman, supervisor of sea lamprey control at the FWS Ludington Biology Station in Ludington, Michigan. A critical study of stream flow patterns is done with rodamine WT dye, a material that may turn the water a bright pink, but is non-toxic to people, fish and wildlife.

This initial information will then be used to determine the amount of lampricide- (TFM) that will be applied to the stream and the duration of the treatment.

The lampricide, at levels of concentration used in the treatment, selectively destroys lampreys, but is non-toxic to humans, pets, livestock and other animals. Once in a great while, fish kills take place. For example, fish weakened through spawning may die as a result of the treatment, as well as other fish that are weakened by disease, spawning or are unhealthy due to pollution. In addition, any aquatic organisms, such as bait minnows, are weakened by dis-

that are confined artificially in the stream water may be susceptible to the lampicide because of crowding and handling. Those individuals who keep such organisms should consider using an alternate supply of water during treatment.

State fish and game agencies are contacted prior to TFM treatments as are municipalities that use streams as sources of potable water. Agricultural irrigators will also be notified and asked to suspend irrigation for a 24-hour period during and immediately after treatment.

Before development of the lampicide and control program, sea lampreys had virtually eliminated lake trout populations in the Great Lakes. The control program, initiated in 1956 by the Great Lakes Fishery Commission, was begun in tributaries of Lake Superior in 1958. Lake Michigan streams were first treated in 1960, followed by treatment of Lake Huron tributaries in 1961 and Lake Ontario tributaries in 1972.

The Jordan and Boyne rivers were last treated in 1981 and the current effort will be the sixth and seventh treatments, respectively, of the streams since 1961.

FWS records indicate the sea lamprey first invaded Lake Ontario in the early 1800's and subsequently entered Lake Erie via the Welland Canal around 1921. Within a few decades, the lampreys infiltrated the upper Great Lakes and severely reduced the number of lake trout and other fish species.

Repeated treatment of tributaries to the Great Lakes are necessary for control because of the impossibility of eliminating adult lampreys in the Great Lakes. Adult lampreys enter the streams to spawn, after which they die. The larvae live in the stream bottom for several years. Later, as adults, they move into the lake to prey on fish. The control program is designed to remove the larvae in the streams before they can develop into the adult parasitic form. Since the advent of lamprey control, lake trout have survived and are showing promise of becoming self-sustaining through natural reproduction, according to the FWS. Most of the lake trout planted in the Great Lakes are produced in FWS hatcheries.

Sea lamprey control also benefits brook, brown and rainbow trout, and coho and chinook salmon planted by the Departments of Natural Resources in states and provinces bordering the Great Lakes.

The FWS emphasized that the fishery now enjoyed in the Great Lakes is dependent on sea lamprey control, and would soon decline or disappear if the control program were discontinued.

Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners recently spent a day with Michigan State University Cooperation Extension Service field staff and campus specialists to learn more about economic development potential for their local community. The day-long session at MSU's camp WaWaSum, near Grayling, contained several workshops, including forestry management, water quality preservation and recreational fishing development.

The program outlined the kind of educational assistance the MSU Cooperative Extension Service can provide for community economic expansion and management.

Despite light winds and hazy conditions, the Wayler Sailboard Regatta held Friday, Saturday and Sunday on Lake Charlevoix drew over 150 participants from points as distant as Florida, Vermont and California. The racing series was eventually shortened by the lack of wind on Sunday but not before several classes were decided during competition at Ferry Beach Saturday. Up for grabs were stylish, glass trophies, below, which were handed out to winners at an award ceremony at the beach, above. When the wind finally died on Sunday, some racers resorted to kayaking techniques, left, to get back to shore.

"HOW CROWDED WAS IT?" might ask Johnny Carson of the 26th Waterfront Art Fair held Saturday in East Park. Throngs estimated at over 20,000 attended the fair which enjoyed mild temperatures and partly sunny skies. Participating in the juried fair were 175 artists from all over the country, many of whom reported brisk sales at the annual event.

Lake association seeks broader membership with name change

At its annual meeting held August 7 at Whiting Park, the Lake Charlevoix Property Owners Association took two major actions to encourage the initiation of long range planning for development around the lake.

By a vote of about 50 members present, the association formally changed its name to the Lake Charlevoix Association.

Where membership in the association was previously open only to owners of property on Lake Charlevoix, the name change will now allow "anyone who uses the lake or has an interest in protecting the quality of the lake" to become a member, according to Mrs. Bernice W. Goss, president of the association.

Also adopted by unanimous vote was a resolution that "the board of the association) be encouraged to cooperate with other groups interested in the lake to promote a comprehensive plan for the development of the lake by whatever means are deemed necessary." The essence of the resolution.

County tax hearing set

by FRANK MARTIN

A Truth in Taxation hearing will be held at the county building annex at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 23, during the regular meeting of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

The hearing will relate to allocated millage to the county for operational purposes and to voted millage to the Charlevoix County Transit System. A public hearing is necessary, Joan Blanchard, Director of the Equalization Department, explained when a unit of government anticipates generating more revenue than in the previous year.

Also at its regular meeting August 9, the board went on record as opposing Senate Bill 5 which would eliminate future negotiations by the Charlevoix County Road Commission for work to be financed by federal aid on secondary roads in the county. Under the bill, the Department of Transportation would handle the negotiations with

Plans laid for industrial fair to display products, tout role of industry in county

by DAVE KNIGHT

"We feel that too few people understand or realize what industries do for our community and think it's about time that local residents realize that, without our industries, we could not survive."

With that, LoAnne A. Brown, vice president and cashier of the Charlevoix County State Bank, outlined a proposal last week for an industrial fair to be held in Charlevoix this fall.

Brown's comments were made at a Thursday meeting at the Grey Gables Inn of about 30 industrial firm representatives from throughout Charlevoix County.

Tentative plans are to hold the fair Saturday, October 14, using the hallways and gymnasium of the Charlevoix Elementary School.

According to county business coordinator Richard Beagle, who will help organize the event, all Charlevoix County industries will be invited to use ten-foot square exhibit spaces to display their products and provide other information on their firms.

Discussion on the possibility of holding a local industrial fair was initiated earlier this summer during the planning of the CCSB 100-year anniversary celebration, according to Brown.

"We have been asked if this is just another way to promote Charlevoix County State Bank," said Brown. "To some degree, yes. But even before we talked about our centennial promotion, we discussed the fact that industry needed a boost and that's the main reason for doing this. We don't think that people realize the number of people that are employed by industry, the annual payroll that is poured back into the community and the amount of taxes that industry pays."

In addition to providing local industries with the opportunity to display their products, said Brown, an industrial fair would "communicate the opportunities and benefits generated by industry for Charlevoix County."

She added that such an event would "create an atmosphere that will encourage existing industry to expand and attract new industry."

Beagle explained that the industrialists gathered that the fair would be organized much like a trade show and that, while many small area firms have little experience setting up a display booth, his office will provide assistance.

Brown said that the bank will donate a portable sauna to be raffied off for the Charlevoix Fire Engine Fund in return for the volunteer firemen's help in setting up and taking down displays.

The possibility was also discussed of opening the fair on Friday to allow students from all over the county to go through the exhibits as an educational experience.

Industries interested in taking part in the fair are asked to contact either LoAnne Brown at the Charlevoix County State Bank or Richard Beagle at his new office in Boyne City, 582-6482.

Six finalists to interview for city manager's job

by DAVE KNIGHT

Six candidates for the vacant Charlevoix city manager's position will be invited for final interviews by City Council.

The finalists were chosen from a list of nine applicants that were culled by former city manager Robert Hunt from a total of 54 applications received.

Hunt, who resigned the manager's position August 3, did the screening of applicants and checked references as a paid consultant. Following Monday night's review of his recommended finalists at a special council meeting, Hunt turned the remainder of the selection process over to council.

"I am fairly confident," said Hunt, "that we've got a good crop of applicants to choose from."

No names of applicants for the job were released during the council's discussion. Each candidate was referred to by an assigned number to protect applicants' confidentiality.

Council agreed to pay the following expenses for the six individuals to be interviewed:

-Lowest air fare available, if necessary, or mileage if the distance one-way is 200 miles or less.

-Lodging, which will be arranged by City Hall staff.

Council directed city clerk-treasurer James Brinker, who is serving as acting city manager, to start scheduling interviews as soon as possible. Some may be held as soon as this week if arrangements can be made.

City Attorney Jeffrey VanTress addressed the question of whether a council member who has a direct family relationship with a city manager applicant can take part in the selection procedure.

VanTress, who said he had been requested to check Michigan law on the subject, referred to the matter as a "hypothetical case" since the candidate involved, who is one of the six finalists, asked to remain anonymous.

According to VanTress's interpretation of the statute, a council member with either a direct family relationship or "pecuniary" ties to a city manager candidate has conflicting demands and may not participate or vote in the selection process "until such time as the candidate is no longer being considered."

"Further," said VanTress, "Any action taken would be void if a family member takes part."

VanTress added, however, that a council member with a family relationship to one of the candidates may participate in the interviews of the other five.

Council directed staff to request permission for release of names from each of the finalists to be interviewed. Until such permission is granted, council agreed, no further information on the candidates will be disclosed.

Missouri youth, 14, drowns in Beaver Island swimming mishap

A Grandview, Missouri youth, John William West Bennett, 14, was drowned in St. James harbor off the St. James Township Park at Beaver Island Saturday afternoon according to Charlevoix County Sheriff's deputies.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bennett who were vacationing with relatives on the island at the time of the accident.

According to sheriff's deputies, Bennett, with three friends was swimming at the beach during the early afternoon, Saturday.

The three friends were working on a raft offshore when they last saw Bennett, who, they said, was not a good swimmer and did not like to swim in deep water, near the shore. They said when they came in to the beach, Bennett was missing so they went looking for him, first at a friend's house near the beach and later at the residence where he was visiting. When they failed to locate him, they returned to the beach, found his clothes nearby, and starting looking in the water. They recovered the body nearby in 3 1/2 feet of water.

CPR was administered but to no avail. Dr. Leonard J. Siudara, island physician, said death was due to drowning.

The body was flown to the Winchester Funeral Home at Charlevoix and later transported via air from Traverse City to the Carson Funeral Home in Kansas City, Missouri, for services and burial.

The drowning was the first in the county this year.

Charlevoix Yesterday

Edith Gilbert of Charlevoix would like to know if anyone recognizes the girls in this photo which looks like it was taken about 40 years ago.

40 years ago, Mrs. Gilbert's mother, the late Ethel Wiesinger, found the snapshot in a book she bought a few years ago at the annual Charlevoix Women's Club used book sale. Although it is thought that the photo was taken in Charlevoix of some local girls, there is nothing written on the photo to identify them.

Obituaries

EMMA D. COELING
Funeral services for a former Ellsworth resident, Mrs. Emma D. Coeling, 91, of Norwood, were held Saturday at the Belltower Reformed Church at Atwood. The Rev. Larry Groeters of the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix officiated. Interment was in the Atwood Cemetery. Mrs. Coeling died Aug. 8 at Meadowbrook Medical Care Facility. Born in Grand Rapids Oct. 22, 1922, the former Emma D. Teunis was married to William Coeling in Grand Rapids Aug. 15, 1945. They made their home in Grand Rapids until 1922 when they moved to Atwood. They later lived in Ellsworth and in 1964 moved to Norwood. She was a member of the Belltower Reformed Church. She is survived by her husband; two daughters, Miss Ethel Coeling of Majuro, Marshall Islands, and Mrs. Jack (Betty) Walsh of Acme; two grandchildren; three great-grandchildren and a brother, Frederick Teunis of Hallendale, Fla. The family suggests memorials to the Belltower Reformed Church or the charity of one's choice. The Hastings Funeral Home of Ellsworth was in charge of arrangements.

Norwood School reunion set

Plans for a reunion of former students and teachers at the Norwood School to be held on Labor Day weekend have been announced. The event will be held at the former school, now known as the Friendship Hall, a community gathering place, at 1 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 1. A potluck dinner will be served at 1 p.m. It will be followed by a social time for greeting old friends and reminiscing. The meat and beverage will be furnished. For further information call Mrs. William Parsons or Mrs. Stanley Lord.

Drawing on August 31 "Chip-In" cruise will feature $1000 top prize

One thousand dollars is at stake in a drawing to be held aboard the Star of Charlevoix on August 31 during a special benefit cruise for the Chip Counseling Center. Tickets for the first "Chip-In Cruise" are limited to 250, according to Elaine Plackner, executive director of Chip Counseling Center, and cost $70 for a couple and $40 apiece. Each ticket brings a chance for not only the $1,000 top prize, said Mrs. Plackner, but also for several other valuable door prizes ranging from exclusive dinners to chocolate chunk cookies to a one-hour massage. The event will be a moonlight cruise aboard the Star of Charlevoix, leaving the downtown dock at 10:30 p.m. Friday, August 31 and ending at midnight. Reservations for the cruise can be made by calling the Center at 723 Park Avenue, Charlevoix, MI, 49720 or 616-551. Ticket holders need not be present to win the drawing prizes.

Local merchants contributing door prizes include: Brumm's Studio, Charlevoix Health & Fitness Center, Fletch's Imports, the Massage Room, Phillips' Mill, the Rowe Inn, Shop of the Gulls, Stafford's Pier restaurant, the Clothing Company and Tom's Cafe. The cruise will benefit the Chip Counseling Center, a fully accredited counseling center serving Charlevoix, Antrim and Emmet Counties. Elaine Plackner of the Chip Counseling Center is shown in front of the First State Bank's vault with $1,000, the top prize in a drawing to be held on a benefit cruise August 31 for the Center.

Knight on the Town

Soccer Wars

by Dave Knight

Not that it should matter to anyone at all, but the Charlevoix men's soccer team finished out its season Sunday with a perfect slate, 0-6.

Being an itinerant member of the team, I probably should not be the one to file this report; you know, objectivity and all. But that circumstance has never stopped me before.

The Charlevoix men's team plays an interesting version of the game.

"Physical" would be a polite descriptive, "animal" is the word used by other teams in the Northern Lakes League.

Actually, newcomers to the circuit would be interested to know that we have cleaned up our act considerably over the past four years. Time was that we got enough yellow cards (warnings issued by the referee of foul misdeeds) to cover a Rose Bowl field.

One player had a nasty habit of knocking people down, which does happen in a hard-fought game. But knocking people down, grabbing them and lying on them as he was apt to do is definitely not cricket on the soccer field.

What we lacked in finesse, we tried to make up in brutality. "It didn't work very often."

In fact, over the past four years, I believe we won one game. And that took a couple of ringers whom we have not seen since.

What with people working, vacationing and so forth, it's hard to fill a roster some days. We've been known to recruit innocent people standing on the sidelines and teach them the rules during the game. The result of that practice is that no one comes to watch us anymore.

Let's just say that the Charlevoix franchise is in a building stage. There are a lot of good young players in town now so soon we'll have the makings of a contender.

That is, if we aren't booted out of the league first.

Letters from readers

Voting thanks

To the Editor:
The staff and members of the Northern Michigan Community Mental Health Board wish to express their sincere appreciation to the citizens who voted "Yes on the primary ballot proposition allowing us to withdraw from our retirement system. Due to these votes, the proposition was successfully passed in all four counties we serve, thereby allowing us to withdraw from our current system.

We owe you our gratitude for assisting us in our efforts. Thank you.

Harold J. (Sam) Kaufman, Director

LL thank-you's

To the Editor:
We'd like to thank the Charlevoix Community for the great support on the "cheese and sausage" fund raiser, the "corn and sloppy joe" sales at Venetian and the season support at our concession stand.

according to Mrs. Goss, will be to encourage the formation of a coalition among those groups and individuals interested in the future of Lake Charlevoix.

The Charlevoix County Planning Department announced two weeks ago that grant money is being sought for a long range planning project for the lake.

Recent concerns over the future development of the Lake Charlevoix shoreline were catalyzed earlier this summer by a proposal for a 72-slip boat marina at the Hemingway Pointe Club condominium project in Eveline Township. Plans for the marina project have been rejected by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources with the suggestion that an inland marina may be more suitable.

In other action, at the LCPOA meeting Tuesday, Arlene Kuhn and Don Spaulding were elected to the association's Board of Directors.

Election results...

District, incumbent Ralph Ostling easily outpolled two challengers including Charlevoix Mayor Kenneth Staley and Higgins Lake educator May Lance. Ostling's opponent in November will be Peggy Steadling-Diss who beat three other candidates, William Bohl, Jerry Brabant and Jonathan Kurtz in the Democratic primary.

Locally, a $500,000 bond issue to cover the city's share of a new lake water treatment plant was approved by voters in the City of Charlevoix. The bond proposal won in all three wards of the city with a total vote count of 528-383.

In another water related ballot question, Charlevoix Township voters approved by a 183-103 margin, 2 mills for five-years to finance a 120,000 water storage tank now being constructed behind the BMX track at the township's Shanahan Field. See page 13 for complete voting results in Charlevoix County.

Weddings

Horton - Farrell

St. Paul the Apostle Roman Catholic Church in Grand Rapids was the site of the 5 p.m. Nuptial Mass on August 3, 1984, which united in the Sacrament of Matrimony Mary Elizabeth Horton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Horton of Charlevoix, and Daniel Allen Farrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Farrell of Grand Rapids.

Michael Farrell of Grand Rapids was best man for his brother, and the groomsmen were Jeffrey Greger, Battle Creek; David Wright, Grand Rapids; Scott Nicholson, Grand Rapids, and Benjamin Brunisma, Detroit. Ushers were Robert Farrell, brother of the groom, and "Evergreen," "Annie's Song," and "Danny Boy" played by the bride.

Lectors during the Mass were Laura Farrell, sister of the groom, and Brian Van Haren, brother-in-law of the groom. At the lighting of the Unity Candle, Miss Salatz sang "And On This Day" accompanied by William Horton on piano.

During the Offertory of the Mass, he also played "Ode to Joy" by Beethoven as William and Janis Dietrich of Charlevoix, and their daughters, Heather and Heidi, presented the gifts of bread and wine.

The bride approached the altar on the arm of her father. She was gown in a Sassoon design created of white circular chiffon. The portrait neckline formed a deep vee to a bow at the waist in the back. The dress had a satin belt, simple satin ribbon hemline, and a chapel-length train. The matching fingertip-length veil fell from a cap also trimmed in satin ribbon. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses, white carnations, stephanotis, and baby's breath.

Maid of Honor was Robin Brooks, Midland, college roommate of the bride. Bridesmaids were Amy Farrell, sister of the groom; Kathleen Yost Pratt, Reed City, college roommate of the bride; Karyn Schroeder, Austin, Texas; and Susan Simmerman, Grand Rapids, both high school friends of the bride. The honor attendants wore matching dresses of orchid chiffon, designed in the same style as the bride's and carried nosegays of white carnations, lavender statice, lavender daisies, Fugl poms, and baby's breath.

Following the double-ring ceremony, a dinner reception for 200 guests was held at the Deer Run Country Club in Lowell. Masters and Mistresses of Ceremony were James and Donna Stoneham of Charlevoix and Robert and Judy Jazwinski of Grand Rapids. After the dinner, the ten-piece River City Jazz Band played for dancing.

A rehearsal dinner for 45 guests was hosted by the groom's parents on Thursday evening at Brann's in Grand Rapids. Pre-nuptial showers for the bride were given by Barbara

Clockwise

Good show...again!

by Herb Clark

There's no way to tell for sure, but it appears that the crowds at the Waterfront Art Fair are beginning to rival those at the Venetian Festival.

Traffic in Charlevoix Saturday was a nightmare and parking spaces in the valley were at a premium.

During both events, we have made it a practice over the years to leave our cars at home and travel downtown on foot or by bicycle.

Saturday morning, however, we did have a few hefty items to pick up on the other side of town, so we risked a trip downtown by car, hoping to sneak in and out before Bridge Street became bottled up.

The four-block trip back home took 20 minutes, including waiting for several changes in the Clinton Street light and being delayed by the bridge.

However summer is over too soon and complaining doesn't do any good.

It was nice to see so many people in town browsing and buying at the fair.

The fair committee spends long hours of planning and screening entries for the annual event - and every minute of it.

But the day turned into a beauty - as it always does.

I RECEIVED a telephone call Sunday from a neighbor wondering what residents can do about noisy outdoor parties that keep them awake half the night.

I really didn't have a good answer, but told her I'd think it over. Twenty-four hours have passed and I still don't have a good answer.

Certainly the hosts at such parties must know when their rowdy guests have gotten out of hand and that someone is going to call the police if the mayhem continues.

But even the police are reluctant to do more than tell the celebrants to hyper-down. You'll have to admit, such cases would be mighty hard to prosecute, since "disturbing the peace" is a rather vague infraction.

My neighbor is afraid that such parties are going to give Charlevoix a bad name. And she's probably right.

But I still don't have an answer. I suppose such parties are part of the penalty of living in a "civilized" community, instead of out in the boonies where neighbors - noisy and otherwise - are few and far between.

Of course, the city council could pass an ordinance requiring anyone who plans to throw a noisy party to invite everyone within earshot.

County Board...

the work to be done by private contractors thus eliminating the county road commission from doing the work as it does at the present time.

In other action, the board approved the payment of $951 to the firm of Penner, Barney, Hofmann & Gano for services to the county during a recent litigation with the Voters of America.

Approved the transfer of $807 from the County Prosecutor's travel fund to the depleted equipment account to finance the purchase of dictation equipment.

Heard a report by George Ebenhoe, Friend of the Court, during which he outlined the duties and operation of the department. He said that at the present time the office handles more than 1200 active cases.

Heard a detailed report from Larry Sullivan, county planner, relating to the proposed work program relating to the management of Lake Charlevoix. He outlined the proposed plan to be handled by his office. Other interested agencies will work with his office to implement the program. He also advised that the county had applied for a Coastal Management grant in the amount of $12,500 to help financing the plan.

Heard a report from Mike Davis, of the Youth Activities Program and Sullivan on the county's recreation plan for 1984, and the need to update it regularly to remain eligible for state grants.

Heard a report from Charlene Gaskin regarding the new Minutia RP 1824 card reader-printer being installed in the Register of Deeds office. She presented an in-depth report on what the new equipment offered the office and how it would be utilized not only in this office but elsewhere.

She also brought the board up to date on the effort to up-date records. She said there were 3,293 pages of abstracts and another 1,708 pages of mortgages to be recorded to bring the office up to date.

Tag Day raises almost $3000 for Grandvue wheelchairs

A successful Tag Day for the Grandvue Medical Care Facility which netted $2,996 made it possible to order and pay for six new wheelchairs for patients at the facility.

Tag Day is conducted annually in mid-July with the proceeds being used for equipment for the benefit of patients at the facility. Beaver Island residents conducted their Tag Day during the annual homecoming.

At the meeting held Thursday, plans were announced for the patients' annual picnic to be held at the facility at 4:30 p.m. August 23. Members are asked to supply food and to assist with the patients by Rose Nemeo who is in charge of the annual event.

At the meeting Florence Stucker assumed her duties as president. She succeeds Betty Venni of Boyne City in the office.

Mary Hebron of the staff of the East Jordan Health Center, as the guest speaker, related the history of the center which serves nine townships. She said it is one of the few such centers which owns its own property. A total of 23 persons including two physicians and various support personnel including two nurses and others necessary to a successful operation are on the staff. The center is funded by patients' fees supplemented by a federal grant. The latter is negotiated annually thus resulting in a continuing problem. A total of 28,000 persons passed through the center as patients during 1983.

Ms. Hebron said the board at the medical center is presently concerned about the lay-off of counselors who served the East Jordan School system and is hopeful of getting them back.

Phyllis Malpass, auxiliary treasurer, presented an indepth report on the assets of the organization.

Mary Margaret Gester of Charlevoix, membership chairman, reported that the 1984-85 membership campaign is now underway.

Charlevoix County State Bank President Gordon Wellman and the wayward balloon that found its way back home.

Bank balloon back from 500-mile odyssey

When the Charlevoix County State Bank celebrated its 100th anniversary this past June 27 and 28, word of the occasion spread far and wide.

Nobody knew just how far and wide until last week, however.

Bank President Gordon Wellman was surprised to find in his mail one morning last week the tattered remains of a small balloon and a letter on school notebook paper.

The balloon was one of hundreds of helium-filled balloons that the bank had made especially for its anniversary. The name of the bank and the occasion, of course, were duly emblazoned on the white balloon.

The hand-written letter, addressed to the distance the balloon had traveled! We are in Vermilion County, approximately 30 or so miles from Champaign-Urbana.

Nikki walked up to our back pasture hunting horses and found one of your balloons commemorating your bank's anniversary. We then called the sheriff's department to locate Air Mail!

Needless to say, we were surprised all the distance the balloon had traveled! We are in Vermilion County, approximately 30 or so miles from Champaign-Urbana.

Hope you enjoyed this letter. We sure got a kick out of our investigation. Guess you could truly call this "Banking by Air Mail!"

Sincerely, Ann & Nikki Tarter P.S. Happy Anniversary!

Looking at the map, Wellman estimated that the distance covered by the balloon was over 500 miles.

Results of sailboard races announced

The Third Wayer North American Boardsailing Championships were held August 2-5 in Charlevoix.

179 sailors participated in the four day regatta which featured clinics, a tandem relay race, balloon chase, rig roast, musician Corky Siegal and triangle racing for experienced and recreational devotees of the sport.

Additional fun and entertainment was provided by some of the best freestyle trick sailing ever seen in the midwest. The final event was billed as the first true professional sailboard race held in the United States. The competition was open only to doctors, lawyers, veterinarians, architects, college professors and engineers.

The weather conditions were perfect for all outdoor activities except performance sailing (the winds were light and variable). Volleyball, smashball and sunboard towing behind power boats helped to pass the time

The intensity of the game of polo, as shown by the player winding up for a shot at left, requires mounts to be changed at the end of every 7½-minute chukker. Each of the players brings three to four of the specially-bred horses to every game. Above, one of the Louisville players comes in for a fresh horse.

Action at the Windmill Farms polo field Saturday saw a defender, above, back hit the ball away from his opponent's goal. Life as a goal judge can be pretty boring; right, when the activity is all at the other end of the field...but a bucket of spare balls makes a good seat. Fans were treated to some high-speed horsemanship at the exhibition game, below. Among the equipment brought to Northern Michigan by the Louisville club players was a full supply of wooden mallets, left, which are used to hit the ball with the broad side.

School board ratifies new three-year teacher contract

By FRANK MARTIN

The ratification of the teachers' contract, approval of the administrators' salaries and the approval of the Student-Parent handbook of the 1984-85 school year highlighted the regular meeting of the Charlevoix Board of Education Monday night.

The three-year contract remains to be ratified by the Northern Michigan Education Association.

The terms of the contract call for a teacher with a BA degree to start at $15,780 and go to $25,032 at 20 years; a BA plus 20 hours, $16,450 to $27,406; MA, $16,972 to $29,162; MA plus 15, $19,216 to $29,117 (a teacher must be in school system for three years before being eligible for the first step); and MA plus 30, $22,461 to $29,915 (a teacher must be in the system for six years to be eligible for the first step).

The contract also calls for an annual increase through a formula of the S.E.V. (State Equalization Valuation) plus COLA (Cost Of Living Increase), which is then divided by two to determine the percent of the increase.

Administrators' salaries are based on a formula that includes the salary of a teacher with a like degree plus a percentage. In the case of the superintendent, he would receive a salary of a teacher with a like degree plus 20 percent; the business manager and the high school principal, the salary of a teacher with a like degree plus 10 percent; the middle school and elementary school principals, five percent and the assistant high school principal, three percent.

The revised student-parent handbook was presented with Dennis Van Gulder, assistant high school principal, calling attention to the major revisions. These include a ruling regarding any type of clothing that advertises or promotes alcoholic beverages and/or drugs and tobacco products will not be acceptable as school attire; a second regarding periodic cleaning of lockers and the vacating lockers on the final day of school; a third relates to incidents of plagiarism or cheating in which case the student will receive a zero credit for the assignment and could face other disciplinary action or penalties deemed necessary and a fourth regarding requirements for graduation.

Copies of the Student-Parent Handbook go into every home at the beginning of the school year. A parent or guardian receives a page which is to be signed and returned to the school to assure the administration that the parent or guardian has received the handbook.

Kenneth Bartley who heads the adult education program offered at the high school presented a brief report on the subjects being offered this fall especially in the field of computer classes. Inquiries regarding these should be directed to him at the high school.

A list of 14 goals for the 1984-85 school year were presented to the board. The goals represent the combined total presented by board members.

Max Novak, president of the board, was delegated by the board members to mark the ballot for candidates for the Michigan Association of School Boards.

Board members were asked by Novak to visit the three schools prior to the opening of school September 5, to view the work done in the buildings during the summer.

Vincent Olach, business manager, made a brief report on the progress of the work on the parking lots and drives at the high school.

The next meeting of the school board is scheduled for September 17.

City to pay audit surcharges?

City clerk-treasurer and acting city manager James Brinker said Monday that he will be meeting this week with a senior partner in the Petoskey accounting firm of Hill, Woodcock and Schroeder to discuss $4,250 in surcharges made by the firm to the city for additional work on the city's 1983-84 audit.

Eric Peterson, a member of the firm, told City Council last week that the surcharges were the result of extra work accountants were required to do in compiling information for the audit.

A contract for the annual audit had previously been awarded by the city to Hill, Woodcock and Schroeder for $11,800. The surcharges proposed would be in addition to that sum.

Peterson told the council that because of the absence of Brinker, who was required to testify in a lawsuit against the city being tried in Traverse City during the week the accountants were scheduled to conduct the audit, he and four staff members of the firm had to spend additional time compiling the necessary information at City Hall. Former City Manager Robert Hunt, who left the post August 3 for a similar position in Incline Village, Nevada, blamed much of the extra work on the city's outdated accounting system.

One of famed Chincoteague ponies finds area home

By FRANK MARTIN

One legend tells of a Spanish galleon bound for Panama with a ship load of Spanish ponies destined to work in the gold mines of Peru that was blown off course and shipwrecked on Assateague Island off the coast of Virginia with only the ponies escaping the stricken vessel and finding refuge on the island.

Another tells of early English colonists who moved their horses to Assateague in the late 1600's.

It matters not how they got to the island, this much is true: there have been wild horses on the island of Assateague for perhaps as long as two and a half centuries.

Some of that lineage has now made its way to Charlevoix County, courtesy of young Garret Bieshlag.

Only a few feet above sea level, the island of Assateague stretches for 37 miles off the coast of Virginia, Delaware and Maryland serving as a buffer against the Atlantic for the smaller, seven mile long island known as Chincoteague. While the outer island is now federally owned as a national park and wildlife refuge, Chincoteague is populated by sturdy people, many of whom are watermen who seed, tend and harvest their oyster beds. However, the first known industry of the island people was said to be salvaging shipwrecks from Assateague Island, a variable marshland occupied only by wildlife including the wild ponies. Salt grass and myrtle on the higher dunes provide food for them and the low-growing pines and scrub brush provide protection from Atlantic storms.

For many, many years the residents of the smaller island, when they needed work or saddle horses, would cross the narrow channel to Assateague, round up the herd and take the horses they needed.

As long ago as the 1920's the Volunteer Fire Department of Chincoteague has crossed to the larger island, rounded up the wild horses including stallions with their mares and young foals and forced them to swim the channel to Chincoteague Island. Here they were herded through the streets of the community of Chincoteague to specially constructed corrals the last week in July. The following day the foals would be auctioned off and the mares and stallions returned to Assateague Island for another year.

Though this had been going on for years, it wasn't until Marguerite Henry, through the children's books she wrote, books such as "Misty of Chincoteague", "Stormy, Misty's Foal" and others in the same setting brought the story of the islands, the wild horses, and annual Pony Penning and the auction into hearts of children everywhere.

One of these children was Garret Bieshlag, now 11 years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Bieshlag of Ironton. Like Paul and Maureen, the children in the books, Garret, who first read the books when he was in the third grade, knew in his heart that some day he had to have one of these wild, beautiful foals.

With this in mind, Garret started saving his earnings... from gathering eggs from a neighboring farm, helping his father, birthday and Christmas money and even boarding part of his allowance in the hopes of one day have a "Misty" of his own.

However, it wasn't just a matter of money to buy the foal. He had to prove to his parents that he could handle the responsibility of a pony. He did this by participating in 4-H projects and entering them in competition at fairs, all the while going without treats and saving, saving, saving.

Finally, after saving nearly enough to bid on a foal and proving that he was a responsible person, his parents agreed to take him to the auction which has become a major holiday attracting thousands the last Thursday in July.

Garret, a shy youngster, was excited about the venture but it was his mother who said the whole trip was like a "dream come true" not only for her son but for her and her husband as well. "You can't live with this story as long as we have and not be excited about it" was her comment.

The herding of the wild horses across the channel at low tide and through the streets of Chincoteague to the corrals at the fairgrounds was even more exciting than Mrs. Henry described it in her books Garret explained. Then on Friday, came the auction and almost before he knew it, Garret had his own Chincoteague pony which he immediately named "Chigger," because it like the sound of it.

After arranging to have the foal transported as far as Ohio, the family returned home to prepare for Chigger. The following week they drove to Penfield, Ohio to bring Chigger to his new home some 1100 miles away.

Garret Bieshlag of Ironton is shown with his pony, Chigger, whose unusual markings identify him as a true Chincoteague pony.

STANLEY M. MRUGALSKI
 A memorial Mass for Stanley M. Mrugalski, 62, of Six Mile Lake, Ellsworth, was held at St. Joseph's Church in East Jordan Thursday.
 Mr. Mrugalski died unexpectedly at his home Aug. 13.
 Born in Detroit Sept. 18, 1921, Mr. Mrugalski was married to the former Wanda Draper July 3, 1942, at Quartzsite, Ariz., while serving in the U.S. Air Force during World War II. They made their home in Detroit where he was employed by the Detroit Police Department until he retired in 1971. At that time they moved to their present home in the Ellsworth area. He was employed at the Charlevoix County State Bank until retiring in March, 1984. He was a member of St. Joseph's church in East Jordan and was a member and past King Lion of the Ellsworth Lions Club.
 He is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Abe (Patricia) Merriam of Goose Creek, S.C., and Mary Mrugalski of Evanston, Ill.; a son, Joseph of Wichita Falls, Tex.; 12 grandchildren; a brother, Walter of Texas and a sister, Mrs. Jack (Irene) Wallace of Ocala, Fla.
 The family suggests memorials to Leader Dogs for the Blind at Rochester. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Hastings Funeral Home which was in charge of arrangements.

Bus run for K-garten students set

The special bus run held annually prior to the opening of the school year to acquaint children entering kindergarten with the bus and its driver has been scheduled for Wednesday, August 29 according to Vincent Ofach, business manager at the Charlevoix Public Schools.

The buses will depart from the bus garage at 9 a.m. on August 29 and, following designated routes, will stop at the home of every child registered for kindergarten.

Parents are asked to be present at the time the child meets his or her bus driver who will then take the child on a tour of the bus, explain bus etiquette and answer any questions the child or parent might have about the bus.

Starting school can be a traumatic experience for a child even though it is something he or she has been looking forward to with pleasure. By acquainting the child with the new mode of transportation, we feel that it will help make the experience a happy one, Supt. Gordon W. VanWierens said.

Crooked Tree Arts Council has announced a showing of works by California photographer Lloyd Ullberg in the Gallery at the McCune Arts Center in Petoskey, during the month of August.

Ullberg recently retired as staff photographer at the California Academy of Sciences, and spent over 50 years developing his craft. Included are black and white photographs in ten categories, from rock subjects and the slightly humorous.

The moonlight cruise attracted 168 teenagers including local residents and seasonal visitors. Winner of a Honda moped, the grand prize in a drawing, was Robby Meyer, an Indiana resident visiting in the area.

This year's was the second annual "How Big Is Your Heart" cruise. Plans are already being made for next year's event which will again be held on the Star of Charlevoix August 14, 1985.

Knight on the Town

A taste of reality

By Dave Knight

In the Shorelines summer section this week we take a look at how some local young people feel about their summer jobs.

Please include among the advantages of a summer tourism industry the numerous seasonal job opportunities open to high school and college students. We sometimes forget that in many, if not most other communities this size, lack of summer employment for youth can be a real problem.

Idle minds and hands eventually seek outlets in other activities, many of which tend to be not so productive. Unfortunately, it appears that the days of being able to pay completely for a couple semesters at college with a summer job are over.

Average costs for a year of college are now in the $5,000 range and that's a lot of tips!

But the money earned—paltry sum though it may be—is only one of the rewards of a summer job.

For many of the young people bussing tables, cleaning motel rooms, washing dishes and so on, summer work provides a brief introduction to the real world.

A day's wage for a day's labor. That's how it works.

If you screw up, you don't get a note to your parents, you get fired. Yes, it can be a cold, cruel experience. But the lessons of life are often that.

This comes in the way of a salute, not only to those young employees in the summer trenches, but also to the bosses; the ones who hire the kids, train them, tolerate their inexperience and teach them a thing or two about honest work.

Sure, there's something in it for them—namely inexpensive labor. But sometimes the effort necessary to transform a cocky, naive young pup into a responsible, productive employee all but offsets any direct cost savings.

You have to feel for the employer who spends the entire summer shaping up an especially difficult case only to have to wave bye-bye when the first day of school rolls around.

In a sense, the bosses of summer are actually an extension of our educational system. For nine months, the young people tackle book-learning and for three months, they get a short course in "life-learning."

Both are important curricula for success.

Letters from readers

Enjoyed hospitality

To the Editor:
For three weeks I have been the house guests of Sheriff George T. Lassiter. This was part of a private experience designed to enable us to experience our respective policing operations in addition to enjoying social and cultural activities.

The warmth and friendliness of the many people in the various townships of Charlevoix County was overwhelming and will remain in my heart for many years.

So many people have shaken my hand, invited me into their homes, shared their meals, their hobbies and pursuits, putting themselves to considerable inconvenience and expense.

As I prepare to travel back to England, I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who in some way, large or small, contributed towards making my stay in Charlevoix County so memorable. I can only apologize if I have disappointed anyone by failing to make contact. I'll say thank you. John R. Mansfield, Superintendent of Police, Norwich, Norfolk, England

Letter to candidates

An Open Letter To:
Seberon Litzinger
Richard Pajtas
Candidates for Circuit Judge
3rd Circuit Court
Gentlemen:

The Lake Charlevoix Coalition is currently being formed and ultimately will consist of several organizations representing approximately 2500 to 3000 permanent and summertime residents and property owners. At present the Charter Members are the Lake Charlevoix Association, Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club, Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council, and WATCH, Inc. We expect the affiliation of many other organizations in the near future as well as financial support from industrial neighbors in the community.

Our purpose is very simple that of protecting the beautiful ambience of the Lake Charlevoix area and, more particularly, the ecological integrity of the Lake and the quality of the air we breathe.

We believe Charlevoix County is one the threshold of substantial economic development in this next decade. We rejoice in this and endorse it in view of the employment it will bring and improvement in the quality of life to the area residents.

However, we share a common concern that the development involved be implemented in an orderly and planned basis, and that such development does not unfavorably impinge on, or degrade the quality of our air or pollute our lakes.

Much too often in the recent past, where environmental litigation has been involved, the courts' decisions have been influenced by provincial economic pressures—rather than adherence to the statutes relating to the Clean Air Act, Land Use Ordinances, and Lakes and Streams legislation. Such cases have usually produced "short term" economic benefits and "long term" disasters! The Lake Charlevoix Coalition favors rigid enforcement of all Federal, State, County and Regional statutes as well as local Zoning Ordinances which relate to the ecological and environmental quality of our air and water. We also believe in protecting the public trust and interest relative to protecting bottomlands and wetlands.

We therefore respectfully request that each of you gentlemen respond publicly to this letter stating your position as to the subjects raised therein. Sincerely yours, Howard F. Nelson, President WATCH, Inc. (Lake Charlevoix Coalition member)

Home Tour thanks

To Reporters Peg Ohle and Anne Kelly:

On behalf of the Kappa Sigma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, we wish to thank you for your generous contribution to this year's Home Tour.

Thanks to your support, we are once again able to donate $1,000 to the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

And already Garret has big plans for Chigger. Among them is some day taking Chigger to a fair so other youngsters might see a pony like "Misty of Chincoteague" and buying a real pony cart for Chigger to pull.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Folsom

Mr. and Mrs. John Cross, III

Ceran-Cross

Linda Susan Ceran and John H. Cross, III, were married in a candlelight ceremony August 4 at the United Methodist Church of Charlevoix.

Approximately 250 guests witnessed the double-ring rites performed by the Reverend David Vingling before an altar decorated with white gladiolus.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Ceran and Mr. and Mrs. John H. Cross, all of Charlevoix.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a long white wedding gown of Chantilly lace with a fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses and white stephanotis.

LeAnn Nelson attended as maid of honor, and Kellie Cross, Patricia Gillespie, and Judy Murphy were bridesmaids. The maid of honor wore a long dark lavender gown, while the bridesmaids wore similar gowns in light lavender. They each carried a single long-stemmed white rose. Christy Clark also wore a light lavender gown in her role as flower girl.

Thomas J. Clark assisted as ringbearer.

Neil Cross served as best man, with Rod Stevens, Francis Pichner, and Richard Lynn assisting as groomsmen, and Bob Smith and Mark Nelson serving as ushers.

Organist Glynn Willis provided traditional wedding music for the ceremony.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the American Legion Hall after the wedding. The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at their home.

Following a wedding trip to Toronto, the newlyweds are at home in Charlevoix, where the bridegroom is employed by the First State Bank. The bride is employed by North Central Michigan College in Petoskey. (Photography by Aartvark Studios)

Saunders-Michael

Doris M. Saunders and Arthur C. Michael exchanged their wedding vows in a quiet ceremony performed at the home of the bride Saturday, August 10.

The Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum of the First Congregational Church officiated at the service in the presence of their immediate families.

The bride was attended by her niece, Mrs. Robert Enney of Glendale, Calif. John R. Michael assisted his father as best man.

After a reception attended by close friends, the couple departed on a Canadian wedding trip. They will return to Charlevoix to make their home.

Cooper-Folsom

Rose Cooper and Lee Folsom exchanged marriage vows on Saturday, August 4, at Grace Community Church in Central Lake. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wells of Ellsworth, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Folsom of East Jordan.

For the late afternoon single-ring ceremony, attended by 75 guests, the church was decorated with lavender, white, and pink roses.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. Wells, wore a Victorian bridal gown of sheer polyester lined in acetate taffeta and trimmed with lace. It featured a stand-up neckline, Schiffl embroidered yoke, Basque waistline with ruffled trim, and leg of mutton sleeves with ruffled flounce. The bride's headpiece was a white hat decorated with pearls, and she carried a bouquet of lavender, white, and pink roses and baby's breath.

Kris Kane attended the bride as maid of honor, and Bonnie Trojaneck, Marilyn Barber, and Evelyn Loy were bridesmaids. They wore gowns of polyester point d'esprit lace lined in acetate taffeta fashioned with sweetheart necklines and slightly raised waists covered with satin ribbons. They, too, carried bouquets of lavender, white, and pink roses and baby's breath. Emily Hickman, as flower girl, also wore a dress of polyester. Drew Young Dyke served as ringbearer.

Ralph Hines was best man, with Van Dunson, Jim Trojaneck, and Bill Loy assisting as groomsmen. Joe Cooper and Rick Wells were ushers.

A reception, hosted by Richard and Elise Wells, Lora and Don Wells, and Debbie Hopp, at the Charlevoix Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall followed the ceremony. The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents in their home.

The newlyweds have delayed taking a wedding trip and are now at home in Central Lake, where the bride is employed at The Children's Place. The bridegroom is employed by the East Jordan Iron Works. (Photography by John Jay Imet)

Clockwise

Charlevoix to be another Grand Bend?

By Bob Clark

Do you think Charlevoix is becoming another Grand Bend? Judy asked the other day as we elbowed our way through the crowds on Bridge Street.

I couldn't answer right away because I had to remember what Grand Bend, Ontario, was like in the old days when it was the summer mecca for thousands of young people from Detroit.

Located on the Lake Huron shore about 60 miles northeast of Sarnia, Grand Bend consisted of a three-block-long main street running from the Blue Water Highway to a sandy beach. The street was lined on both sides with an assortment of open-faced buildings offering souveniers, hot dogs, hamburgers, fish and chips, ice cream, beach wear, sun-tan lotion and a million other gum-cracks for vacationing Americans and Canadians.

If I recall correctly, there also was a dance pavilion and a roller skating rink and, thanks to strategically placed loudspeakers, the street was filled from early morning until late at night with music, music, music. The most popular song during my heyday at Grand Bend was "He's Got The Cutest Little Dinghy in the Navy" — which will give you some idea how long ago it was.

THE BATHING SUIT was the most common item of wearing apparel. You put it on the minute you hit Grand Bend and you didn't take it off until you left.

Of course, there were some staid tourist homes in Grand Bend as well as resorts that I understand were frequented by older folks, but you seldom saw anyone older than 25 downtown. The beach and the strip belonged to the young and there was no middle ground.

Many of the business places along the main street didn't appear to be of very substantial construction and I sometimes wondered how they survived winter winds off Lake Huron. They certainly didn't spring the downtown section every rebuilding — but they could have.

ODDLY ENOUGH, for all its general ambience, Grand Bend was "dry" in those days. You couldn't buy a drop of alcohol in town. However, if you absolutely had to have a drink you could drive to Exeter, 20 miles inland, where you could buy a glass of draft beer at the hotel or pick up case of LaBatts at the Brewers' Retail Store. There might also have been a liquor store, but not many of us could afford the hard stuff.

But in my book, there wasn't a finer place on earth to spend a weekend or a week when the temperature soared in Detroit.

Grand Bend was permeated with a carnival atmosphere that wouldn't quit.

Now back to the question: Do I think Charlevoix is becoming another Grand Bend?

Not really. Although the crowds in Charlevoix this summer certainly rivaled those in Grand Bend on a Saturday in the 1940s and '50s, Charlevoix caters to all ages, not just the young. As a result, Charlevoix is a couple of octaves up the financial scale from its Canadian counterpart.

Although both communities enjoy a bustling summer trade, Charlevoix is more than a summer playground for the young. And therein lies a very important difference that augurs well for the future of our town.

Plymouth Boy choir to appear here

Stephen Orr, School. They toured and sang in France, Germany, Belgium, and the Netherlands. Other members of the Plymouth Boychoir have attended the Royal School of Church Music and performing at First Summer School. Former members of the American Boychoir Federation Choir and Boychoir who have moved from Fort Wayne have been accepted into the Performing Choir of Plymouth Boychoir in their cities.

The Plymouth Boychoir of Fort Wayne will be appearing and performing at First Summer School, 101 State St. on Sunday August 26, at 7:30 p.m. The Boychoir is under the direction of Vincent Slater, Director of Music Emeritus of Plymouth Congregational Church in Fort Wayne. The Plymouth Boychoir was started in Fort Wayne four years ago and is made up of boys ages 7-13, who have a special interest in music and singing. The group now has 37 members. They have performed with the Fort Wayne Philharmonic, at the dedication of the Wayne Museum of Art, the Germanfest and various churches and civic groups in Fort Wayne.

Their program at First Congregational Church will include numbers by Pote, Bedore, Siegal, D. Wagner, Copland, Handel, Brahms and other composers. They will also accompany themselves on some numbers using "Choir Chimes."

No tickets are needed for the concert. Everyone is invited.

Tickets will also be available at the meal sites in Charlevoix, East Jordan, and Boyne City.

"Ticket to Adventure" We Know A Special Place For You...

"Ticket to Adventure" is the first fund-raising project of the Charlevoix County Hospice. The Hospice is selling chances on 15 adventures, including the grand prize trip to Stratford, Ontario for the Stratford Festival in October, a season's ski ticket to Boyne Country, weekends in luxury condominiums in Boyne City, three $100 savings bonds, luncheon and dinner passes at gourmet restaurants and aboard the Star of Charlevoix, and a $25 gift certificate from a local greenhouse. Tickets are $5 each and are available in Charlevoix at The First State Bank, The Charlevoix County State Bank, the Dockside Pharmacy, and Liane Christenson (phone 547-4360). They are also available in Boyne City at the Northwestern State Bank, Barrett's of Boyne, the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce, and the Boyne Avenue Greenhouse. In East Jordan, they can be purchased at the office of the Hospice (phone 538-2842). All Hospice officers and board members also have tickets. Winners will be drawn on August 27. Ticket holders need not be present to win.

Eight graduate from literacy tutor training

Eight area residents recently completed a Tutor Training Workshop, sponsored by the Charlevoix Literacy Council, which has prepared them to teach adult non-readers to read. Certified in the Laubach method of one-to-one tutoring were: Margie J. Martin and Anne Wieser of Charlevoix, David Euler of Vanderbilt, Ken Johnson of Waters, Martha Eppler, Jim Fitzgerald, Robert Seblak, and Gary Sangboner, all of Petoskey.

This workshop was the third such training session held in this area by the Charlevoix Literacy Council since it was established in November 1983. Since that time 32 volunteers have completed the 12-hour course. Anyone interested in future classes may register by calling 547-6640. Persons interested in obtaining tutoring services may also call the above phone number or leave word at Howard's Optical Shop A Smith.

What do kids think about summer jobs?

by ANNE KELLY

Summer in Charlevoix. Long, lazy days spent in the sun, on the water, hanging out downtown. Not if you're a high school student in Charlevoix. Not necessarily.

You've got to start somewhere in the business world. Even if you're not old enough to get the jobs the college kids land in the summer, you can still get a job around town. Charlevoix teenagers are lucky. Unemployment doesn't apply to young people who are willing to put in the hours. It might not be the job of anyone's dreams, but it's a start. Maybe it's chopping chocolate at Tom's, sweeping the floor at Edward's, washing dishes in the galley of The Star of Charlevoix, or mowing lawns. But if a teenager wants to earn money, in Charlevoix in the summer, the opportunity is there for the working. And there's still time to play. Some kids even find working is fun...think of that!

Maureen Buday, 12th grade, Murdick's Fudge, sells, wraps candies - everything but making the fudge. "This is my fourth year working here and I really enjoy it. I can make enough for school clothes, spending money, and put some away for Christmas presents, vacations and school."

William Ratigan was holding court at the Docks Press 30 years ago.

Time stands still at Docks Press

by ANNE KELLY

If you come to Charlevoix, and want to fill your sails with the sound of gulls and some local lore before you go, be sure to visit Docks Press some evening. Within walking distance of downtown or the Grey Gables Inn, on Belvedere Avenue near John Cross Fisheries, Docks Press is a musty, trusty little clapboard bookstore down by the waterfront. It is tended by its owner, Mr. William Ratigan, with love.

Ratigan, former counselor at Charlevoix High School, is a local author of several books including: Tiny Tim Pine, The Adventures of Paul Bunyan & Babe, The Blue Snow, Highways over Broad Waters, Soo Canal and Great Lakes Shipwrecks & Survivals. You'll find Ratigan's own books along with hundreds of others, lining the walls and on tables handy for browsing in this basically "oldies but goodies" bookstore.

When you visit, you will be asked to sign the guest book, inscribed with names, addresses and greetings from various parts of the country and dating back the thirty years Docks Press has been in existence. Then comes the fun, the actual perusing through old books, faded prints, hotel registers and other memorabilia. And don't forget to look up. Some of Ratigan's own book jackets are tacked up to the water marked ceiling, as if to hold it together in places.

If you can't make it in the evening, the bookstore comes complete with the honor system. Just make a selection from the outdoor bookshelf and drop a coin in the slot.

Like libraries, churches and museums, the Docks Press remains suspended in time.

Today, little has changed - other than Bill himself - at the Belvedere Ave. landmark.

DINING GUIDE

Tom Keie brings full-service taxi back to Charlevoix

by TAMMY CURRIER

People from the big city know that the fastest and easiest way to get from one end of town to the other - and the safest way to get home after a night on the town - is to call a taxi.

Now this convenience is available in Charlevoix.

The Charlevoix Taxi Service was established earlier this summer by Tom Keie, providing the first official, full-service taxi service in the community for many years.

The service runs 24 hours daily, year 'round. It is not only a public transportation system but also a pick-up and delivery service and a messenger service, too, says Keie.

In addition to himself, Keie employs one other driver in order to keep two cars running at the same time. Future plans include a nine-passenger station wagon for groups and large families.

As far as destination, Keie says he will go anywhere. To date, the most distant fare he has had took him to Saginaw.

Most of his business, however, consists of runs to the Cherry Capital Airport in Traverse City and runs made for the late-night crowd concerned about the state's new drinking and driving laws.

"I rarely stop driving before 3 a.m.," said Keie.

According to Keie, each run is as unique as the people involved.

His most interesting fares, he said, are in the morning.

"Quite a few people fly up to Charlevoix strictly for breakfast. They'll have an omelet downtown then stop at Juillerets for some grilled cinnamon bread for the flight back," he said.

Keie got the idea for the taxi service from the Arcade Cab Co., an unofficial service run for many years by Oscar Ward. When

Next Wednesday is first day of school for Chx. students

The Charlevoix Public Schools will open at the usual hours on Wednesday, Sept. 5, Supt. Gordon W. VanWieren has announced.

Classes at the high school will begin at 7:50 a.m., at the middle school at 8:05 a.m. and at the elementary school at 8 a.m.

Buses will cover designated routes at the usual times to transport students to classes at the three schools. A child must live 1.5 miles from the school in order to ride the bus to school.

There will be a full schedule of classes for all students from the first through the twelfth grades on the first day of school.

Classes will be dismissed at the high school at 2:20 p.m., at the middle school at 2:35 p.m. and at the elementary school at 3:30 p.m. The schedule for children attending kindergarten for the first time will be found elsewhere in this issue of the Charlevoix Courier.

Newcomers to the school district who have not registered their children at this time may do so at the school the child or children will be attending. The high school is located on East Garfield, the middle school on Grant St. between Clinton and Mason, and the elementary school on Division Ave. on the city's northside.

Parents registering students for the first time are reminded that a health record for all students is necessary.

Five new teachers named

Five new teachers will be joining the faculty of the Charlevoix Public Schools with the beginning of the 1984-85 school year Wednesday, Sept. 5.

In addition to this, there will be several changes within the existing system of assignments.

The new teachers in the elementary school will be Dorothy Miller who will teach kindergarten, Alison J. Mellon who will teach a first grade class and Marie Kerr Talberg who has been assigned to a fifth grade class.

Mrs. Miller, who comes to the Charlevoix schools via Adrian College and three years experience at Ludington, will join Mrs. Diane Preiss as one of two kindergarten teachers at the elementary school. She had been a teacher in the Charlevoix Co-operative Nursery for the past 13 years.

Mrs. Mellon, a Wayne State University graduate, had 12 years experience in the Detroit School System before moving to Boyne City. She has been a substitute teacher in schools in the county for the past two years.

Mrs. Talberg is a University of Michigan graduate and taught in the Flint School System for four years before moving to Charlevoix.

Pamela Smith who taught Developmental Language Arts I and II on a part-time basis at the high school has been re-assigned to the K-

5 school where she will teach a fourth grade class.

Erik Lundteigen will assume the duties of the K-5 Physical Education instructor, succeeding James Glynn who has been granted a leave of absence to accept a teaching position in Okinawa. Lundteigen taught a fourth grade class during the 1983-84 school year.

The new teachers in the elementary school succeed Kay Smith who is retiring Sept. 1 after 26 years in education, 24 of them in the Charlevoix school, Carolyn DeMoor and Rebecca Berg who have been granted one year leaves of absence and Cara Hochhalter who requested

Cafeterias open

Cafeterias at all three Charlevoix schools will open on Wednesday, Sept. 5, the opening day of school.

Meal tickets will remain the same as during the 1983-84 school year; i.e. 90 cents at the elementary school and $1.00 at both the middle school and high school. Tickets for adults will remain at $1.50.

Regular Type A meals as well as a la carte items such as sandwiches, salads, desserts and beverages are served at the high school cafeteria. The Type A luncheon ticket is $1.00. Other food items are sold a la carte.

Council pares field of city mgr. candidates down to two

by DAVE KNIGHT

And then there were two.

City Council succeeded Monday night in whittling the list of prospective city manager candidates down to a pair of finalists but was stalemated before a final decision could be made.

A choice between Ryan Cotton, 27, assistant to the city manager of Lake Forest, Illinois and Michael Wiesner, 39, public works director and assistant to the city manager in Cadillac is expected to be made at a special session of the council Tuesday afternoon.

The delay in making the final choice was to give council member F. Earl Numa a chance to listen to taped interviews of the two candidates, conducted by council Friday in Numa's absence.

Council interviewed a total of five candidates Friday including Numa's brother, Robert Numa, a former city treasurer and the only candidate for the job with direct local ties. Numa is presently a benefit supervisor for Bay County. According to a prior ruling by City Attorney Jeffrey VanTress, council member Numa could not participate in any part of the selection process involving his brother.

Tiger fan No. 1 pays a visit to old haunt

by DAVE KNIGHT

In this, the Year of the Tiger, it has become a morning ritual for many Michiganders to bypass the front page of the daily paper completely in an immediate search for late baseball scores and standings inside.

But the young-looking Ann Arbor businessman observed aboard his 53-foot Hatteras at the Charlevoix city docks last Thursday, frantically paging through the Free Press for the previous night's box scores, was no ordinary Tiger fan.

Thomas S. Monaghan fulfilled a lifelong dream last year - and stunned an unsuspecting baseball world - when he bought the Tigers from long-time owner John E. Fetzer. And now, with the team surging toward post-season play with the best record in the major leagues, the amazing success story that is Tom Monaghan's life just keeps getting...well, more amazing.

Before the fall of 1983, Monaghan, 47, was best known as the owner of the hugely successful Domino's Pizza chain. Founded with $500 in borrowed money by Monaghan and his brother in 1960, the firm's mercurial growth in recent years (520 new franchises opened in just the last 12 months) has made it an industry leader and has propelled Monaghan into the national corporate spotlight.

But Monaghan made the jump from the business pages of the papers to the sports pages when the announcement was made October 10, 1983 that he had closed a deal with Fetzer to buy the team.

"I can't tell you how sensitive the negotiations were," said Monaghan. "The suspense was a killer. At one point late in the discussions with Mr. Fetzer, we had to cover up the logo on our corporate jet when we flew down to Florida to meet with him."

Rumors had abounded at the time of Fetzer's desire to sell but none of the bird-dogs in Detroit's aggressive sports media had an inkling as to whom Fetzer; then 82, would end up choosing as new owner.

"I think the fact that we have very similar backgrounds had a lot to do with him deciding that I'd be a good owner for the team," said Monaghan.

Indeed, both men are self-made millionaires of humble beginnings and both harbor a sincere love of the game of baseball that far transcends any interest in the Tigers as simply a business venture.

"As far as I'm concerned, the Tigers are not a business," said Monaghan. "I've been a fan since I was a kid and I bought them because I loved the game, not to make money."

The story of Monaghan's early life is an American classic - and it has some interesting ties to Charlevoix.

Born in Ann Arbor, his father died when he was four and he was raised in a Jackson orphanage. At the age of 12 he was enrolled in a Catholic school at Traverse City where a kindly priest took young Monaghan under his wing.

"Father Passeno was the closest thing I had to a father," said Monaghan. "I remember very well the first time he brought some of us up here to Charlevoix. We played shuffleboard in the park. I was amazed at the huge houses and the huge cars. But what impressed me most were the boats. The one I'll never forget was a yacht named Polaris. It was the biggest boat I'd ever seen."

The irony is not lost, of course, in the last statement, made as Monaghan gazes across the Round Lake harbor from the fantail of his yacht Tigress, enjoyed by the Monaghan family about two weeks a year and used by Domino's in Florida for employee incentive trips the remainder of the time.

On this swing through the upper Great Lakes, Monaghan was joined by his wife, Margie, and their four daughters. The Tigress, flying the distinctive Tiger old English "D" on the navy blue bow pennant, is manned by a crew of two. She was to depart Charlevoix Thursday enroute to Mackinac Island.

Right behind pizza and baseball, in Monaghan's world, is architecture. He is an unabashed architecture buff and an avid student of the work of Frank Lloyd Wright.

When he told me Wednesday evening of his plans to take an early morning jog the next day, I directed him down Park Ave., knowing that the boulder homes designed by Earl Young would pique his interest.

"They (the Earl Young-style homes) are a lot like Wright's work because they seem to be built into the environment as a part of it, not onto it," he observed, taking particular interest in the Tom Duke home on Round Lake.

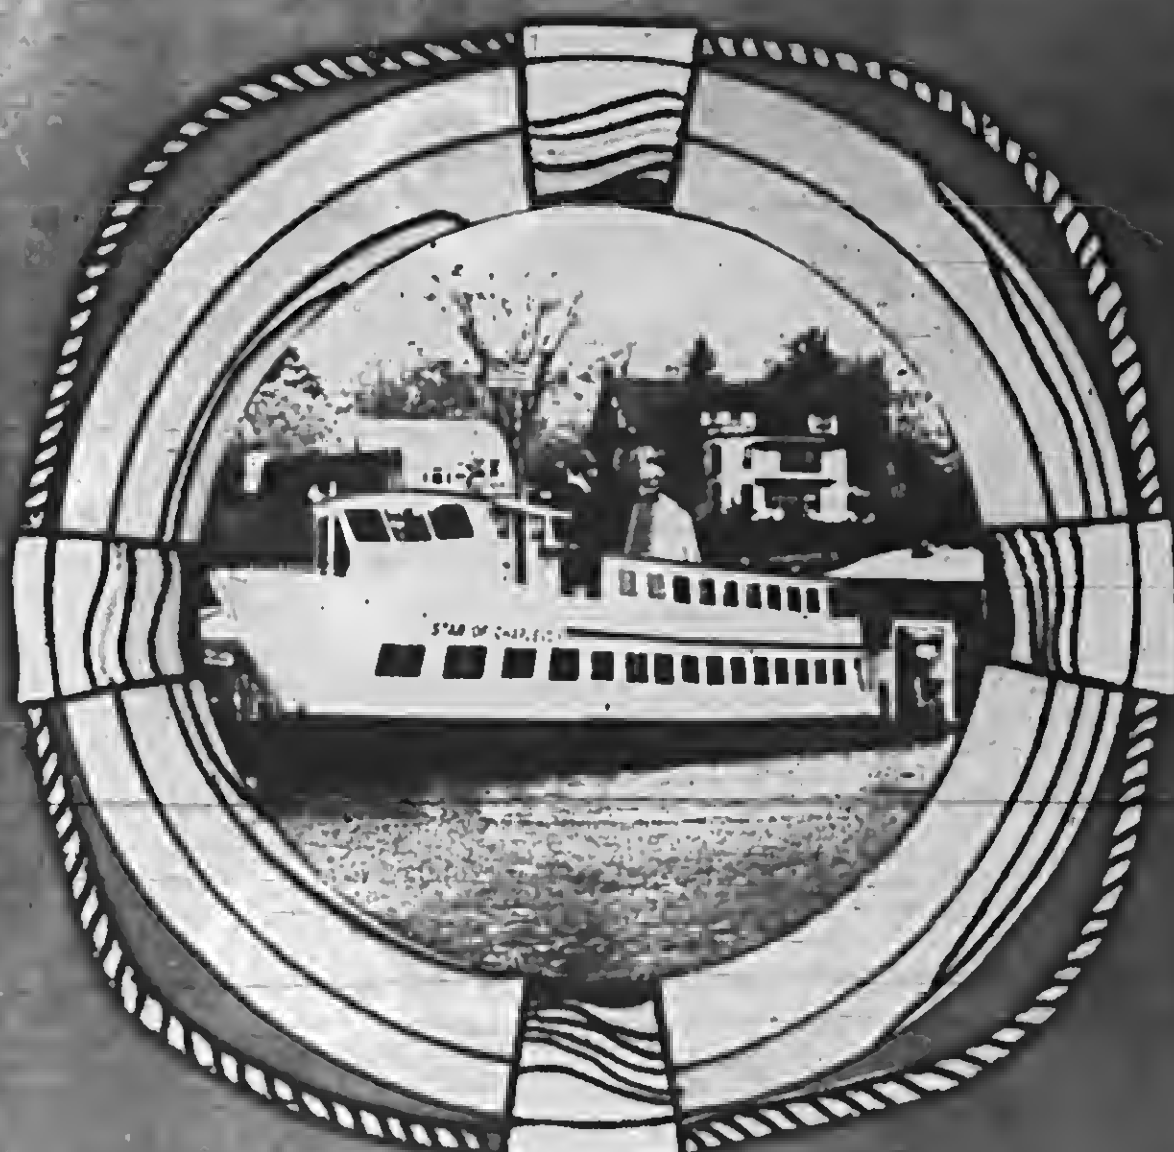

Monaghan's devotion to Frank Lloyd Wright is best reflected in two major projects he has initiated in the past year. One is the purchase of an original, classic Wright-designed home in upstate New York which he is having completely dismantled for transport back to Michigan.

The other is a new corporate

State champ Rayder CC team to open season

The Charlevoix Spies, Cross Country Coach, has announced that the team, defending Class C State Champions, will open the 1984 season at outstanding runners, the White Cloud Invitational meet which will be a year of the annual marks the team. Coach Spies opening of the Cross said. He went on to say Country season in that there is a promising western Michigan Pete group of sophomores who have a year of running behind them. He said he is expecting a good year for seniors Tim Gibbons and Carl Dhaseler and sophomore, Mike Dohm. "1983 was a good year for the girls. We fielded a girls team for the first time. We are now getting numbers which are an important ingredient in any sport." Spies said of the girls' team. He added that he is expecting a good year for veteran runners, Molly Bolduc, Michelle North, Marlo Hough and Lesli Miller.

Jeff Drenth, Central Michigan student who is doing his practice teaching in Charlevoix, will serve as Spies' assistant coach. Returning letters from last year's squad are Gibbons, Dohm, North, Miller, Hough and Bolduc.

Letter candidates out for the squad are Jim Smith and Dhaseler, seniors; Dan Kelly, Nick Swanson, Chuck Hantings, Jason Brindel, Shawn DeYoung and Phil Young, juniors; Kevin McLenon, Jon Eakes, Dave Eakes, Ed Knight, Joe Simpson, Rich Thayer and Harold Herriman, sophomores; and a fine crop of freshmen including Rick Clark, Sean Henne, John Foster, Pat Rejewski, Toby Young, Jeff Skeel, Tom Merta, Chad Thorp and Heath Moore.

Candidates among those out for the girls' team are Non Pace and Lauri Moore, juniors; Jeff Skeel, Tom Merta, Chad Thorp and Heath Moore.

Miller, Betsy Haggard and Ildi Olinger. Twenty-two members of the team are attending a Cross Country Camp at Beaver Island this week.

Islanders win own tourney

BEAVER ISLAND—The host Beaver Island team won top honors recently in the ninth annual Bud McDonough Memorial Softball Tournament held here. The tournament was held in conjunction with the annual Beaver Island Homecoming.

Beaver Island went unbeaten through four games. In the finals Beaver Island downed Grey Gables of Charlevoix 10-7. Home runs for Beaver Island were by Tony Rouch, Bill McDonough, Jim McDonough and Tom McDonough while for Grey Gables; Jim Marsh, and Joe Jones had round-trippers. Don Willis was the winning hurler and Ray LaVoie the loser.

Grey Gables reached the finals by downing third-place Paul Bunyan of Charlevoix 17-2. In that game, LaVoie hit two home runs and Robert Russell one for the winners.

At the conclusion of the tournament individual awards handed out included most valuable player, Willis of Beaver Island for his pitching, hitting and defense; most home runs: Tom McDonough, Beaver Island 14; batting champs Tom Barnes of Diekevers Roodine of Grand Rapids, 269. Trophies also went to the top three teams.

Beaver Island started with a 15-5 win over Diekevers as Bill McDonough and Tom McDonough hit home runs. Next the hosts bested Nordic Bar of Boyne City 16-4 with homers by Jim McDonough and Tom McDonough. Beaver Island then reached the finals with a 10-3 decision over Paul Bunyan of Charlevoix as Jim McDonough and Tom McDonough hit homers. Willis was the winning pitcher in all four games for the champs.

Grey Gables beat Wojan-Chandler of Charlevoix 17-1 with homers by Steve Dunkelberg, Jones and Marsh; lost to Paul Bunyan of Charlevoix 4-1 as Kurt Meissell homered for the winners; beat Diekevers, 14-6 with home runs by Dunkelberg, LaVoie and Joe Battle and then reached the finals by whipping Paul Bunyan of Charlevoix 17-2. LaVoie did all the pitching.

Other tournament scores: Paul Bunyan of Charlevoix 15, Swanson's K&D of Charlevoix 2, Diekevers 11, Wojan-Chandler's 6; Swanson's 7, Nordic Bar 6; Diekevers 16, Swanson's 6.

The tournament was called a great success by officials who acknowledged the work of umpires Walt Wojan, Pete Ance and also Jim Willis who not only umpired but helped direct the tournament. All games were played at Bud McDonough Memorial Field.

Sign-up set for flag FB

It's time to sign up for Flag Football. The Charlevoix Recreation Department, has announced.

All boys in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades who are interested in playing flag football are asked to sign up at the Charlevoix Recreation Department office on the first floor of the City Hall no later than Friday, Aug. 31.

There will be a $5.00 fee this year to underwrite the cost of a T-shirt which the player may keep. Players must be prepared to pay the fee at the time they sign up.

The draft for the teams will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 8 at the Charlevoix Softball Field. Helmets and mouth guards will be offered for sale at that time.

"We are looking for volunteer coaches and referees for the flag football program," Boss said in announcing the sign-up for the sport. He went on to say that the program is made possible only by those who are willing to donate their time as coaches and officials. If you are interested in serving in either of these positions or know anyone who might be, please call the Recreation Department at 547-3253 or Boss at 547-9098.

Wojan Aluminum captured both the Charlevoix Men's Slowpitch League title and the best two out of three tournament that closed out the softball season sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department. Members of the championship team are front row (l to r): Gene Morrison, bat-boy Shane Hutchinson, John Hutchinson, Pat Kerr, Bud Alexander, Krag Lieberman. Back row: Dave Storm, Jim Clark, Terry Blissett, Bill Joy, Bernie DeVries, Ralph Doan.

Medusa tops Twp. League

The Charlevoix Township Slowpitch League closed out its regular scheduled season last week and the "A" Team at 7:15 p.m. will wrap up play with a tournament scheduled for Thursday and Friday.

The tournament, which will open at 6 p.m. Thursday, will pit the league-leading Medusa team against third place Flight Deck while second place Townhouse will meet the "A" Team at 7:15 p.m.

The losers will meet at 6 p.m. Friday and the winners at 7:15 p.m. for the title. The fifth team of the league, "Control Engineering," dropped out of the league before the season finished.

Dale Henning gave up eight hits to Mike Koonz' 19. Dave Olach had the only home run of the game for the winners. Bill Trubiloewicz pitched a four hitter to Dave Farnsworth's 14 hits. Larry Dairrah had a homer for 18-8 and Townhouse. Don Schaffar had one for the losers.

The final standings are Medusa 19-4, Townhouse 15-7, Flight Deck 7-1, downed 10-3. The final standings are Medusa 19-4, Townhouse 15-7, Flight Deck 7-1, downed 10-3. The final standings are Medusa 19-4, Townhouse 15-7, Flight Deck 7-1, downed 10-3.

Now, onto the Budweiser Olympic Triangle and Red Fox... If you're not yet registered it's going to cost you an extra $15 but it's well worth the money. Friday's Bud. Oly. Triangle starts (First Gun) at 4 p.m. with a full Olympic Course of 8.12 miles. Skipper's Meeting, 2 p.m. CYC and back there after the race for FLEB (Fun, Lies, Excuses and Beverages). Then 9 a.m., Saturday, Skippers' Meeting for Red Fox. The objective is to get to the Party at Boyne City as quickly as possible but the Race Committee puts a few requirements in our way, including requiring a proper start (First Start is at 11:10 a.m.). While the Fee includes Beverages, Corn, etc. DON'T forget your steaks (Hib Eye, Sirloin, Tube, Cube or Ground). Sail back Sunday for the Awards and BIG PARTY, Protests, Cheers and Jeers at the CYC.

The End of the Mouse's Tale

Yachting Notes

by A. NONY MOUSE
The finish line, now well behind us, lies just east of the second funnel cloud we've seen in the last few minutes. A roll of thunder brings us all to attention while boiling clouds suggest that we best get the beer cans open and in use unless we prefer watered beverages. Watched crewmember perform the impossible: drink, trim and make the sign of the cross in one smooth move as the funnel becomes a real, honest-to-goodness waterspout. A mad dash to the harbor, sail down and furl, next pop tops pop as the wind and the rain drive us below decks. Snug and dry, we pop another for our good buddies still out there—true friendship.

So, in the final race of the Summer Series, the top 3 in each fleet:
Fleet No. 1: KRITTER, MISS PYGGY, CHARLIE BROWN, COLUMBINE (drops to 6th on Acknowledges Protest) and BUCKSHOT.
Fleet No. 2: BABE, MAHANATHA, RANDIE, NIGHT MOVES with MUD DUCK dropping to 7th on Acknowledges Protest.
Fleet No. 3: BLASEN III, TIRELESS, SPECTRE, SAN-SUE-SHE and PHOENICA. JAM Fleet: STALWORTH, APOTHECARY, COOLWHIP, CHEEMAUN and CYGNUS.

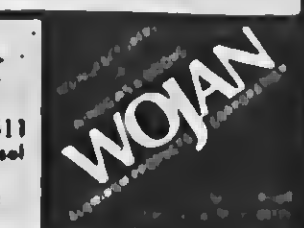

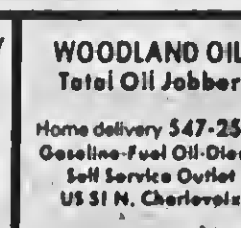

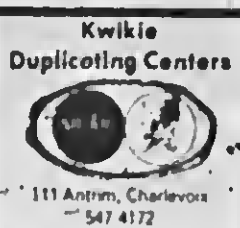

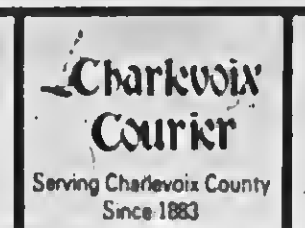

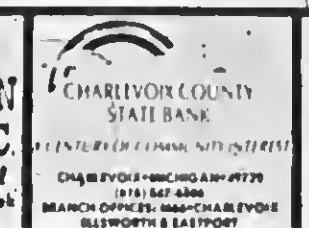

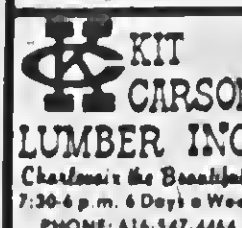

Final Summer Series Results, listing all Yachts with their point scores:
No. 1: 1 Kritter (2.50), 2 Pygmalion (11), 3 Charlie Brown (12.50), 4 Columbine (13.75), 5 Flying Machine (27), 6 Buckyshot (29), 7 Munt Julep (30), 8 Tigger (38), Traveller & Peregrine-DNC.

Meanwhile back at the Club... HOT DOGS! and the BEST DAMN SKIPPER is... GARY GLEASON!!! MIKE MILLER, Next Best, followed by TOM OCHS. Understand that there was a good turnout and that some of the younger skippers made it tough for the old timers. Mike, the award for 2nd place is the privilege of writing the story of the Event for our next column!

Now, onto the Budweiser Olympic Triangle and Red Fox... If you're not yet registered it's going to cost you an extra $15 but it's well worth the money. Friday's Bud. Oly. Triangle starts (First Gun) at 4 p.m. with a full Olympic Course of 8.12 miles. Skipper's Meeting, 2 p.m. CYC and back there after the race for FLEB (Fun, Lies, Excuses and Beverages). Then 9 a.m., Saturday, Skippers' Meeting for Red Fox. The objective is to get to the Party at Boyne City as quickly as possible but the Race Committee puts a few requirements in our way, including requiring a proper start (First Start is at 11:10 a.m.). While the Fee includes Beverages, Corn, etc. DON'T forget your steaks (Hib Eye, Sirloin, Tube, Cube or Ground). Sail back Sunday for the Awards and BIG PARTY, Protests, Cheers and Jeers at the CYC.

Half-day classes Friday at Beaver Island School

Vacation will end this week for the students at the Beaver Island Community School with students scheduled to attend half-day classes on opening day Friday, Aug. 31, Shari Hogue, school principal, has announced. Tuesday, Sept. 4, will be the first full day of school for island students.

Teachers will meet at the school on Wednesday, Aug. 29. In preparation for the 1984-85 school, James Hibbler of Owosso has been hired to teach the fourth, fifth and sixth grades in the K-12 school Ms. Hogue said.

Mr. Hibbler comes to the island school from two years at the John F. Kennedy School, an American school located in Berlin, East Germany, where he taught fifth and sixth grades, was a member of the school conference and computer committees and high school basketball coach.

A 1976 graduate of Central Michigan University with a B.S. degree in Secondary Education, he attended Michigan State University where he majored in Elementary Education in 1980 and in 1981 received an Elementary Endorsement from Central Michigan University. His certificates include a Michigan Secondary Continuing Certificate in 11th Elementary Endorsement in the areas of Speech, Physical Education and Elementary Education, and a Nebraska Teaching Certificate for grades K-12.

He was a student teacher and Junior High football coach at Shields High School in Saginaw in 1976 and the following year joined the faculty as eighth grade English and Social Studies teacher, high school football coach and junior high football, basketball and baseball coach 1977-80. During 1981-82 school year he taught fifth grade and served on the coaching staff at Custer Elementary School in Broken Bow, Neb., prior to teaching in West Berlin. While in Europe he also traveled extensively.

Other members of the teaching staff will be Sister Marie Eugene Chaboneau Kindergarten through the third grade; Joseph Moore, math and the seventh and eighth grades; Mrs. Jacqueline LaFreniere, Science and the Library; Kathleen McNamara, Social Studies and Physical Education and Ms. Hogue, English and reading in addition to her duties as principal. Randy (Suzanne) Karbowski will teach Special Education students and Title I program. In the support staff will be Sister Mary Roch who will be the Administrative Assistant and Mrs. Lawrence. A native of Waterville, she is a graduate of Western Michigan University with a BA degree in English and Political Science and MS degrees in Reading and Educational Leadership.

Food distribution set. A surplus food and the size of the distribution will be held household. For a household of one person the annual income must not exceed $6,225; for a household of two persons, the maximum income for the year is $8,400, and for each additional household member add $2,175 to determine eligibility.

Eligibility guidelines for the surplus food is based on the annual income of the household. Distributions sites for Charlevoix county Agency at 347-9080.

Federal mappers travel to nearby islands to finish update of state map

by DAVE KNIGHT

Obscure Question No. 4472: what does Hog Island, a tiny, uninhabited member of Beaver Archipelago in Lake Michigan about 25 miles north of Charlevoix, have in common with New York City, Florida's Everglades and the Alaskan tundra?

Answer: as bona fide territories of the United States, they must all be accurately mapped by the U.S. Geological Survey.

And that is precisely why, perhaps even as this is being read, two USGS cartographers are hacking their way with machetes through the dense Hog Island interior to take accurate elevation readings at about half a dozen preassigned checkpoints.

The expedition now underway by USGS mapper Tom Larson and assistant Clarence Jordan, Boyne City and Palm to Hog and four other islands in the Beaver group is and are now available particularly significant from local dealers or the because these areas represent the final portion of the State of Michigan to be included on a new, more detailed series of topographic maps being developed by the federal government.

A team of USGS cartographers has been working out of a temporary office in Charlevoix this summer to map 1,348 square miles of Northern Michigan. Included in the project are the Charlevoix County islands of Beaver, Garden, Gull, High and Hog plus South and North Fox Islands of Leelanau County.

Also to be mapped are other rural areas of Antrim, Alpena, Cheboygan, Montmorency, Otsego and Presque Isle counties.

Much of this region has already been completed, according to Larson. Updated maps of the greater Charlevoix, East Jordan, Boyne City and Petoskey areas were finished two years ago and are now available particularly significant from local dealers or the because these areas Branch, 1200 South Eads St., Arlington, VA 22202.

According to the USGS, this is the first time some of these areas of Michigan have been mapped at a scale of 1:24,000 (one inch on a map represents 2,000 feet on the ground) although they were mapped at a less detailed scale in the 1960s.

Each of the maps to be updated will cover an area measuring 7.5 minutes of latitude by 7.5 minutes of longitude. When completed, they will be detailed enough to include individual houses in rural and urban areas, outbuildings, windmills, water towers, schools, civic buildings, campgrounds and camp shelters.

Roads and trails will be marked as will streams, wells and springs. Also delineated will be political boundaries such as city limits, county lines and boundaries to federal and state owned lands.

But for mappers Larson and Palm, the finished products are impressively detailed, nicely colored and almost suitable for framing - hardly reflect the hardship sometimes involved in collecting the necessary data.

To take the required readings on the Beaver Islands, for instance, the two embarked on the ferry last Wednesday with two 40-pound backpacks of food and camping gear, a tripod and other surveying equipment and a trail bike.

The bike will be used on the gravel roads of Beaver Island when possible. For interior checkpoints on the outlying islands, which they'll be transported by a chartered boat - it will be foot travel only through some densely wooded areas probably not regularly traversed since being inhabited by Indians over a century ago.

It is not unusual, said Larson, a 27-year veteran of USGS field work, to come across Indian artifacts and other historical treasures in the far-flung hinterlands of the country that must all eventually be surveyed by his agency.

"This job is a scavenger's paradise," he said. "My thing happens to be old cars but other mappers who work in the field have become dedicated collectors of everything from Indian arrowheads to old coins."

Larson, a native of the Big Rapids area, lived a nomadic life for much of his career as a USGS cartographer. Until not long ago, he and his family moved from project to project across the length and breadth of the country.

At the point of one of his daughter's high school graduation, he figured she had attended over 30 schools to finish 12 grades.

With no formal education in cartography or surveying, Larson joined the USGS as a field assistant right out of high school in 1957. He figures he is now one of about 35 people in the entire country who do what he does.

"The technology of map-making has changed dramatically in recent years," says Larson. "A cartographer used to obtain the same measurements on foot with transit, rod and chain."

Now, says Larson, cartographers have the benefits of sophisticated electronic and optical equipment such as theodolites and electrotopes.

A theodolite measures vertical and horizontal angles and the electrotope uses microwaves to measure distances. These instruments make it possible to obtain fast, accurate measurements in areas where it would take days or weeks to obtain the same measurements on foot.

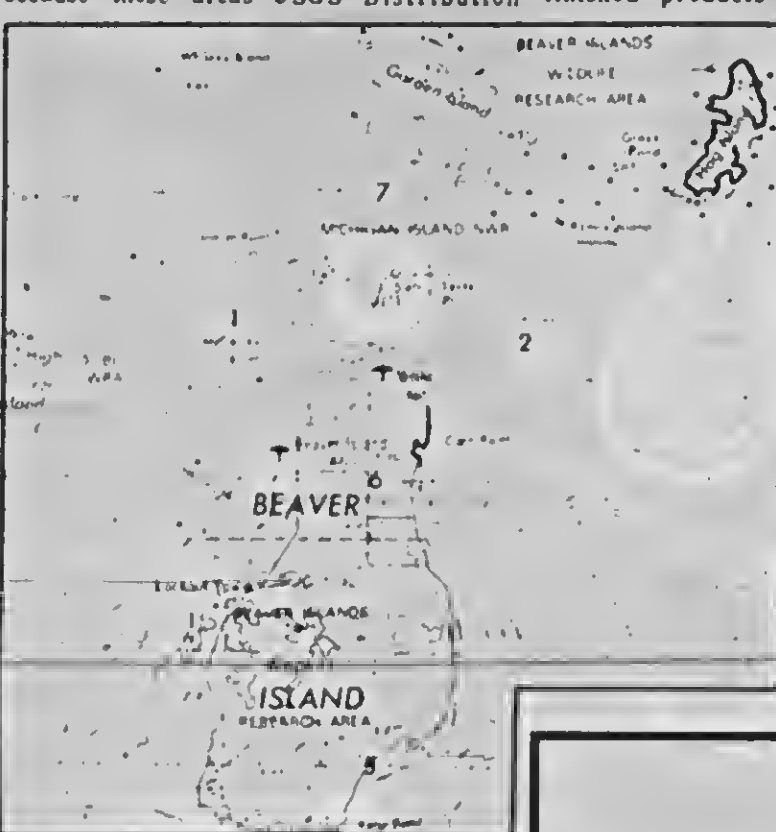

Larson will be using high resolution photos this week, taken from about 8,000 feet, to help pinpoint the spots on Hog and other islands he will be looking for.

Using a device through which one can look at the aerial photos and get a three-dimensional effect, Larson will be able to discern differences in elevations of only a few feet. "Mapmaking used to be 90 percent field work and 10 percent office work," he said. "Now I'd say it's about half and half."

Probably the most significant strides made in the cartography field in recent decades, said Larson, have been in aerial photography.

Larson will be using high resolution photos this week, taken from about 8,000 feet, to help pinpoint the spots on Hog and other islands he will be looking for.

Is it Moses leading the tribes of Israel out of the desert? No, it's Rev. Philip Schairbaum of the First Congregational Church enacting the Biblical event at a unique four-day reconstruction of a Palestinian village during the time of Christ. Called Marketplace.

Andy Linder, world champion footbag player, was featured Saturday in an exhibition of the relatively new sport in Charlevoix's East Park. Linder, 19, holds the record for consecutive kicks having kicked the small, leather bag 17,872 times over 3½ hours without letting it touch the ground. He is also a national freestyle finalist and a World Footbag Association professional tour team member. Linder is a student at Trinity College in Deerfield, Illinois. He is shown in these photos demonstrating some of his moves.

New cable TV channel serves vacationers

A new TV channel had appeared in motels and condominiums in northern Michigan. SAIL-TV, the Straits Area Information Link, began broadcasting in July with continuous 24-hour information on area concerts, festivals, art shows, and other special events, plus five-day extended weather forecasts and marine weather.

Rick Stone, President of SAIL-TV, reports that 1,000 motel rooms and condominiums presently receive the service, in locations from St. Ignace, Mackinac Island, and Mackinaw City on the north to Petoskey, Boyne Falls and Gaylord on the south. The channel is also installed in the Petoskey State Park. Subscribers pay a monthly fee to receive the service.

The station transmits a computer-generated teletext signal on a subcarrier of 100,000-watt FM station WQLZ from their transmitter near Indian River. A special receiver-decoder is installed at each subscribing hotel or condominium and the TV signal is then distributed to each room on the building's antenna system.

SAIL-TV is a year-round service and is working with area chambers of commerce to promote the activities and attractions for visitors in all four seasons. "It is amazing to see how many attractions are offered to visitors in this area," says Stone. "SAIL-TV is designed to encourage visitors to spend an extra night or two in the area, and also to plan a return trip this fall or winter." So far, the station has had no problem in finding activities to promote. Over 150 events have been covered on the channel during its first six weeks on the air.

"World's Strongest Man" to appear here

Bill Kazmaier, billed as the "World's Strongest Man", will headline a powerlifting exhibition Saturday, Sept. 1 in Charlevoix in a benefit for muscular dystrophy.

According to Steve Kehr, owner of the Charlevoix Health and Fitness Center and organizer of the benefit, up to 70 male and female powerlifters from all over the state will participate in the event to be held in the Charlevoix High School gymnasium.

Starting at 10 a.m. Saturday, lifters in weight classes from 97 through 165 pounds will begin a sequence of three lifts, the squat, bench and dead lift, on special platforms to be set up in the gym.

Lifters are seeking pledges of a penny a pound for their total superheavyweight will begin their three-lift sequences.

Kazmaier, who recently went to court to use of the "World's Strongest Man" title, holds the Senior National Powerlifting Championship and has world records of 661 pounds in the bench press, 887 pounds in the dead lift and 2,425 in total.

He has won powerlifting championships the last three years in both North America and Europe. Kazmaier is 6'3" and weighs in at 315 pounds.

Admission to Saturday's benefit is $2.50. On Sunday, a follow-up chicken barbeque will be held at Windmill Farms, five miles east of Charlevoix on the Boyne City-Charlevoix Rd., for $3.50 each.

Youngsters experience time of Christ

by ANNE KELLY

"Shalom, my friend, shalom, my friend, farewell, farewell. 'til we meet again, 'til we meet again. Shalom, shalom."

Concluding a four day ecumenical hihletimes experience, 150 participating children from area churches and their families enjoyed a picnic supper and closing program of Hebrew dance and songs last Thursday night.

The grounds of the First Baptist Church on M-66, provided an appropriate setting for the four day exploration into "how things were" in the times of Christ.

The hot, sunny, breezy days in the field became the desert for the children, their tent mothers and the shopkeepers of the marketplace.

The small tents housed the families of the twelve tribes of Israel, children ages 4-

Marketplace, 29 A.D. a "very unifying experience"

11, who wore a medallion bearing their family's name and partook in daily prayer and pleasure rituals.

One such ritual was a trip to the marketplace, a large area where under pitched tents, the shopkeepers sold or demonstrated their wares and skills. The baker, the kite maker, the carpenter, metal worker and candy maker; the music maker, the potter, brick maker, basket maker

Each "Hebrew" child was robed in the loose-fitting shirts of the day, belted with a cord from which dangled a burlap money bag complete with gold nuggets to spend. They wandered from shop to shop with their families, got acquainted with the animals which came for the week, drew water from the well, and traveled over the creek to the story teller who entertained them in the welcome shade of a tree.

Marketplace, 29 A.D., according to organizational committee members, was a tremendous success for children as well as adults. It was a way of bringing together the Christian community in a learning experience which everyone enjoyed.

As one church member put it, "It's been a very unifying experience... it took the Old Testament to bring us all together."

The village was complete down to the authentic livestock of the period - except for a camel that looked amazingly like a donkey.

Back to SCHOOL

Some go kicking and screaming. Others go quietly but apprehensively. Still others seem anxious to leave Mom and Dad and start school.

However they go, it is a fact that approximately 120,000 four and five years olds will enter kindergarten in Michigan public schools this fall.

"The experience can be a trying one, for it disrupts a family pattern that has existed for several years," State Superintendent of Public Instruction Phillip I. Runkel said. "Apprehension and uncertainty can add to the stress level for the whole family, so knowing what to expect is very important for both the parent and the young student. Forms that are not properly completed—deadlines that are missed and visitation days skipped can all add needless stress to the first school experience."

Runkel said the best source of information for parents is their local school district listed in the white pages of the telephone directory.

"School staff will be glad to help you with the local entry requirements and the necessary forms," he said. There are some guidelines that will help parents of students entering a Michigan public school for the first time know what to expect and what questions to ask.

"A child is entitled to enroll if he is five by Dec. 1. He must enroll if he will be six by Dec. 1. Most schools hold a registration day for students entering for the first time. Consult your local newspaper or contact your local school district.

"In most cases a birth certificate is required for registration.

"Most school districts require a physical examination for those students entering for the first time.

"Vision and hearing tests are required for students entering for the first time. Parents should expect to furnish proof of these at registration.

"Students must be immunized for diseases specified by the Michigan Department of Health before they can enter school for the first time.

"There are some exceptions to the rules above. If you have questions contact your local school district.

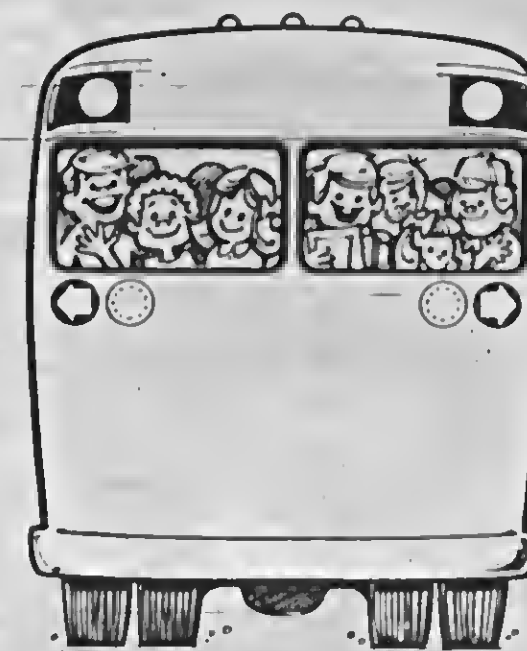

Runkel said parents are the most important influence on a child's life. "Their patience, encouragement and praise will help make school a positive experience for their child," he said. "Teachers and other school staff are accustomed to helping parents make adjustments to school. Consult them for any questions."

"Fitness Five" is a beginning exercise plan to improve overall muscle tone and increase cardiopulmonary capacity. Each of five exercises should be done six days per week for five weeks. The number of repetitions or period of exertion gradually increases and varies according to age. After five weeks, a person might want to ease into activities like jogging, swimming or tennis. It is recommended that anyone starting an exercise program should consult a physician before beginning.

Getting In Shape Without Leaving Home

Getting in shape doesn't have to be expensive, time consuming or a hassle. The plan's emphasis is on simplicity. It will be designed so that individuals can exercise in their homes, without spending money on equipment or clothes.

"Fitness Five" is a series of five exercises to promote overall fitness by improving muscle tone in the arms, legs, shoulders, trunk and abdomen, as well as increasing cardiopulmonary capacity. This is an excellent beginning schedule, especially if it is followed on a regular basis, but it is suggested individuals progress to more advanced exercises.

To encourage consistent participation, an exercise chart has been developed which includes a suggested number of repetitions for individuals in various age groups. A good general rule is that you have to exert some effort and strain for any conditioning program to pay off, but not to the point of exhaustion. Persons who find the fitness plan too easy may want to include walking, jogging, swimming or tennis in their routine.

It is recommended that anyone starting an exercise program should consult a physician before beginning. Trying to do too much too soon is a sure way to become discouraged. Start easily, be consistent and monitor your progress.

Since consistency is a key to any fitness plan, the exercises should be done daily, or at least four or five times a week.

The five exercises in the program include:

•Modified sit-ups to help strengthen abdominal muscles. To begin, lie on your back, with heels on the floor. Keep knees bent at a 45 to 90 degree angle, with hands interlocked at back of head. For count one, slowly curl forward until shoulders are about 10 inches off the floor, and tuck chin into chest. Hold for about three seconds. For count two, slowly return to start position.

•Trunk twist to tone muscles in waist and trunk. To start, stand with feet about shoulder width apart and hands interlocked behind head with elbows back. At count one, turn trunk sideways to the left as far as possible. For count two, return to starting position. For count three, repeat process to right side and count four is a return to start position.

•Half-knee bend to condition thighs, buttocks and lower back. To start, stand with feet about six to eight inches apart and hands on hips. At count one, bend knees to half-squat position while simultaneously swinging arms forward with palms down. For count two, return to start position. See Getting, page 6.

Life B.C. (Before Cablevision)

by ANNE KELLY
I was thinking the other day about what kids did for fun before they could just plop themselves down in a chair with a bowl of cereal and turn the violence on the television with their big toe. This is not a criticism of today's kids. I played "Scrabble" with some I like very much, just the other night. However, the whole evolution of kid's leisure is very interesting when you look at it in terms of from scooters to mopeds, 1948-1984.

Our family didn't have television until I was in the fifth grade. I didn't get my first bike until I was 12, and sure, my dad picked a 100 quarts of strawberries before school when he was a lad. You have to be careful. It's the truth versus nostalgia license when you start spouting off small motor co-ordination has been seriously neglected. No Jacks! Of course, they also don't have calluses on their knuckles from scrapping across a cement porch during tournament time. And where is the little cloth marbles bag with the drawing? Purses and cats' eyes and circles drawn in the dirt? I think even more than hide-and-seek, we played Spud outdoors in the evenings. It's been so long, I can't remember all the rules. I do recall the rudiments which went something like this: a bunch of kids, everybody has a number and somebody who's "it" has a ball. "It" throws the ball up, calls a number, and that person runs in to catch the ball. He then yells "Spud" and everybody stops in his tracks. From then on it's like "Horse", you try not to get letters on you, and you get letters if you get hit by the ball. Great fun. But what happened to Spud? Perhaps the most time-consuming pastime of my youth was building forts. Of course, you have to have woods to build forts like we did. Sticks held together with sasafraz twine, sweeping out areas under a cove of trees and calling it "Shady Nook." Fort-making must be intuitive. Our younger kids use blankets and flashlights in the playroom.

One thing that will really date you if you ask for it in the grocery store is junket, that delicious last setting custard that came in these wonderful flavors: strawberry, chocolate and vanilla. That was before pudding companies got into pistachio and coconut-banana. It was kind of a last foods snack, mix with two cups of milk, watch it set, and devour the whole bowl single-handedly.

We played baseball, swung from a rope into a pile of hay, traded trading cards, made horse races, and played a board game called "Mr. Rich." We caught lightning bugs, walked up to the grocery store for five ball gum, and mixed up strange concoctions in old fruit jars. We read books. We played cards.

All without one episode of "Sesame Street" or "Silver Spoons."

Not long ago, our 11-year-old was called by a friend who wondered if she would be going on the dance cruise.

"Certainly not," I replied when our daughter asked if she could go. "You don't even know how to play Jacks yet."

Along with visiting fascinating island ports, on board you'll enjoy gala cocktail parties, dancing in romantic lounges or a swinging disco, all sorts of lun-filled games and contests, deck sports out in the fresh sea air, current run feature length movies, spectacular nightclub shows with live entertainment, gambling in a lull casino, and much, much more.

No matter what cabin class you choose on most of today's cruise lines, you'll find the same amenities, the same attentive service, and the same abundance of facilities awaiting your pleasure.

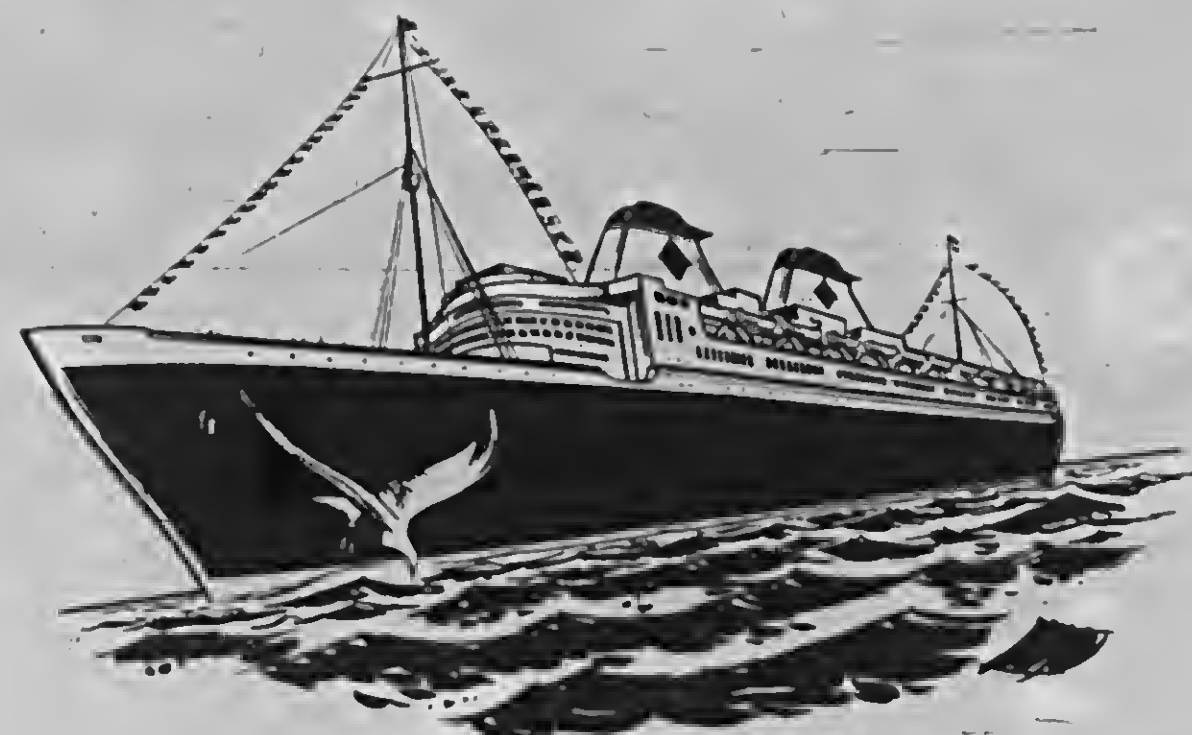

From the moment the sun appears over the horizon, your ship is alive with activity. You can start with early morning exercises out on the deck, or go jogging in the fresh sea air. There's ping-pong in the game room, golf driving and skeet shooting off the lantail, and shuffleboard.

We also have plenty of games and contests for plenty of fun. A plank joust, a beer drinking contest, a grandmother's bragging party, and even shipboard versions of your favorite TV game shows. One thing is for certain... you'll never run out of things to do!

You can simply relax, too, if you like. Lie back and let the sun perfect your tan, or go for a refreshing swim in a pool. On some ships, there's even more than one pool to choose from. And the important thing for the budget-minded traveler to realize is that all of these forms of entertainment are included in the total cost of the cruise. Except for drinks, land excursion activities and a few shipboard diversions (often you must pay a small fee for skeet shooting), there will be no necessity to reach for your wallet on a cruise.

fabulous food has always been on the hallmark of a cruise vacation. Most ships start the day with a continental breakfast for early birds out on deck and finish up with a late night mini buffet. You can enjoy a full course breakfast in the •Modified push-up to improve muscles in arms, shoulders and chest. To begin, place hands about shoulder width apart on front edge of a bed or similar object. Move feet backward until legs and back are in a straight line, with body weight supported by feet and hands. At count one, keeping head up, bend arms at elbow and lower body until chest touches front of bed. For count two, push up, straightening arms until returned to start position.

•Walk/run in place to improve heart and lung efficiency. Walk, without moving forward, raising your left and then right knee. As strength increases, move faster and raise knees higher. Eventually, build to running in place.

Bess Bonnier, Michigan's
First Lady of Jazz

By CHARLOTTE ROSS-LEE

Bess Bonnier, acclaimed a world class jazz pianist by musicians, critics, and jazz music polls, will appear in concert with her trio, at McCune Community Arts Center's Ross Stokes Theatre, Thursday evening, September 13 at 8 o'clock. Tickets are priced at $8 adults, $5 students and senior citizens, $20 family.

Bess, a native Detroit, is well known to residents of that city and its environs. She enjoys an illustrious musical reputation nationwide through her concerts, recorded albums, radio and television performances, lectures and music workshops.

She is currently appearing with her group at the Summit Restaurant of the Westin Hotel in Detroit's Renaissance Center. She also continues her affiliation with the Detroit Institute of Arts as Pianist-in-Residence in its Crystal Gallery Sunday afternoons.

In addition to functioning as a full-time musician, Bess Bonnier has raised a family of three children, and also received a Bachelor of Arts degree in English from Wayne State University in 1970. She has served as Artist-in-Residence in the Detroit Public School System in 1974 through 1980, and, from 1980-82, the Grosse Pointe Public

Diet Key Factor In Fitness Program

Developing good nutritional habits is just as important as exercise for someone beginning a physical fitness program.

You can do all the exercise in the world, but if you ignore common sense eating habits by filling up on junk food and not getting enough of the basic food groups, you will not become physically fit.

Moderation and balance are important to any good diet. The body needs protein for growth and repair processes, carbohydrates and fats for energy, as well as vitamins and minerals to regulate chemical processes.

That may sound complicated, but it really isn't if you remember the four basic food groups — milk, fruits and vegetables, breads and cereals, and meats. If you eat three moderate meals daily from each of these groups, and avoid excessive between-meal snacks, you should have a balanced diet.

The milk group — cheese, yogurt and ice cream — is high in protein as well as calcium, which is essential to a healthy bone structure. Since these items are high in fat content, they should be used in their low-fat forms.

Vegetables and fruits contain large amounts of vitamins A and C, as well as iron, which is important for the body's blood supply. Breads and cereals also provide essential vitamins and minerals. The highest source of protein is from the meat group and such foods as dried beans and peas, nuts, and peanut butter.

Individuals with special conditions or health problems often require special diets, and they should consult a physician about proper diets.

A very important part of diet is to develop good eating habits. Often, how we eat determines how much we eat.

To improve eating habits, the following is advised:

• Eat slowly. To give your stomach time to catch up with your appetite. If you eat too fast, you will tend to get a bloated feeling 15 minutes after you've eaten.

• Don't go grocery shopping when you are hungry. You will tend to buy anything that appeals to you and often end up with a pantry full of empty calories.

• Don't eat while reading or watching television. It is too easy to lose track of how much you are ingesting.

• If you must eat between meals, make it a nutritious snack, such as fruits or raw vegetables instead of junk food.

Moderation is particularly important to alcohol intake. Not only does alcohol add calories but it also tends to decrease the intake of foods rich in important nutrients.

In addition, a major step an individual must take on the road to fitness is to stop smoking. The dangers of smoking are well documented, and it is difficult to be really healthy if you smoke.

Try at a meal, take one or more glasses of water before you begin eating to help reduce your appetite.

Wiesner is council's choice for city mgr.

by DAVE KNIGHT

Michael Wiesner, 39, was chosen by City Council at a special meeting Tuesday, August 28, to succeed Robert Hunt as city manager.

Wiesner, currently the public works director and assistant to the city manager at Cadillac, accepted the position which carries a starting salary of $30,000 a year, approximately what Hunt was making when he resigned August 3 to take a position in Incline Village, Nevada. Wiesner was also offered $1,500 in deferred compensation and other standard employee benefits.

He will start in his new position October 8.

The Tuesday meeting capped a selection process that attracted a total of 56 applicants. Of those, five were interviewed by council and, at last Monday night's regular meeting, the choice was narrowed to either Wiesner or Ryan Cotton, 27, assistant city manager of Lake Forest, Ill.

Council members Michael Greeley and Shirley Roloff voiced support for Cotton in Tuesday's first poll but later made the vote to select Wiesner unanimous when the other four members indicated their preference for Wiesner.

Wiesner is a Petoskey native who received an associate degree from North Central Michigan College, a bachelor's degree from Michigan Technological University and is close to completion of a masters of public administration degree from Central Michigan University.

He was building inspector and assistant to the city engineer in Petoskey from 1971 to 1973; was a staff engineer for the Gaylord firm of Robinson-McKelvey in 1974 and was city engineer for St. Joseph, Michigan for two years before assuming his present position in Cadillac in 1978.

Big Rock gets nod in spent fuel request

by DAVE KNIGHT

Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear power plant got a new lease on life last week with the decision Wednesday by the Atomic Safety and Licensing Board to recommend approval of the plant's request to increase the size of its spent fuel capacity.

Had the board disapproved the request to increase capacity of the plant's spent fuel pool from the present 193 fuel bundles to 441, the pool would have been full next year, thus threatening the remainder of Big Rock's operating life. It is licensed by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) to operate until the year 2000.

The ASLB decision, which will be added as an amendment to the plant's operating license if not appealed within 45 days, caps a five-year debate involving Consumers Power and a group of citizen intervenors opposed to the expansion of the spent fuel-pool capacity.

Both ASLB hearing judge Peter H. Bloch and spokesmen for the intervenors said that the close scrutiny of safety measures at Big Rock over the past five years as a result of the intervention resulted in significant improvements to the plant's safe operation.

Seven conditions included in the ASLB approval are as follows:

1. Consumers Power shall adopt and observe a technical specification to assure that the plant will not operate if the capacity of the makeup line to remove heat from the spent fuel pool exceeds the heat generating capacity of the pool inventory, considering the power history of each assembly in the pool, the number of assemblies in the pool and the effect of lake temperature on the heat-removal capacity of the make-up water system.

2. Consumers Power shall adopt and observe procedures prohibiting the storage of materials in the area between rack B and the east wall of the pool.

3. Consumers Power shall prohibit use of its gantry crane for loads of over 24 tons.

4. Consumers Power shall adopt and observe procedures to assure that only spent fuel with a decay time of at least one year will be stored in the outer three rows of the fuel rack adjacent to the south wall of the pool.

5. Consumers Power shall promptly conduct a human factors analysis of the meter for its noble gas stack monitor, including an analysis of the readability of the add-on scale and of the acceptability of the placement of the meter other than on the main control panel.

6. Consumers Power shall adopt and observe procedures to calibrate its containment radiation monitors within the manufacturer's error band of plus or minus 25 percent.

7. Consumers Power shall agree to promptly advise State and local planning authorities of the view of the ASLB that further consideration should be given to whether there are

Hotel-conference center project alive and well, says Altman

by DAVE KNIGHT

"Nothing has changed," said developer Joel Altman last week of plans for a $6 million hotel and conference center at the north end of the U.S. 31 drawbridge in downtown Charlevoix.

"Things haven't exactly screamed ahead," he said. "But the complexity of the project and the unusual number of players involved in the game has precluded us from getting it going as yet."

Plans for the complex, now being marketed as "The Inn at Charlevoix," were announced by Altman in February, 1983. He and Williamston publisher John McGoff, owner of the Star of Charlevoix among other interests, are partners in the joint venture with Altman as managing partner.

According to Altman, ground will be broken as soon as two key parts of the financial puzzle fall into place. One is the reservation by prospective buyers of at least 60 percent of the planned 59 units by the end of the year. In an arrangement similar to the Weatherlane Terrace Hotel, units will be individually owned but booked for use as a conventional hotel.

"This goal," said Altman, "has been set as a means by which to measure market acceptance of the product and the concept. I don't think it is going to be a difficult task."

Some reservations for units, which range in price from $65,000 to $145,000, have already been being taken according to associates of the Ski & Shore Real Estate firm of Charlevoix which is handling the sales program.

Said Altman of the response after less than a month of active marketing, "We are very, very pleased."

The other requisite for the project is a $1.1 million urban development action grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The first application for the UDAG grant, submitted last year through the City of Charlevoix, was not acted upon because of incomplete data.

Altman said however, that a new application was to be submitted Friday and that he is confident of its approval.

He added that no part of the project will be initiated without approval by HUD of the grant saying, "A UDAG is only granted when issuance of the grant assures the total development."

Of the site plan for the development, Altman said the only changes made since it was announced a year and a half ago are "minor." They include the addition of one unit and a change in the parking area. These changes are to be brought before city council at an upcoming meeting.

In addition to the hotel on the east side of U.S. 31, the proposed complex will include Ricciardi's Inn, of Charlevoix (formerly the Weatherlane Restaurant), a meeting facility on the site of the former Charlevoix Oil Company and a two-story, 108-car parking structure just north of the meeting center. Eight boat slips on Round Lake at the hotel site, ranging in price from $17,750 to $18,000, are also for sale.

Earlier this summer, Joseph Ricciardi entered into a management contract with the Charlevoix County State Bank to operate the restaurant; the ownership of which had been assumed by CCB in bankruptcy proceedings. Altman said that a total renovation of the Earl Young-designed structure is still in the master plan for the development but that management by Ricciardi's will continue.

"We like very much what they Ricciardi's have done and plan to continue working with them," said Altman. Initial plans were to have the Scheide firm of Traverse City take over the restaurant but that arrangement was never worked out.

The conference center, according to Altman, will be operated by a non-profit corporation. Asked if a visitor and convention bureau, now being developed by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, would be a candidate for operating agent for the center, Altman said, "That just might be the entity."

Board okays lake study grant application; hears B.I. plea for full-time officer

by FRANK MARTIN

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, at its regular meeting Wednesday, gave its support to an application for a $12,500 grant from the Michigan Coastal Management Program to be matched by the county.

In reporting on the application, Larry Sullivan, county planner, said that his office would supply some of the county's share of the match with other funds coming from organizations that will join the county in conducting the in-depth study of Lake Charlevoix. He also touched on areas that would be included in the survey.

In other action, the board heard from a delegation representing the two townships on Beaver Island, Peaine and St. James. Henry Hill, spokesman for the delegation, addressed the subject of a need for a full-time law enforcement officer on the island.

The island is presently served by a part-time deputy who must seek another part-time job to supplement his income.

In his presentation, Hill said the island is not a colony of saints. "We have questionable characters, just as you do on the mainland and this problem is multiplied a number of times during the summer. Neither do we hibernate in the winter. We have problems during all seasons just as you do," Hill continued.

He went on to say that Beaver Island is not the best job market and, as a result, a deputy could not find a job that would offer him a living wage.

He also said that the other 13 townships in the county have full-time law enforcement and that island residents felt they deserved the same service.

Hill added that the two island townships were paying their fair share in taxes but were not getting their fair share of protection.

Knight, center, who pulled the winning ticket out of the jar during a special benefit cruise on the Star of Charlevoix, and Elaine Plackner, executive director of Chip Counseling Center. Mrs. Wallace delighted the audience by promptly announcing that her prize would be donated to the Chip Counseling Center.

Knight on the Town

Constructive adversity

By Dave Knight

By an unusual coincidence, two events of last week that occurred within hours of each other made amazingly similar - and encouraging - statements about how corporate responsibility and citizen activism can interact to the benefit of all.

On Wednesday, the Atomic Safety and Licensing Board finally gave its approval for Consumers Power Company to expand the capacity of the spent fuel pool at the Big Rock nuclear plant.

While the decision in the plant's favor had been long expected by both Consumers Power and the intervenors, who opposed an increase in spent fuel storage capacity, it brought some degree of finality to a debate that has dragged on for five years.

For the company, the ruling means that the Big Rock plant - which has been an industry standard for safety and continuous operation - may carry on as at least one example of a nuclear plant that works.

For the intervenors, satisfaction comes in the way of the many changes and improvements, many in the area of public safety and emergency planning, that were adopted as a result of their concerns. The bottom line is that an adversarial situation was resolved into positive results to the community. This has not been the case in the majority of recent confrontations around the country involving the viability of nuclear power.

On Thursday morning, the executive board of WATCH, Inc. invited some special guests to its breakfast meeting. Jack Schmidt, superintendent of the Medusa Cement Plant and DNR air quality staff member Arden Toland were summoned to report on the success of dust control measures enacted at the plant over recent months.

Comments from boardmembers including Eleanor McGrain of Boulder Park, Jerry Puhl who lives just south of the plant, James K. Campbell of the Belvedere Club, Cal Gould who tends many area summer residences, and Howard Nielsen who lives in LaCrosse were all to the effect that the summer air is the most dust-free of any summer in recent memory.

Toland substantiated the observations saying that, in his opinion, the plant has significantly improved its approach to dust control.

Again, it took some concerned citizens who got mad enough to do something about a problem, and a corporate entity that realized the importance of being a good neighbor to work together for the betterment of the community at large.

These two stories are examples of a cooperative, progressive attitude that can make any community a better place to live.

"And now, this just in from Lansing. A Charlevoix woman, Mrs. Jeannine Wallace, is the first person to be prohibited from playing Michigan Lotto by executive order. Said Governor James Blanchard, 'To let her play just wouldn't be fair to the rest of us.'" practicable means of expediting an evacuation that might be required during a rock concert or other major event at the Castle Farms site.

Big Rock officials said in a press release that the conditions are "largely technical" and "do not appear to present any roadblocks to the utility".

Allmon project...

A recently enacted state law enables the formation of such a bureau through levy of a room tax on hotels and motels in a specified district. Also being studied by the developer is the feasibility of, temporarily covering, during winter months, the swimming pool included in the hotel site plan.

Throughout the interview, Altman voiced strong optimism that not only would his proposed development make the successful jump from drawing board to actual construction, but that it would provide a vital stimulus to the local economy.

"We think we have the right product and that it is priced correctly. After all, we hired the best people in the industry to look at the feasibility before we did anything else," he said.

The Detroit-accounting firm of Levinthal & Horvath, which specializes in the hotel and restaurant field, conducted the feasibility study for the project.

"There are only a few towns in the Midwest that have the beauty of Charlevoix on a four-seasons basis," said Altman, who has long maintained a vacation home here. "And we have the premier location in all of Charlevoix. We are talking about a first-class facility here. That has never changed."

Said Altman, "I am motivated by only two things: profit and pride. With this project right now, we are working on pride."

Clockwise

The plague, California style

By Bob Clock

According to the papers, Southern California is ripe for an outbreak of bubonic plague - which is not exactly the cheeriest piece of news we have read lately.

Dr. Tom Quan, a research microbiologist for the National Centers for Disease Control stationed at Ft. Collins, Ariz., says a number of factors have dovetailed to set the stage.

"The rodents are there, the fleas are there and the population of people is there," he reports gloomily. "Which is not surprising, considering California's proclivity for doing things in a grand manner. A few years ago, scientists said California was going to slide into the Pacific Ocean and the other 48 states are still waiting for the splash."

One would almost think the average Californian likes living under a sword of Damocles. If he doesn't, why doesn't he move back Indiana or West Virginia?

IN CASE YOU slept through history class, bubonic plague made headlines during the Middle Ages when it was called "the black death" and managed to wipe out half the population of Europe. It is a nasty disease that is carried by rodents and is spread to humans by (start scratching) fleas.

According to Dr. Quan, the most common rodent in Southern California is the ground squirrel, which doesn't sound so terribly threatening. However, California abounds in another creature called the "roof rat," which doesn't sound very nice at all. The roof rat prefers the company of humans over other inhabitants of Planet Earth and lives in the attics of Southern California homes. So far roof rats do not appear particularly susceptible to the disease, but if they do become infected, Dr. Quan anticipates the worst.

Complicating the picture is the fact that the common house cat is rapidly becoming a vehicle for the transmission of bubonic plague, so it wouldn't be too smart to get a cat to chase the roof rats.

The situation seems almost hopeless, particularly to someone who has never before heard of a roof rat and doesn't want to again.

Last year, 40 cases of plague were reported in western states, the most since 1924. So far this year, 20 cases were reported and 1984 is shaping up as the second-worst year for the plague in 60 years.

Although bubonic plague is deadly, antibiotic therapy is effective in many cases. Last year, a Claremont, Calif., veterinarian caught plague from his cat and the disease deteriorated into highly contagious form called plague pneumonia. But the doctor recovered and the 61 people who had come into face-to-face contact with him never even got the disease, thanks to preventive treatment. No one seems to know what happened to the cat.

Let's hear a big cheer out there for Michigan.

Letters from readers

A brief follow-up to the Editor:

We thank you, the radio media, members, and friends for the united effort. The book sale was a success; second only to the big four day event.

—Virginia Ethel Wiesinger and Marc Piert

Paul Gilbert wrote: "Much effort and planning went into this wonderful festive project. All children and grade children are very proud to know that the memory of Ethel Wiesinger, who loved books with a passion, was so honored by her dear friends of the Charlevoix Woman's Club."

Good things for the community will follow in the up-coming weeks as a result of this sale.

Deepest appreciation and, goodbye, Ethel.

Respectfully,
Ed and Julia Leedy,

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Norbert G. Scharenbroch

Dhaseleer-Scharenbroch

St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix was the setting for the August 18 wedding of Carol Lynne Dhaseleer and Norbert Gerard Scharenbroch.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dhaseleer of the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert W. Scharenbroch, also of Charlevoix.

Father Casimir J. Zawacki officiated at the double-ring rites before approximately 200 guests. For the occasion, the church was decorated with pink and white gladioli and snapdragons.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her parents, wore a gown of white polyester, lace fashioned with V-neckline with flounce and satin ribbon trim, and a flounced skirt. Her veil was of matching lace in finger-tip length, and she carried a bouquet of silk white orchids and pink roses.

Elaine Scharenbroch, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, and the bridegroom's two sisters, Diane and Gail Scharenbroch, served as bridesmaids. Their gowns were mauve-pink and they each carried two white orchids with baby's breath and white ribbons.

Mary Anne Scharenbroch, niece of both the bride and bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a long pink dress covered with white eyelids and

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Sternburgh

Wood-Sternburgh

Shelly Wood became the bride of Dennis Sternburgh early Saturday evening, August 4, at the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Wood of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sternburgh of Muskegon.

Flowers and candelabra decorated the altar and ribbon bows marked the pews of the church for the double-ring ceremony performed by the Reverend Philip Scharenbroch. Both the bride and bridegroom were given in marriage by their parents.

The bride's gown was of organza trimmed in Chantilly lace, fashioned with a beaded bodice, Queen Anne neckline, and multi-ruffled semi-cathedral train. She carried a crescent cascade of blue iris, statice, stephanotis, and ivy and wore a garland of baby's breath, statice, and ivy in her hair.

Lynne Bradley served as maid of honor, and the bride's three sisters - Cathy Rogers, Teri Wood, and Leslie Alger - were bridesmaids. They wore orchid taffeta gowns designed with spaghetti straps, full skirts, and

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McNamara

Mabee-McNamara

Jacqueline Mabee and Thomas McNamara exchanged wedding vows Saturday, August 25, in an outdoor ceremony held at Elm Pointe near East Jordan.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mabee and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McNamara. Both families are from Charlevoix.

The natural setting for the 4 p.m. double ring ceremony was decorated with pink and white geraniums. Rev. Walter Hastings of the Community Church of God presided.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother and father, wore a simple, tea length dress of cream-colored silk gathered at the waist with a satin ribbon. The front and back of the softly colored bodice had been hand-smocked and delicately embroidered with pale pink roses as accent, as well as had the three-quarter length sleeves, by her aunt Judith Disney from Sturgis, Mi.

Maid of honor was Judy Mabee, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Susan McNamara, sister of the groom, Susan Robertson, sister of the bride and Lorena Evetts of Sterling Heights, Mi.

A reception, hosted by the parents of the bride, was held at Elm Pointe following the wedding. Barbara and Betty Haggard helped with the guest book and the serving of the cake.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the parents of the groom at Duffy's of Charlevoix, Friday, August 24. Both newweds are graduates of Charlevoix High School and continued their education at Western Michigan University where Tom earned his degree in finance.

They now make their home in Farmington Hills.

Jim Annis' "The Medusa Challenger"

Limited edition print by Jim Annis features Challenger in Chicago

by ANNE KELLY

Local artist, Jim Annis, is preparing to put another of his original paintings into print. "The Medusa Challenger" will be Annis' 5th work to date, printed in limited edition. The Medusa Cement Company, who will be financing this printing, will be using their share of the prints for promotional purposes.

The Medusa Challenger is the largest cement tug operating on the Great Lakes and a common sight off the coast of Charlevoix, where it originates from the Medusa Cement Company. Annis himself became fascinated with the Challenger through association with several of its captains and from fishing in its shadow for a good many years.

Since 1967, The Medusa Challenger has carried its cargo of cement to various ports around the Great Lakes, making between 50 and 60 trips a year. With its capability to carry 11,250 tons, the Challenger is the largest tugboat in the Great Lakes fleet.

Until recently, the Challenger had always been an enigma for the bridegroomers of the so-called drawbridges which span the Chicago River. At 552 ft., the Challenger was the largest boat to have ever sailed up the river, and as such, maintained an infamous reputation for causing a spell on the bridges, fixing them on the way through. Reportedly, on several occasions, the witchy woman caused electrical havoc, shorting circuits, petrifying bridges in an "up" or "down" position, and backing up traffic for blocks in either direction for over an hour at a crack.

Perhaps this is why in 1982, the Challenger was finally escorted via Lake Calumet into South Chicago and the storage bins located there.

Names In The News

Airman DEBRA A. MALAK, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Malak of East Jordan, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force aerospace ground equipment mechanic course at Chanute Air Force Base, Ill.

During the course, students were taught to repair generators, gas turbines and hydraulic pumping equipment. They also earned credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Malak is scheduled to serve with the 95th Field Maintenance Squadron at Blytheville Air Force Base, Ark.

She is a 1978 graduate of Central Lake High School.

Coast Guard Seaman Apprentice JACK P. MORAN JR., son of Jack P. Moran and E. Kay Ulrich of Charlevoix, has completed recruit training at the Coast Guard Training Center, Cape May, N.J.

During the eight-week training cycle, trainees studied general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training leading toward their qualification in one of the Coast Guard's 26 occupational fields.

Included in their studies were first aid, seamanship, Coast Guard history and regulations, close order drill and damage control.

Airman MARGARET F. KELLEY, daughter of Barbara Kelley and Douglas Kelley of Boyne City has been assigned to Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

The Airman will now receive specialized training in the administration field.

Coast Guard Cadet JAMES W. SEBASTIAN III, son of Carolyn A. and James W. Sebastian Jr. of Charlevoix, recently completed the first phase of his 1984 Summer Training Program.

The first phase, aboard the U.S. Coast Guard Barque EAGLE, a three masted sailing ship, is an important part of the cadets' overall training program.

During the five weeks aboard the Class "A" tall ship, subjects such as seamanship, navigation and leadership theories, which are taught in the classroom, are put into practical everyday use.

While aboard, the cadets sailed in international events with other tall ships from foreign countries, including the Soviet Union, Great Britain, Sweden and West Germany. They visited Bermuda, Halifax, and Quebec in Canada.

Bill Kazmaier: Gentle giant with a message

by DAVE KNIGHT

"World's Strongest Man" moniker.

He is 6'3", weighs 320 pounds, has 22" biceps, 21" neck, 58" chest, 40" waist, 32" thighs and 21" calves.

So who's going to tell Bill Kazmaier he's not the World's Strongest Man?

Incredibly, a cheeky New Englander named John Wooten tried to do just that recently and, when Kazmaier was in Charlevoix this weekend, he was still steamed about it.

"This man has never lifted a weight," said Kazmaier, who currently sits at the apex of the professional powerlifting world. "He was trained by stuntmen to do some illusions like holding back a speeding car with his teeth."

The result of Wooten's claim to the title coveted by Kazmaier has been some bitter court fights but so far the judicial system has been hesitant to award Kazmaier complete legal possession of the

His most visible accomplishment in TV-conscious America was the winning of ABC's

To anyone who knows anything about organized powerlifting, however, there is no argument.

Kazmaier is the reigning World Champion Powerlifter in three of the four categories of the sport as recognized by the International Powerlifting Federation and the U.S. Powerlifting Federation. In fact, he is a three-time world champion on both the North American and European continents.

His standing record in the bench press is 661 pounds and he also holds the record in the deadlift at 887 pounds. His three lift total, including the squat, is a record 2425 pounds.

In Europe, where powerlifting is vastly more popular as a spectator sport than the States, Kazmaier is recognized on any street and always attracts a crowd of autograph seekers.

Strong Man competition for all of the three years it was on. "I know people called the show a trash-sport," said Kazmaier, "but it really was legitimate competition. The only reason it was cancelled for me," was because the Kazmaier's producer couldn't find appearance in any more competition. Continued on page 4

Bill Kazmaier

Steve Kehr in action Saturday.

Bill Kazmaier...

Charlevoix was arranged by Steve Kehr who operates the Charlevoix Health and Fitness Center. Kehr, a powerlifter himself, organized an exhibition of the growing sport at the Charlevoix High School gym Saturday to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Lifters from all over the state took part and some state records even tumbled.

The highlight of the day was Kazmaier's brief workout—during which he first did five consecutive repetitions of the squat lift with 650 pounds and then did three more with 700 on the bar. Even in heavy weight competition among other participants Saturday, most of the squat lifting was in the 400 to 500 pound range.

But just as remarkable as Kazmaier's brute physical power is his affable approach. He is actually a very thoughtful, soft-spoken, unselfish type who has devoted himself to excellence in his chosen activity and wants to spread his personal gospel.

I have been given a great gift," Kazmaier said, "And all I am doing today is giving it back."

Ask him what's so great about powerlifting as a sport and you can expect a rapid-fire response.

"Powerlifting is the perfect sport for the Eighties, the age of physical fitness...It is a fantastic discipline for the body and its benefits carry over to the rest of your life...It builds discipline not only physically but also mentally...It is good for everyone."

Kazmaier didn't find his calling in powerlifting until after a few false starts in some other, more "American" athletic pursuits.

His size—225 pounds in high school—naturally made prep and college football coaches drool.

Bill Kazmaier signed autographs for many young fans.

Bill Kazmaier...

At Burlington (Wis.) High School, he was one big fullback and he continued his gridiron career at the University of Wisconsin. But injuries and other setbacks took their toll and Kazmaier, after a couple tryouts with NFL teams, eventually made his way to California where, in 1979, he was first exposed to powerlifting.

For the first time in his life, Kazmaier was able to utilize and develop his gifts of great strength and size without having to crush people.

"Lifting to me is a celebration of life and God," he says. "When you have motivation like that, there is no way you can lose."

Indeed, losing soon became an infrequent occurrence for Kazmaier. Two years after his introduction to powerlifting, "Kaz" won his first world title.

He has only gotten better since.

Kazmaier now makes his home in Auburn, Alabama where a typical day starts at 8 a.m. with an atypical breakfast.

"I'll have a dozen eggs or so, a half gallon of milk. Then I'll work out for three hours lifting a total of about 15 to 20 tons in the morning. Then I'll have lunch...maybe a half a chicken, some fish, more milk. Then I'll spend a couple hours watching video tape of my morning workout, then I'll have some more to eat..."

You get the idea. Kazmaier figures he eats about seven or eight meals a day, heavy with protein, supplemental mega-vitamins, minerals and derivatives from animal organs. ("The best way your body can regenerate its organs is to ingest organs from other animals.")

Steroids? Kazmaier doesn't use them or recommend them but he is carefully non-judgmental about those who have opted to use them.

"Everyone is different with different bodies and different pressures on how they use them," he says. "Everyone should analyze very closely whatever substances they put into their bodies."

It is immediately apparent that Bill Kazmaier - "Kaz" to the legion of fans, young and old, that flock to him as soon as they realize what a kind and approachable giant he is - has closely analyzed everything that has gone into his body over the past five years.

As a tribute to clean living and tunnel-visioned discipline, what better example could there be than the World's Strongest Man?

The face of this young onlooker pretty well reflects the intensity of the action.

Charlevoix schools' enrollment drop is area's largest

by FRAN MARTIN

First day enrollments in the Charlevoix Public Schools showed a decrease of 52 students over the official fourth Friday enrollment figures of 1983.

The decrease in total number of students in the district, now 1,348 as compared to 1,400 on Sept. 30, 1983, was the most dramatic enrollment drop of any school district in Emmet and Charlevoix Counties.

In Charlevoix County, in fact, every district except Charlevoix gained students. East Jordan's first day enrollment figures showed the largest increase gaining 41 students, from 1,014 to 1,055, over last year. Boyne City was up 10 students to 1,159 from last year's 1,149.

On Beaver Island, 13 more students were enrolled than last year's fourth Friday count bringing the total number of students in the island's system to 79.

In Charlevoix's case, most of the decrease in enrollment was in the Middle School. In sixth, seventh and eighth grades on the first day of school last week was 296 compared to 348 in those grades last fall.

Enrollment in the elementary grades of kindergarten through grade five increased from 529 to 547 and the high school lost only six students going from 511 to 505.

St. Mary's Catholic School increased its enrollment over last year by 14 students, going from 66 to 80. One factor contributing to the increase is the reinstatement of a sixth grade class at the school. Sixth grade was dropped last year but will be taught with 14 students this year. The reinstatement of the sixth grade at St. Mary's is one reason for the marked decrease in the Middle School enrollment this year.

According to Shari L. Hoque, principal of the Beaver Island Community School, the school's kindergarten class of 11 is the largest in recent years. The school includes all grades from kindergarten through grade 12.

Kindergarten will not start on the island, however, until October 9 and the students will spend only two half-days per week in school until the second semester when they will attend school every day on a half-time basis.

Total enrollment in the Charlevoix-Emmet County area stood at 9,325 on the first day of school last week. The traditional fourth Friday count of last year for the two counties was 9,397. Enrollment has dropped each of the last ten years for the two-county area.

City makes its pitch for beach purchase funding

Charlevoix City Planner Gerry Harsch appeared before the Michigan Land Trust Fund board in Lansing Thursday to present the city's request for a grant to help purchase 1.4 acres of Lake Charlevoix frontage just north of the city's Ferry Beach park.

The city presently has an option to buy the property for $24,000 and extend the existing park.

Application was made to the MLTF earlier this year for a $12,000 grant which the city would match with funds derived from tax increment financing, a system in which assessed valuation of a specified district is frozen while the increases in valuation are used for public improvements in the district.

As part of his oral presentation, Harsch used slides of the Ferry Beach area showing the current use of the lakefront and the proposed uses for the additional property.

According to MLTF officials, Michael McDonald, Charlevoix was one of 69 applications for the trust grants still under consideration for approval. A total of 28 applications for funding was received by the June 1 deadline and 121 of those have already been eliminated from the running.

A grant letter of endorsement was forwarded to the MLTF board by Bruce MacArthur, president of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc., and Howard Neilson, president of WATCH, Inc. The letter asked approval of the grant to accommodate the growing need for recreation and tourist-oriented facilities in the city and to preserve "vanishing waterfront land."

The MLTF board's recommendations as to the property best suited for funding will be sent to the state legislature by January for final approval.

Dinner cruise will set stage for Lake Charlevoix plan

by DAVE KNIGHT

An October 1 dinner cruise on the Star of Charlevoix is being planned to kick-off efforts to initiate a development plan for Lake Charlevoix.

Approximately 90 county, city and township officials are being invited to take part in the meeting on the vessel which county planner Larry Sullivan described as "essentially informational."

The function is being completely funded by WATCH, Inc., a citizen environmental organization.

According to Howard F. Neilson, president of WATCH, the primary purpose of the cruise is to "inaugurate discussions which will hopefully lead to the adoption of a Lake Charlevoix development plan."

Neilson proposed the idea for the cruise to the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners at the board's August 29 meeting. Board Chairman I. Lee Moerland subsequently notified Neilson that the board would participate in the dinner meeting and would encourage other officials of local governments around the lake to take part as well.

According to Sullivan, the County Planning Commission has also endorsed the concept of a kick-off meeting and thought the cruise was "an excellent idea."

Invitations are being mailed this week to all county commissioners, members of the County Planning Commission, supervisors and trustees of the seven townships that front the lake and supervisors of the other townships in the county, mayors and council or commission members of the three cities on the lake and representatives of the Lake Charlevoix Association and WATCH.

Also being invited are Dr. Ron Skoog, director of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, assistant DNR director James Cleary and DNR Regional administrator John MacGregor.

The County Board gave its approval August 29 to Sullivan to apply for a $12,500 grant from the Michigan Coastal Management Program for a comprehensive study of Lake Charlevoix. Matching funds would be provided by the county and other organizations concerned about the lake's future.

At least two substantial lakeshore developments involving high density housing units and boat docking facilities on Lake Charlevoix - Hemingway Pointe in Eveline Township and the former Camp Charlevoix in Hayes Township - have been proposed in recent months and have stimulated interest in development of a plan for controlled growth around the lake.

Dinner on the October 1 cruise, which will leave at 6:30 p.m., is to be followed by an informational presentation by Tip O' the Mitt Watershed Council staff members headed by Jim Bricker. The evening's route will include the viewing of some areas, daylight allowing, for which development is currently planned and other areas where future development is considered likely.

Neilson explained that WATCH's decision to cover the cost of the dinner meeting was based on the fact that some people may have criticized use of county funds for such a purpose. He said that his organization felt strongly about the need to convene a meeting of all the elected officials from local governmental units bordering the lake and that the 200-passenger Star of Charlevoix provided a logical, neutral site for such a meeting.

"It must be remembered that all 90 of the county, city and township officials around the lake will be involved in any future Lake Charlevoix development plan. Many of these people do not even know each other and many, quite possibly, are not aware of the many issues which threaten the lake's integrity," said Neilson. "It makes a great deal of sense and will make the task ahead a great deal easier for the County Board of Commissioners if all these people can meet together at the outset, both to get acquainted with each other and have the lake problems explained to them in a reasonable, intelligent manner."

WATCH, which was organized in the summer of 1983 to combat excess dust emissions from the Medusa-Cement Company plant in Charlevoix, has approximately 200 members, including both summer and year-round residents, primarily from the Charlevoix area. This past July, it joined with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the state Attorney General's office to successfully negotiate a consent decree with Medusa to improve air quality protection measures.

Neilson said that WATCH intends to work closely with the Lake Charlevoix Association (formerly the Lake Charlevoix Property Owners Association) and other interested organizations to support the county's effort toward a lake development plan.

He emphasized, however, that WATCH has no intentions of trying to dictate the substance of a development plan, saying "WATCH does not intend to suggest or tell the County Commission how to do the job but we do feel strongly that time is of the essence in implementing a Lake Charlevoix development plan whose conditions are enforceable by the county."

Neilson also suggested that WATCH, which has tax-exempt status as a non-profit organization, might be helpful in efforts to raise funds from the private sector for the lake study project.

Homemakers plan Rally Day

The Michigan Extension Homemakers invites you to "Spread Your Wings" at the 1984 Rally Day, Tuesday, October 2, at Hidden Valley in Gaylord. The program will run from 9 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. with luncheon included. The MAEH was designed to help spread pertinent information from Michigan State University through the Cooperative Extension Service to the women of the community. In the county, local study groups learn, teach, and share topics of interest to families and individuals. Our Tri-Area Rally Day is designed to provide an interesting and exciting beginning for the study clubs' new meeting year.

Last year, 200 women from seven counties attended. The program will feature some light entertainment, special drawings, and 2 very interesting speakers. Nancy Frye, State MAEH Membership Chairperson, will speak in the morning on the topic "Emerge to Your Full Potential". Nancy is a veteran of the U.S. Air Force. While serving, she met her husband and became a military wife. She lived in Europe for six years. Her husband retired from the Air Force and they and their two grown children live in Muskegon. For eight years, Nancy taught a class called "Fascinating Womanhood". In 1983, she was a Lay Leader to Washington D.C., representing Cooperative Extension and is presently a member of the Public Affairs Leadership Program through MSU. The afternoon session will be highlighted by called "Bull of the are about. For Mr. Wendell Hoover—Woods". Naturalist at Harwick Please feel free to contact your County Pines. Mr. Hoover will attend and see what the Cooperative Extension provide a program Extension Study Clubs Office.

Truth in taxation hearing was improperly held, says Waldner

by PEG OHLE

Karl Waldner, Boyne City activist, is being heard from again. The ringleader of the Organized Overtaxed Voters of America (OOVA), formerly known simply as the "Organized Voters of America", is objecting to the recent Truth in Taxation hearing held by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

The hearing was held on the County's request to levy an increase of .1452 mills for 1984 County operations, and .1010 mills for 1984 County Transit System operations. A resolution approving both increases was later passed by the County Board.

These increases will bring the millage for County operations up to .487, and the millage for Transit operations up to .2488. The additional millage is expected to bring Charlevoix County an additional $58,000 for operational purposes, and the Transit System $40,000 over 1983 millage revenues.

The OOVA, through Waldner, has filed a Motion for a Writ of Mandamus in Circuit Court against the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, in which he lists several grievances in connection with the tax hearing.

Notices advertising the Truth in Taxation hearing were run only in the two weekly newspapers in the County, which Waldner contends are not "newspapers of general circulation" as required by law.

The hearing considered levying taxes for two separate purposes (County operations and Transit operations), which Waldner contends is against the "letter, intent, and spirit of the law" (which is definitely singular, not plural).

The County Board of Commissioners did not adopt by resolution the additional proposed millage before conducting the public hearing. It was mentioned only in the resolution to hold the hearing.

The proposal to increase the Transit levy is in violation of the section of the Truth in Taxation Act, which states that "This section shall not apply for the ensuing fiscal year of a local unit of government that levied ad valorem taxes for operational purposes of one mill or less for its concluding fiscal year. (The original voted millage was .25 mills, of which the County Board levied only .1533 mills).

The County Board approved the additional millage on the same date as the hearing, thus violating the statutory language of the Act.

To settle these matters, the OOVA is asking that the public be permitted to vote on the increase of millage for both County operations and the Transit System, as provided by the Headlee Amendment.

On Saturday, August 25, 38 members of the Charlevoix Historical Society took a trip to Beaver Island. They left on the 8:30 boat and returned on the 5:30 boat. While on the island, they were guests of the Beaver Island Historical Society, enjoying a tour of their historical museum, and their marine museum, located on the waterfront. They also were shown the inside of the home of Doctor Proter, which was an old log home that the Society owns located about 5 miles from town. (The snapshot was taken in front of that home). A 39 mile tour of the island was taken, which included a stop at the lighthouse and facilities owned by the Charlevoix Public Schools. The trip was most enjoyable, with the group arriving home at 7:45.

Knight on the Town

Dirty shame

by Dave Knight

Water quality, it seems, is a topic we just can't get out of our system here.

Whether for drinking, fishing or swimming, Charlevoix depends so much on its water resources that I suppose preoccupation with water quality should only be natural.

The latest concerns related to nie have come from the deep-water anglers who have been trolling Lake Michigan for salmon since the late summer-early autumn runs began weeks ago.

No fewer than three people who fish the shoals within sight of Charlevoix have remarked about an apparent increase in garbage being dumped in the lake.

That's garbage as in the variety produced by humans.

The bread wrappers, Styrofoam cups, plastic bats and other such items that have been reeled in on hooks and seen floating on the lake are plentiful this year than in any other year in recent memory.

The fishermen who have been reeling in garbage are not alone.

As the recounted a particularly unpleasant story of a garbage expedition not far off North Point. The guy and his buddy were trolling at about 70 feet when one's line went heavy. He pulled it up to find a plastic bag snagged on the hook.

"Gee," he said to his companion, "That looks like a bag of s---."

His companion, who happened to be a doctor, inspected the bag's contents and lent his professional opinion.

"You're absolutely right," he said.

Obviously a passing boater had carelessly jettisoned the baggage, thus giving new meaning to the term "fouling the hook."

There is probably no scientifically accurate means of measuring how much garbage is being dumped into the lake from one year to the next but there does seem to be a growing consensus among some veteran sport fishermen that the problem is especially bad this season.

If so, it represents a disturbing trend that will do nothing to enhance this area's allure to the sportsman, pleasure boaters, sailors and others who travel a long way to enjoy themselves on the lake.

Praises hospital

To the Editor:

This August I was a patient for five days in the Charlevoix Area Hospital. It was an experience I shall long remember with appreciation. The doctors, nurses, and assistants were invariably caring, un rushed, smiling, asking what they could do to help. The food came to the room at the right temperature and was well prepared. From every window the view was of green or of the beautiful lake. The people of Charlevoix merit the gratitude of all of us for providing and maintaining such an excellent facility. I am grateful.

Warm welcome

To the Editor:

I recently visited Charlevoix from which I moved not long ago. I can't begin to tell you how wonderfully welcoming the Charlevoix signs and the beautiful peninsula were to me.

If I had a quarter for everytime I've told someone about the wonderful project I'd be rich. Unfortunately I was one of those who scoffed at the idea at first even though I supported it by buying a license plate which I had to give up when switching to Ohio plates.

However only someone coming from another town or state really appreciates the effort, significance and dedication of the people of Charlevoix.

My congratulations for a job well done and thanks for the memories.

Time for change

To the Editor,

I would like to take this opportunity in your column to publicly give notice of my resignation as President of the Charlevoix Sports Boosters. I have enjoyed my two years as president but, now it is time for someone to come forth and pick up where I have left off. It is a rewarding experience and I am hopeful there is a parent in the community who would step forward and assume the vacant office.

We have scheduled a meeting on Sept. 13 immediately following the JV football game to be held in the high school study hall for the purpose of electing officers. We hope all interested parents will plan to attend.

To the Editor:

Girl Scouting is a diversified program designed for girls ages 5-18 years old, with five different program levels. The "sixth" level of Girl Scouting is designed for the adult volunteer who is an indispensable part of the movement. Adult Girl Scouts help young women deepen their self awareness, relate to others, develop their values and learn to become contributing members of our society. This growth process in each girl is accomplished through a variety of activities depending on the individual girl's interests and the troop program.

There are many types of volunteer positions available within the organization. Not every adult volunteer meets weekly with a Girl Scout troop. Your skills and interests might fit being a council trainer or special consultant or an event director. Crooked Tree Girl Scout Council, a United Way Agency, offers training and ongoing support for all volunteers.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Matchett

Himebauch - Matchett

Linda Himebauch and Timothy Matchett exchanged marriage vows late Saturday afternoon, August 18, in the flower garden of the bride's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Powell of Harbor Springs and Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Matchett of Charlevoix.

The Reverend Edward Warner officiated at the double-ring ceremony before approximately 140 guests. Tammy Wojan, niece of the bride, presided over the guest book.

Mr. and Mrs. Himebauch and Mr. and Mrs. Matchett gave their daughter and son-in-law a long Victorian style gown of ivory chignon with high neckline and bodice with V-shaped lace insert accented by a ruffled overlay. The gown had long sheer sleeves with lace cuffs, a bustle back, and a wide satin sash. The bride carried a bouquet of long-stemmed roses and baby's breath.

Tami Bier assisted the bride as maid of honor, and Susan Kaufman served as bridesmaid. They wore long dresses of light blue eyelet with scooped, ruffled necklines and elbow-length puffed sleeves. They carried smaller versions of the bride's bouquet.

Mary Himebauch, niece of the bride, and Julie Matchett, niece of the bridegroom, were flower girls. They wore matching light blue sundresses with white lace trim and matching short-sleeved jackets.

Henry Himebauch, nephew of the bride, and Brian Matchett, nephew of the bridegroom, were ringbearers. David Dean served as best man, Mark Meier assisted as groomsmen, and Melvin Matchett, brother of the bridegroom, was usher.

Music for the ceremony was provided by guitarist and vocalist Gerald Garber, who offered "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer," and by Judy Matchett, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, who sang "You Needed Me".

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride hosted a reception in the parlors of the Barnard Methodist Church. The bride and bridegroom were chauffeured to the church in a horse-drawn buggy driven by Lawrence Boss.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Shapton, aunt and uncle of the bridegroom, served as greeters; Margaret Himebauch, sister-in-law of the bride, was in charge of the punch; and Joyce Tchovski, sister of the bridegroom, and Judy Matchett helped cut the cake.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at the same church. The newlyweds are at home on Matchett Road, Charlevoix. (Photography by Steve Tchovski)

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Melke

Powell - Melke

Nancy Powell and Richard Melke exchanged marriage vows late Saturday afternoon, September 1, at the Church of God in Charlevoix. The Reverend Carl Gunn conducted the double-ring service attended by approximately 250 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Powell of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Melke; also of Charlevoix.

For the ceremony, the church was decorated with candelabra, white and yellow carnations, and white daisy chrysanthemums. The pews were tied with lace ribbons and greenery.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her parents, wore an organza gown trimmed with Chantilly lace featuring a beaded bodice, Queen Anne neckline, and multi-ruffled cathedral-length train. She carried a crescent cascade of lily of the valley, white carnations, and streamers of lily of the valley.

JoAnne Patrick served her sister as maid of honor, and Barbara Powell, sister-in-law of the bride, and Cheryl Melke, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. They wore rainbow-colored dresses of organza with petals over the sleeves and drop-shoulder bodices. They carried crescent cascades of pink starburst chrysanthemums, blue delphiniums, yellow statice, white daisies, and touches of lavender statice.

The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Bavarian Inn in Atwood.

Following a trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls, the new Mr. and Mrs. Melke are at home in Petoskey. The bride is a pharmacy technician at Northern Michigan Hospitals and the bridegroom is a cost accountant with Control Engineering in Harbor Springs. (Photography by Ray Valentine, PPM-CP)

Drake - Koskuba

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Gertrude Drake of Charlevoix and Zephyrhills, Fla., and Richard John Koskuba of Zephyrhills, Fla., on Wednesday, Sept. 5. The Rev. Donald Merrill officiated at the service in the presence of their attendants, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Woodrich of Deerfield Beach, Fla.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Elizabeth Reinhardt of Charlevoix. The couple will spend their time between Charlevoix and Zephyrhills, Fla.

Annual dinner and fashion show planned by Women's Club

Initial plans for the annual dinner and fashion show sponsored by the Charlevoix Women's Club have been announced by Mrs. Ivan Witthoft, co-chairman with Mrs. Ray Wood. The popular event will be held at the Grey Gables Inn on Tuesday evening, Oct. 22. Fashions will be shown by local shops and local designers Mrs. Witthoft said. Designed as a civic function to bring the contributions by the women of the club. Charlevoix area. Reservations for the dinner will be limited to 120 so interested persons are urged to make reservations to finance area early. Requests for reservations may be made to Mrs. Witthoft and emergency clothing or Mrs. Wood. Checks for children and miscellaneous items.

Rayders get off to a good start in opener

It took them the better part of the game to get their offensive act together but when the chips were down Friday night, the Rayders came through to open up their 1984 season with a 23-15 victory over the Petoskey Northern.

Senior quarterback Matt Lignell, in his first season as a starter, completed eight of 13 passes for 112 yards and a pair of touchdowns to lead the Rayders on a late-game surge that boosted them to the win.

Running back Matt Lignell's 170 yards rushing and one touchdown added to what appears to be a well-balanced offense developing for the Rayders.

Even though Charlevoix didn't get onto the scoreboard until the third quarter, the Rayders had an early opportunity to grab the upper hand: Petoskey took the opening kickoff and downed the ball on the nine yard line. On the first play from scrimmage, the Northern fumbled and over. Following the TD, Rayder fans were delighted by a sweep by Cole around left end for a two-point conversion and an 8-7 advantage.

With 1:19 left in the third quarter, Petoskey got back into the driver's seat when Pettis recovered a fumble in the endzone.

Another Charlevoix first-half turnover, a fumbled pitchout at the Rayder 30 yardline, handed Petoskey their first scoring opportunity. At the 2:37 mark of the second quarter, Ross took the ball in from the 5 and Todd Pettis converted the extra point to give the Northern a 7-0 lead at halftime.

By the second half, Charlevoix's offense started clicking as Lignell capped a 70-yard drive on the Rayders' first possession with a one-yard plunge for six points. One of the plays that kept the drive going was a 15-yard pass over the middle from Cole to Mike Louselle. As it turned out, Petoskey would be buried on that particular play again, the lead, 16-13.

The next time they got the ball, Charlevoix drove impressively again going 62 yards in 12 plays until, with 1:33 remaining, Cole found Louselle again for five yards out to ice the game. Morgan kicked the extra point for the final 23-15 score.

The Rayder offense amassed 370 total yards with Lignell's 170 yards in 27 carries leading the Charlevoix running attack. Morgan carried 10 times for 62 yards and Cole 9 times for 30 yards.

Louiselle caught a total of five passes for 78 yards and a TD. Putman caught two for 30 yards and a TD.

Coach Don Carey credited the interior linemen, including Paul Arnold, Pat Hamlin, Ron Stoneham and Kent

Morgan led the defense with 15 tackles while Chris Havens had 10. Coach Don Carey credited the interior linemen, including Paul Arnold, Pat Hamlin, Ron Stoneham and Kent Swedish exchange student UM Evaldsson handled Rayder kick-off duties impressively booting one 49 yards and another into the endzone.

This week Charlevoix takes on non-conference foe East Jordan at the Red Devils home field. Kickoff is 7:30 p.m.

That's a six-point grin on Jody Putman's face as he tosses the ball to an official following his crucial TD reception in the fourth quarter.

Petoskey tops JVs

The Charlevoix Rayder JV football team, in its first outing of the season, dropped its game to Petoskey by a score of 22-8.

The Rayders only touchdown came early in the second half when Mike Thompson romped 41 yards to score. Kevin Shepard ran the ball in for a two-point conversion. Petoskey had scored in the first period after recovering a Charlevoix fumble on the 30 yard line and going in for the six points four plays later. Petoskey added the P.A.T. on a run. In the second period, the young Northern scored on a short yardage following a sustained drive and ran a two-point conversion for a 16-0 advantage at halftime.

Petoskey's final TD was set up by a pass interception on the Charlevoix 20 yard line. The Northern scored two plays later.

The Charlevoix JVs will be at East Jordan for a game on Thursday.

Two Charlevoix archers placed first and third in the 5th annual Stroh Archery tournament at Sault Ste. Marie on Labor Day. They are Hugh Lambert, Jr., 14 (right) who placed first and Ron Gates who placed third among 43 entries in the unclassified tournament in which only hunting bows were allowed. Archers of all ages participated in the meet.

Hugh Lambert, Sr., father of the first place winner, placed fourth in the tournament.

All are members of the Charlevoix Archery Club which was formed early this year. Young Lambert who won the top prize has been shooting only eight months. Club members have been participating in tournaments throughout the state.

Gates heads the local club which meets regularly at Tony's Tackle Shop. Interested persons may contact either for information about the sport and the club.

Contract ratified with Sheriff's Dept. employees

The Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors, at its regular meeting August 29, ratified a contract with the Sheriff's Department employees represented by Teamsters Local 129 provided for an increase of just a shade over four percent of 12.5 per cent over the next three years. The contract was ratified earlier by the union members.

Larry Matthew, liaison for negotiations in behalf of the board, who presented the contract for ratification, said negotiations had gone well. The contract is retro-active to June 30.

The salaries for the four dispatchers, which includes a part-time animal control officer who also serves as a part-time dispatcher, minimum salaries increased from $11,634 to $12,011 this year to $12,402 in '85 and $13,938 in '86. The maximum will be increased from $15,869 to $16,504 as of July 1, 1984 to $17,154 in '85 to $17,850 in '86.

The uniform cleaning allowance, now $150 annually, will be increased to $200 on Jan. 1, 1986; improved dental service and a probation period for deputies which was increased from nine to 12 months were also included in the contract.

The salaries of the sheriff and the under-sheriff are not negotiated but are set by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

Charlevoix's namesake in Quebec bears a striking resemblance

by PEGOHLE

"Charlevoix is an idyllic setting of craggy peaks and gentle slopes, green valleys and trout-filled streams, country inns and fine restaurants."

"Where are the 'craggy peaks'?" you may ask, remembering that the highest mountains in Charlevoix County are probably those of the Boyne Mountain ski area, and certainly they are not peaks.

No, the writer did not make a mistake in describing Charlevoix. The Charlevoix he refers to is located in Quebec, stretching roughly 60 miles along the banks of the St. Lawrence River north of the City of Quebec.

The article in the May issue of Travel & Leisure magazine, titled "The Cultivated Charms of Quebec," tells about this French-Canadian Charlevoix area, which seems to have more than a casual similarity to Charlevoix, Michigan.

Also, it was probably named for the same Father Pierre Francois de Charlevoix.

There are suggestions for travelers such as, "Stroll over to the Baie St. Paul Art Center, where the works of about 70 local artists are displayed." "Head for the beach, a half mile down Rue Ste. Anne, inspiration for many of the works you've just seen. A pretty crescent of sand..." "Drive northeast to St. Joseph-de-la-Rive, known primarily as the terminus for ferry trips..." "Check into the Hotel Capus-Pierres, and spend the afternoon swimming in the indoor or outdoor pool, or playing tennis or shuffleboard..." "Begin your dinner with a Chinese cabbage salad or thick bean soup, then proceed to a main course of crepes filled with four different kinds of meat, such as pheasant, veal, pork, and beef, or fillet of sole gratinee. Top this off with traditional maple sugar pie or fresh berries." (The price of this meal is not quoted, but a double room at the hotel, with three meals, cost $54 per person).

There are many other references to land, water, lodging, restaurants, and outdoor activities that could apply to Charlevoix, Michigan. Perhaps some day our city and county will receive similar attention in Travel & Leisure. In the meantime, if you want to visit our sister country, write for information to Quebec Government House, 17 West 50th Street, New York, N. Y. 10020.

CHARLEVOIX ADULT EDUCATION FALL — 1984

HIGH SCHOOL COMPLETION PROGRAM

The schedule below lists the classes which are being offered each night beginning the week of Sept. 24-27 and continuing for 17 weeks. These classes are FREE to those 18 or older who do not have their high school diploma or those under 20 who have their diploma. Any others are welcome in these classes for a fee of $25. Upon successful completion of each class you will be given 1/2 credit toward the 20 credits needed for your diploma. If you have already completed a number of credits, call us so we can find out how many classes you should take to complete your work. Age does not matter; an older person may be given credits for life experiences, military service, or G.E.D. tests that have been taken. You may be surprised at how close you are to that diploma... so call and find out. The phone number to call to enroll or inquire about your situation is 547-3222.

Yachting Notes

by A. Nony Mouse
Sorry to say we still don't have the formal results from either Budweiser Olympic Triangle or Red Fox. Hopefully, the Chairmen of those events are sending them out to the participants.

Unofficially, the Bud Oly Triangle went off beautifully, good breezes and a very good turnout. The Red Fox had a great turnout, a few turnups and a delightful tropical rainfall. A couple "man-overboards" (and one "woman-overboard") contributed to the excitement, while at least seven turn sails added to the revenues of the local sailmakers. We missed seeing a "Yield Right of Way" sign while going over the speed limit on a spinnaker reach and our motion was quickly arrested - tell you about it someday.

The first race of the Fall Series gave us an indication of the ability of this part of the world to cool down a day or two after Labor Day - when it loses the body heat of the tourists. Other than the chill, it was a fine race night with a good breeze that pretty well held right to the dock after the finish.

WINGNUT took Overall Honors with 1:33:31, over a minute better than BANDIT in second (1:34:34). After that it was real tight with MISS PYGOG just tenths of a second ahead of SKIRMISH (both will show 1:34:39).

...The End of the Mouse's Tale.

Names In The News

Air Force Tech. Sgt. KENNETH W. DERENZY, son of Dolores Wood of Alba has arrived for duty at Pease Air Force Base, N.H.

Derenzy, a training technician with the 509th Combat Support Group, was previously assigned at Andersen Air Force Base, Guam.

His wife, Cindy, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Boss of Ellsworth.

He is a 1971 graduate of Ellsworth Community High School.

Father Zawacki takes over as new pastor at St. Mary's

The Rev. Father Casimir J. Zawacki has assumed his duties as pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

He was appointed by his Excellency Robert J. Rose, Bishop of the Gaylord Diocese, to succeed the Rev. R. Dale Magoon who had served the parish for the past 10 years. The Rev. Fr. Magoon has been delegated by Bishop Rose to organize a new parish at Acme, north of Traverse City.

The Rev. Fr. Zawacki, who is also known as Father Casey, comes to Charlevoix from St. Rita-St. Joseph parish at Maple City near Traverse City. His former pastorate bore a double name following the consolidation of two small parishes he explained.

A native of Manistee where he was born in 1922, Father Casey has the distinction of having served approximately two years in the U.S.

Army during World War II. As he explained, he had completed his duties at St. Joseph's Preparatory Seminary in Grand Rapids in 1936 and his studies in Philosophy at St. Mary's Seminary in Baltimore, Md., when his decision to take a leave of absence from his studies made him eligible for the draft.

After receiving basic training, he found himself back in the classroom, this time as an instructor, until World War II ended and he was discharged. At this time he returned to St. Mary's Seminary of Roland Park, Md., for his studies in Theology prior to his ordination at St. Andrew's Cathedral in Grand Rapids June 3, 1950.

During the ensuing years he has served at parishes in Muskegon, Portland, Traverse City, Gill's Pier, Northport, Cheboygan, Carson City, again Grand Rapids, Okeema-Copemish and Maple City.

"My longest pastorate was at Okeema where I served the church there and the mission at Copemish for 11 years. My last one at Maple City was for 22 months, I hope I'll be here for a while. Charlevoix is beautiful," he commented about his assignment at St. Mary's.

Fr. Casimir Zawacki

New teachers join Charlevoix district

Five new teachers joined the faculty of the Charlevoix Public Schools with the beginning of the 1984-85 school year Wednesday. They are (l to r) Dorothy Miller, Alison Mellon, Terry C. Smith, Laurie Keller, and Rerr Tallberg.

Mrs. Miller has been assigned to the kindergarten; Mrs. Mellon, first grade; Mr. Smith, part-time French teacher at the high school and middle school; Mrs. Keller, part-time math at the high school and Mrs. Tallberg, fifth grade.

Charlevoix Public Schools will have four student teachers on its staff for the next 15 weeks.

They are (l to r) Mark Wagenschutz of Alanson whose major is math; Debra VanTress of Charlevoix, government; Jeff Drenth, Charlevoix, biology and Jeanine Boyer, East Jordan, Child Development. The first three are Central Michigan University students; Ms. Boyer attends Michigan State University.

While here the students teachers will be working under the direction of Dr. Patrick Rode of Traverse City, designated supervisor for student teachers in this area. They will teach in the areas of both their majors and minors to gain classroom experience at all levels. Elementary education students will have experience in both the early and upper elementary grades.

Shoot-a-thon plans set

The plans for the third annual Shoot-A-Thon sponsored by the girls' basketball team as a fund-raising project has been scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Sept. 21 and 22 Coach Henry Wagner has announced.

The members of the girls' varsity basketball team and several volunteers from the junior varsity squad will be accepting pledges on the project. Each participant will shoot 1,000 free throws during the Shoot-A-Thon. Prior to the event each girl will solicit pledges for the number she will successfully complete.

The event will begin at 2:30 p.m. Friday and run through the evening and again on Saturday beginning at 8 a.m.

McDonald's will furnish food for the participants on Friday. The Shoot-A-Thon is the team's only fund-raising project during the school year.

Mesquite will spend winter in Grenada

By FRANK MARTIN

The U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite, homeported in Charlevoix, has been ordered to Grenada in the Caribbean according to its skipper, Lt. Cmdr. Robert E. Young.

The orders, which came through the Ninth Coast Guard District office in Cleveland, are indefinite at this time, Cmdr. Young said. However, it is anticipated that the 180 foot buoy tender will work the waters around the small island serving as a mother ship for smaller patrol boats, maintaining aids to navigation and law enforcement, Cmdr. Young said.

Present plans call for the ship to depart from Charlevoix prior to the December 15 closing of the Welland Canal which connects Lake Erie and Lake Ontario and return to Charlevoix after the canal opens about March 15.

The trip will take the ship through the St. Lawrence Seaway to the Atlantic, down the East Coast to the Caribbean.

With the advent of the icebreaking tugs in the Great Lakes, the work of buoy tenders such as the Mesquite has diminished. It was explained further, that the work of the buoy tenders on the eastern seaboard continues throughout the year while that of those in the Great Lakes is more seasonal. Because the Mesquite, stationed here, has a lighter work load than other such buoy tenders, it was selected to make the trip to Grenada.

Cmdr. Young said it was likely that the Mesquite would begin its fall buoy season but that another tender stationed in the area would be delegated to complete the season.

The Mesquite will not be the first ship stationed in the Great Lakes to be sent to the Caribbean. The Mobil Bay, a 140 ft. ice breaking tug stationed at Sturgeon Bay, Wis., was assigned to duty at Grenada in mid-August and will be returning to its homeport before the canal closes Dec. 15, Cmdr. Young said.

Grenada, a relatively little known British Colony, was plummets into the news 13 months ago when American troops were sent to Grenada to help re-establish democratic control after a Marxist coup. Grenada and two smaller islands are southerly of the Windward Islands in the West Indies. It is 90 miles off the coast of Venezuela. It has a total land area of 333 square miles, approximately twice the size of Washington, D.C., but located in a strategic position. The principal city is St. George's with a population of 30,000. It is located 12 degrees above the equator.

IT'S TOMATO HARVESTING SEASON and this specimen does not look too happy about it.

Tax break for DCL, Inc. approved

DCL, Inc., a Charlevoix manufacturer of loading equipment, was granted a 12-year industrial facilities tax exemption by City Council Monday night for an addition to their existing facility located in the city's Industrial Park.

The exemption means that DCL will pay one half of the total tax millage levied by the city each of the next 12 years.

Acting City Manager James Brinker estimated that the total savings to be realized by the firm and the tax cost to the city will be about $2,700.

Hoskins shows off latest addition

by DAVE KNIGHT

The newly expanded Hoskins Manufacturing Company's Charlevoix plant went on display Saturday as hundreds of local residents toured the plant, listened to informational presentations and enjoyed other festivities at a commemorative open house.

Officials of both the Hoskins corporate office and Hoskins parent company, the Armada Corporation, were on hand to greet visitors.

A major expansion project adding 15,000 square feet of manufacturing space was completed in June. The $500,000 project was aided by the Charlevoix County Economic Development Corporation and brings the total area of manufacturing space at the plant to 150,000 sq. ft. For Hoskins, which specializes in the production of wire products for various uses, such as electrical components and heating coils, the latest addition marks the third major expansion at the Charlevoix plant since its opening in 1961. The original operation began in a rented facility on Charlevoix's north side and expanded as people who had to be trained in Hoskins' methods of manufacturing the company to the many attractive features of the area and influencing its decision to locate in Charlevoix.

Chx. County one of best in U.S.?

by DAVE KNIGHT

It is not uncommon for a Charlevoix County resident to hear a friend or neighbor say, after returning from a long visit to some other part of the country, "The scenery was beautiful but we still think this area is just as nice."

That claim has now gained some degree of substantiation by a national magazine that specializes in finding nice places.

A cover story in the October, 1984 edition of Outside magazine lists what it claims are the "100 Best Countries in America." Included in the 100 is Charlevoix County.

Charlevoix is one of two Michigan counties (the other one is Keweenaw) described by the magazine's sub-headline as "The most beautiful, rugged, sporting, livable places in the U.S."

Author Andrea Heil, a Vermont writer, acknowledged the difficulty of selecting the top 100 counties out of a total of 3,092 in the United States. "Picking the best counties is tough work," she writes. "We started with a simple premise: that every state has at least one of the country's best counties. That proved true."

She also conceded that in the expansive states with tens of thousands of wilderness acres—such as Alaska, Wyoming and California—finding the few best counties was no small chore.

The result is a list by state of each of the best 100 with a brief description.

Writes Heil of Charlevoix County: "A Great Lake county, with uninhabited islands and mountain skiing."

Mountain skiing? Well, maybe compared to Nebraska (whose Dawes County also made the list). To know Outside magazine is to better understand its choices for America's "best counties." A 220,000-circulation monthly published by Mariah Publications Corporation, it is aimed at the young, affluent, outdoor-loving, environmentally aware baby boomers. Articles are heavy on such robust—recreational pursuits as mountaineering, kayaking and hang gliding.

Heil explains in the article that criteria for selection of the best "100" counties included such factors as scenic splendor, recreational value and "low population densities."

Another factor which may have weighed in Charlevoix County's favor was water.

"Admittedly, we were partial to places with huge lakes," writes Heil, "or, at least lots of lakes."

Michigan is one of 18 states that have two counties on the list. Seventeen states have only one. As might be expected, the states with vast expanses of wilderness appeal most to the Outside magazine judges—states like Wyoming, Utah, Alaska and California boast four counties each on the prestigious list.

The "best 100" is accompanied by four other sub-lists of U.S. counties including "sportiest," "best backcountry," "best weather" and "prettiest."

County tax hearings to be held by PEGGIE HILL

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners last week voted to hold public hearings on proposals to increase the county's general operating millage and millage for the County Road System.

Now Hemingway Pier, marina plan proposed

Another public hearing on the marina project proposed for the Hemingway Pier on Lake Charlevoix will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday, September 25, in the Charlevoix High School gymnasium.

Sponsored by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, the meeting is being held to present a modified plan under which the proposed marina will be located almost entirely inland, protected by breakwaters to the east. Capacity has also been reduced from 72 to 61 slips.

Representatives of Birchwood Farms Construction Company, developers of the project, will be on hand to answer questions.

POLO GAMES that saw $700 donated to the Charlevoix Area Hospital were the topic of conversation when Ken Swan, center, manager of Windmill Farms and organizer of the August polo tournaments, met with hospital board president Walter Huford, left, and hospital administrator Richard Krueger. The Louisville (Kentucky) Polo Association, which hosted the games at Windmill Farms, earmarked the profits from the first match for the hospital.

Charlevoix Area Hospital officials explained the polo funds will go into the general equipment fund which this year has underwritten the sophisticated new monitoring equipment in the coronary intensive care unit, among other important acquisitions.

Swan announced that polo plans for August, 1985 will include five matches between the Louisville club and other polo associations. This fall the polo field at Windmill Farms is being landscaped and prepared for next year's season, Swan said.

Building activity starts drop

The number of building permits issued in August by the Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection was down slightly from July.

During August, the Department issued 61 permits, compared with 65 in July, its monthly report indicates.

Fourteen of the permits were for new houses, 15 were for additions to and remodeling of houses, 10 were for residential garages, five were for decks and porches, and seven were for residential outbuildings.

Two of the new houses will be located in Charlevoix Township, three in Eveline Township, one in Hayes Township, two in Melrose Township, one in Peaine Township, one in South Arm Township, one in Wilson Township, and two in Boyne City.

In the commercial category, one permit was issued for a new building, one for an addition to an existing building, and one for an outbuilding.

Also, two permits were issued for demolitions and five for mobile homes and mobile home additions.

Sofar this year, the Department of Building Inspection has issued 337 permits for various kinds of construction work. The estimated construction costs covered by these projects are $5,042,786 (exclusive of land, plumbing, heating, electrical, and other mechanical costs).

More permits, 32, were issued to residents of Boyne City than any other political unit. Permits were issued to residents of other areas as follows: Eveline Township, 38; City of Charlevoix, 36; South Arm Township, 31; Hayes Township, 24; Melrose Township, 22; Wilson Township, 21; Marion Township, 15; East Jordan, 15; Charlevoix Township, 14; Norwood Township, 13; Hudson Township, 13; Boyne Valley Township, 10; Bay Township, nine; Evangeline Township, six; Peaine Township, six; Chandler Township, three; St. James Township, five; and Boyne Falls, three.

Parents invited to high school mini-session

The staff at the Charlevoix High School will host a "mini-session" for the benefit of parents from 6:30 until 9:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 25. Vane H. Smith, high school principal, has announced.

Purpose of the program is to introduce parents to both the daily schedule and teachers of their students at the high school. Smith explained further.

Coffee will be served in the cafeteria from 6:30 until 7 p.m. with the "mini-sessions" beginning at 7 p.m. and running at 20 minute intervals, allowing five minutes between sessions, until the last one at 8:55 p.m.

Individual conferences will be held from 9 until 9:30 p.m. Parents should come to the "mini-sessions" with a copy of their student's class schedule so they can follow it through the abbreviated classes being conducted for their benefit. The "Individual Teacher conferences for attend the "mini-session" time at the high school will be held from 6:30-9:30 p.m. Smith said "We are looking forward to having as many parents as possible attend the "mini-sessions". We hope to see you there."

Knight on the Town

Bear with us?

The wet sand of the Mt. McSaubia nature trail told some interesting stories one morning last week. As I strolled out from the parking area to see how last year's beach grass plantings had held up over the summer, I couldn't help but notice the signatures left on the trail - probably from the previous night of a variety of visitors.

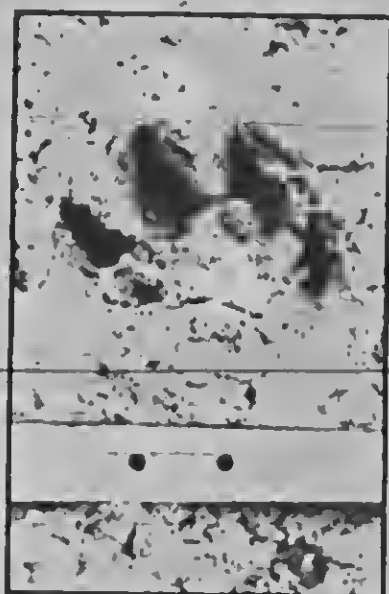

A barefoot human had walked his or her little dog down to the water's edge and probably the dog was stuck or two for fetching.

Knobby-soled hiking boots were paired with some petite-sized, geometrically patterned jogging shoes. The two tracks veered off toward the dunes. Not seeing any of said prints returning, I decided not to pursue.

A good sized deer had ambled along the edge of the trail, munching on tender roots that had been exposed along the wind-chipped path by weather. The deer had not been in a hurry until it was startled near the dunes. There, two deep gouges made by the cloven back hooves in the soft sand showed where the deer had bounded one leap into the brush.

Then I saw what may have been the source of its concern. Crossing the deer tracks on the trail were deep, wide prints with conspicuous claw marks.

A bear? They have been known to visit the north side, of course, and just last spring, Bo Boss, while working on the trail, came upon a sapling that had been savagely ripped apart. Naturalist Reg Sharkey was summoned and identified the damage as most likely the work of a black bear.

What did this?

More plausible is the theory that the prints were those of a big dog. The paws of retrievers, of which there are several who patrol North Point, tend to splay out in sand thus explaining the fact that the prints were in some place five inches wide.

Big dog? Black bear? Trails left good stories with just enough gaps to fill in with a little imagination.

Clockwise

Toward the year 2000

Time - like a - creeps up on you. It dawned on me the other day that if we all can hang on another 15 years and 11 weeks, we'll be living in the 21st century.

And the way time flies, that's practically the day after tomorrow. I, for one, am not exactly looking forward to having to remember to put $500 on the late line every time I write a check. I know I'm going to write "1994" a hundred times before I get the hang of it. It's bad enough having to change one digit every year and two digits every 10 years, without changing all four of them at once.

The folks who print checks are going to have a heyday, considering all the checks that will have to be ripped up and started fresh.

Computer experts already have started to worry whether their equipment will be able to carry the year 2001 with all those zeroes. Some computers apparently like to eliminate zeroes, which would put us right back to the year 2.

So far as I can tell, the only people who are going to find their jobs easier after the turn-of-the-century are engravers who put the dates in cornerstones of public buildings. "I'm sure it will be easier to gouge 'MM' into a block of Vermont granite than it is 'MCMXCIV'."

NEWSPAPER EDITORS, of course, will have a fine old time assigning cub reporters to interview senior citizens who were born two centuries back in the 18th and 19th centuries. There will be thousands of them - tens of thousands - still around just waiting for the reporters to show up.

They probably already are thinking up snappy answers to impertinent questions about how they managed to live so long. "Never went to bed without brandy on my breath." "I smoked two packs of cigarettes a day until I ran out of money." "I walked 10 miles to school every night. I just can't seem to wind down." "I owe it all to the tender, loving care of my seven wives. May they rest in peace."

They also will have marvelous tales to tell about the century just ending. The first time they rode in an automobile. The first time they saw an airplane. The first time they listened to a crystal set. The first time they saw a television program. The first time they tasted pizza. The list is endless.

So if you were born in the last century, you had better turn on the porch light for the press. The reporters already are sharpening their pencils.

In other business, council approved the final site plan for an expansion of the Harbour Club on Belvedere Ave. Under conditions of the approval, developer Jon Hisey will participate in a cost-sharing plan for sewer improvements on Belvedere - with a maximum cost to him of $10,000 - and will amend the landscape plan to improve the view corridor of the lake.

Approved a preliminary site plan for the Altman project on the former Finn Lumber site which featured one more unit, $9, than previously indicated and a re-aligned driveway plan.

Approved a utility pole license agreement with John Kintz of John's Radio & TV of Bayshore for cable TV hookups on Pine Point.

Instructed staff to check further the city's liability for damage done to several north side businesses in which sewage overflowed following recent heavy rains.

Remember Mr. and Mrs. Bird?

To the Editor:
On October 13, 1984, my parents, Devere and Eleanor Bird, will be celebrating their 50th Wedding Anniversary. As a surprise for them, their children are collecting notes from friends to be bound in a book and presented to them on their anniversary.

My father is the son of Frank and Mary Bird and was raised in their home on Antrim Street in Charlevoix.

We would appreciate a note from anyone remembering them. We will need these no later than September 25, 1984 in order to allow time for binding.

Charlevoix County Commission on Aging

Pajtas responds

To: Howard F. Neilson, President WATCH, Inc.

The following is in response to your recent public letter to the candidates for 3rd Circuit Court Judge. You have requested that the candidates publicly respond by stating their position on the environmental issues raised in your letter.

Mr. Neilson, as a judicial candidate, I cannot ethically state my position on specific issues, environmental or otherwise. Nor can I comment upon my conclusion that, where environmental litigation has been involved, many court decisions have been influenced by provincial economic pressures.

A judge cannot be influenced by an organized group of 3 or 3,000, be it an environmental group or property rights group or any other group or person. Judicial determinations must only be made on the facts of each individual case after all of the evidence has been presented.

Obviously a judge is duty bound to uphold all the laws of this state and to faithfully and impartially perform the duties of the office. These are the principles by which I intend to serve the Court.

Thank you for your interest in this campaign.
Sincerely,
Richard M. Pajtas

Tax hearings...

A hearing on the matter was held August 29, but a request of the procedure by Prosecuting Attorney Kraag, Lieberman brought to light some irregularities that necessitate a new hearing. Lieberman's recommendations were:

1. The earlier resolution proposing millage rate increases cites only the maximum additional millage being sought, i.e., an additional general operational millage rate of .1452 and an additional Transit System millage rate of .1010. The resolution should not only have listed the additional millage request, but should also have set forth the "ceiling figure", or total amount of maximum millage allowed to be levied. Specifically, the maximum totals of 4.6774 for general operational millage and 2.688 for Transit millage should have been listed in the resolution and public notice.

2. It is advised that the proposed millage increase for general operations and for Transit be handled separately. There should be a separate resolution for each millage proposal and a separate public hearing announcement for each proposal.

3. It is advised that notices of the proposals and notices of the public hearings on the proposals be published in newspapers of general circulation in the County and posted in the County Building as well.

Members of the County Board voted to hold new hearings on the millage proposals (under the "Truth in Taxation" law) even though a spokesman for the State Department of the Treasury had assured Board Chairman Lee Woelard that the earlier hearing met all statutory requirements.

The question of possible procedural irregularities in the first hearing was brought to the attention of the Prosecuting Attorney by County Clerk Jane Brannon.

The whole procedure has been questioned by Karl Waldner of Boyne City, who represents the Organized Overtaxed Voters of America, although only one of Lieberman's findings, No. 2 above, was cited by Waldner.

The new hearings will be held on Wednesday, September 26, in the County Building Annex; with general County optional millage to be considered at 8 p.m. and Transit System millage at 9 p.m.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Stevens

Davis-Stevens

Michelle Lynn Davis and Jeffrey William Stevens, both of Charlevoix, were joined in marriage Saturday, August 25 at the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rick Davis, 1220 State St. and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Stevens, Klooster Rd.

Over 250 guests, greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Doug Bergmann, attended the 4 p.m. double-ring ceremony presided over by Rev. Larry Groeters. The church's candelabra was decorated with large white satin bows, purple statice and baby's breath.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white gown of organza and chantilly lace. It featured a portrait neckline and short puff sleeves. A sprinkling of seed pearls accentuated the lace bodice. The bouffant styling of the skirt was fashioned with tiers of lace trimmed ruffles and ended in a chapel length train. A wide brimmed hat trimmed with seed pearls completed the outfit. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white sweetheart roses, stephanotis and trailing ivy.

Music was provided by organist Frances Boss and soloist Rod Stevens, brother of the groom. Maid of honor was Pamela Drury and bridesmaids were Patti Feltis, Lisa Mosher, Mary Lenhart and Dion Stevens, cousin of the groom. They wore gowns of suede rose matte taffeta with spaghetti straps and a lace insert at the neckline. They featured a bolero jacket with short balloon sleeves.

Flower girl was Melissa Mosher and Matthew Webster, cousin of the bride, was the ringbearer.

Greg Stevens, brother of the groom, was best man and Mike Kitley, Scott Davis, brother of the groom, were groomsmen. Ushers were Bob Smith and Dudley Stevens, brother of the groom.

A reception was hosted by the bride's parents at the American Legion Hall where Mary McDonald helped cut the cake and Linda Ostling served punch. The dinner was catered by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Etienne. A rehearsal dinner was held at the groom's parents' home Friday evening.

Following a wedding trip to the Upper Peninsula, the couple is at home at 110 Mason St. She is employed as a beautician at Gwen's Harbor View and he is an employee of Stevens Concrete. Both are Charlevoix High School graduates.

Tornga-Shores

Lynn Marie Tornga and Benjamin David Shores, were married Aug. 25 at the Bellflower Reformed Church of Ellsworth. An arrangement of white gladioli and pink, blue and lavender carnations graced the altar. The Rev. Jim Heneveld performed the double ring ceremony before 300 wedding guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Tornga of Ellsworth and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tim Shores of Charlevoix.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Nottingham lace with a high Victorian neckline, long sleeves, a basque waistline and accents of chiffon and Chantilly lace. The skirt ended in a full semi-cathedral length train and the bride's veil of bridal illusion was attached to a hat of matching lace and satin ribbons. She carried a bouquet of pink, blue and white orchids. All the flowers were made by the bride's mother.

Wedding music was provided by Geneva DeYoung and soloist Sandy Fowler.

Joanna Tornga, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a lavender gown of polyester and point de espi lace with satin ribbon. She carried a white fan with lavender carnations, roses and white orchids.

Lailay Klooster, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore a blue gown of polyester and point de espi lace with satin ribbons and carried a white fan with blue roses, white carnations and orchids.

Carrie Bouwense was flower girl and wore a gown of lavender and white lace with a white apron. She carried a basket of pink, blue and lavender roses with lavender and white carnations.

Jeffery Tornga was ringbearer and wore a white tux and carried a satin ring pillow.

Gary Shores attended his brother as best man and Tim Bruce was groomsmen. Ushers were Brian Barkdall and Christopher Tornga, cousin of the bride. The groom wore a white tux with tails and the groomsmen wore gray tuxes.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the VFW Hall in Charlevoix. Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Ayers were host and hostess. The guest book was attended by Chris Spencer who also served the wedding cake made by the mother of the bride. Debbie Wyman and Kris Kane served punch and Dawn Shores and Kimberly Heeres opened the gifts.

On Aug. 24, the parents of the groom hosted a rehearsal dinner. The newlyweds honeymooned at Cedar Point, Ohio, and are now residing in Charlevoix.

An East Jordan tackler tries to bring down Rayder tailback Matt Lignell.

Rayders blank Red Devils 27-0

The decision to start playing football against East Jordan again, which resulted last season in the first meeting between the two schools in 14 years, is looking better and better to Charlevoix fans.

As for followers of the Red Devils, they might well be wondering if it was such a great idea after Friday night's game.

The Rayders traveled to East Jordan's home field for a non-conference game and shut out their hosts 27-0.

Matt Lignell's 156 yards and a touchdown, along with a 33-yard scamper on Charlevoix's first possession to put the Rayders at the EJ 15. From there, Lignell took the ball into the endzone on the 7:33 mark and Thad Morgan kicked the extra point for a 7-0 early lead.

Lignell continued to make life difficult for the Devils when, after East Jordan took the ball following his touchdown, he snagged an interception and took it about 50 yards to the EJ 26.

Shortly thereafter, Rayder quarterback Brent Cole found one of his favorite targets, Mike Lomelle, in the endzone for six more points. The extra point attempt was negated by East Jordan, led the defense in its first shutout of the season.

The scoring in the first half was in the opening quarter. Lignell wasted little time taking off on a 33-yard scamper on Charlevoix's first possession to put the Rayders at the EJ 15. From there, Lignell took the ball into the endzone on the 7:33 mark and Thad Morgan kicked the extra point for a 7-0 early lead.

Harriers sweep home triangular

The Charlevoix Rayder Cross Country teams made a clean sweep of all three events at the triangular meet held at the course at the Belvedere golf course Tuesday Coach Pete Spieles announced.

The meet was run under ideal weather conditions as the teams, Gaylord, Boyne City and Charlevoix, tried to better the course record of 15:06 set by Bill Taylor.

The Harriers placed first on the boys varsity level with 23 points to Gaylord's 44 and Boyne City's 64.

The Rayder girls topped Gaylord 27 to 37 with Boyne City unable to field a full team.

The Charlevoix JV squad was unopposed but covered the course in excellent times.

Spieles said, "All the teams looked good. This was the first home meet and they all did very well. I was pleased. If they continued to improve I am convinced we will meet the goals we have set for ourselves."

A. Stonehouse of Gaylord had the winning time of 21:18 in the girls' meet in ninth place in 17:09. Tom Merta in 11th place in 17:21 and Kevin McLenon in 12th in 17:38.

Bowles of Gaylord set the winning time of 21:18 in the girls' meet in ninth place in 17:09. Tom Merta in 11th place in 17:21 and Kevin McLenon in 12th in 17:38.

Molly Bolduc in fifth in 22:14, Leslie Miller came in eighth with a time of 23:21 and Heidi Olinger in 22nd in 25:30.

The times for the unopposed JV harriers are as follows: Ed Knight, 16:16; Jon Eakes, 16:21; Sean Henne, 16:22; Dan Kelly, 18:24; Dave Warth, 19:05; Dan Staublin, 19:06; Dave Eakes, 20:47 and Jim Smith, 21:18.

The Rayders will be at Boyne City Tuesday, at the Ludington Invitational which has been set back a week to Wednesday, Sept. 22 and will host Petoskey here on Sept. 25.

Girls beat EJ, bow to Elk Rapids

The Charlevoix Rayder girls basketball team split last week winning over East Jordan 53-26 in the opening game—and losing to Elk Rapids 61-33 on Thursday.

Charlevoix will host Northport Tuesday, in the first home game of the season and travel to Boyne City Sept. 25.

In a game that saw the team splitter the first half before taking off and outscoring East Jordan 35-12 in the second half, Charlevoix was in control all the way outscoring their opponents 18-14 at the half after a 6-4 first period. As the second half got underway, Charlevoix took a 33-20 third period lead before winning by a 27-point margin.

Charlevoix had 24 field goals of the winning time of the meet, 16-33. Charlevoix runners took the next four places: Mike Dohm in 16:34; Doug Bergmann, 16:37; Joe Simpson, 16:55; and Harold Herriman, 17:01.

Spieles said the battle for first place was between Stonehouse, Dohm and Bergmann with each of the three in first place during the last quarter mile of the three-mile run. A last second sprint by the Rayders' single highlight of the game.

Charlevoix will host Rogers City at Kipke Field Thursday.

Jordan had 10 points each as everyone scored.

In the game at Elk Rapids, the Rayders lost the game on the free throw line after outscoring the Elks 20-34 from the floor. Elk Rapids had 19 of 23 from the line and 16 personal fouls to Charlevoix's three of 13 and 19 personal fouls.

Charlevoix led 21-7, 32-19 and 44-40 by quarters before being outscored in the final period 21-9 for the loss.

Wagner had 16 points and McClanaghan 14 for the Rayders.

Jill Rhoades scored 20 and Kin Quade 12 for the Elks.

The Rayder JVs posted a 47-23 win led by Amy Pischner with 16 points. Allison Hall was the top defensive player.

JV team wins

The Charlevoix Rayder JV football team posted a 6-0 win over East Jordan Wednesday in a strong defensive game according to Coach Brian Certa.

The Rayders' single touchdown came in the third period when Quinton Walker went in from the one yard line following a concerted run for the two-point conversion fell short.

Certa cited the strong defensive performance of the team as the highlight of the game.

Charlevoix will host Rogers City at Kipke Field Thursday.

Air Force Capt. DENNIS M. ST. GEORGE, whose wife, Kay, is the daughter of Max W. and Emily V. Gibbard of East Jordan, has arrived for duty at Kirtland Air Force Base, N.M.

St. George, an intelligence officer with the Air Force Weapons Laboratory, was previously assigned at Ramstein Air Base, West Germany.

Airman SHEILA M. FASKEY, daughter of Sandra I. Froat and Jerry Froat, both of Boyne City, has been assigned to Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas, after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airman who complete basic training earn credits toward an association degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the transportation field.

DR. DANIEL H. GILBERT of Charlevoix and Southfield was elected president of the Michigan Society of Orthodontists at the society's annual business and scientific meeting in Grand Rapids, September 6 and 7.

The Michigan Society of Orthodontists represents all the licensed specialists in orthodontics in the state. Dr. Gilbert is a graduate of the University of Michigan where he obtained his B.A. degree, Doctor of Dental Surgery and Master of Science degrees. He is in private practice with offices in Southfield and Livonia.

Navy Ensign PAUL L. REISING, son of Marilyn J. Reising of Charlevoix, was commissioned in his present rank upon completion of Aviation Officer Candidate School.

The 13-week course at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla., was designed to prepare candidates for their future duties and responsibilities as commissioned officers and to prepare them to enter primary flight training.

During the course, the prospective aviators received general military academic, physical fitness and leadership training which included navigation, military justice, mathematics and physics. They also received pre-flight training which centered around aerodynamics, sea and land survival, aviation physiology, and basic aircraft engineering.

DENNIS BATDORFF of Charlevoix has been awarded the Memorial Scholarship for the 1984-85 academic year at Huntington College in Huntington, Indiana. The Memorial Scholarship, which is sponsored by Robert J. Ellenwood, director, Memorial Division of E-Systems, is awarded to students with preference to Memorial employees and their dependents. Dennis, a senior at Huntington, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Batdorff of Charlevoix.

Bayshore radar site to be closed next week

by DAVE KNIGHT

After 21 years of operation, the U.S. Air Force radar bomb scoring site at Bayshore will officially close next week.

The shutdown climaxes a gradual phasing out of the site that saw a maximum deployment in the 1970s of up to 125 people in recent years to the present staffing of about 46 Air Force personnel.

Sometime this Sunday, September 30, a B-52 Stratofortress will sweep across Lake Michigan between Beaver Island and Bayshore on a low level training flight to provide the last bomb scoring run for Detachment 6, 1st Combat Evaluation Group at its Northern Michigan site.

The station specializes in scoring simulated bombing runs for accuracy and also posing electronic countermeasure threats that aircrafts might expect in actual combat situations.

Presiding over closing ceremonies on Tuesday, October 2 will be Colonel Billy Price, commander of the 1st Combat Evaluation Group, to a SAC release.

Much of the equipment and personnel stationed at Bayshore will be transferred to Powell, Wyoming where a new Strategic Training Range Complex (STRC) is being developed. Many other bomb scoring sites similar to Bayshore's are being closed around the United States as the low level training routes and supporting operations are consolidated in the STRC.

Plans to close the Bayshore site have been in the air for at least the past three years and during that time, much of the equipment has been moved out. Funding arrangements for the move, which caused the delay, were finally worked out this year.

According to Strategic Air Command headquarters at Offutt Air Force Base in Nebraska, the new STRC located in the Great Plains and Rocky Mountain areas allows for "more varied routes and more challenging and realistic training for aircrews."

"When completed, the STRC will consist of six permanent sites and a number of mobile sites. These sites will not only electronically score simulated bomb runs but also simulate ground radar, electronic countermeasures and anti-aircraft sites. With the complex of routes, crews will train in a more varied and difficult training profile," according to a SAC release.

Equipment from Bayshore and other sites to be closed will be moved this fall and winter in order to open the first of the STRC sites at Powell by early next year.

Aircraft from the Air National Guard, Air Force Reserve, Tactical Air Command and even the Royal Air Force have utilized the site.

While training exercises have included both high and low level routes, it was the low-altitude, overland routes that Northern Michigan residents will remember most about the Air Force presence in Bayshore. Those routes were discontinued about three years ago, however, because of concerns of their proximity to the Consumers Power Co. Big Rock Point nuclear plant.

Lieutenant Colonel Robert J. Rajewski, who has been commanding officer at the site since 1978, praised the community's support of Detachment 6 saying, "The friendliness and cooperation we have found in the local communities have meant a lot to the men and women who have been stationed here over the years. Their support has made this one of the best assignments in the Air Force."

The closing of the Bayshore site will also mark the end of Rajewski's 26-year Air Force career as he plans to retire and stay in Charlevoix rather than following the move to Wyoming.

LexaLite to expand here, open new plant in southern U.S.

LexaLite International Corporation announced a major "expansion and modernization" program this week that will result in a $2.5 million investment in its Charlevoix County plant as well as the addition of a new plant in an as yet undisclosed location in the southern part of the country.

According to LexaLite International president Josh Barnes, 20,000 square feet of building space will be added to the LexaLite plant in Hayes Township. An Inducement Resolution was recently approved by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners which will allow county Economic Development Corporation bond financing. Barnes said that Manufacture's National Bank of Detroit has agreed to a letter of credit covering the issue.

According to a LexaLite release, "The expansion and modernization at the main plant in Charlevoix reflects LexaLite's success in clean, low stress molding."

The company, established in Charlevoix 22 years ago, is a producer of lenses, refractors and reflectors for the lighting industry. As part of the expansion project, the main press room at the local plant is to be converted to a "clean molding area" with five sophisticated new molding machines, the largest of which will cost just under $1 million alone.

New building space will accommodate an expanded coatings department and facilities for surface coatings and metalizing. The new LexaLite plant to be located in the south (the precise location is being withheld pending final site negotiations) will include total injection molding facility, southern sales office and major warehouse. The new plant will specialize in clear acrylic and clear polycarbonate, materials used in the company's lense manufacturing operation. According to the announcement release, "LexaLite's market base for lighting products has continued its trend to the south and will be better served from the new

Barnes explained that the decision to proceed with ambitious expansion

Both LexaLite projects are slated for completion by next spring.

Wanted: Photos showing why Charlevoix is "the Beautiful" of the ceremony will include an exhibit of what makes Charlevoix so Beautiful. Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce and Keep Charlevoix Beautiful are asking all visitors to Charlevoix and residents of Charlevoix to send their favorite color prints or slides to Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, Photo Contest, Charlevoix, MI 49720. The winning pictures will be made part of the Keep Michigan Beautiful presentation.

All entries must be postmarked by October 6 and become the property of the Chamber of Commerce. The finalists may be contacted for the negative so, please, include your name, address and telephone number.

The top three winners will receive a framed print of their entry donated by Keep Charlevoix Beautiful. The judges are: Terry Salmanson of Aartvark Studio, Jacquie Merta, Director of the Chamber of Commerce and Mayor Ken Staley.

The Chamber is hoping for good "petunia shots" for a travel show in November and K.C.B. is looking for suitable pictures for a "Family Circle" magazine article featuring Charlevoix's Petunias. However, entries should not be confined to petunias alone. All features of Charlevoix that make it beautiful are acceptable.

The winning entries will be on display on Saturday, October 13 at the K.C.B. meeting at the Westervane Terrace Addition Meeting Room.

Reibel's law license suspended

Following a September 17 disciplinary hearing in Gaylord, a three-member regional panel of the state Attorney Discipline Board suspended the license to practice law of Charlevoix attorney Arthur H. Reibel for three years.

Reibel did not appear at the hearing which was held before Gaylord attorneys James Colant and Lowell Blumberg and Cheboygan attorney James Conboy, Sr.

At issue was a two-count complaint, filed July 28, 1984 by the Michigan Attorney Grievance Commission, claiming that Reibel neither paid a sum of $541.75 representing costs in a November 22, 1980 Attorney Discipline Board order dismissing Reibel's petition for review of a prior suspension, nor responded to a Request for Investigation allegedly served upon him by the Grievance Commission.

Reibel's license was first suspended for 90 days in 1981 for mishandling funds given to him to post bond for a client. In 1983, he was issued a 150-day suspension for failing to meet terms of the 1981 suspension.

The Charlevoix Fire Department is accustomed to responding to a wide variety of emergencies but the situation it faced Friday was a somewhat of a first.

At about noon Friday, crews contracted by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to repair erosion damage on the Pine River channel near the bridge broke the second of two city sewer lines running under the channel.

The first had been broken earlier in the week as dredging equipment excavated the embankment to install a revetment but had not been repaired when the second, and only other line across the channel, was hit and broken.

The flow of sewage from Charlevoix's north side was shut off immediately, according to city officials, thus preventing a major spill into the channel and Round Lake.

However, with the only two sewer lines from the north side to the south broken, the problem remained of how to get untreated sewage across the channel to the treatment plant.

The fire department provided the solution by stationing one of its pumps at the site and pumping the sewage in a fire hose across the channel.

Volunteer firemen were on the scene almost 12 hours until sewer lines were repaired at about midnight Friday.

Ricciardi's Inn of Charlevoix aided in the rescue by providing a welcome meal of pizza and coffee to firemen and construction workers, some of whom had worked straight through since the noon mishap.

Charlevoix Yesterday

This mute swan, pictured several years ago, seems to be enjoying his bath in Round Lake in the shadow of the old railroad bridge. Swans were once a common sight in the waters around Charlevoix. Their history dates back to the period of World War I, when Mr. and Mrs. George Douglas, cottagers at the Chicago Club, imported a pair of mute swans from England for their estate near Cedar Rapids, Iowa. The swans caused problems with the Douglas' children, so they were brought to a small stream running through the Chicago Club grounds in Charlevoix. From this pair (named "Pericles" and "Aspasia") the flock increased to several hundred, nesting near various waters as far away as Traverse City. Today, the greatest concentration of swans can be seen in the Traverse City area, but every once in a while one or two can be seen around Lake Charlevoix from Charlevoix to East Jordan. Inmates offered transition services

by PEG OHLE

Persons incarcerated in the Charlevoix County Jail are routinely offered the services of a Community Justice Alternatives worker who seeks to provide in-patient help to make the transition from jail back to the community easier.

Gary Knapp, regional representative of Community Justice Alternatives and Steve Jorgensen, who serves Charlevoix and Emmet Counties, appeared before the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners last week to tell about their year's activities.

They reported that in the Charlevoix County Jail they had assessed and provided orientation services to 60 inmates, studied the employability skills of 16 inmates, held substance abuse education classes for 56 inmates, referred five inmates for substance abuse residential treatment, and referred 14 others in a substance abuse support group.

The Community Justice Alternatives worker also put five inmates in Community Service jobs, made post-release contacts with 12 inmates, and made post-release job placements for seven inmates. He also placed two inmates with the Literacy Council for help in basic education skills.

The program provided General Education Diploma classes for 19 inmates, 11 of whom received diplomas, assessed the Wetland protection act being enforced locally

by PEG OHLE

Persons planning to build a house or any other structure on a plot of land near the shores of a lake, river, or stream which might be described as a "wetland" should check with the Department of Natural Resources to determine if they need a wetland permit.

The same is true for persons planning to fill, dredge, or remove soil or minerals from such areas.

The Wetland Protection Act, which became law on October 1, 1980, is just now beginning to be enforced in Charlevoix County. Although no general designation of wetlands has yet been made in the County, the three cities and several townships in the County have made such designations.

The Act, as passed, defines a wetland as "land characterized by the presence of water at a frequency and duration sufficient to support, and that under normal circumstances does support, wetland vegetation or aquatic life and is commonly referred to as a bog, swamp, or marsh."

What this means in simpler terms is that a wetland is a site so influenced by water that only plants and animals survive there which are specifically adapted to a wet environment. Thus, places that are wet only for short periods of time in early spring, after hard rains, etc., but do not contain aquatic plants and animals, are not wetlands and do not come under regulations of the Act.

As specified by the Act, landowners are required to obtain a permit from the Department of Natural Resources for the following activities:

- The depositing or allowing the placement of fill into a wetland.
- The dredging, removing, or allowing the removal of soil or minerals from a wetland.
- The construction, operation or maintenance of any use or development in a wetland unless specifically exempted.
- The draining of surface waters

GROUND BREAKING CEREMONIES were held Friday for an additional ten units planned for the Harbor Club condominium on Round Lake. Construction has already started on the $1 million-plus project, with completion projected by Memorial Day, 1985. On hand for the groundbreaking were, from left, Rick Lobenz of Ski & Shore which will be handling sales of the units, Mayor Kenneth Staley, Councilman F. Earl Muma, Carol and Jan Hisey of the J.H. Development firm, owners of the project, Councilmen James Block and Robert Timms, John Campbell of Site Planning Development which is doing site preparation, and architect Jack Begrow.

Class set for parents-to-be Expectant parents should mark their calendars that beginning October 5 and continuing for six Monday evenings, a series of classes on everything from nutrition to delivery to care of the newborn will be held at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Working with area physicians, Charlevoix Area Hospital is sponsoring these classes for any expectant parents, regardless of where they plan to have their babies. Each class will be conducted by physicians or registered nurses from the Obstetrical Department.

The classes will be conducted at the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Each session will run from 6:30 p.m. to 8:45 p.m., allowing ample time for discussions and questions. Each participant should have a signed note from their personal physician giving permission to participate in "exercise and childbirth classes."

A fee of $20 per person or couple is asked to cover class materials. The March of Dimes can provide financial assistance.

Participants are asked to bring with them a "support person" - someone who will act as their coach during labor and delivery. And participants are encouraged to wear stretchy slacks and bring two pillows to each class, for use during exercises.

Organized and directed by T.N. Luanne Henry of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Obstetrical Department, these classes are offered in cooperation with Mitchell Carey, M.D., Dennis Joy, M.D., John Lignell, M.D., Richard Mansfield, D.O., William Mosher, M.D., Edward Newcomb, M.D., and F. James Stewart, M.D.

Physicians and other health care professionals will lead each session.

For more information and to register call Charlevoix Area Hospital at 547-2287, or stop by Charlevoix Area Hospital admitting desk for a brochure and registration form.

Middle School-to have mini-sessions

The Charlevoix Middle School will host a "mini-session" for parents on Wednesday, Oct. 3, David J. Smith, middle school principal, has announced.

The "mini-sessions" will be held from 6:30 until 8:30 p.m. with a half-hour from 8:30 until 9 p.m. allowed for an individual conference with one teacher of the parent's choice during this period.

In announcing the "mini-sessions", Smith said the purpose of the special session was to introduce parents to both the daily schedule and the teachers of the students at the middle school.

The mini-sessions will begin at 6:30 p.m. and run for 10 minutes with five minutes between sessions to allow for transfer to the various rooms. Parents are advised to have a copy of their student's daily schedule prior to attending the mini-sessions in order to follow their student's schedule without difficulty.

Individual Parent-Teacher Conferences for the middle school are scheduled for 6:30-8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 20.

Smith urges all parents who can attend the mini-sessions on Wednesday, Oct. 3, to apologize for scheduling the event on students at the middle school. It was the only night when his entire staff was available for such an event.

Knight on the Town

Vanishing military presence

By David Knight

"Will be a quiet winter in the Charlevoix area without any servicemen around except those at the Coast Guard rescue station.

As long expected, the U.S. Air Force radar bomb scoring site at Bayshore closes for good next week and, sometime before December, the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite leaves for temporary assignment in Grenada.

Both these developments should evoke some degree of sadness among many local residents.

For military installations, Charlevoix could have no better neighbors than "the Coast Guard ship" and "the radar site."

Among the obvious benefits to the community include sizeable payrolls injected into the local economy. At peak deployments, the Air Force had up to 125 people stationed at Bayshore, most of whom lived in Charlevoix. The Mesquite, and before it the Sundew, is manned by 55 crewmen.

Combined, those 180 jobs made the Defense Department one of the area's largest employers.

Dollar figures aside, however, servicemen stationed in Charlevoix have traditionally made this a better place to live in many other ways.

From their welcome contributions to the blood bank - which often make the difference between reaching the quota or not - to their involvement and cooperation with so many other civic and charitable activities, the men and women in uniform have become a vital thread in the local fabric.

The feeling, of course, is mutual. It is no secret that for both Air Force and Coast Guard personnel, there are plenty of worse spots to be stationed than Charlevoix.

Helping to keep the Bayshore contingent in line, for instance, has always been the inherent threat of banishment to such outposts as Greenland or - gasp! - Wyoming.

Said an airman who spent a winter at one new bomb scoring site in the Rockies, "You folks in Charlevoix better not complain about snow cause you ain't seen nothing!"

So, to Detachment 6, 1st Combat Evaluation Group, farwell and Godspeed. Keep up the good work and don't forget to pack the skis.

To the officers and crew of the U.S.C.G. Mesquite, stock up on the Coppertone but hurry back.

To both outfits: Charlevoix won't be the same without you.

Memories of Howes

By Bob Cook

Remember the Howes Leather Co. of Boyne City, Michigan's last surviving sole leather tannery when it closed its doors 15 years ago this month?

The Harborage condominiums now stand near the site of the old processing plant and the stomach-churning aroma of leather-making is now only a memory.

But the tannery was Boyne City's largest employer when the plant succumbed to the pressure of foreign imports in 1969. It had a payroll of 125 - mostly men - who drew an average hourly wage of $2.70.

The company just couldn't compete with Italian footwear workers earning $1.04 an hour or Spanish footwear workers earning 65 cents an hour.

Howes Leather also was Boyne City's biggest taxpayer. The tannery was assessed at $800,000 and paid an annual city tax bill of $16,000 on real and personal property, plus another $12,000 in county taxes.

It's Boyne City's oldest plant and carried the city when there was nothing else here," former City Manager Forbes Tompkins commented at the time. It seems to me that our representatives are more interested in representing foreign interests rather than their own constituents."

BUT ALL THAT IS history. The plant has closed and the workers have either retired, died, moved away or found other employment.

But the survivors of the Howes

Leather era will have a chance to share recollections of the Howes Leather Co. on Saturday, Oct. 13, from 5:30 p.m. until midnight when they and members of their families are invited to one last farewell shindig at the VFW hall in Boyne City.

Money has turned up unexpectedly in the old union fund - enough for one last fling.

The promoters say there will be food, refreshments and music for dancing.

Of course there will be lots of talk about the old days and the new days and which are best.

Now that the shock and the bitterness are over, a good time should be shared by all.

LOOKING OVER old clippings from the Howes Leather file, I was struck by two things:

— Isn't it strange that the import question that had us spluttering 15 years ago is still a topic for lively debate today, as automakers, steel-makers and others fight for domestic content legislation? We certainly haven't made a great deal of progress in this particular area.

— Why was a leather company founded in Boyne City in 1901 when pine trees still outnumbered beef hides a thousand to one?

The answer is rather simple if you know the tanning business. Hemlock bark, an important ingredient in tanning syrup, was a plentiful commodity in Charlevoix County in those days.

Ludwig: Will cruise provide fair picture of concerns?

Ed. note: The following letter from Dr. James P. Ludwig was received by the Courier last week for publication. Because space needs, the paper will be the last before the planned October 1 cruise, a copy of the letter was provided to WATCH president Howard Neilson so that his response could be published before the cruise.

To the Editor:

This is an open letter to WATCH and Howard Neilson asking for their response in the same spirit as his recent letter to judicial candidates.

How delightful it has been to watch the development of a keen public interest by many local citizens in a comprehensive effort to develop a plan to protect the unique Lake Charlevoix resource. On both front pages of this week's weekly Charlevoix Courier and County Press the issue of the plan is reviewed. The marvelous gesture by WATCH and its fine president, Howard Neilson, to bring together environmental groups and the local officials to start the process by initiating the dialog among interests in a dinner cruise setting seems to be a good way to start. Why then am I, a professional ecologist and environmentalist, presented only by this wonderful gesture? Because it is only half the picture that is needed.

Both newspaper articles make it clear the "WATCH has no intentions of trying to dictate the substance of a development plan". And yet, who is on the invitation list? As far as I can see, it is those groups and people - and only those - who are either officials to be influenced to a no of development posture and those who tend strongly to support this view. I see the names of WATCH, The Lake Charlevoix Association, and the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council mentioned as those providing the program, the dinner and all the conversation to the 90 public officials who are invited to attend. Somehow one doubts that the views of any other interest will be aired in this forum.

As an ecologist, I find this a curious social phenomenon which seems likely to fall because of its lack of balance. To Mr. Neilson and WATCH I would direct several questions. Is it an intelligent move to exclude those developers who oppose the meeting? How can you even know what the developers want and from the Lake Charlevoix resource if you constantly treat them as the enemy? Do you realize that the same process of exclusion that WATCH apparently endorses is exactly the same process of selection of values, which when applied to people from different races, is called racism?

Please consider how you and the body of local environmentalist opinion you so ably lead and represent would react if a group of developers hired out a ship, bought dinner for, and presented only pro-development views to the guest list you have identified. I suspect that the howls of Northern Michigan environmentalists would be heard to mingle with the cry of the wolves from Minnesota and Alaska. What WATCH has organized is a closed meeting of elected and appointed officials with a trio of special interest environmental groups.

However, the last thing I, or any of the developers I know, want to do is prevent this meeting. I do not know of anyone who has an opinion about the lake who believes that a good comprehensive planning process should not have occurred two decades ago. The truth is that everyone needs the certainty of an agreed to plan to proceed rationally and to protect the jewel that is the lake. Without a plan and competent enforcement of the regulatory changes that a plan will stimulate, only chaos and frustration lie ahead for all parties regardless of beliefs or intentions. Protectionists, developers, and the public will suffer in equal measure. But then, I said all this at the June 13 public meeting on Henningway Point.

So, Mr. Neilson and WATCH, in the interest of an even better planning process and the full dialog you need to get a good plan written, I issue to you the following challenge. First, obey the first law (according to Barry Commoner) of Ecology, that there is no such thing as a free lunch. Arrange for a caterer if necessary, but have everyone pay their own way. Somehow, I believe that the officials of the county and township around the lake can either pay for their own dinner or cleverly pass it on to their constituents by expense accounts. Even more appropriate might be the old fashion pot luck dinner, a device that always leads to conviviality and a better social process because it reminds us of the subtlety of our environmental roles and interdependence.

Secondly, open both the meeting to the public and the program to DNR, provided you are willing to open up the process to include all views and interests. This is a job that must be done now by all of us, not WATCH alone.

By best wishes to you Dave, and you Howard,

James P. Ludwig
Professional Ecologist

Finally, let us all agree to be open, honest, civil, and careful of each other's ideas and views. In my recent work with Bill Cottrell's Henningway Point Project, I was deeply upset at many of the tactics used by those opposed to that project. The noted author Robert Heinlein has stated that the first sure sign of decay in a developed society is the loss of manners and civility towards those with whom we disagree. If Heinlein is correct, then the sheer nastiness from some of those engaged from the environmentalist camp about the lake are symptomatic of some rather deep rot indeed. As an environmentalist, I was embarrassed and ashamed of the treatment accorded to Mr. Cottrell. None of the parties to the emerging consensus need the contentiousness which was characterized by environmentalist attacks on several Lake Charlevoix developers. Let us all have the good sense and dignity to conduct ourselves in an exemplary way as we go forward with this process. We owe ourselves and our children the best chance of success in this process. I firmly believe that open, honest, good humored competition of views, a presentation of accurate scientific facts, and a firm commitment to listen to and respect the views of our neighbors is the only way to achieve the plan.

Mr. Neilson, I do look forward to working with you, WATCH, other environmental groups, and the DNR, provided you are willing to open up the process to include all views and interests. This is a job that must be done now by all of us, not WATCH alone.

By best wishes to you Dave, and you Howard,

James P. Ludwig
Professional Ecologist

structure and membership composition of the Lake Development Committee, other than there should be representation from each of the seven townships fronting the lake and equal representation for environmental and business (developers) interests. This decision will properly be made by Mr. Sullivan, the County Planner.

Now as to your allegation that WATCH is "anti-growth", and developers as "the enemy". I would ask you to produce one shred of evidence to support such an irresponsible set of accusations. WATCH, Inc. is on record in the public press and by letter as endorsing growth in Charlevoix County, which we believe to be imminent during the next decade. Our only publicly stated concern is that it be a planned growth that will not impinge unfavorably on the integrity of Lake Charlevoix or otherwise degrade the ecological and environmental ambience of this area. We believe it is eminently possible to do this, and is exactly why we are working for a Lake Charlevoix Development Plan with all interests represented, including developers.

Further, with reference to your "off the wall" statements regarding our alleged "anti-developer" stance, it is difficult for me to assess where you are coming from on that one. I consider real estate development as a reputable and responsible commercial business in much the same context that I view other industries or profit oriented organizations operating in our free enterprise system. Nevertheless, I am not so naive as to believe that the real estate business does not have its unscrupulous - and irresponsible - operators just as any other business enterprise has its share. The best protection against real estate projects having disastrous ecological effects is to have responsible developers represented on the Lake Development Committee. They are knowledgeable and can provide valuable guidance and input to Committee members and can also provide a valuable service in protecting the County from those in their own business who from background and experience they consider suspect. It would be counter productive for WATCH to create an "adversary relationship" between fellow committee members who are attempting to protect the interests of all parties involved.

Charlevoix area residents should be aware that Lake Charlevoix has already been identified by many distinguished limnologists as an extremely "fragile" lake, despite its being the third largest inland lake in Michigan. It is a "magnet" attraction in the County and core to the economic health and well-being of its citizens, apart from its aesthetic beauty.

In closing, I do agree with one point in your letter, that it is necessary for all involved to work together and to be honest, civil, open and respectful of the other fellow's views and opinions.

Howard F. Neilson, Pres.
WATCH, Inc.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald L. Hoxie

Patrick - Hoxie

Vickey R. Patrick and Ronald L. Hoxie exchanged marriage vows on Saturday, August 25, at the First Baptist Church of Charlevoix. For the occasion, the Church altar was decorated with white and yellow chrysanthemums.

The Reverend Milton Walton officiated at the "Rites before approximately 125 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Victor R. Patrick and Mary L. Kuh, both of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hoxie of West Branch.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Victorian style gown of antique silk and European lace designed by her mother, as was the bride's father. Penny Tucker, sister of the bride, and Mike Wilse attended the gift table.

The rehearsal dinner was also held at the Rod & Gun Club, hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

Following a wedding trip through the Upper Peninsula, the new Mr. and Mrs. Hoxie are at home in Charlevoix. The bridegroom is employed at DCL, Inc. of Charlevoix and is in the Michigan National Guard, stationed at Camp Grayling.

Kathy A. Hoxie, niece of the bridegroom, as flower girl, wore a dress similar to that of the bridesmaid, but made of blue dotted Swiss. She carried a basket of white and yellow daisies, blue carnations, baby's breath, and white roses.

Randy Tucker, nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer. Mike Wilse of Rose City was best man, and Bob Sandahl and Rob Bluthinson, of Charlevoix were ushers.

Music for the ceremony was provided by vocalist Swanne Alden of Charlevoix and pianist Steve Stargardt of Norwood.

A reception at the Charlevoix Rod & Gun Club followed the wedding, hosted by the bridegroom's parents and the bride's father. Penny Tucker, sister of the bride, and Mike Wilse attended the gift table.

The rehearsal dinner was also held at the Rod & Gun Club, hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

Erin Campbell and Gerald Thompson

Campbell - Thompson

Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel M. Campbell of Charlevoix announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Erin Elizabeth, to Gerald Kevin Thompson.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis W. Thompson of Charlevoix and is now serving in the United States Air Force, stationed in Osoyo.

Both the future bride and bridegroom attended North Central of Charlevoix and are currently employed by the same firm, Bird's Beauty Shop.

The wedding will take place October 13 at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Harris

Smalley - Harris

Darlene Sue Smalley became the bride of John W. Harris on Saturday, August 25, in the Perry Church of the Nazarene in Perry.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Erwin E. Smalley of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom's parents are the Reverend and Mrs. George V. Harris of Perry.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome P. Gasper of Belding, and the bridegroom, who has been living in Charlevoix, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan C. Boring of Traverse City.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of organza with silk Venise lace motifs accented the beaded Queen Anne neckline and Chantilly lace accenting the hemline of the semi-cathedral train. She wore a hat decorated with silk flowers and netting and carried a bouquet of lavender roses, flowering lily, and baby's breath.

Gasper - Boring

Rebecca Sue Gasper and David Bryan Boring were married July 21 at St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Parnell.

The Reverend Ernest Bernot officiated at the ceremony before an altar decorated with potted ferns, candelabras, and arrangements of carnations, gladioli, and chrysanthemums.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome P. Gasper of Belding, and the bridegroom, who has been living in Charlevoix, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan C. Boring of Traverse City.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of organza with silk Venise lace motifs accented the beaded Queen Anne neckline and Chantilly lace accenting the hemline of the semi-cathedral train. She wore a hat decorated with silk flowers and netting and carried a bouquet of lavender roses, flowering lily, and baby's breath.

Northport too much for girls squad

The Charlevoix girls basketball team dropped its only game last week to a strong Northport five by a score of 48-41 in a game played here last Tuesday.

The team will open its league schedule Tuesday at Boyne City, host Petoskey on Thursday and travel to Gaylord next Tuesday.

Charlevoix jumped to a 12-11 first period lead but were unable to hold it as they were outscored 11-5 in the second period as Northport took over 22-17 at halftime.

The visitors increased their lead to 39-27 as the second half got underway. Charlevoix took a 39-27 lead in the third period but it was not enough to overcome the deficit.

Ann Wagner led the team with 14 points followed by Angie McClanaghan with 10. Katie Kalchik had 19 points for Northport.

Meg Fowler was the top defensive player.

Northport outscored Charlevoix from the floor 20 to 18 and collected eight of 14 from the charity line while Charlevoix had only five of nine free throws. Both teams had 15 personal fouls.

The Charlevoix JV's continued their winning streak, taking the game by a score of 52-10 as everyone saw action. Ann Kroll with 10 points paced the game. Barbie Bloss was the leading defensive player.

Charlevoix's Meg Fowler drives against Northport.

Runners beat Boyne City

Charlevoix boys' basketball team won its first game in a dual meet at Boyne City Tuesday, posting 21 points to 10 for the Rams.

Boys did not field a complete girls team and had no JV squad Coach Pete Spies said.

The Rayders' Mike Dohm set the pace for the team covering the three-mile course of 16-42.

Others among the top

10 were Dale Parsons of Boyne City who finished second in 16:40 followed by Joe Simpson, Cx., in 17:04; Doug Bergmann, Cx., 17:04; Leach, B.C., 17:06; Kevin McLeone, Cx., 17:16; Tim Gibb, Cx., 17:18; Harold Herriman, Cx., 17:20; Tom Merta, Cx., 17:23; and Pat Rajewski, Cx., 17:35.

In reporting the results of the game, Coach Spies called attention to the fact that there was only 36 seconds between the first and fifth place finishers and only 53 seconds between the first and tenth place finishers.

Molly Bolduc topped the runners in the girls division with a time of 22:36.

She was followed by Betsy Haggard, Cx., with a time of 22:45; Katie Vicker, B.C., 23:27; Elizabeth Force, B.C., 24:00; Heidi Olinger, Cx., 24:13; Heidi Erber, B.C., 24:22; Leslie Miller, Cx., 24:35; and Yvonne Hewitt, B.C., 25:11.

Couch Spies said all the teams were coming along well and showing progress.

The teams will be at Petoskey Tuesday and will host the Clare Martin Invitational meet at the Belvedere golf course property with the first race to begin at 9:30 a.m.

Yachting Notes

by A. Nony Mouse

One of the very nicest Wednesday Evenings of the year! (And this time, no sarcasm is intended.) It was light at the start and calm shortly thereafter, but then the breeze filled in: within a half hour of the finish it was up to twenty knots! Unfortunately, we elected to go the wrong way after a perfect start and found ourselves in the cheap seat when the breeze filled in from the other side of the course. Still, it was fun playing catch-up, and we did pretty well at it.

On Overall, Fleet No. 1 blew the others away, taking the first six positions. Thus the Overall Results are a "re-read" of their results.

Fleet No. 1: 1. CHARLIE BROWN (1:12:44), 2. KRITTER (1:13:51), 3. SKIRMISH (1:15:06), 4. COLUMBINE (1:15:35), 5. TIGGER (1:18:32), 6. PYGMALION (1:21:20) with FLYING MACHINE well back.

Fleet No. 2: 1. MARANATHIA, 2. NIGHT MOVES, 3. BANDIT, 4. WING NUT, 5. MERRY HILL, 6. RAZZ-MA-TAZZ, 7. RIBBIT, 8. CANUSA and 9. MUD DUCK.

Fleet No. 3: 1. FOX, 2. LADY, 3. BLASEN III, 3. TIRELESS, 4. SPECTRE, and 5. OBSESSION.

JAM: 1. COOLWHIP, 2. CYGNUS, 3. PHONECIA, 4. CHEEMAUN, 5. STALWORTH, 6. APOTHECARY and 7. MAUREEN.

The top three in each fleet at the halfway point, not eliminating any drops, are:

No. 1: the SKIRMISH & CHARLIE BROWN (1:45) and KRITTER (8:25).

No. 2: WING NUT (5:73), BANDIT (8:25) and NIGHT MOVES (10:75).

No. 3: BLASEN III (3:25), TIRELESS (4:5) and FOX/LADY (9:0).

JAM: CYGNUS (4:0), CHEEMAUN (9:5), PHONECIA and CHILWHIP are tied with (10:0) while STALWORTH is right there with (10:25).

The Fall Series is best five out of six with our last race falling on October 10. I hear rumor that we'll repeat the annual pilgrimage to the thriving metropolis of Ironton the following week (Oct. 17).

Understand that the newly elected Directors are Ken Heininger, Bob Schofield and Josh Barnes. Congratulations and best wishes!

Many thanks for the offers of help, the rest of you can look forward to seeing a couple different styles in these columns over the next few weeks. I've really enjoyed writing this weekly episode, but it's sure going to be nice to share the duty.

The End of the Mouse's Tale.

Rogers City hands Rayders first loss

The good news Friday night was that the Charlevoix Rayders racked up an impressive 428 total yards on offense in their second Michigan-Huron Shores Conference game.

The bad news is that 5:21 left after Chris Havens returned a punt to the RC 39. But the Rayders had to settle for six as a two-point conversion attempt failed.

It was in the third quarter that Ehrke's long range artillery attack put the game out of reach. On the second play of the quarter, the Rogers City JV's hit Joe Veselenak for 84 yards and the TD.

Later, Charlevoix drove to the Hurons' seven but coughed the ball up on a fumble only to see Ehrke connect with Veselenak again on a 93-yard scoring play.

Individually, Matt Lignell continued to carry the rushing load impressively for the Rayders accumulating 143 yards on 18 carries. Charlevoix's rushing total was 250 yards.

Mike Loustelle led receivers with five catches for 61 yards while Jim Martin caught two for 37 yards and Jody Putman one for 20. Cole completed eight of 21 passes for 198 yards.

Charlevoix had ten first downs, five by rushing, four by passing and one by a penalty. Rogers City had 13 first downs.

Defensively, Thad Morgan led the squad with 16 tackles. Havens had 11 tackles, Shannon Spence and Cole 10, P.J. Arnold nine and Pat Hamlin eight.

This Friday, the Rayders play at Boyne City. The Hamblers have yet to win a game this season having lost three in a row so far.

Wins city golf tourney

Joe Etienne, Jr. was the winner of the recent Charlevoix City Golf Championship.

Runner up was D. Curtis in the championship flight.

Hurons edge JVs

The Charlevoix JV football team lost a close game to Rogers City Thursday by a score of 14-12 Coach Briap Cerna reports.

This week the young Rayders will host Boyne City in a game at Kipke Field at 4 p.m. Thursday.

Charlevoix got off to a good start in the game with the Hurons scoring in the first period on a four yard run by Mike Thompson following a drive that started on the Rogers 40 yard line.

Rogers City came back later in the period to score on a 35 yard pass play and then added the two-point conversion that was to determine the outcome of the game.

The young Rayders took a 12-0 halftime lead after Jim Gibbs passed to Terry Bonar for 15 yards and a touchdown to go ahead. Again the attempted run for the conversion was short.

The Charlevoix defense tightened and the Rayders held the visitors until late in the period when the Hurons scored from the three yard line following a concerted drive.

Charlevoix was on its way to another score when Rogers City intercepted a pass on the eight yard line to halt the drive as time ran out.

Coach Cerna said the team was improving with every game and was looking sharper all the time. He listed Bonar and Gibbs as the outstanding players on offense and Thompson and Kent Seymour for their defensive play.

Ann Wagner, right, and Angie McClanaghan put the pressure on a Northport player in action last week.

Freshmen bow to Gaylord

The Charlevoix Rayder freshman football team dropped its opening game to the Gaylord Blue Devils Wednesday night by a score of 18-14 according to Coach Erik Lundteigen.

The young Rayders will be in Boyne City Wednesday.

Gaylord, playing their second game of the season, scored on a 30 yard run and a 20 yard pass play before the Rayders got on the board with a pass play short.

Roger Smith that covered 52 yards. Drury passed to Chad Thorp for a two-point conversion.

The score stood at 12-0 at halftime.

As the second half got underway, Gaylord scored on a 10-yard run. Thorp, on a 22 yard defense, scored the entire line played well on offense, especially Drury.

Lundteigen said he was pleased with the team's play their first time out. He mentioned Jim Tilton, Jeff Arnold and Mark LaBlance on defense and said the entire line played well on offense, especially Drury.

Telecommunicating in 1984

NOW YOUR TELECOMMUNICATIONS SERVICES COME FROM A NEW FAMILY OF COMPANIES.

As a Michigan Bell customer, you have been affected by recent changes in the telecommunications industry.

However, with few exceptions—the services previously available only to Michigan Bell are now available to you either from Michigan Bell or from one of our new family companies.

A major action led to the reorganization of MCI Telecommunications Corporation (MCI) and Michigan Bell's new holding company, Ameritech, Inc., to provide a new holding company for the Bell companies in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Wisconsin.

How we and these other Michigan companies are best of service in meeting your telecommunications needs is described in the following.

Basic Telecommunications Services: Residence and Business.

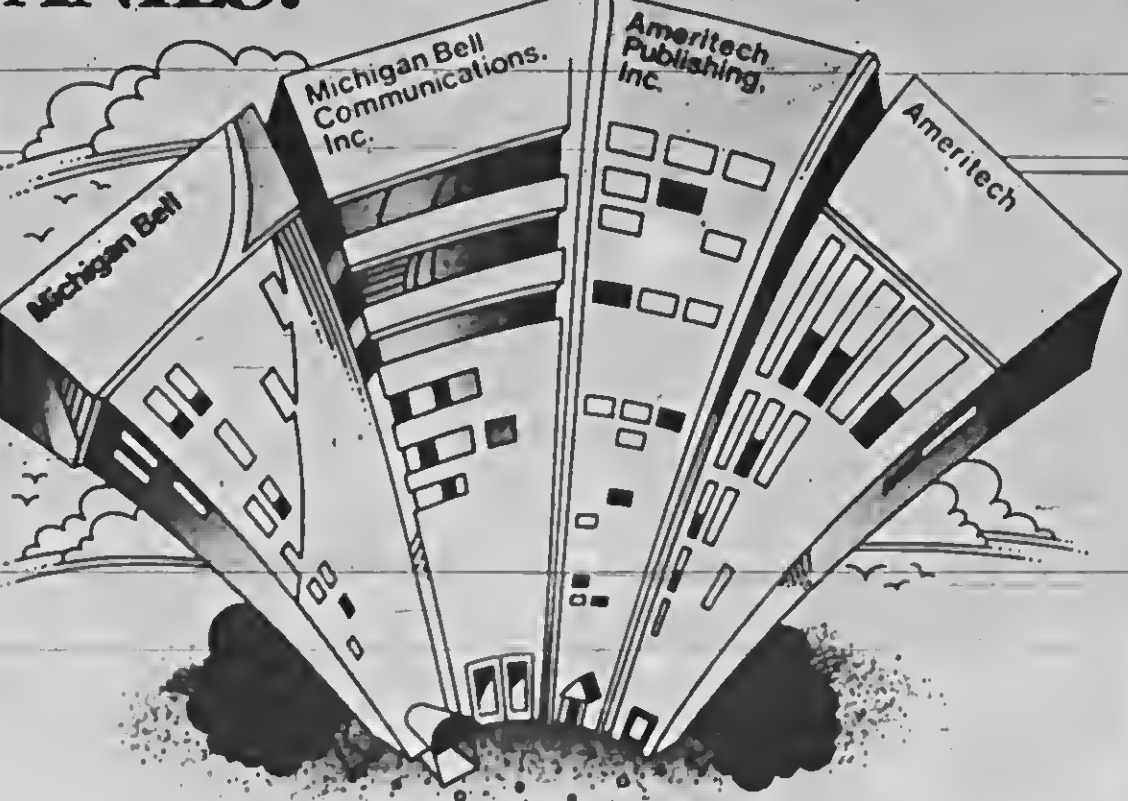

MICHIGAN BELL provides basic telecommunications services including dial tone, flat rate or measured service, white pages telephone listings, line repair service, and disabled telephone service. You can also get optional network services like touch tone and custom calling services from Michigan Bell and business network services such as Centrex and network transmission services for voice, data and image. And we provide public telephone service as well as long distance service within Michigan Bell's service area, including optional long distance calling plans.

Equipment: Business.

MICHIGAN BELL COMMUNICATIONS, INC. serves as Michigan Bell's sales arm for business network services, including Centrex. It provides complete business communications systems, offering products and equipment from a wide variety of telecommunications suppliers including terminal equipment for the Centrex service.

Equipment: Residence and Small Business.

The new GOSPEL PROFIT DIVISION OF MICHIGAN BELL COMMUNICATIONS, INC. provides telephone equipment for residence and small business customers, with delivery by phone and delivery to your home or business.

Directory Advertising.

Michigan Bell Yellow Pages advertising is now handled by AMERITECH PUBLISHING, INC., the publisher and provider of Michigan Bell Yellow Pages directory advertising, including Neighborhood, Specialty, Business to Business, and Travelers' Directories.

Mobile Communications Services.

MICHIGAN BELL offers tone and digital display radio paging in metro Detroit, Lansing, and Grand Rapids through our Bellco Service "agent" A Reeper Company.

Michigan Bell also provides Improved Mobile Telephone Service (IMTS) in most major Michigan cities.

Facts down the line.

We suggest that you watch for further information messages in your newspapers and in your monthly telephone bills. Because your telephone business office is closely engaged in normal day-to-day telephone service matters, we are providing this toll-free number for our Let's Talk Center as a source for answers to the questions you may have about your changing telephone company. 1-800-555-5000.

Flag football scores

The forty-Niners defeated the Vikings 24-8 and the Cowboys shut out the Lions 34-0 in the opening games of the flag football season Monday.

Next Monday the Cowboys will meet the Redskins at 6 p.m. and the Forty-Niners will play the Lions at 7:15 p.m.

In last week's action, Dave Miller put the Niners ahead 6-0 on a two yard plunge in the first period before the Lions scored on a 20 yard run by James Corbett.

From then on, it was the Niners all the way as Miller added three more scoring plays on runs of one, 21 and 18 yards each all in the second period for a 24-0 margin. Webb finished a safety from the three yard line for a 33-0 win as time ran out.

The final score 24-8.

In their game, the Cowboys ran rampant over the Lions as Shawn Putman intercepted a pass and ran 13 yards to put the Cowboys on the board in the first period.

Putman added a one yard scoring plunge in the game period for a 13-0 lead after Wes Cumberland scored the conversion point.

As the second half got underway, Putman hit Cumberland with a 32 yard scoring pass and Scott Ranney for the conversion point before intercepting a Lions pass on the 38 yard line and romping the distance to score. Putman passed to Mike Wise for the conversion to make the score 24-0 going into the final period.

Chris Seymour scored from the three yard line for a 33-0 win as time ran out.

Obituaries

ROBERT B. LIVINGSTON
Funeral services for Robert B. Livingston, 66, were held at 1 p.m. Tuesday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Philip G. Schirbaum of the First Congregational Church officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Livingston died Sept. 22 at the Little Traverse Division of Northern Michigan Hospitals.
Mr. Livingston was born in Charlevoix May 21, 1918, and was graduated from the Charlevoix High School. He served with the First Division of the U.S. Army during World War II. He was married to the former Esther Harwood in Charlevoix on May 19, 1946. He was employed at the Charlevoix State Savings Bank, now the First State Bank, from 1945 until 1970 and at Freedman Aircraft Corp., now Harbor Industries, from 1970 until he retired in 1981.

He was a member of the First Congregational Church and the Leslie-T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion.
Besides his wife, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Michael (Lenore) Hagens of Spring Valley, Cal., and Mrs. Michael Lynette Webb of Charlevoix; two sons, Bruce A. of Alma, and Don L. of Nason; 10 grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Ralph (Estelle) Hahn of Lake Orion, and two brothers, David F. of Rockford and Archie L. of Banta Springs, Fla.

The family suggests memorials to the Michigan Cancer Society or the First Congregational Church.

SAMUEL E. KING
Funeral services for Samuel E. King, 82, World War I veteran, were held at the Winchester Funeral Home Monday, Oct. 1, at 10 a.m. The Rev. Philip G. Schirbaum of the Charlevoix Post No. 1153, Veterans of Foreign Wars, officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. King died Sept. 22 at the Little Traverse Division of Northern Michigan Hospitals.
Born in Charlevoix March 30, 1896, Mr. King served in France with the U.S. Army Signal Corps during World War I. On Aug. 3, 1919, he was married to the former Eva Davy at Chicago. They always made their home here. He was a painting contractor and interior decorator.

He was a charter member and the first post commander of Charlevoix Post No. 1153, V.F.W., and the last remaining charter member. He was also a charter member of the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion.

He is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Alvin (Sally) Bennett of Royal Oak, Pa., and Mrs. Donald (Janet) Hardy of Colorado Springs, Colo.; two sons, Robert E. of Prescott, Ariz., and Lyle S. of Charlevoix; 12 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.
The family suggests memorials to the Michigan Heart Fund.

Scandinavian exchange students adjust to American life

by FRANK MARTIN

The student population at the Charlevoix High School was increased by two early this month with the enrollment of foreign exchange students translating from English to French, translate directly from one to the other rather than from English to French as one unfamiliar with the language would probably do.

How do they like Charlevoix? Both were quick to mention the beauty of the area and the friendliness of the people. "Everyone is so willing to help us," said the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fleming Delitz of Copenhagen where his father is vice president of a brewery and his mother is a storekeeper at a clothing company.

Claus is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fleming Delitz of Copenhagen where his father is vice president of a brewery and his mother is a storekeeper at a clothing company. He has a brother, Michael, 19, and a sister, Toiné, nine. He has already graduated from high school and attended a special college where he majored in shipping, a career he plans to follow.

Ulf is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Olof Evaldsson. His father is a transport leader at a trucking company. His mother, Vivianne, is a sub postmaster. He has one brother, Peter, 21. After attending school here this year, he will be required to repeat the year of study at home before he can graduate.

He plans to enter a career where his interest and proficiency in languages can be utilized. At this time he does not know what it might be.

Many exchange students have a language problem when they come to this country but not these young men who speak almost flawless English with only a slight accent. Each has had a minimum of eight years of English, beginning as early as the third grade.

In addition Claus has studied German, French and Italian and Ulf, Latin, German and French.

Both said they think in English and, when translating from English to French, translate directly from one to the other rather than from English to French as one unfamiliar with the language would probably do.

home one has a few friends and that you do things with just them.

Ulf brought up the subject of church attendance. "Everyone here seems to attend church regularly. We don't do that at home," he said. Claus said one of the questions on the forms they filled out in the Youth for Understanding program asked that question and both said they had answered "no" to the question of regular church attendance.

They also mentioned that question and both said they had answered "no" to the question of regular church attendance. However, they now attend church with their host families.

Asked to name one thing they noticed most about Americans, both were quick to say "Everyone is always in a hurry." Claus went on to say that here people travel even a short distance. "At home I wouldn't think of that. I would walk or take the bus. It's too expensive to drive a car just to get some place in a hurry." Ulf nodded to everything he said and then added "We have McDonald's at home but we never go any more than once a week at the most. Here everyone goes all the time. Here everything is done in a hurry. Travel, eating, everything."

Claus also remarked that he found family life here much more conservative than at home. "Here, when you go out, parents say 'Be home by 10.' At home I could stay out all night and my parents wouldn't question me. They would just know I was alright. Parents here seem a lot more concerned about their children."

They both said kids have a better time here than at home. "Here there's always people around, they're always ready to do something," he explained. Claus went on to say that at American food? Both said they have many of the same foods at home but they did name roast turkey, barbecues, hamburgers as some of their favorites. They said they liked most foods. "American girls" an expressive "Ooh!" and "Aah!" Ulf wasn't sure but until now has been alright. Since arriving here both have been introduced to the it's different. In Denmark it's not unusual to see topless sunbathers. Here girls don't even walk down the street in bikinis. Have they been homesick? Not yet, they said. Claus said he had traveled and had been away from home for long periods of time so didn't think he would be homesick. Ulf wasn't sure but until now has been alright. play soccer and some Sweden" but they said "rugby" they explained. The distance, Ulf has utilized his hydroplane, is no more experience as a soccer than the distance from here to Petoskey. Again they asked to have the friendliness of the American people that since meeting here, mentioned, saying they have discovered again "Everyone has that they live only a short distance apart." I willing to help us. They live in Denmark "Claus have made us so said and "I live in welcome."

Obituaries

ALMEDA R. VANDALL
Funeral services for a former resident, Mrs. Almeda R. Vandall, 64, were held Thursday, Sept. 27, at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Walter J. Buck of East Jordan officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.
Mrs. Vandall died Sept. 22 at her home in Allen Park.
Born in Charlevoix Dec. 13, 1919, the former Almeda R. Vosburg moved to Detroit as a girl. She was married to Julius C. Vandall who preceded her in death Jan. 15, 1973. They had always made their home in the Detroit area.
She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Judy Broder of Detroit; four sons, Gilbert Lee of Charlevoix, Ralph Lee of Royal Oak, Richard and Stanley Lee of Detroit; nine grandchildren; one great-grandchild and three sisters, Mrs. Nellie Holborn and Mrs. Sophronia McDermott, both of Charlevoix, and Mrs. Hilda Beach of California.

County Dems to hold Mondale-Ferraro party

Charlevoix County Democrats will host an America for Mondale-Ferraro party on Sunday, October 7th, at Elm Pointe, East Jordan, to help raise money for the Democratic campaign this fall.
The party is part of the America for Mondale-Ferraro national grass roots fundraising program. 20,000 parties are being planned across the country for the night of October 7th to raise an estimated $5 million for Democratic candidates, including Walter F. Mondale and Geraldine A. Ferraro.
The America for Mondale-Ferraro parties will be highlighted by a special 30-minute televised program featuring both Mondale and Ferraro that is to be broadcast at 7 p.m. on Channels 7, 9 & 10 and 29 & 8, the local television network affiliates.
Prior to the broadcast the public is invited to meet all the Charlevoix County Democratic candidates beginning at 5:30 p.m. Everyone is asked to bring a snack or hors d'oeuvres to pass. Beverages will be provided.
The program ends at 7:30 p.m. to allow guests to return home in time for the nationally televised debate between President Reagan and challenger Mondale.
For further information contact Ruth Crawford, Charlevoix County Democrats chair, at 536-7452 or Russell Peck 536-2477.

Hospital series to address breathing ills

"Help yourself to Better Breathing" is the title of a free series of classes sponsored jointly by Charlevoix Area Hospital and the American Lung Association beginning Monday October 8, at the hospital, from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m.
Designed to help people suffering from asthma, bronchitis, emphysema and other chronic lung problems, the series will be conducted every Monday and Wednesday through October 22, with meetings on October 8, 10, 15, 17 and 22.
Questions common to people with lung diseases will be addressed during these sessions: "Are you troubled by coughing and wheezing?" "Would you like to learn how to overcome breathlessness?" "What's hurting your lungs?" "Do you know what your medicines are for?" "Would breathing machines, humidifiers and other equipment help or hurt your lungs?" "Do you need a special diet or new eating habits?"
"Do you sometimes feel afraid or depressed?"
The emphasis of the program will be on understanding lung problems and strengthening muscles of respiration for more controlled breathing, according to organizer Jan Ballard, Respiratory Therapist of Charlevoix Area Hospital.
Sessions will be led by Respiratory Therapists, Physical Therapists, Dietitians, Registered Nurses and physicians. Each session will focus on one of the major questions. Every participant will be provided with written materials they may keep and study at their own pace.
A goal of the program is to help participants feel better, breathe easier, and develop self-confidence. Families of people with breathing problems are encouraged to attend. Mrs. Ballard says, "because their understanding and support is very basic." For reservations for these free sessions call 547-4024.

First Baptist Church welcomes Rev. Black as new pastor

by PEG OHLE

The Reverend Thomas Black is the new pastor of the First Baptist Church of Charlevoix.

Reverend Black comes to Charlevoix from Columbus, Ohio, where he was pastor of the Lockbourne Road Baptist Church. Previous to that, he served churches in Massachusetts, Maine, and Florida. He was educated at the Bible Institute of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia and at Trinity College in Durdin, Florida.

Reverend Black says his ambition in Charlevoix is "to triple attendance at the church by reaching individuals and preaching the word that 'God loves you.'"

Already, Reverend Black has started a five-minute Sunday morning message series on

Rev. Thomas Black

Radio Station WVOY, Church holds Sunday school classes for children, young people, young adults, and older adults at 9:45 on Sunday mornings. These are followed by church services at 11 a.m., and there is an informal fellowship hour at 7 p.m. on Sundays. A Bible study and prayer meeting family night is held at 7 p.m. on Wednesdays.

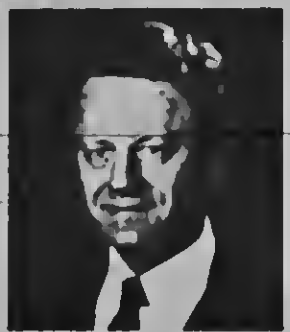

Reverend Black and his wife, Doris, are parents of five grown children. Patricia Ann Boggs lives in Cordova, Illinois and is married to a minister. Jackie Lynn Beechmer lives in Bluff Park, Alabama. Sandra Spohn lives in Harrisburg, Ohio, as does Sharon Black. When asked what his hobbies are, Reverend Black replied, "Motorcycling and golf." He owns an 850 Suzuki motorcycle which he calls "Black Beauty", and which bears a sticker, "I love Jesus". Reverend and Mrs. Black recently took a 2,100-mile motorcycle ride from their home in Columbus to Florida and return. However, he does not ride the cycle during the winter months.

Mrs. Black plans to enter into women's organizations' work in Charlevoix. She has also worked outside the home, most recently at the Children's Hospital in Columbus. "I love working with children," she said.

THE MOST WANTED RECIPES IN TOWN!

YOURS!

Charlevoix Courier Festive Favorites Recipe Contest Many Prizes to be Given Away

CONTEST RULES

1. Contestants are invited to enter as many categories as they wish but may submit only one recipe per category. You must be 18 years or older to enter.
2. Recipes should be typed or printed on a sheet of paper with the category indicated.
3. To each recipe there should be a separate sheet of paper attached with the contestant's name, address and phone number. The contestant's name should not appear on the actual recipe. As each recipe is received, it will be assigned a number which will be logged with the contestant's name. The names will be removed from the recipes so the judges will not know whose recipes they are judging.
4. Ingredients should be listed in accurate, easily understood amounts and in the order that they are used.

5. Recipes do not have to be completely original. They may be old standards or new variations on familiar recipes. The more original the recipe is, however, the better its chance of winning.
6. If duplicate recipes are received, the one submitted first will be accepted. We will log date and time recipes are received.
7. All contestants must agree to permit their recipes to be published in a special cookbook section of the Charlevoix Courier.
8. Employees of the Charlevoix Courier and Petoskey News-Review and members of their families are not eligible to win the contest.
9. A panel of judges will evaluate the recipes submitted and name three finalists in each of the five categories. The 15 finalists will be notified and asked to prepare their recipes for a final judging session. Judges will then sample the entries and name a winner in each category.

Send Recipes to:

Sheriffs Dept. adds tracking dog

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department has a new addition to its staff...an 18 month old German Shepherd who answers to the name of "Blitz". Sheriff George T. Lasater, in making the announcement, said that the highly-trained tracking dog was purchased with donations after he realized the need to provide this service to the residents of Charlevoix County.

Blitz, one of many canines that are bred, raised and trained in Germany for import to the U.S. as patrol dogs for law enforcement, was purchased through a police dog training school in Elkhart, Ind. As are all German-trained animals, Blitz is trained to respond only to his handler's German commands.

The dog is assigned to a permanent handler, Deputy David Kurchinski, a veteran of 12 years experience in law enforcement. He spent 56 hours of specialized training at the school in Indiana. In addition, he and the dog receive monthly in-service training.

The main purpose of securing Blitz for the residents of Charlevoix County is his tracking capabilities in such events as a lost child or hunter. Sheriff Lasater said, "He went on to say that the services of Blitz will be offered to other police agencies in the county as well as the State Police Department of Natural Resources and other departments in the immediate area of adjoining counties to assist as team effort."

In making the announcement regarding Blitz, Sheriff Lasater said he and the deputies of the department are pleased to be able to offer this much-needed service to the residents of Charlevoix County.

Official count confirms school enrollment drop

The official fourth Friday count at the Charlevoix Public Schools verified what the first day figures indicated... a definite loss in student enrollment for the 1984-85 school year compared to the 1983-84 figures.

A total enrollment in the school is 1356 as compared to 1400 on this date in 1983.

The major loss is in the middle school where 53 fewer students were enrolled Friday than on the fourth Friday in 1983. The re-enrollment of the sixth grade at St. Mary's school accounts for 14 of these students. Added to that is the fact that this class has been the smallest in the school system since kindergarten, having an enrollment of only 66 compared to 106 in the seventh grade and 121 in the eighth grade. The smallest classes elsewhere in the school are the second and third grades which have 62 students each.

The enrollment at the high school declined by seven students, from 511 to 504.

The enrollment at the elementary school, on the other hand, jumped from 529 to 557.

The official enrollment figures in all Michigan schools are taken on the fourth Friday of the school year. State Aid to schools which qualify for this assistance is allocated on the basis of these enrollment figures. The Charlevoix schools, however, are out of formula, i.e., they do not qualify for State Aid. Only two school districts within the Char-Em Intermediate School district, the East Jordan and Littlefield (Alanson) Districts receive State Aid.

The enrollment at St. Mary's schools shows an increase of 12 students over 1983 or 78 students in the one through the sixth grades compared to 66 in the first five grades last year. This is due mainly to the re-enrollment of the sixth grade with 14 students.

Knight on the Town

Whot it's all about

By Dave Knight

When all was said and done Monday night aboard the Star of Charlevoix, the peace was an event not even included on the program that stole the show.

This is not to say that those who were on the program didn't provide plenty of food for thought.

Some basic messages that came through loud and clear were:

That growth around Lake Charlevoix is inevitable and, in a pragmatic sense, desirable.

That the magnitude of the resource - Michigan's third largest inland lake - should not overshadow its ecological fragility.

That an opportunity to prevent an uncontrolled development boom exists now but may be a fleeting chance.

That no plan will work unless everyone to be affected by it becomes involved in its formulation.

That the true beneficiaries of a responsible stewardship of the resource are those whose parents are not even born yet.

Noble statements, these, but are they merely the voices of special interests? To the unscrupulous developer, the answer is a definite "yes." They are interests in direct conflict with his.

To the developer who recognizes and respects the uniqueness of the resource, however, and who, in providing ways for people to enjoy it, exhibits that respect, the above interests should be no different from his own.

The unscheduled event on the cruise, mentioned above, provided the perfect atmosphere for those aboard to reflect on what the lake means to all of us.

It was the sunset.

Awesomely radiant against the rugged skyline, the spectacle gradually reduced dinner conversation to a hushed whisper.

For a few moments on the crowded boat, all the politics, all the facts and figures, all the hand wringing was put on hold.

For a few moments, Lake Charlevoix was the most beautiful place on earth. The remainder could not have been better timed.

Clockwise

Pioneers, speak up

By Bob Cook

Do you belong to what historians call "pioneer stock?"

If so, Bernice Westfall, a member of the Charlevoix Historical Society, would like to hear from you.

Mrs. Westfall is compiling a genealogy of early Charlevoix families and needs your cooperation if your family is to be included.

Who were the pioneers?

Mrs. Westfall isn't quite sure, but she would like to include families who settled in Charlevoix before the end of the logging era, which appears to have wound down about 1920.

So if your family put down roots in Charlevoix prior to 1920 - or thereabouts - give Mrs. Westfall a call. She may be reached at 347-7636.

Don't worry about the Potoskey exchange. The Westfalls live in Bay Shore.

SPEAKING OF the Historical Society, it has been fun to watch the restoration of the group's headquarters - The Harsha House - on State Street.

I don't know how much research has gone into the project, but the slender turned wooden pillars supporting the roof over the front porch appear to be the real McCoy. The original residence must have had something very similar.

The gingerbread also appears to be authentic.

Why is it that the old materials and old designs are so much more pleasing to the eye than the stark lines, vast expanses of glass and plastic panels so common in architecture today? Or am I just a throwback to the 19th Century?

To be sure, architecture is probably the most utilitarian of our arts, but that doesn't mean it should not be warm, attractive and not quite so anisepic.

MONDAY'S MAIL included a note from Don and Marge Feagan of Kalamazoo, Mich., who lived in Ironton before moving south 33 years ago.

They still receive the Charlevoix Courier and enjoy keeping track of the goings-on in these parts.

"It was always sad to us to see the summer people leave Charlevoix," they write, "a nostalgic reminder of what summers in Charlevoix must have been like a generation ago."

Summers lately have become so hectic that most of us don't get a chance to wave to our neighbors from June to September.

The Feagans are surprised at our slow-ripening tomatoes this season. They included a picture of Don pointing to the top of a 17-foot tall cherry tomato vine in their garden. It grew right into the upper branches of an orange tree.

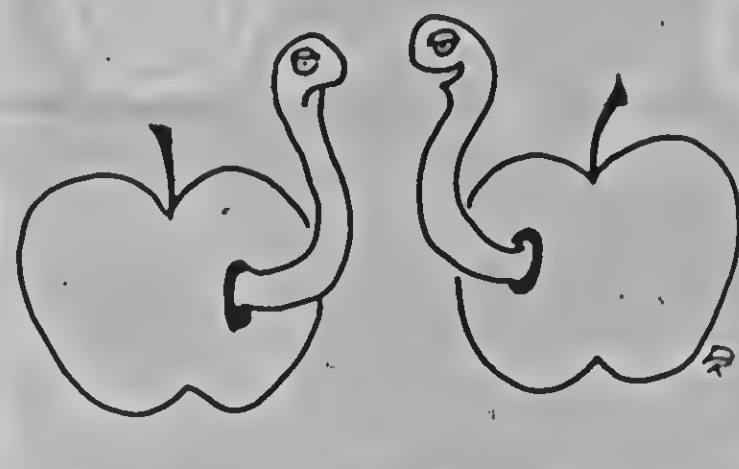

They say they picked their first ripe tomato July 1 - and are still picking.

Their secret: Tomato Miracle Grow fertilizer.

It certainly seems to work.

United Way...

"What we're doing is having each board member find one auxiliary board member, one of whom will succeed him when his term expires. Terms are also being staggered from one to three years which we hope will strengthen and perpetuate the board," said Marshall.

Thursday's door-to-door campaign is one of six phases of the 1984 United Way drive, each of which is being chaired by a board member.

The other drives and their chairmen are Industrial, Jack Schmidt; Professional, including doctors, dentists, lawyers, architects, educators, et al., Kraag Lieberman; Public Service (municipal and county employees), Claudia Kenefick; Commercial (retail firms and services), John Kurtz; Special Gifts (including endowments), Bruce MacArthur.

Other board members include treasurer Helen Emmons and Stuart Boll who chairs the allocations committee and is filling in for board member Michael Dixon who is on a leave of absence from his position at Consumers Power Co.

Following the 1984 fund drive, which will continue through November 15, the allocations committee will meet to determine how the money raised will be distributed among member agencies. Revised application forms are being used asking agencies to specify the percentage of service they provide to Charlevoix residents.

Benefiting agencies include the Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Chip Counseling Center, for both substance abuse and general counseling, Salvation Army, Red Cross, Camp Daggett, Big Brothers, Big Sisters, Womens Resource Center, Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood, Area Mental Health Clinic, City of Charlevoix Recreation Programs, Charlevoix Hospice and the Bergmann Center.

Under a new arrangement this year, each of the participating agencies is being requested to provide a minimum of four volunteers to aid in the fund raising campaign.

Marshall said that one area of special emphasis this year will be increasing the use of payroll deduction plans.

"If we can get one dollar contributed from each payroll check in our area, we'll be doing real well," said Marshall.

One phase of the 1984 campaign that has already been completed was a mail solicitation to members of the Chicago and Belvedere. Returns from that drive have been "very encouraging," according to Marshall.

Letters from readers:

Rainbow Shoppe

To the Editor:

The second annual Rainbow Shoppe Volunteer Recognition dinner will be held at the Congregational Church Tuesday, October 9, at 8:30 p.m. The shop is being staffed by over 100 volunteers from 10 Charlevoix churches, under the supervision of manager Joe Spurgeon.

Several other members of the community have been donating specialized services as needed from time to time.

The community at large has been most cooperative in providing large quantities of good used clothing and household items to be sold.

The Board of Directors expresses its appreciation to all who have contributed in any way to the success of the shop in its efforts to be of service in the Charlevoix area. Rainbow Shoppe Board of Directors

Express thanks

To the Editor:

As parents of the two young girls involved in the attempted abduction near Walloon Lake on July 23, we would like to express our appreciation and thanks to all those individuals who came to the aid of our children. It is refreshing to discover that people still do care about others and are willing to become involved in their problems.

We want to commend your staff for withholding our girls' names when reporting this incident. It made the adjustment to the problem much easier.

We would also like to thank the Charlevoix Sheriff's Department for their fine performance in apprehending the individual involved. Our personal thanks go to Sheriff George Lasater for the interest and concern he demonstrated for the welfare of our girls through a very distressing situation. His patience and kindness brought many positive results from a very negative experience.

Charlevoix County can certainly be proud of the Sheriff's Department and the citizens who make up their community. We thank you all for your tremendous support and concern.

Be sure to register

Dear Courier Readers:

Did you know that the U.S. is next to the bottom in voter turnout among all democratic nations?

In the 1982 election, 90 million voters did not vote!

50 percent of young people between the ages of 18 and 24 were not registered to vote in 1982!

I was shocked at those statistics! How can the United States "sell" democratic ideals to the countries of Central America, the Middle East or Africa with a record like that? Living in a democracy is both a privilege and a responsibility and it works well only when citizens accept the responsibility, and the privilege, and vote.

Fortunately there is still time to improve the record in 1984! You have until October 9, to register in Michigan. If you've just had an 18th birthday, just moved to this area or for any other reason are not registered to vote where you now live, all you have to do is stop in at your City Clerk's office in the City Hall, your Township Clerk's office if you live outside the city, or at the Secretary of State's office (where you get your driver's license) and tell them you want to register to vote. It'll only take a few minutes of your time and when Election Day arrives on November 6 you can proudly take part in the process that makes Democracy work!

Area restaurants will also be featuring apple specialities to commemorate the Apple Fest.

A Window Art contest will add still another dimension to the festival with businesses throughout the community participating in the event. The art work will be judged with the winners receiving prizes free advertising in the news media, the Charlevoix County Press and the Charlevoix Courier, and on radio stations WKHQ, WVOY, WMBN, WWP2, and WCLX.

Apple growers and farm markets participating in the Apple Fest will be King's, Friske's, Rosenthal's, William's, Elzinga's, Sunnyview and Knight's Apple Orchards, Bill's Farm Market, Elzinga's Farm Market and Rocky Top Farms.

Information booths will be opened by the Charlevoix Cooperative Service and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department.

A host of organizations will have booths offering all sorts of goodies to eat and purchase. Among them will be the Kids' Korner, Gym Bag, Big Brothers and Big Sisters, Welcome Wagon, Lions Club, Kiwanis Club and the Loyal Order of Moose.

The Color Cruises aboard the M.S. Beaver Islander will also be a feature of the weekend with the motorship departing the municipal dock at 1 p.m. on both days.

Reservations for the cruises must be made with the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce prior to the cruise time.

Kitty Chase is general chairman for the Apple Fest.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Gregory

Lamoreaux-Gregory

Pamela Lynn Lamoreaux became the bride of Mark Gregory on Saturday, August 25, at the Bay Shore Presbyterian Church.

Me and Mrs. John Lamoreaux of Charlevoix are parents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gregory of Potoskey are parents of the bridegroom.

The Reverend Milton G. Walls performed the double ring ceremony in which the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a tea-length gown of white cotton and a headpiece of white daisies and carried a bouquet of white daisies and greenery.

Karen Speigl assisted the bride as maid of honor. Barb Lamoreaux, Karen Lamoreaux, and Cindi Lamoreaux, sisters of the bride; Toni Gregory, sister of the bridegroom; and Kelly Filkins were bridesmaids. They wore white skirts with striped blouses in different colors and carried bouquets of white daisies with streamers matching their blouses.

Grant Meggison was ringbearer. Mark Ingalls assisted the double ring service in the presence of their immediate families and close friends on August 18.

Music was by Al Anderson. He played a program of traditional music and the wedding march.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and the bridegroom's father. For her wedding she chose an old-fashioned gown of cream satin fashioned with a V-neckline outlined in matching lace, short full sleeves and a flowing skirt. She wore Florida, Pennsylvania, Ohio, blue forget-me-nots and baby's breath in her hair and carried a bouquet of cream-colored silk roses, forget-me-nots and baby's breath.

A rehearsal dinner hosted by the bridegroom's parents was held at the Lamplighter Inn at Central Lake the couple's birthstones.

Following a wedding trip to Toronto, the newlyweds are in home in Potoskey, where the bridegroom is an X-ray technician at Northern Michigan Hospitals. The bride is a student at Central Michigan University. (Photography by Bill Halford)

Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Walker

Timms-Walker

An arbor entwined with silk flowers and greens and flanked by baskets of cream and blue silk flowers at the couple's new home on Pincherry Road in Hayes Township formed the setting for the recent wedding of Marjorie Jean Timms and Mickey Paul Walker.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Timms of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Walker of Ironton.

The Rev. Raymond Ecker of Walloon Lake officiated at the double ring service in the presence of their immediate families and close friends on August 18.

Anniversaries

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Empey

Empeys mark 32nd

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Empey were honored recently at a surprise party in recognition of their thirty-second wedding anniversary.

The event, held at the Barnard Grange Hall on September 22, was hosted by the couple's son and daughters, Randy, Linda, Christy, all of Charlevoix and Mrs. Michael (Debbie) Carr of Cleveland assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Roland Daugherty of Gaylord, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cummings and Mr. and Mrs. William Stevens.

More than 150 relatives and friends gathered for the buffet supper which featured an anniversary cake made by Mrs. Cummings. Music for dancing was by Jasper and his Tag-alongs. Debbie O'Rourke of Gaylord was in charge of the guest book.

Guests were present from Ohio and southern Michigan.

Mr. Empey and the former Kay Iken were married at East Jordan Sept. 18, 1952, and have always made their home in Charlevoix. Mr. Empey was born at Central Lake and was raised in the Norwood area. He was graduated from the Ellsworth High School. Mrs. Empey was born in Charlevoix and was graduated from the Charlevoix High School. Mr. Empey is employed as a mechanic by the Charlevoix Street Department.

Summer music camp was enlightening for local students

by ANNE KELLY

Attending a music camp is a unique experience, two Charlevoix band students would agree.

Kirsten Joy, an eighth grader, and Mary Camilleri, a 12th grader, both from the two of several Charlevoix youth to have enjoyed the opportunity last summer.

More than the excitement of camp life, there is a realization by the students that music is more than an extracurricular course. It is a discipline, they learn, a pleasure and even a way of life for fellow students and adults around the world.

Two music camps in our area are Blue Lake, located near Muskegon, and Interlochen near Traverse City.

Kirsten, the daughter of Dr. Dennis and Karen Joy, shared some of her impressions of music camp in a recent interview.

"When I saw that he would be conducting for the for the State Honor Band, I really wanted to go," she said.

Mary described her experience as a revelation. "To be in a band made up of super-motivated, super-talented kids, everyone in perfect pitch and playing the same music as the band at the U of M."

Along with that thrill came the exposure to the evening performances held during the summer at Interlochen by such notables as the Canadian Brass and the World Youth Orchestra.

When the kids go to music camp, "Charlevoix band director Terry Isenbarger explained, "they come back with new ideas and techniques for playing their instruments. They, in turn, spread their enthusiasm so it really is a multiple benefit for them as well as their fellow band members."

Charlevoix's high school band, under Isenbarger's direction, received ratings in the state competition last spring. He feels strongly about continually improving the quality of his program and feels that attitude is essential.

Attending music camp gives our students a chance to see how seriously instrumental music is taken by other students like themselves," he said. Isenbarger has suggested to the Charlevoix Band Boosters that a scholarship fund be established to help defray the costs of camp sessions for worthy candidates.

Community participation in this endeavor is welcome and may be directed to Voinis, president of the band boosters.

Yearbook deadline

Charlevoix High School seniors and their parents are reminded that Thursday, Oct. 4, is the deadline for senior pictures for the Rayder yearbook.

Any delay in turning the pictures in at the high school office on that date will result in an increase in the cost of the yearbook if a second deadline is established, it was pointed out.

Two copies of colored photographs must be in the office on this date if they are to appear in the yearbook. One copy will be used in the publication; the second in the commencement issue of the Charlevoix Courier.

Crooked Tree Arts Council announces its Annual Juried Photography Exhibition to be exhibited during the month of November, 1984 in the main Gallery of the Virginia McCune Arts Center, Petoskey. This competition is open to all photographers, amateur and professional in the medium of black-white and color photographs. The entry fee of $8 allows up to 3 works to be entered in this show. Juror is Mr. Tim Terrell.

Harvest dinner set

A harvest dinner will be held at the Masonic, young and Temple on Saturday, Oct. 6, under the sponsorship of the Charlevoix Chapter No. 72, Order of the Eastern Star.

The dinner, to be served between the hours of 5:00 and 8:00 p.m., will feature ham and roast turkey and dressing complete with a full menu of fall vegetables, a wide variety of salads, rolls and a choice of dessert and beverage. Ann Hufford, general chairman of the event, said.

Tickets for the dinner will be $5.00 for adults; month only.

Yearbooks on sale

The sale of the Rayder yearbook at the Charlevoix High School will be launched Oct. 15 and will continue for one month.

Orders are being accepted at the high school office on East Garfield. The sale of the books is limited to one month only.

Workshops to deal with stress

Is stress all bad? "Not necessarily," according to organizers of a series of six workshops co-sponsored by CHIP Counseling Center and Charlevoix Area Hospital, beginning Tuesday, October 16 (7-9 p.m.) and continuing for five following Tuesdays through November 20.

The stress in our lives can be put into balance. Stress can be reduced, changed and redirected. Stress can be positive and creative. Stress does not have to be painful and depressing. These are the themes of the workshops to be held at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

"Balancing Stress — A Personalized Stress Workshop," led by CHIP Counselor Julie Shankland, will offer each person an opportunity to explore the stress factors in their own lives. Do these statements ring bells of recognition? "Everything seems out of control." "The more I do, the less I get done." "I have so much to do, I don't know where to begin."

"I'm so used to being tense, when I'm calm I get nervous." These are expressions of stress in daily lives. Using the widely recognized Life Challenge Inventory assigned by Ruth Schelkun of Ann Arbor, every participant will begin by charting and identifying their personal sources of stress.

"Everyone's sources of stress differ," Shankland points out, explaining why a successful stress workshop must be highly individualized. Shankland has participated in and led Stress Workshops in Ann Arbor, working with Shelnik, has a Masters Degree in Social Work, as well as a background in psychological counseling and group workshops. She is the Education Specialist for CHIP.

"Stress is a normal part of life. The challenge is to keep stress working for you, not against you."

Using the image of a set of balance scales, stress will be coupled with the views of experts with specialties in such areas as family counseling, time management, financial planning, and communication skills.

Because this stress program is highly personalized and uses well proven, professionally tested materials — which participants will be able to take home — it promises to be an unique opportunity for people to gain a better understanding and control over the stress in their own lives.

For more information call CHIP Counseling Center — 547-6551.

The first workshop will use The Life Challenge Inventory to pinpoint the sources of stress, whether at work, in the family, at home, in financial problems or in relationships with others.

Subsequent workshops will focus on dealing with the stress. Measurements of biofeedback, relaxation therapy, discussions of emotional factors and the role of nutrition in stress will be coupled with the views of experts with specialties in such areas as family counseling, time management, financial planning, and communication skills.

For more information call CHIP Counseling Center — 547-6551.

Water plant contracts awarded

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency announced last week that two separate contracts have been awarded for the construction of a lake water intake system and for the conceptual design of an accompanying water filtration plant.

South Shore Equipment Co. of Avon, Ohio was awarded the contract for the intake structure which will consist of a 1,400-foot pipe that will extend into Lake Michigan from the vicinity of the existing city pump house at Lake Michigan Beach.

At the end of the pipeline will be an H-shaped, underground, screened collector. Incorporated into the line will be a chlorinating system to provide the collected water maximum exposure time for chlorination.

Also included in the work will be the electrical connections and additional plumbing necessary to link the intake to the city's pump house.

The contract awarded to South Shore Equipment was for $489,000. Work on the system is scheduled to begin the week of October 15 with the work on the lake bed to be started first. Completion is projected for mid-January, 1985.

The contract for a conceptual design of a lake water treatment plant was awarded to the Ann Arbor engineering firm of McNamee, Porter and Seeley who bid $73,416.

Both contracts were awarded through the U.S. EPA's construction managers, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, who will supervise the projects in coordination with the EPA.

The lake water intake and treatment plant was chosen by the EPA as the most viable method of replacing Charlevoix's present water supply which was found in 1981 to be contaminated by the industrial chemical trichloroethylene (TCE), a suspected carcinogen.

According to EPA officials, the search for the source of TCE in the city's water system has been completed but the results are still being compiled for later release.

The Michigan Department of Public Health has given the city until January, 1987 to replace its tainted water system. The DPH has also taken the position that, unless TCE levels increase dramatically from the 30 to 40 parts per billion range that has remained steady over the past year, raw lake water from the intake structure to be started next week will not be suitable for consumption until the complete filtration and treatment plant is built.

Funding for the intake structure and water plant will come from the EPA Superfund, which is committed to pay 90 percent of the cost for a 2 million gallons per day plant; the state, which will pay the other ten percent of that cost; and the city, which successfully passed a $500,000 bond issue in August to cover the additional cost for a 3 million gallon per day plant.

River closing arouses fishermen's ire

by PEG OHLE

The controversy over closing a section of the Jordan River to fishing and placing a weir and trap in the river has again caused local fishermen to join together.

An outgrowth of the opposition to these actions is the formation of a local chapter of the Salmon Association of Michigan, which also has chapters in several other west Michigan counties.

Called the "Little Traverse Bay Chapter", the local chapter is headquartered in Petoskey with Art George as president. George is well known among fishermen for his long battle to protect their rights.

The Salmon Association of Michigan lists among its objectives: "Open all rivers and streams to trout fishing regardless of whether they are fly fishermen or not, so we may all enjoy equally in the things that belong to us all and not just a privileged few."

"Stop the selling of our protected game fish."

"Open all rivers and streams and allow the sportsmen to harvest our salmon when they come into our rivers to spawn so we all can share equally, the rich and the poor."

"Keep the legal limit of five salmon per day to all valid licenses, using legal hooks only."

"Respect private rights and keep our rivers and streams clean, teach each other who need to be taught this respect."

"Work to change DNR rulings that deprive the people of our State the right to enjoy our two and a half cent per pound salmon and share in the natural resources we are now deprived of."

"Improve the late fall tourist season by four to six weeks and boost the economic factor into the millions."

"Become organized and united so we can help solve problems with grass roots sense."

The references to selling salmon at two and a half cents a pound are aimed at the Tempo Tech Company of Hart, which has a contract with the DNR to harvest the salmon caught in the Jordan River weir. Tempo Tech pays the State at the rate of two and one half cents a pound for all salmon it traps there and in other weirs throughout the State.

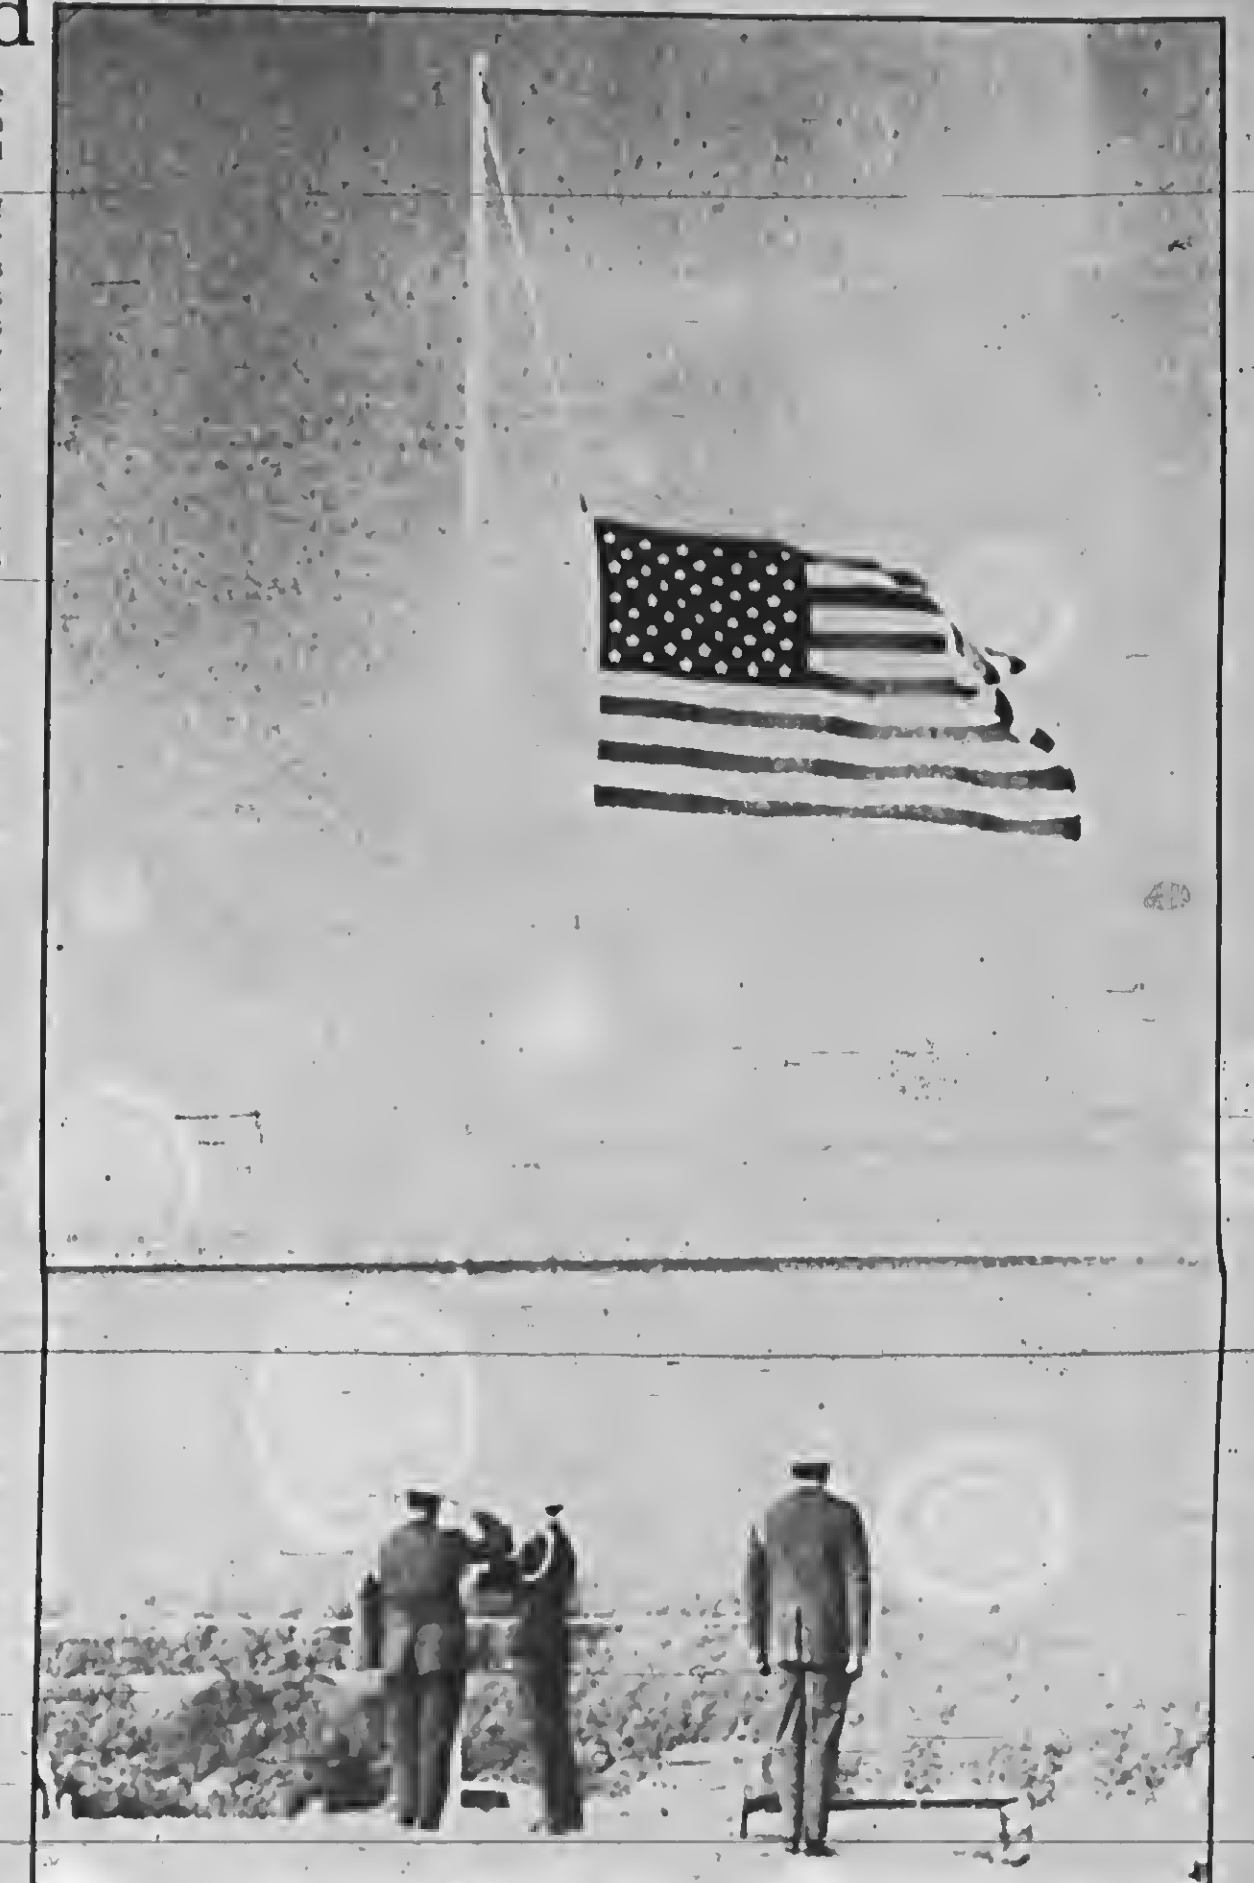

While no estimates are available as to how many pounds of salmon might be taken from the Jordan River by Tempo Tech, the Salmon Association points out that last year 300 tons were taken by fishermen from the river at Ludington State Park. Also, the State Department of Commerce estimated that fishing the five open rivers last year brought about an economic impact of over $24 million.

Figures such as those above which indicate the value of salmon being harvested by Tempo Tech at what some call a "minimal price" are the basis for much criticism of the arrangement. It is also being said that Tempo Tech will not even sell the salmon in the United States, but will export the product to Japan.

The local chapter of the Salmon Association of Michigan is questioning the directive by which the section of the Jordan River was closed on August 15 and continuing through November 30. The closing order is headed, "In order to protect spawning concentrations of fish, the following stream sections (including the Jordan) are closed to fishing under authority of Act 165, P.A. 1922, Chapter 11, Section 2, as amended (MCL 303.2)." The Salmon Association does not believe the spawning fish are being protected.

The Salmon Association also questioned the closing of the river because notice of the closing was not published in a local newspaper as called for under Public Act 230 of 1925. George brought this matter to the attention of Charlevoix County Prosecutor Kraag Lieberman, who found after research that the DNR used an alternative method of giving public notice — that of posting the notice on the premises as permitted by Act 165 of 1922 (MCL 303.2).

THE FLAG WAS LOWERED FOR THE LAST TIME at the U.S. Air Force radar site in Bayshore last Tuesday. Closing ceremonies were held at the site which has been operated by Detachment 6, 1st Combat Evaluation Group as an electronic bomb scoring facility for 21 years. Most of the equipment and personnel at the site are to be transferred to Wyoming. On hand for closing ceremonies was Col. Billy Price, commander of the 1st Combat Evaluation Group, who presented the site's retired flag to Red Cross volunteer and Courier reporter Fran Martin.

Norm Cook's six-year project finally gets off the ground

by ANNE KELLY

"Oh my God, he's really flying it!"

That was the simple exclamation orchestrating the maiden flight of Norm Cook's homemade Zenith Tri-Z at the Charlevoix Airport. It was gasped by his wife, Barb, who thought he was just engaging in a series of "ground effects," and lifting off the runway a few feet, then bringing the plane back down. But, for Norm, the time was right. No sound, no fanfare. Just a private yourself that you know you're going to fly, you check everything three or four times to make sure it's perfect.

So, after nearly six years of painstaking enterprise, building this plane in the garage of his home, the purring of the motor was the sweet sound of success for Cook. And when he brought it down, landing safely on the runway, Barb, too, could feel that it had all worked out well and been a successful venture.

Norm, a vocational welding and sheet metal instructor in East Jordan, can't remember when he hadn't had his sights on airplanes and flying.

"My grandmother used to give me a hard time because she found it so difficult to dust around all the models in my room," he recalls. His early years were spent in dreaming about flying, reading aviation magazines, and building model planes. Eventually he attended the Aircraft Maintenance Program at Western Michigan University and the Aircraft Transportation Program. He subsequently received his first aviation license there in 1959.

Then came the years of marriage and raising a family and the dreams of continuing with aviation as a career gave way to the reality of utilizing his expertise in another area, teaching industrial arts for which he had earned a Masters

Degree in Vocational Education. It wasn't until his interest was revived by a mini-class offered to his children at Charlevoix High School taught by Jim Jensen, that Norm began getting his hands on planes again. He joined the local B.U.F.'s (Bunch of Ugly Flying Fools) and added the dimension of radio controlled models to his model airplane experience. For two or three years, Cook traveled to shows in Oshkosh, Wisconsin with Jensen, getting the fever. He was now conducting a study of home-builts.

"The last time we were up there (Oshkosh)," recalled wife, Barb, "I reminded him to pick up plans, 'Just in case.'"

"Just in case" turned into the real thing. From a stack of sheet metal purchased at the Zenair Factory at Nobleton, Ontario, north of Toronto, all of which Norm and Barb transported home in their station wagon and the carrier on top, Cook began the building project which evolved into a six-year labor of love and determination. He disciplined himself to working four nights a

Born in West Branch, March 29, 1913, the former Goldie I. Peters came to Charlevoix with her parents as a child. On August 20, 1933, she was married to Bruce E. Reinhart at Charlevoix where they lived until moving to Detroit in 1936. They made their home there until returning to Charlevoix to live in 1971.

Besides her husband, she is survived by five sons: Larry M. of Miami Beach, Fla.; Jerry L. of Redondo Beach, Ca.; David P. of Kernersville, N.C.; Richard L. of Troy and Michael J. of Charlevoix; four daughters: Mrs. Larry (Marlyn) Finck of Charlevoix, Mrs. Richard (Carol) Exel of San Diego, Ca.; Mrs. Al (Annette) O'Neil of Berkeley and Mrs. John (Bykay) of Hazel Park; 21 grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Rhonda Putman of Charlevoix and two brothers: Francis Peters and Dan Peters, also of Charlevoix.

The family requests memorials to the Michigan Cancer Society.

CORNELIUS KLOOSTER

Funeral services for Cornelius Klooster, 67, of Ellsworth were held Tuesday morning at the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church. The Rev. Bruce Persenaire officiated. Interment was in the Ellsworth cemetery.

Mr. Klooster died Oct. 7 at Meadowbrook Medical Care Facility.

Born in Ellsworth, Feb. 17, 1917, Mr. Klooster always lived in the Ellsworth area where he was employed as a farm laborer. He was a member of the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church.

He is survived by two brothers, Allen of Hudsonville and Gilbert of Wyoming; and a sister, Mrs. Robert (Kathryn) Moore of Wyoming.

The Hastings Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

GERTRUDE M. BOWEN

Funeral services for Mrs. Gertrude M. Bowen, 82, of Eveline township, were held Tuesday afternoon at the Hastings Funeral Home in Ellsworth. The Rev. Harley Barker of East Jordan officiated. Interment was in the Ellsworth cemetery.

Mrs. Bowen died Oct. 7 at Grandview Medical Care Facility.

Born in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, the former Gertrude M. Wilson was married to Irvin Bowen at Lincoln, Iowa, July 6, 1924. They came to Michigan to make their home and always resided in the Ellsworth-East Jordan area. She had been employed at the Ellsworth Canning factory.

She is survived by her husband; a daughter, Mrs. Joseph (Kathryn) Cina of Palm Dale, Ca.; two sons, Harvey Bowen of Harbor Beach and Fred of East Jordan; six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Charlevoix Yesterday

The Inn was a show place of Charlevoix in the days when thousands of visitors arrived by train every summer. It was located on the terraced hills overlooking Lake Charlevoix from the end of Dixon Avenue. The Inn was built by the railroad and opened in 1888 under railroad management. Bob Miles, in his picture history of Charlevoix, notes that the lumber for the Inn was obtained from the Central Lake area at a cost of $5 a thousand feet.

The Inn had accommodations for 800 guests and a dining room that could seat 500 diners. All that is now left of the Inn complex is the old railroad station shown in the lower left hand corner of the above picture. The station is now occupied by the Charlevoix Yacht Club. week, four hours a night, and no weekends, so as not to neglect his family or his job.

"I've worked with metals most of my life - that was a big help," Cook pointed out. "I had to do all the tooling work myself, making all the jigs to form the parts. I was able to make everything but the fiberglass."

The motor is a Lycoming, 150 Horse Power, 320 inch, 4-cylinder engine. Other specifications include: two 17 gal tanks with a 450 mile capability, a 52 MPH stall speed, and 140 MPH cruising speed. The Zenith Tri-Z can climb 1,000 feet a minute at gross weight. It measures 21 feet from tip to tail fin, and has a 27" wing span.

The wing span presented an interesting problem for Cook's home building project. It became necessary to construct a temporary addition to the garage to accommodate one wing. There were a few other problems, none of which proved serious.

Cook was forced to spray the sheet metal with zinc chromate primer as work progressed as the glare was bothering his eyes, and later, when painting began, it became necessary to find a solution to the problem of bleeding through of magic marker used to mark the assembled pieces.

"Stop bleed" was discovered and today the plane has a flawless white body with brown accent stripes. When the time came to remove the finished product from Cook's garage, a minor miscalculation made it necessary to remove the rudder and replace it after the plane was outside.

Upholstery was provided for the cockpit by Barb, who is conveniently, a home economics instructor at Charlevoix Middle School. She admits to a very professional job, with help from local upholsterer, Barb also admits that she's happy she didn't have to follow the pattern for the assembly of the plan proper.

On July 2, 1984, the plane came out of the garage. On July 9, with police escort, it made it's way to the Charlevoix Airport. And on August 25, Cook made that first flight.

Cook estimates that he has about $13,000 in his plane in materials and parts. He would not put a price on his labor. Not bad, considering that a similar four-seater would run between $30,000 and $40,000 on today's market.

He still needs to complete the 25 hours of flight time required to receive his F.A.A. Airworthiness certificate, but Cook, a member of the E.A.A. (Experimental Aircraft Association) will enjoy every hour in the air, the way only a pilot of a home-built could possibly enjoy flying time.

"It really flies," he must smile incredulously every time he takes it up. For a man whose boyhood dreams were only of planes and flying, that must be the ultimate satisfaction.

Campbell reports on juvenile court

by PEG OHLE

Charlevoix County Juvenile Court Administrator D. Brad Campbell appeared before the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners last week to report on three significant aspects of his Department's work.

By hiring an In-Home Care worker, the Probate Court Juvenile Division so far this year has saved Charlevoix County and the State a substantial sum in out-of-home placement costs.

Linda Mansfield, who was hired as the In-Home Care worker, visits the families of 10 to 15 children two or three times a week. These are children who would otherwise be in foster care homes, and for whom the public would have to bear the costs of foster care.

"Our primary job is to keep kids at home if they can be safe there. We value home life," Campbell explained.

Out-of-home care is expensive, he continued. This past year, if we had had no In-Home Care program, the State and County would have spent $47,243 in foster care. Linda's entire budget was only $21,252, and she handled 23 kids during the year.

While saving taxpayers money is important, it is also important that this program is better for the kids, Campbell pointed out, adding, "We are providing a better service for them."

By hiring a Juvenile Officer, the County Sheriff's Department has been able to collect a greater percentage of the costs of supporting Court wards from parents able to pay.

Beverly Barrett, the Financial Officer, working with Court officers, has increased support collections from approximately $700 to $3,000 a month, and it is expected the collections will be even greater as time goes on. An example of how monies collected for foster child care support are divided up, the Juvenile Division's report for January, 1984 shows collections of $3,617. Of this, $1,738 went to the State of Michigan for State-supported child care and $1,879 went into the Juvenile Court's Child Care fund, as did the $334 fee for collecting State monies.

While Campbell was happy to report the success of the two above programs, he was critical of the elimination of the Youth Diversionary Program, which had been under the wing of the Department of Social Services. Children who were experiencing their first brushes with the law were referred to the Youth Diversionary Program for guidance and counseling rather than to Juvenile Court, thus being kept out of the Court system.

This Program should not have been discontinued, Campbell said. "It should be reinstated to keep children out of the Court system and labeling them as offenders. The Program should be housed in Juvenile Court because it is a pre-delinquency program. It does not belong in a State agency such as Social Services."

When the Youth Diversionary Program was active, it received referrals from the schools, police agencies, and the Juvenile Court. Since its discontinuance, 10 children who would have been put under its jurisdiction have been referred to Juvenile Court and are now Court wards.

"This should not have happened," Campbell emphasized.

Offer security checks

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department has issued a reminder to owners of personal homes in the County that the department will check on their residences while unoccupied.

Those wishing to participate in a new application for the program must fill out a security check form at the department.

Homeowners who have signed up for security checks in past years are reminded that a new application for the service must be filed each year.

RAIDING THE COOKIE JAR, so to speak, was Michigan Department of Commerce director Ralph Gerson, left, who accepted a bag of Tom's Mom's famous chocolate chunk cookies and a Tom's Mom's cookie jar from Charlevoix collector Tom Kneeland, right. Kneeland was in Lansing attending a wine tasting hosted by First Lady Paula Blanchard who serves as a volunteer advisor to the Commerce Department. During his Lansing visit, Kneeland had discussions with Department of Commerce officials about ideas for creating new markets for his cookies. Kneeland announced this week that his cookies are scheduled to go on sale Thursday in the gourmet department of Jacobson's Department Stores in Birmingham, Grosse Pointe, Dearborn, Saginaw, East Lansing and Grand Rapids. To date, the only other outlets for the cookies are Tom's Cafe in Charlevoix and Millkens Department Store in Traverse City.

Stress workshop next week

The Stress lives Management Workshop, entitled "Balancing Your Counseling Center the Stress" will begin six week workshop on Tuesday, October 16 at 7 p.m. at Charlevoix Area Hospital Registrations and then each participant will be given a personal workbook through which they will develop their own stress management techniques.

For six Tuesdays, participants will learn through their own stress, their own profile, leading to an understanding of the personal sources of stress and techniques for managing that stress in their own lives. From a negative force to a positive force in their range of well-being and health.

Participants will be given a personal workbook through which they will develop their own stress management techniques.

Knight on the Town

Someone came into my office the other day and noticed a terrible, dark stain near my drafting table.

"What happened?" she said.

"I said, 'I said recently, 'Is this a miracle?'

"Yes, it was a miracle. Nothing else."

I happened last spring when I "knew" when my two-year old daughter came to the office while I was on some errands.

She was wearing a beautiful new, white jacket from Grandma that was "like" with a colorful, Scandinavian pattern. I had it for two weeks.

On the drafting table sat a bottle of ink.

My patient knew what happened.

"Look my eyes off her for 24 hours and that's all the time she had to jump the bottle right on the front of her new jacket."

"A dirty paint, but darn it, my office manager Ruth Kennedy jumped into action and washed it off the nearest sink. Her hands were black as coal. The jacket, well, it hurt to look at. I started crying."

Gaylord Rally-Day report

by PEG OHLE

When Charlevoix County Extension Home Economist Janet Ratke invited us to attend a rally of Michigan State Extension Homemakers in Gaylord last week, we accepted with pleasure.

A drive to Gaylord this time of year would be "brilliant," and it's always nice to have lunch at Hidden Valley, where the rally was held. Also, we might learn something about the "new" way of doing things in homemaking. Perhaps pick up a hint or two about new methods of preserving vegetables, learn something about how to judge new fabrics, or even get some ideas for non-sweet munchies for our grandchildren.

What happened was that none of the above subjects was discussed. The program, which was conducted by Extension members, was devoted to an explanation of the Extension Services' Public Affairs Leadership project and a rousing talk about women growing to their full potential of leadership in the world around them. There was also an entertaining monologue describing the men and work of the old lumber camps.

It was great to observe this group of northern Michigan women as they discussed public policy issues that affect them and their families, and to learn that they were actively seeking information and using it.

The theme of the program was "Spread Your Wings."

Some of the three State Ballot Proposals to be voted on next month were passed around, read, discussed, and informally voted upon. The women were urged to become involved in local politics, to know that their ideas can have an impact. "Everything begins at the local level," they were reminded. "Land use, local taxes, school programs. You must be aware of what is going on. Go to meetings, ask questions, and you must vote."

Growing to full potential of leadership was likened to a caterpillar emerging from a cocoon as a butterfly.

"You can be like the caterpillar who dares make a major effort to reach its potential. It doesn't stop half way when it has the comfort of the cocoon but continues pushing forward until one day it emerges into a beautiful butterfly."

Letters from readers: Something's fishy here

To the Editor:

It's unbelievable reality that our DNR, whose sole purpose it is to protect and to set quotas so we may all share equally in our fur, fish and game for the State (and we the people are the State), once again the DNR and their co-partners, Tempo-Tech, Inc., are conspiring to deprive the people of our State of their rightful share of our salmon on the Jordan River.

The DNR takes our license money to raise and release these salmon, a protected game fish. Then they take State land, fence it off and declare it The Little Kingdom of Tempo-Tech, Inc., who has the preference over all the people of the State.

Tempo-Tech, Inc., writes all the rules and regulations, and the DNR has the authority to arrest and convict and enforce them 24 hours a day.

Rule #1. Notice to all the people of the State: Don't step on our Little Kingdom, you will be arrested for trespassing.

Rule #2. Don't attempt to take one of our salmon, we want every last fish because we have a lush market for them in Japan.

Rule #3. Warning to all fishermen: Don't attempt to take one of our fish or you will be arrested because the DNR planted them for us, and don't you forget it.

Rule #4. We, of Tempo-Tech, Inc., and the DNR promise to give back to the people your beautiful wild river just as soon as we harvest all your salmon. But don't forget we shall return next year.

It has been said that Tempo-Tech, Inc., took the opportunity to thank the DNR and the people for their thoughtful consideration in releasing them from the clause in our contract where they should pay the 2 1/2 cents per pound. This, we feel, is just and fair because much of these salmon are unfit for human consumption due to being contaminated with PCBs. The DNR has released them from the responsibility of warning Japan of this liability. For further information, call Mr. Vandette of the DNR, who has all the answers.

Something is wrong without DNR and Tempo-Tech, Inc., when the State only received $80,000 last year and they spent many many times this amount to patrol and protect Tempo-Tech, Inc.'s "Little Kingdom" on whatever river they may be, when Tempo-Tech's sales run into the millions each year.

It appeared to me that the DNR was proud of this amount last year. I ask the DNR how much did they receive from Tempo-Tech, Inc. for the years January 1, 1976 through September 30, 1980? If I am correctly informed, all Departments of State have to answer to the Auditor General for all moneys received. The audit that Senator Mitch Irwin and I asked for and received from our Auditor General shows that not one penny was received from the Wildlife and Fisheries Division of the Bureau of Resources DNR.

I have two letters from DNR officials that claim Act 165 of 1929 Section 10, Paragraph 3 gives to the DNR the authority to sell our protected game fish. Our Senator Mitch Irwin and our Representative Pat Gagliardi requested from the Attorney General's office an opinion just a year ago, and they refused and ignored our Senator's request. Wow! Do we have a powerful DNR.

Reliable sources claim that the estimates of Tempo-Tech, Inc., run between $5 and $8 million a year, but who knows? If you are incorporated, our Commerce Department should know. All incorporations are required by law to file at least one report a year.

I ask myself the simple question, if Tempo-Tech, Inc., of Hart, Michigan, first was known as Tempo-Tel, then changed to Tempo-Tech, Inc., then the last year it is known as Tempotech Industries, Inc., and now is registered in our department of Commerce under date of incorporation of 6/10/75 under Tempotech Industries, Inc., then eight years ago they were using their new name of Tempotech Industries, Inc., which was just added last year.

Something is radically wrong with our DNR when they use their power to deny the people of their lawful share of our salmon. They deny the poor and needy and the fishermen who want these fish. They take the feed off your table and give it to Tempo-Tech, Inc. for the gross of that all-mighty dollar. They have forgotten what their duty is to the people, and I think it's past time for us, the people, to set them straight where our legislature has failed.

They have, over the years, given the bridge to the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lieberman of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Carol Askin and the late Harry Askin of Marshall.

The Church was decorated with wicker baskets of baby's breath, raspberry silk lilies, and eucalyptus for the service read before approximately 150 guests by the Reverend Philip G. Schiarbaum.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white moire tulle which featured an Elizabethan collar tapering to a V-neckline. The fitted bodice ended in a peplum over the full skirt, and the neckline, peplum, and long sleeves were accented with iridescent. Her hat was also trimmed in iridescent and featured a blusher veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of silk rubrum lilies, azalea blossoms, eucalyptus, and baby's breath.

Kristin Schaperkoter attended her sister as maid of honor, and Mary Lieberman and Barbara Lieberman, sisters-in-law of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore gowns of teal moire tulle with raspberry accents in a style similar to that of the bride. They carried single rubrum lilies with azalea blooms nestled in baby's breath. All the gowns were designed and created by the mother of the bride. Mrs. David Fowler created the bouquets and church decorations.

Richard Schoenberger served the bridegroom as best man, while Joe Hartig and Michael Bowie were groomsmen. Kraag Lieberman, Kirk Lieberman, and Karl Lieberman, all brothers of the bride, and Thomas Schaperkoter, brother-in-law of the bride, helped to seat the guests.

Traditional organ music was played during the service by Mrs. Charles Bellinger, who also accompanied the vocalist, Vincent Chew.

A reception at the Grey Gables Inn followed the wedding ceremony. It was hosted by Mrs. Jeanne Wallace and Tim and Maurine Watts. Rebecca Wallace circulated the guest book, and Mrs. William Kohler and Mrs. Louis Kohler, aunts of the bride, cut the wedding cake. The rehearsal dinner was held the evening before the wedding at the home of the bride's parents, hosted by the bridegroom.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Askin will live in East Lansing. The bride is a Special Agent with the Federal Bureau of Investigation assigned to the Lansing office, and the bridegroom is a Detective Lieutenant at Michigan State Police headquarters in Lansing.

Arthur D. George

Although not definitely tied into the theme of the program, Wendell Hoover, naturalist at Hartwick Pines State Park, told of the price that kept lumbermen going back into the woods year after year because they thought no one else could do as good a job as they could. It seems they, too, were seeking their full potential.

We are glad we went to the Homemakers' meeting because we now have a better idea of what these Extension members are doing and thinking about. They have already begun to spread their wings.

Cut, just to keep the record straight: There was a great deal of personal conversation about farm crops, numbers of quarts of produce "put up," and the kids' 4-H projects. That part of life is still of major importance.

Oh, the results of the informal straw vote on the presidency and state propositions were: Reagan 55, Mondale 61; State Proposal A yes 56, no 43; State Proposal B yes 101, no 55; State Proposal C yes 68, no 55.

Sometimes I wonder if the deficit isn't more of a bookkeeping problem than a worldwide economic problem. After all, to whom do we owe the money? Why ourselves, of course. It's as though we had borrowed money from our savings account to put in our checking account.

What is important is that the nation's economy is, precisely the strongest in the world today. And the credit must go largely to Ronald Reagan and his team of economic advisers.

HOWEVER, REAGAN is not without his flaws. I wish he had a better understanding of the separation doctrine but at his age it is doubtful he will ever learn. The church has no more business meddling in affairs of state than the state has in accommodating itself to any set of religious beliefs. The doctrine is so sensible and has served us so well for so long that it's emergence as an issue in 1984 borders on the incredible.

But with Congress and the courts ready to stay his hand, Reagan's willingness to accommodate the fundamentalists probably will amount to harmless eccentricity.

I also think Reagan has an exaggerated sense of the so-called communist menace, particularly when, with his personal charisma, he could do so much to improve U.S.-Soviet relations. There are so many areas in which the United States and Russia could work together to improve the lot of developing countries.

Perhaps in his second and last term Reagan will be willing to lay the term of peacemaker.

Sometimes I wonder if the deficit isn't more of a bookkeeping problem than a worldwide economic problem. After all, to whom do we owe the money? Why ourselves, of course. It's as though we had borrowed money from our savings account to put in our checking account.

What is important is that the nation's economy is, precisely the strongest in the world today. And the credit must go largely to Ronald Reagan and his team of economic advisers.

HOWEVER, REAGAN is not without his flaws. I wish he had a better understanding of the separation doctrine but at his age it is doubtful he will ever learn. The church has no more business meddling in affairs of state than the state has in accommodating itself to any set of religious beliefs. The doctrine is so sensible and has served us so well for so long that it's emergence as an issue in 1984 borders on the incredible.

But with Congress and the courts ready to stay his hand, Reagan's willingness to accommodate the fundamentalists probably will amount to harmless eccentricity.

I also think Reagan has an exaggerated sense of the so-called communist menace, particularly when, with his personal charisma, he could do so much to improve U.S.-Soviet relations. There are so many areas in which the United States and Russia could work together to improve the lot of developing countries.

Perhaps in his second and last term Reagan will be willing to lay the term of peacemaker.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. William Askin

Lieberman — Askin

The First Congregational Church of Charlevoix was the setting for the wedding of Kathryn Ann Lieberman and William Allen Askin on Saturday, September 22.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lieberman of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Carol Askin and the late Harry Askin of Marshall.

The Church was decorated with wicker baskets of baby's breath, raspberry silk lilies, and eucalyptus for the service read before approximately 150 guests by the Reverend Philip G. Schiarbaum.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white moire tulle which featured an Elizabethan collar tapering to a V-neckline. The fitted bodice ended in a peplum over the full skirt, and the neckline, peplum, and long sleeves were accented with iridescent. Her hat was also trimmed in iridescent and featured a blusher veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of silk rubrum lilies, azalea blossoms, eucalyptus, and baby's breath.

Kristin Schaperkoter attended her sister as maid of honor, and Mary Lieberman and Barbara Lieberman, sisters-in-law of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore gowns of teal moire tulle with raspberry accents in a style similar to that of the bride. They carried single rubrum lilies with azalea blooms nestled in baby's breath. All the gowns were designed and created by the mother of the bride. Mrs. David Fowler created the bouquets and church decorations.

Richard Schoenberger served the bridegroom as best man, while Joe Hartig and Michael Bowie were groomsmen. Kraag Lieberman, Kirk Lieberman, and Karl Lieberman, all brothers of the bride, and Thomas Schaperkoter, brother-in-law of the bride, helped to seat the guests.

Traditional organ music was played during the service by Mrs. Charles Bellinger, who also accompanied the vocalist, Vincent Chew.

A reception at the Grey Gables Inn followed the wedding ceremony. It was hosted by Mrs. Jeanne Wallace and Tim and Maurine Watts. Rebecca Wallace circulated the guest book, and Mrs. William Kohler and Mrs. Louis Kohler, aunts of the bride, cut the wedding cake. The rehearsal dinner was held the evening before the wedding at the home of the bride's parents, hosted by the bridegroom.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Askin will live in East Lansing. The bride is a Special Agent with the Federal Bureau of Investigation assigned to the Lansing office, and the bridegroom is a Detective Lieutenant at Michigan State Police headquarters in Lansing.

Christmas bazaar will add to Apple Festival fun

The sixth annual Christmas Bazaar will again be a feature of the annual Apple Festival scheduled for this weekend.

The one-day event to be held from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Saturday will be hosted by the Charlevoix Crafters, a group of local artists and crafts people who will be displaying a wide variety of their work at the Market Mall at 405 Bridge St.

Sandy Puhl, one of the exhibitors who is serving as chairperson for the bazaar, said, "We have gathered in one spot numerous crafts people who are offering an equally wide variety of items suitable for everyday use as well as for gift giving. These are the unusual, the hard to find items for the person who has everything."

Featured this year, for instance, are hand-woven baskets of every description and original pen and ink drawings. Beautiful quilted native wild flowers. The baskets which are shown in magazines as decorative items throughout the home are made by Karen McGee, local cane weaver, who is exhibiting for the first time. The pen and ink drawing note papers is also by a newcomer to the show, Cara Hochhalter, who will also be featuring her Charlevoix Coloring Book which shows local scenes.

Mrs. Puhl, long-time exhibitor, has added stenciled baskets and laces, chair pads and stuffed baskets to her list of old favorites. Tissue house covers, goosies and mouse doorknobs and book covers.

Joan Wanger added tin punching items to her popular wood burning items of every description. Beautiful quilted sweaters will be shown by Judy Crook. She also exhibits straw weaving items and band boxes.

Sue Miller will be returning with new designs in her delicately painted Christmas tree ornaments which can also be personalized on order.

The ever popular Cabbage Patch dolls will be offered by Gayle Levengood along with pillows and toys.

Popcorn and sachets along with rose-making, country painting and fabric items will be offered by Dawn Fletcher.

Peggy Spang has added Prior Truck doorstops and Aunt Bernice's Matilda air fresheners to her soft sculpture and tote painting items.

Displays of natural flowers will again be shown by Shirley Lusk.

Country painting including beautiful trunks plus a full collection of Cabbage Patch doll clothes for every occasion will be featured by Linda Bernier.

Delora Richardson will be returning with a beautiful selection of hand knit and crocheted items.

André Mathews will round out the exhibit with a selection of appliqued pillows, country towels, quilted top peck-size baskets and pottery lamp bases featuring delicately hand made cut and pierced lamp shades. In addition, she will be returning with her ever popular pottery honey jars, crocks, bowls and Kara Hochhalter and Karen McGee display some of the items to be featured at the Christmas Bazaar Saturday.

To attend Eastern Star state meeting

The Grand Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star of Michigan, will meet in Kalamazoo Oct. 9-11 for its 118th session. The meeting will be held at the Wing Stadium in Kalamazoo.

Representing Charlevoix Chapter No. 72 at the session of the oldest Grand Chapter of the world will be Anna Hufford, Diane Rosendahl and Janada Rehkopf who are attending as delegates.

Others who will be attending will be Alice Bellinger and Hazel Rehkopf. The 118th session, sessions.

Katherine Erb of Livonia, worthy grand matron and George S. Garey of Acme, worthy grand patron, will preside over the sessions.

To launch "Heartwood Harvest"

Eleven experienced artists and craftsmen who have established homes and working studios in the Charlevoix-Jordan Valley area of Michigan are about to launch their own "Heartwood Harvest" publication.

"We are all working on it, doing the design, layout, illustrations, and photography — everything but the printing. So far, we don't have a printer among us," said Carol Spaulding, director of the project.

A grant from the Michigan Council of the Arts will cover printing costs, and the group plans to release their mail order catalog to the public in October.

For further information, or to receive "Heartwood Harvest," write or call Carol Spaulding, Route 1, Box 253, East Jordan, Michigan, 49727, telephone (616) 536-7412.

For Saints and Sinners

By PASTOR JIM PLACKNER

Bethany Lutheran Church

There is now therefore no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus" (Romans 8:1). Notice no condemnation.

There was a little boy who, everytime his mother disapproved with a decision of his, was told by his mother, "God is going to get very upset with you." He wanted to wear one thing to school and his mother wanted him to wear something else and he insisted on his choice. Mom said, "God is going to get upset with you." He didn't want to be in bed yet and she wanted him to: "God is going to get very upset with you."

One supper he had a bowl of prunes for dessert. He hated prunes. But God had made them, yes, but God had made better desserts. He tried to eat them but left two. No way was he going to eat them. His mother insisted - he resisted - insist - resist - until "God is going to get very upset with you." Silence. "Go to your room." He went.

A little later a thunderstorm moved in. Mom became concerned for her little boy. He might be scared. So she climbed the stairs to check on him. She quietly opened the door and peeked in. He was standing at the window, watching the lightning, hearing the thunder, watching the big trees bend in the wind. She heard him say: All that fuss over two little prunes.

The story is silly and funny, yes. So is the statement that "God is going to get very upset with you."

There is therefore now no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus. Christ on the Cross died for you. Christ on the Cross was punished for you. Christ on the Cross was condemned for you. For you. You are free. God is well-pleased with Christ and His work, and thru Him, with you. God does not condemn you. Enjoy.

And let us not condemn one another.

THE MOST WANTED RECIPES IN TOWN!

YOURS!

Charlevoix Courier Festive Favorites Recipe Contest Many Prizes to be Given Away

CONTEST RULES

1. Contestants are invited to enter as many categories as they wish but may submit only one recipe per category. You must be 18 years or older to enter.
2. Recipes should be typed or printed on a sheet of paper with the category indicated.
3. To each recipe there should be a separate sheet of paper attached with the contestant's name, address and phone number. The contestant's name should not appear on the actual recipe. As each recipe is received, it will be assigned a number which will be logged with the category indicated.
4. Ingredients should be listed in accurate, easily understood amounts and in the order that they are used.

5. Recipes do not have to be completely original. They may be old standards or new variations on familiar recipes. The more original the recipe is, however, the better its chance of winning.
6. If duplicate recipes are received, the one submitted first will be accepted. We will log date and time recipes are received.
7. All contestants must agree to permit their recipes to be published in a special cookbook section of the Charlevoix Courier.
8. Employees of the Charlevoix Courier and Petoskey News-Review and members of their families are not eligible to win the contest.
9. A panel of judges will evaluate the recipes submitted and name three finalists in each of the five categories. The 15 finalists will be notified and asked to prepare their recipes for a final judging session. Judges will then sample the entries and name a winner in each category.

Special supplement to the Charlevoix Courier commemorating the Charlevoix County

INDUSTRIAL FAIR

Saturday, October 13, 1984

First-time event to acknowledge importance of industry to county by DAVE KNIGHT traditionally been something of a silent partner in the local economy. This area is known for its natural beauty and its reputation as a tourist haven is deeply rooted. But people sometimes forget that, while the tourists come and go, local folks have to make a living twelve months a year.

LaAnne Brown, vice president and cashier of Charlevoix County State Bank, and Gordon Wellman, bank president, are shown with one of the commemorative plaques received by the bank during its 100th anniversary celebration earlier this year. The bank is sponsoring the Charlevoix County Industrial Fair Saturday as part of its centennial observance.

Without the steady employment provided by the county's manufacturing firms - large and small - and the huge sums their payrolls inject into the community, life in the north country would be bleak, indeed. While planning the Charlevoix County State Bank's centennial observance earlier this year, it occurred to CCB vice president and cashier LaAnne Brown that the important role of industry in Charlevoix County had been neglected for too long.

Thus was born the idea for the first Charlevoix County Industrial Fair, which will be held this Saturday, October 13, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Charlevoix Elementary School. "We feel that too few people understand or realize what industries do for our community and think it's about time that local residents realize that, without our industries, we could not survive," said Brown at one of the early planning sessions for the fair held this past summer.

The first serious discussions on the concept took place at a meeting called by the bank in July to which representatives from every industrial firm in the county were invited. A positive response from those present at that session convinced Brown and CCB president Gordon Wellman to proceed with plans for the fair. By a stroke of fortunate timing, the Charlevoix County Business and Industry Task Force, a group recently formed to attract new firms and assist existing ones in the county, hired a full time administrator at about the same time as the industrial fair was getting off the ground. Anxious to acquaint himself with the county's industrial leaders and experienced in such events as trade shows and industrial fairs, Richard Beagle was the ideal person to assume a lead role in coordinating the fair.

Business Coordinator now on the job helping existing businesses and seeking new ones

The Charlevoix Industrial Fair this Saturday represents one of the first major projects for Richard Beagle, the county's Business Coordinator. Beagle's position was created in March when the Office of Business and Community Development for the Michigan Department of Commerce approved a $25,000 block grant to help fund the program.

That grant was the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce combined with funds generated within the county including $5,000 from the Economic Development Corporation, $3,000 each from the cities of Charlevoix and Boyne City, $1,500 from East Jordan and over $10,000 from private industries. The concept of hiring a business coordinator "dates back to January, 1983 when the resulting organization, the Charlevoix County Business and Industry Task Force, consists of representatives of municipal, government, chambers of commerce and private industry from each of the three cities in the county. The Task Force hired Beagle as business coordinator in July following an extensive search and screening process. Some of his functions include strategic planning for the Task Force, assisting new and existing businesses in dealing with state and local regulations and coordinating the efforts of various agencies in the county involved in attracting new firms. Beagle's office is located in Boyne City; he can be reached at 542-6482.

Hufford Industries builds automation equipment

Hufford Industries, Inc. is a unique manufacturing firm in U.S. 31 North on Charlevoix's north side. Hufford Industries has grown from a 3,200 square foot beginning to its present 20,000 sq. ft. plant. Most of its volume is done on automotive-related work. It specializes in custom-making equipment for materials-handling and automated manufacturing processes.

In this capacity, the firm deals generally with the major car makers, General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, and American Motors.

It ships to primarily Midwestern plants located in the states of Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan.

Some types of machinery for which Hufford Industries would provide components might include specialized conveyors and press loaders and unloaders.

But the company's capability to manipulate sheet metal for almost any use along with its general machining equipment makes it valuable for several local firms, too. Construction or heavy trucking companies in the area often turn to Hufford Industries for special welding, bending, repair and maintenance work. Hufford's even manufactured the huge water wheel installed earlier this year at the new Phillips Mill restaurant between Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Employment at the plant is currently about 15 people but company president Walter Hufford says that number should increase to over 20 in the coming months.

Gulf + Western Stamping serves auto industry

While its approximately 300 workers make the Gulf + Western Stamping plant in East Jordan one of the county's largest employers, the fact is, the plant's name is somewhat of a misnomer.

Absolutely no stamping is done at the 117,000 square-foot facility on highway M-66 in East Jordan operated by Gulf + Western Stamping.

What is done is the assembly of automotive components from parts that are stamped in Mancelona, the location of the other plant in Gulf + Western Stamping's Northern Division.

The division supplies such items as parking brake assemblies, hood hinges, hood latches, window regulators and other automotive hardware. Customers include manufacturers of all automobile makes and models but most business is done with the Big Three in the U.S., GM, Ford and Chrysler.

Products are shipped not only to Detroit-area factories but to plants in California, Kentucky, New Jersey, Georgia, Illinois, Mexico, Canada...basically everywhere in North America where cars are made.

The East Jordan plant was built in 1963 when Mount Clemens Metal Products Company, a fastener manufacturer which had expanded from its Mt. Clemens base to Mancelona in 1947, decided to expand again. The decision to locate at its present site was aided by efforts from the East Jordan Industrial Development Corporation.

The post-war years saw the company's product line concentrated more and more on automotive stampings and mechanical assemblies. In 1968, both the East Jordan and Mancelona plants were acquired by Gulf + Western Industries, one of the largest and most diverse companies in the world, and became the G+W Stamping Northern Division.

Until 1973, both plants had their own stamping and assembly operations but, to increase efficiency, the decision was made that year to do all the stamping at Mancelona and all the assembly at East Jordan.

Together, the two facilities have employed as many as 700 Charlevoix and Antrim County residents in payroll at the East year was approximately $3 million and this year nearly $4 million.

Big Rock Point was one of first commercial nuclear plants in the U.S.

Located on a 600-acre site on Lake Michigan four miles northeast of Charlevoix is the Big Rock Point Nuclear Power Plant. Consumers Power Company, owners and operators of the plant, later the plant was started construction in the spring of 1960 with generating electricity.

its boiling water reactor manufactured by General Electric powers a turbine generator, also manufactured by GE, and has a rated electric output of 75,000 kilowatts which is enough electricity to serve the needs of about 100,000 people.

The reactor is contained in a steel sphere, 130 feet in diameter, and is fueled by 10 tons of uranium dioxide. The process used to produce power at Big Rock Point is basically the same as a coal or other fossil fuel plant in that water is turned to steam which in turn is used to drive a turbine generator. In the nuclear process, the heat is produced when the uranium fuel, in the form of approximately one million fingertip size pellets configured in 84 fuel bundles, is arranged in the reactor in a particular way to trigger a nuclear reaction.

In addition to contributing electrical power to the Consumers Power grid, the Big Rock Point facility has also been employed for research into such areas as the development of more efficient nuclear fuels and the development and production of radioactive cobalt for use in medicine, commerce and industry.

Big Rock Point is the fifth oldest commercially operating nuclear generating plant in the United States. It set a world record for the longest generating run of a boiling water reactor, 343 days, from August 13, 1976 through July 22, 1977.

Consumers Power Company employs about 150 people at Big Rock Point and about 50 more are employed on the site by the firm contracted to provide security. In recent years, the contribution to the local economy by the plant has been at least $5 million annually.

Big Rock Point enjoyed its best year in terms of plant availability in 1981 when it generated electricity 91 percent of the time.

This past year, the Atomic Safety and Licensing Board of the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission authorized Big Rock Point to enlarge the capacity of its spent fuel storage area to accommodate 441 fuel bundles, up from the previous capacity of 193 bundles. This will allow the plant to continue operation until the end of its scheduled lifetime in the year 2000.

Woodwright Shop has wide variety of products

Specializing in custom woodworking, The Woodwright Shop, owned and operated by Frank Cook, formerly a local builder, is located on Ferry Ave. across from the future Marina Shores Condominiums. Frank and his wife, Lynn, along with Woodwright's single other employee, turn out an amazing product line of unique, hand-crafted pieces, a welcome back-to-basics philosophy in the midst of a high tech society. Products include: hot tubs, the Woodwright sauna, patio furniture, durable wooden toys, and a variety of conversation items for the home. Custom orders are welcome at the present time. Woodwright tries everything and anything.

Expansion interests beyond local custom-building include bidding for government contracts for wood products, and making prototype parts for the auto industry.

EJ Iron Works has been part of industrial scene for 100 years

The East Jordan Iron Works has been a vital part of the East Jordan and Charlevoix County economy for over a century.

The firm was founded in 1883 by William E. Malpass and is still owned and operated by the Malpass family.

Gray and ductile iron castings have been produced at the East Jordan Iron Works for a wide range of industrial uses such as machinery, castings, truck and trailer components, agricultural equipment, watermain fittings, fire hydrants, gate valves, construction castings, manholes, catchbasins, piston rings and watch cases for navigational equipment.

The plant's facilities and services include:

- Green sand and hardened sand molding on high pressure hydraulic automated machines producing castings from one to 6,000 pound.

- Core making which includes bench (small), blown, shell, floor (large) and gas hardening.

- Engineering service for casting design.

- Pattern design.

- Pattern repair.

- New patterns (wood and metal).

- Machining on computer numerical controlled machines from 10-inch chuck size up to 68-inch swing diameters programmed in a tool engineering department with a Compact II computer with disk storage and graphic plotter.

- Milling machines with single and twin spindle.

- Vertical and horizontal turret lathes with manual, automatic and tape controls.

- Metal and sand laboratory.

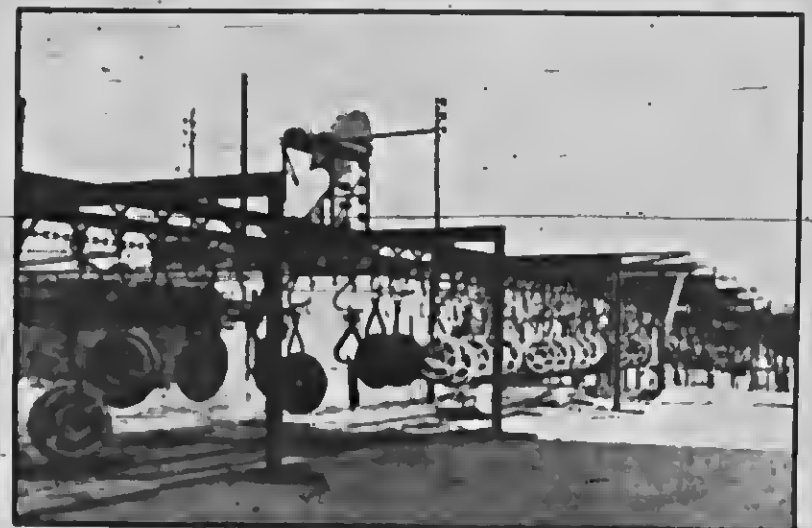

- A modern, 102-inch, water cooled, 50-ton per hour cupola with divided tuyeres.

- Recuperative hot blast and oxygen enrichment system.

LexaLite represents classic success story

LexaLite began in 1961 with an idea for a completely vandal-proof, unbreakable polycarbonate street lighting globe. The trade name was derived from "Lexan", a General Electric trade name for the molding material used in the first globes, and "Light", obviously from the crystal clear transparency and lighting application of the product.

This globe, known as LexaLite's Model 100, proved to be the answer to vandalism in many U.S. cities.

LexaLite was incorporated in 1963 in Southfield but, due to a rapid acceptance and demand for the products and need for a company capable of tooling a vast quantity of different styles and optical types of globes and refractors, the firm moved north to Charlevoix in 1965.

The present site for the all-electric plant on the Lake Michigan shoreline in Hayes Township was chosen not only because of its scenic beauty but also to avoid the dust and dirt contamination that is common to most industrial areas and which is detrimental to the production of clear products.

A steady growth in sales resulted in plant expansions in 1968, 1972 and 1978. Following a major fire in 1981, the main plant was completely rebuilt and now includes about 55,000 square feet of manufacturing and office space on its eight-acre site.

In early 1980 a second building was acquired within the city of Charlevoix containing about 7,500 sq. ft. Later that year another expansion project doubled its size and added a complete clean room molding research facility. In 1982 the company embarked on a major program of implementing Liquid Injection Molding as a production technology and such equipment has since been installed.

Just weeks ago, LexaLite announced another expansion program which will add 20,000 square feet of manufacturing space to its Charlevoix plant. Also to be acquired is a new plant in the southern U.S.

Subsidiaries and joint ventures of the parent company, LexaLite International Corporation (a Delaware corporation) include LexaLite Pacific Corp., Charlevoix Tool and Engineering, LexaLite Signal Products Corp., LexaLite Europe, S.A. (France), LexaLite Canada and LexaLite Mexicana, S.A. (Mexico).

Together, they design, tool and manufacture specialized plastic products for the lighting, signal devices, and communications appliances industries on a world wide basis. In 1983, the firm expects to top the $10 million sales mark for the first time. Gross revenue, including all subsidiaries, should approach $13 million. At present, about 140 are employed at the two Charlevoix locations.

Machining, grinding is Impac Tool's line

Impac Tool is in its fourteenth year of providing component parts for several industrial uses. Established in 1970 by James Doyle, Impac Tool was first located on Charlevoix's north side next to what is now Hufford Industries. It moved to its present location on Carpenter Ave. across from the city softball field in 1975. It now utilizes 10,000 square feet in its manufacturing facility and employs six.

production and grinding. It provides component parts for the die cast industry and the heavy trucking industry among others. Some of the machining and grinding is done on state-of-the-art equipment that is capable of providing a finished product accurately toed to defined, according to within a couple ten-thousandths of an inch. The firm also uses numerically controlled, computerized devices that can be programmed to perform virtually any grinding or machining task that can be process.

Making cement the Medusa way

It was in 1967 that Medusa Cement Company started production at its South Point plant in Charlevoix Township.

The abundance in the area's geology of the natural materials needed to manufacture cement plus the ability to ship to major Midwestern markets by large lake carrier made the 1,350-acre Charlevoix location an ideal one for Medusa.

The cement produced by Medusa is known as the Portland variety and is used primarily for road construction, block work and other large-scale building projects.

The plant has a production capacity of 1,634,000 tons of cement from its kiln process and 1,360,000 tons of clinker on the grinder end.

Limestone and shale, two of the raw materials used in the manufacturing process, are mined from two surface mines on the Medusa site.

An innovative land reclamation project has been ongoing at the plant in which areas where mining has been completed are restored to their natural states using sludge from the City of Charlevoix's waste treatment plant as a fertilizer.

At present, there are 115 hourly and 25 salaried employees at Medusa. The plant's estimated annual payroll for 1985 will be $4.5 million. The plant is currently a subsidiary of the Crane Company whose corporate offices are located in New York City. Medusa's corporate headquarters are in Cleveland.

Shipping of the cement from the Charlevoix plant is done solely by lake carrier. The 500-foot Medusa Challenger is capable of carrying over 11,000 tons of cement and makes from 50 to 55 trips per year from Charlevoix to such Great Lakes ports as Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and Wisconsin cities.

The plant underwent a major renovation project in 1979 when it converted from the "wet" process of manufacturing cement to a "flash calcining" system, a more energy efficient system developed in Japan in 1966. The $50 million conversion included the addition of state-of-the-art equipment that make the Medusa facility one of the most technologically sophisticated cement manufacturing operations in the world.

In flash calcining, the kiln feed, a mixture of finely ground limestone, sand and shale is metered and transported to the top of the preheater tower. The preheater consists of a series of four cyclones and a flash furnace in which the hot waste heat gases contact and heat the kiln feed prior to the feed actually entering the kiln. After a third preheater stage, the kiln feed is discharged into a flash furnace where fuel is burned to further increase the temperature.

The flash furnace discharges to a fourth stage where final preheating occurs prior to the feed entering the kiln. During this process the particles of kiln feed as suspended in the gas stream resulting in very efficient heat transfer.

The resulting "clinker" discharges from the kiln into a cooler where ambient air is used to cool it to a compatible temperature for handling and storage.

CPI rollers, vacuum cups used in industrial automation

CPI's manufacturing facility.

CPI may be one of the smaller industrial employers in Charlevoix County (a total of four on the payroll as of last week) but its product line nevertheless serves some of the largest corporations in America. The neoprene rollers and vacuum cups, and polyurethane conveyor components and other custom designed automation components made by CPI are generally used in large-scale manufacturing processes. The company's biggest customers include General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, American Motors and the Budd Company. CPI was first established by Donald and Walter Hufford in 1973 as a part of Hufford Industries, a firm which also is involved in conveyor components, and was located on Charlevoix's north side near that facility. Don took over the firm in 1982 as a sole proprietorship and this year relocated to its present 3,000-square foot building on Stover Rd. just south of the city.

Will-Flow products are used world-wide

One could make a good argument that of all the industrial products manufactured in Charlevoix County, those from Will-Flow may enjoy the broadest variety of uses and the most extensive geographic range.

Will-Flow is a subsidiary of Process Equipment Corporation based in Belding, Michigan, specializes in the manufacture of stainless steel tanks, pressure vessels and other related equipment.

Its plant along U.S. 31 on Charlevoix's north edge was built in 1950. It has been expanded periodically since that time, the last major project adding 2,500 square feet ten years ago. It now covers 54,000 square feet and employs about 80; almost all of whom live in the surrounding area.

Will-Flow is unique facility in that its in-house engineering, accounting, research and development and manufacturing departments make the plant almost completely self-contained. Only for the most specialized technical assistance does it turn to the parent company.

Will-Flow not only supplies equipment to the country's largest corporations (Dow Chemical, DuPont, Bordens, Oscar Mayer, Kodak, Gillette, Eli Lilly, Coca-Cola, Miller Brewing, Mobil Oil, just to name a few) but also ships internationally. It has serviced customers from 40 countries worldwide and even filled an order for 21 stainless steel tanks from the U.S.S.R. a few years ago. The list of applications for Will-Flow products is almost endless. Some of the industries that use Will-Flow manufactured equipment include: chemical, food, meat packing, textile, paint, photographic, toiletries, tobacco, perfume, pharmaceutical, beverage, wine-making, liquor, brewing, paper, petroleum, transportation, cosmetic, soap and detergent and citrus.

The Charlevoix firm has also supplied several major American universities with specially designed stainless steel equipment for laboratory research.

For local residents, however, probably the most memorable application of a Will-Flow product was in the Bicentennial year of Flow stainless steel pie that made possible the feat duly noted by the specially-made Will- weighing 3,700 pounds, baking of the "World's Guinness Book of Largest Cherry Pie", a Records.

Will-Flow's tanks and pressure vessels are all made of stainless steel.

Hoskins has seen steady growth

Even during times of over the past two decades of uncertainty, Hoskins plant and its seven employees were and retreat for many industrial operations in the area and state, the Hoskins-Manufacturing Company's Charlevoix plant has experienced steady growth.

Just this past June, the plant completed a $500,000, 15,000-square foot expansion project with bonding assistance from the Charlevoix County Economic Development Corporation. The addition brings the total a mount of

As electronic technology changed, the plant just south of Charlevoix on highway M-66 to 35,000 square feet.

It has employed as many as 90 in the past and now provides work for about 75 employees. Established in the area in 1961 with help from the Charlevoix Development Corporation, the first Hoskins plant and its seven employees were located in a rented building on the north side while a permanent plant was being constructed on 35 acres of the former Loeb estate.

That first building provided 10,000 square feet and was intended primarily for the production of ultra-fine wire - small as .0005" in diameter - for the precision resistor and potentiometer industries.

As electronic technology changed, phasing out such devices as transistors, Hoskins' product line adjusted. The wire size range produced gradually increased until it included wire as large as .028" in diameter, still technically a fine wire product. These materials were supplied mostly to appliance manufacturers where the wire formed the heating element for such products as clothes driers, baseboard heaters and electric blankets. Hoskins' precision alloys were also used in devices used for temperature measurement and control.

Ten-thousand more square feet were added to the plant in 1966 and in 1971 a second building of 3,000 sq. ft. was constructed. These expansions saw the inclusion of helical coils and stranded wire, or cable, in the Charlevoix plant's product line.

It is interesting to note in these times of disappearing sexual stereotypes that not only is the plant manager, Barbara Skeel, a woman, but female employees have outnumbered males by as much as 60 to 1 in recent years and hold almost all supervisory positions as well.

Hoskins is currently a subsidiary of the Armada Corporation based in Detroit. Other Hoskins plants are Manufacturing located in Mio, Company, founded in Hamburg and New 1908 by a Chicago Paris, Indiana.

United Way drive continues

James Marshall, general chairman of the Charlevoix United Way, reported that the recent door-to-door residential drive was "very successful" with projected proceeds from the campaign estimated at $4,000. According to Marshall, about 60 volunteers called on residents in 70 percent of the city Thursday evening, October 4. Canvassers continued the drive last week covering areas that weren't called upon the first night. A major effort is being made to enroll local businesses and industries in the payroll deduction program, said Marshall, who added that several firms had already agreed to participate in such a program. Those who have not been contacted by United Way volunteers may still send contributions to Box 532, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Big week planned for Homecoming

by FRANK MARTIN

It's Homecoming time at the Charlevoix High School!

The candidates for homecoming queen nominated by the senior class are nervously awaiting the coronation ceremony when the name of the 1984 queen will be announced, members of the various classes are hard at work preparing the floats for the parade, the marching band directed by Terry Isenbarger is rehearsing music for the halftime show which will be dedicated to the homecoming queen and the Hayder football players are preparing for the homecoming game at Kipke Field with Onaway according to Maureen Buday, president of the Student Council which plans the homecoming festivities.

Candidates for the honor of homecoming queen and her court nominated by the senior class are Amy Bartlett, Kathy Dohm, Cheryl Hartnett, Amy Lindberg, and Lara Thomas. The student body will vote this week to name the 1984 homecoming queen who will receive her crown from Carrie Richardson, 1983 Homecoming Queen. Her first official act will be to "dub" Thad Morgan and Chris Havens.

Charlevoix Hayder Football Captains. Ann Wagner will serve as mistress of ceremonies for the coronation ceremony which will conclude with the marching band directed by Mr. Isenbarger and the flag corps presenting its halftime show.

Prior to the coronation ceremony, the queen candidates and the floats will parade around Kipke Field.

Leading the candidates will be John Helveston, Jim Kenney, John Pearl, Peter Plagge, Kyle Smith and Will Syvertson.

The traditional homecoming parade at 6:45 p.m. Friday will usher in the homecoming festivities. The parade will assemble at the Middle School on Grant St. and, led by the Marching Band under the direction of Mr. Isenbarger and the flag corps, will march to Kipke Field via Mason St., State St., Garfield Ave. and May St. Participating in the parade will be the decorated floats entered by the four high school classes, the 1983 Homecoming Queen Miss Richardson, the Rayder Varsity, JV and Freshmen cheerleaders and the queen candidates.

The annual homecoming dance will be held at the Elementary School gymnasium under the sponsorship of the "senior class" following the game. Live music for dancing will be by "Pyl", popular area band. Dress will be formal.

Judges for the parade entries will be Marina LaBlance, Mercedes Mathers and Barbara Godwin.

The Student Council, headed by Buday and Dianna Loder as president and vice president, are in charge of all homecoming festivities. Gayle Gennett is the faculty advisor.

To hold open meeting on CHS track repair

By FRANK MARTIN

After hearing the report by Ronald Moore of the Building and Site Committee regarding the condition of the track at Kipke Field, Monday night, the Charlevoix Board of Education decided to call an open meeting to be held at the high school library at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 25, to air the issue and receive input from the community at large. All persons interested in the athletic program is urged to attend the meeting. The payment of a debt retirement obligation and committee reports were other major items on the agenda of the board when it met Monday night.

Supt. Gordon W. VanWieren spoke briefly on Proposal C and what it would mean to the Charlevoix School District. He advised that it would roll back the valuation to the 1981 figure and would mean a loss of approximately $500,000 to the school district. He advised that the school district would have 90 days to hold an election to recover the lost revenue. He said that the Michigan Association of School Boards and the Michigan Education Association advocate a no vote on the issue.

Ardeth Wieland of the Policy Committee reported on the recent meeting at which the value of early graduation and the possibility of requiring more than 20 credits to graduate were discussed.

Doris Pearl of the Professional Study Committee reported that teachers were considering a teacher visitation with an area school. She said retention and promotion policies had also been discussed. As a board representative on the curriculum committee, she reported that the vocational education program and self-evaluation of the K-5 and middle schools were discussed.

Michigan State Athletic Association policies relating to transfer policies, selecting sites for play-offs and other matters relating to the association were discussed.

A committee of three members of the professional study committee and three from the curriculum will be named to make plans for an inservice program.

It was reported that 40 members of the Advanced Biology and their instructor, Peter Spieles, are spending two days at the Beaver Island Lighthouse Environmental outdoor classroom.

Comm. finds access good

Charlevoix County's public buildings are generally accessible to handicapped persons with the exception of three departments on the second floor of the main County Building.

This conclusion was reached by a five-member committee appointed by the County Board to evaluate the County's facilities with relation to handicapped persons. The committee's study was prompted by a set of guidelines promulgated by the Federal Revenue Sharing office of the Treasury Department for public bodies which receive

Council says Mol can't move out of city

City council Monday night denied Police Chief Jack Mol permission to move out of the city and indicated a desire to strengthen requirements for all city employees hired in the future to live within city limits.

Mol had requested permission from the council two weeks ago to move from his Dixon Ave. home which, he said, was too large for him and his wife since the couple's children had grown and left. Mol had planned to build a new home about three miles south of the city over the next two years. Mol reaches retirement age in six years.

On a unanimous vote, council denied Mol's request and instructed staff to work on an ordinance revision that will make residing within the city mandatory for all city employees hired in the future.

In other business, council:

Gave permission to the Starline corporation to allow rental of the city dock for possible winter berthing of the dinner cruise ships Star of Chicago and Star of Detroit. The dock, presently used by the Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite, will be vacated when the Mesquite leaves November 28 for winter duty in the Caribbean.

Authorized the taking by the city, effective January 1, of one of two megawatts of power from the Consumers Power Company Campbell plant owned by the city through the Michigan Public Power Association.

Approved site plans for Karl's Pastry Shop, which will move from its present location to 303 Bridge St. where a dress shop and a barbershop have been located in recent years, and for William and Elizabeth Martin who plan to put a deck on the back entry of their interior design business next to the Post Office.

IT WAS A BUSY WEEKEND in Charlevoix. On Saturday, the first Charlevoix County Industrial Fair was held at the Elementary School. Shown above is Tadd Malpass of the East Jordan Iron Works explaining his firm's operation at one of 25 informational booths featured in the fair. The event, sponsored by the Charlevoix County State Bank, attracted over 1,000 people. On both Saturday and Sunday, orchardists, such as Friske Orchards shown at right, service clubs and others took over East Park for the annual Charlevoix Apple Festival. Despite rainy weather for the first day, those involved with the festival reported the largest crowds to date in the five-year old event.

Rehearsals to begin for Christmas Carol festival

Rehearsals will begin later this month for vocalists and instrumentalists who are being invited to participate in a Christmas Carol Festival to be presented early in December. Ellen Addington, who will direct the seasonal festival, has announced.

Vocalists to become members of a community chorus and instrumentalists to form an orchestra to accompany the chorus are being sought.

Rehearsals for the instrumentalists will begin at 7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 29 at the First Congregational Church at Park Ave. and State St. in Charlevoix.

Vocalists will meet at the same time, 7 p.m., on Tuesday, Oct. 30 at the same site.

The singing of Christmas carols, both the traditional and others not as popular but equally as lovely, seems a happy way to usher in the holiday season. Miss Addington said in announcing the rehearsals for vocalists and instrumentalists. The Christmas Carol Festival will be presented at St. Mary's Church at 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 2. Miss Addington said.

Further information may be obtained by calling Miss Addington at 336-7018.

Building activity in county starts autumn decline

Four new houses and 36 new condominium units were included in the 53 permits issued by the Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection in September. One new house will be located in Hayes Township, one in Melrose Township, and two in South Arm Township. The condominium units (the Harbour Club) will be located in Charlevoix.

Construction costs of the four new houses (exclusive of land, plumbing, electrical, and mechanical work) are estimated at $197,954, and the condominium units at $400,000.

The 53 permits are eight fewer than the August total of 61, continuing the fall downturn in building activity.

Besides the new residential facilities, 12 permits were issued for additions to and remodeling of residences, 12 for residential porches, one for a residential deck, and eight for residential outbuildings. In addition, six permits were issued for mobile home placement and/or remodeling.

In the commercial category, one permit was issued for a new building and four for additions to or remodeling of old buildings.

Four permits were also issued for demolition of various types of buildings.

The Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection has issued 390 permits so far this year, with construction costs, as noted above, of $6,890,051.

Opinion

Knight on the Town

Important reminders

I could not help but think Saturday that the two overwhelmingly successful events going on that day, the Apple Festival and Industrial Fair, could not have been a better way to emphasize the importance of a diverse, well balanced local economy.

There has been a lot of effort spent lately on improving the community's approach to tourism. Surely this space has been devoted to that subject several times in recent years.

The organizers and sponsors of the two events mentioned above deserve a vote of thanks, however, for reminding us that without the stabilizing influence of both agriculture and industry, Charlevoix would be in no shape to present itself to its vacationing visitors.

While the Industrial Fair was a first-time experience, the Apple Festival has established itself solidly in the past five years.

I hope both will continue to grow in future years.

Building access...

Revenue Sharing funds. The committee was composed of County Commissioner Don St. Ignace, County Building Custodian Michael Webb, Doug McComb of the Department of Social Services, and Fran Martin and Steve Wilson, both of whom are confined to wheel chairs.

The committee's evaluation report was presented to the County Board last week and accepted as the basis for making whatever changes in County facilities deemed necessary.

According to the committee, the problem of handicapped persons' accessibility to the three second floor departments (District Court, Planning, and Extension) could be solved by installing an elevator at a cost of about $30,000, and it recommends such action.

The alternative would be constructing an addition to the County Building at a cost of approximately $500,000. Other physical changes in County facilities need to make them barrier-free were listed as follows: Main County Building: No ramp in front of building. An eight-foot ramp at the south end of the building could be installed at a cost of about $100. Drinking fountain not reachable from wheel chair. A "slave" could be added to the fountain at a cost of about $150. Telephone too high for use by wheel chair travelers. This could be lowered by the Telephone Company. Restroom stalls not accessible to wheel chairs. One stall in each restroom could be widened and fitted with rails at a cost of about $600. Sheriff's Department Jail: No handicapped parking signs. Two signs could be installed for approximately $50.

Emergency Services Department in Jail building: No ramp. Four-foot ramp could be installed on west steps for an unspecified sum.

County Building Annex: Restroom stalls not accessible to wheel chairs. One stall in each restroom could be widened and fitted with rails.

County Road Commission Headquarters in Boyne City: No ramp. Four-foot ramp could be installed. No handicapped parking signs. Two signs could be installed.

A portion of the committee's report was devoted to an expansion of the need for barrier-free public buildings other than making it possible for handicapped persons to do business with County departments. If a handicapped person is the best qualified for a job opening in a County office, that person must be hired, the office must be barrier-free, and the new employee must be able to reach it without difficulty.

The report also notes that the County recently purchased property adjacent to the western boundary of its parking lot for the purpose of providing more space for County offices some time in the future.

Letters from readers:

Cost of MX

To the Editor:

The average American family will pay about $400 toward the MX nuclear missile system, according to a study by Dr. James Anderson of Michigan State University, and a study done by Employment Research Associates, a Lansing consulting firm that specializes in the impact of defense spending on the economy.

The average congressional district will contribute about $60 million in taxes for the $27.5 billion system.

The study said more than $24 billion will be spent in just six states. After paying their share of taxes for the project, California will come out $9.5 billion ahead; Colorado, $4.3 billion; Massachusetts, $2 billion; Utah, $1.5 billion; Washington, $1.1 billion; and Arizona, $166 million.

Anderson said 392 of the nation's 435 congressional districts will show a substantial net loss of tax dollars if the MX is built. "That means the financial burden of the MX is carried by 90 percent of the congressional districts, while its contract benefits are concentrated in only 10 percent."

Michigan stands to lose $1.1 billion.

mills for operating the County Transit System, up from last year's rate of 153.3 mills.

Commissioner Oral Sutliff, who introduced the millage resolution, said the increase was necessary to meet demands of the 1985 budget.

Tentatively, that budget shows anticipated revenues of $3,090,930 and expenditure requests of $3,360,000. The County's Ways & Means Committee is now in the process of paring expenditure figures to balance with revenues.

However, it appears that the County's 1985 budget will be the first one over $3 million.

The new millage rate for general County government operations will generate $1,872,897 from property taxes, which will make up the greatest part of budget revenues. Other monies will come from Salmon Association, Inc., Thursday night October 18 at 7:00 at the Bear Creek Township Hall, Division Road at Mitchell Street.

This meeting is for all the people and sportsmen, to every one who is interested in the equality of our natural resources, and to the business places that are being denied the economic dollars of the salmon fishermen who would like to share in the harvest of this great fish, not only for the food value, but also for sport.

The sharing of our salmon is not the only subject that can become an issue. We need the input and feeling of people who care, and then to have the courage to do something about it.

The issue before us now is the injustice of the DNR and Tempotech, Inc., who have the salmon water on the Jordan River where the DNR is denying the people the right to share in this great natural resource and food supply, but has the power and authority to give to a company our fish who in turn can sell our protected game fish on the open market.

We would like to hear the pros and cons. Come join us.

Clockwise

Mondale has a chance

By Bob Clock

Polsters are predicting a landslide victory for President Reagan on Nov. 6, but I'd like to know to whom they are talking.

Everytime I bring up the election in a crowd, the sentiment is far and away in favor of Walter Mondale.

And Mondale's supporters don't just favor their man; they are rabidly partisan. Politic political discussions are virtually impossible.

The number of Mondale supporters appears to be legion, even in such a traditional Republican stronghold as Charlevoix.

On Saturday, I had a hankering to talk to another Republican outside of the immediate family so I telephoned sister in Plymouth. I had assumed she was a Republican because I can't remember her ever saying anything nice about Democrats. I also remember how she used to drool over Wendell Wilkie, Franklin Roosevelt's Republican opponent in 1940. She thought Wilkie was "cute."

When I mentioned something I liked about Reagan my sister lit into me. She is of the clear opinion that I have lost whatever small amount of reason I was born with.

So much for family support. With the election still three weeks away, I would like to predict that if Reagan wins, his plurality will not be nearly so large as the polls say it will be.

Furthermore, I think Mondale actually has a very good chance of winning, judging from my contacts in Charlevoix and elsewhere throughout the north. Furthermore, I know he is getting at least one vote in Plymouth.

The election of 1984 could be a repeat of that memorable November.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Dishong

Johnstone — Dishong

Jill Elizabeth Johnstone and Aaron Scott Dishong were married on Saturday evening, September 15, in the flower-decorated lounge of LaCroft Condominiums.

The double ring rites were read by Major Kenneth Slatley of Charlevoix before approximately 100 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Kenney of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Jennie Kierczynski of Gaiyard and the late Louis Kierczynski.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her parents, wore a classic wedding gown of white satin and lace. It featured pearl beading on the fitted lace bodice and collar, long lapped sleeves buttoned at the wrist, and a full lace and pearl embroidered skirt with a lull, chapel train. Her waist-length pearl-beaded veil was attached to a fitted cap. The bride carried a cascading bouquet of stephanotis, royal bouquet orchids, stems of spider plants, and ivy.

Following a wedding trip through Ontario, the newlyweds are at home at 214 Mason Street, Charlevoix. The bridegroom is employed by Kitz Carson Lumber Company, and the bride is employed by Norman and Judith Brum Studios.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kierczynski

Kenney — Kierczynski

Kimberly Ann Kenney and Robert Kierczynski exchanged marriage vows on Saturday afternoon, August 11, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix.

Father Jim McGuehin officiated at the double-ring rites witnessed by approximately 200 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Kenney of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Jennie Kierczynski of Gaiyard and the late Louis Kierczynski.

Matt Lignell gets some "fives" on the sidelines following one of his two touchdowns runs Friday night.

Gridders bounce back

It was a different Charlevoix Rayder team that took the field Friday night in Gaylord than the one that headed for the locker room following a loss to Cheboygan the week before.

The Rayders struck early and held on to hand the Gaylord Blue Devils their third straight loss, after winning their first three of the season. The 26-6

Putman Cole capped the drive with a one-yard plunge for the score with 5:35 remaining in the quarter. Exchange Cole to Jody Putman pass and a one-yard sneak by Cole.

Charlevoix's first scoring drive started on the Rayders' 45 yard line and was sparked by a 21-yard pass from quarterback Cole to no good. After a scoreless second quarter, Charlevoix got on the board again about eight minutes into the second half when Cole hit Putman in the endzone from four yards out. The score was set up by a fumble recovery on the Devils' 20. Evans' kick made it 20-0.

Before the quarter ended, Lignell virtually iced the game when he got free on a first-and-ten situation and raced 46 yards for his second touchdown. The kick for the point after was no good.

Gaylord avoided the shutout when quarterback Chris Clark found receiver Todd Nowak for a 25-yard scoring play with 3:08 to play.

Statistically the game was closer than the score indicates. Charlevoix had only 202 yards of total offense to Gaylord's 175. Lignell enjoyed his fifth game of 100-yard or more in rushing with 120 for the night. Chris Havens was outstanding on defense blocking a punt, recovering two fumbles and making 12 tackles. Scott Crandall led the team in tackling with 13. Thad Morgan had 11 and Pat Hamlin 10.

The Spring Series and racing in 30 degree weather and wondering why we were there, having Dick Kenney take our pictures as we rounded his stern in the Boyne City Race in June; the color of twenty different spinners snapping and pulling their crews past us in the Summer Series, and wishing we were using one, too; the Red Fox in September and hearing that Val had been washed overboard; the Fall Series and watching Beatty send his boat crashing right into a squall while we were trying to decide whether we should retire or not; and then, the final Wednesday night race and ghosting through that pea-soup fog while over in the northeast, that big Harvest Moon rose, turned red and gave us just enough light to orient ourselves for the final leg of the race.

The season is over and many of us are wishing that it might have lasted just another race or two. But now, we have the winter to re-educate ourselves as to sail trim, rules of the road, navigation and to plan our cruising for '85.

For the final race in Fleet 1, CHARLIE BROWN captured honors, followed by FLYING MACHINE, COLUMBINE, KRITTER, SKIRMISH, PYGMALION and TIGGER.

In Fleet 2, WING NUT was followed by BANDIT RAZZ-MA-TAZZ, CANUSA, RUBIT, NIGHT MOVES and NERRY HELL II.

Fleet 3: FOXY LADY captured first with BLASEN III, SPECTRE and TIRELESS trailing in line.

The Jan Fleet had only CYGNUS and PHOENICIA finishing within the time limit.

Overall For the Fall Series: Fleet 1: 1. SKIRMISH (6.25) 2. CHARLIE BROWN (8.75) 3. KRITTER (12.50) 4. COLUMBINE (16.25) 5. PYGMALION (17.75) 6. FLYING MACHINE (27.5) 7. TIGGER (32).

Fleet 2: 1. WING NUT (5.0) 2. NIGHT MOVES (10.75) 3. BANDIT (13.75) 4. CANUSA (15.5) 5. NERRY HELL II (22.0) 6. RUBIT (28.0).

Fleet 3: 1. FOXY LADY (3.75) 2. BLASEN III (6.25) 3. TIRELESS (10.0) 4. SPECTRE (16.25) 5. OBSESSION (26.0) 6. SAN-SHE-SHE (28.0).

Fleet 4: "Jib and Main": 1. CYGNUS (9.75) 2. PHOENICIA (11.25) 3. COOL WHIP (12.0) 4. STALLWARTH (13.25) 5. CHEENAUN (15.0) 6. APOTHECARY (17.25).

We thank Tete Drost and Phil Ohmer for doing a good job as Race Committee for the season and hope that you come back next year.

The Club thanks our outgoing officers, Commodore Cliff Biddick, and Secretary Janet Trodman and welcomes our new crew, Commodore Jim Keller, Vice-Commodore John Coolman, Treasurer Mark Pirie and Secretary Lynn Havemann.

Rayders show well in Petoskey race

Charlevoix Rayder harriers placed first, third and fourth in their respective divisions of the Petoskey McDonald's-Olympist Cross Country Invitational meet Saturday.

The Rayder C-D 9-10 division runners placed first with 31 points among four teams and runners from five other schools. Rogers City was in second place with 62 followed by Kalkaska with 92 and Mancelona with 119.

The Rayder C-D 11-12 division runners with 92 points came in third behind Kingsley with 50 and Mancelona with 84.

Individual runners from six other teams also competed in this event.

The girls division was an open race with 65 participants from all four divisions entered.

The Rayder runners placed fourth with Betsy Haggard coming in 18th to earn a medal in 21:06.

In commenting on Saturday's meet, Coach Pete Spieles said "the results of the meet show you where our strength is." He went on to say that Charlevoix lost all its seasoned runners through graduation and the team is now in a rebuilding phase.

In winning the Class C-D 9-10 division, Mike Dohm won a time of 16:37 placed third. Pat Rajewski, 5th in 16:57; Joe Simpson, 6th in 17:06; Doug Bergmann, 7th in 17:09; Kevin McLenon, 10th in 17:31; Tom Merta, 11th in 17:33; Sean Ilene, 11th in 20:32.

Others and their times are: Ed Knight, 21st, 18:12; Dave Warth, 29th, 18:53; Dan Staiblin, 34th, 19:13; Dave Fakes, 40th in 20:32.

In the Class C-D 11-12 division, Carl Dhoseler, Rapid, placed fourth with a time of 16:52; Tim Gibbons was 5th in 16:55; Dan Kelly, 22nd in 19:02; Jim Smith, 30th in 20:34; Nick Swanson, 31st in 21:12 and Rick Thayer, 32nd in 21:49. The winning time in this division was 16:32 run by Dan Heidi Olinger, 21:36; Saturday.

The Charlevoix Rayder girls had like scores of 364 but the Gladiators took third place and the Ramblers were dropped to fourth place when the scores of the fifth players determined the winner.

Elk Rapids scored 370; Charlevoix 377; Kalkaska 378 and Roscommon 385.

Medalist for the meet was Benzie Central's Scott Wealch who had a score of 79. Todd Buckmaster of Boyne City carded an 80 for the 18 holes.

Flag Corps adds to game night fun

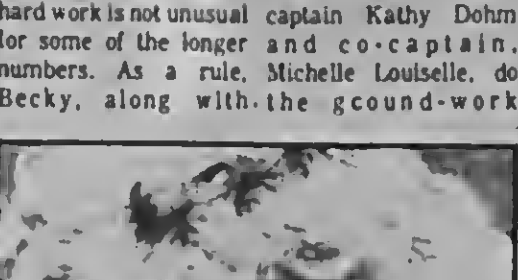

by ANNE KELLY

Charlevoix High School's flag corps last year's traditional flag corps. Traditional is longish skirts, military carriage, tall flags and solemn expressions. In Charlevoix, football fans are beguiled by a new breed of flag twirlers. Sophisticated and peppy in their form and attire, the girls toss and twirl and strut to some fancy choreography arranged to accompany the band's pop show stoppers.

The Flag Corps performs at all home football games.

Behind the scenes, the flag corps is primed by volunteer coach, Becky Resch, a former Charlevoix flag twirler herself. This is Becky's 22nd year coaching the corps and she sees great things ahead for them, as flag competitions become more popular.

"We placed 2nd out of 8 participating flag corps at Band Day Competition at Eastern Michigan University. I was really pleased," said Becky.

Routines for the girls take hours of practice before they are polished sufficiently for the half-time performances at football home games. Seven to eight hours of choreography to taped music. They then teach the other members who add ideas of their own until the routine is just right. Practice time is usually 2-3 hours every day, four days a week. "This year we have four fresh members," continued Becky. "We were able to teach them the basic twirls and routines, then added the flag corps camp at the performance picture. Northwood Institute in Midland during the summer. There they learned more moves and how to express themselves through music."

To be a flag corps member, according to Becky, a girl has to be a member of the band, have a basic ability to handle the flag and have a good attitude. Personality and appearance enter in as routines, then added the flag corps camp at the performance picture. Northwood Institute in Midland during the summer. There they learned more moves and how to express themselves through music."

Rev. Hietie to hold series of seminars at Church of Nazarene

Other winners in the photo contest included summer resident of Charlevoix, was the winning photographer. Her entry, along with several others submitted to the contest, will be included in the opening presentation of the opening bascule bridge across the channel, was named third place winner.

Rehearsing the "Telephone Song" from the musical "Bye Bye Birdie" are the Charlevoix High School Performing Arts students who will include the number in their upcoming review of favorites from recent musicals at the high school.

'Memories' to salute CHS musicals of the past

Memories, a musical variety show, will be presented Saturday evening, October 27, 1984 at 7:30 p.m. in the Charlevoix High School cafeteria. Students from the performing arts classes will entertain with a two hour show featuring excerpts from past year's award winning performances of Grease, West Side Story, Fiddler on the Roof and Charlie Brown. This family entertainment will concentrate on songs, dances, groups and solo acts. Proceeds from the evening's entertainment will be assigned to the group's expenses such as competition fees and other expenses.

Obituaries

ETHEL H. WELDON
Funeral services for Mrs. Ethel H. Weldon, 85, of Charlevoix, were held Monday evening at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. David W. Yingling of the United Methodist Church officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mrs. Weldon died Oct. 13 at Grandvue Medical Care Facility.
Born at Cross Village July 4, 1899, the former Ethel H. Newson was raised in Hayes Township. She attended the Charlevoix High School and the Lansing Business Institute. She went to Detroit in the early 1920's and through the years was employed at the Ford Motor Co., F.T.D., Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and as a switchboard operator at the Melbourne Hotel. She retired in 1975 and returned to Charlevoix to make her home. She was a member of Charlevoix Chapter No. 72, Order of the Eastern Star.

She is survived by two aunts, Mrs. Arlo (Irene) Crites and Mrs. Mary P. Nelson, both of Charlevoix.

The family suggests memorials to Grandvue Medical Care Facility.

To host DCCW meeting

On Wednesday, October 24th at 4:30 p.m., St. Mary's of Charlevoix ladies will be serving Mary's of Charlevoix desserts only. All will be hosting the fall meeting for the north-west region of the DCCW. Plans for a silent auction are urged to attend.

Festive Favorites Recipe Contest
Many Prizes to be Given Away

CONTEST RULES
1. Contestants are invited to enter as many categories as they wish but may submit only one recipe per category. You must be 18 years or older to enter.
2. Recipes should be typed or printed on a sheet of paper with the category indicated.
3. To each recipe there should be a separate sheet of paper attached with the contestant's name, address and phone number. The contestant's name should not appear on the actual recipe. As each recipe is received, it will be assigned a number which will be logged with the contestant's name. The names will be removed from the recipe so the judges will not know whose recipes they are judging.
4. Ingredients should be listed in accurate, easily understood amounts and in the order that they are used.
5. Recipes do not have to be completely original. They may be old standards or new variations. On familiar recipes, the more original the recipe is, however, the better its chance of winning.
6. If duplicate recipes are received, the one submitted first will be accepted. We will log date and time recipes are received.
7. All contestants must agree to permit their recipes to be published in a special cookbook section of the Charlevoix Courier.
8. Employees of the Charlevoix Courier and Petoskey News-Review and members of their families are not eligible to win the contest.
9. A panel of judges will evaluate the recipes submitted and name three finalists in each of the five categories. The 15 finalists will be notified and asked to prepare their recipes for a final judging session. Judges will then sample the entries and name a winner in each category.

Names In The News

JIM SUNDBERG, a former resident and free lance photographer now living in Oakland, Ca., was co-producer of a show done for COMBAT, which received the Award of the Year for Best Design at an international awards ceremony at Dallas, Tex., recently. The show was among more than 2,000 entries with several countries.

Sundberg did the photography, sound track and programming of the award winning show. Co-producers were Frank Koster and Gary Green of Richmond, Va. The show was done while the trio was with Slidemakers, a production company.

A freelance photographer operating in the San Francisco area, Sundberg recently did some filming in Calgary, Alberta, Can., for Weston Productions of San Francisco and stars.

Sundberg is a 1973 graduate of the Charlevoix High School and studied at film school at Half Moon Bay, Ca. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford "Kip" Sundberg of Charlevoix.

JOHN GROOTERS, son of Rev. and Mrs. Larry Grooters of Charlevoix, is an August 84 graduate from Hope College. He has been awarded the Bachelor of Arts degree in communications.

THE ABOVE STUDENTS from Charlevoix High School participated in High School Government Seminar Day at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey October 1. The annual event is sponsored by Congresswoman Bob Davis and brings students into contact with officials of federal, state and local government as well as the news media. In the front row, left to right, are Lenore Erber, Paul Arnold, Davis, and Randy Ray; in the back row are advisor Nelson Green, Tom Ochs, Tim Plagge and Tim Wieland.

IT WAS HOMECOMING Friday night at Kipke Field and returning alumni were treated to a thorough 33-8 victory by the football team over Onaway plus all the traditional ceremonies. Amy Bartlett, a Charlevoix High School senior, was named Homecoming Queen at halftime ceremonies. Amy was crowned by the 1983 Homecoming Queen Carrie Richardson, above, and proceeded to dub Hayder captains Thad Morgan and Chris Havens, right. The seniors' entry in the float competition, above right, took top honors.

New panel to study lake plan

by DAVE KNIGHT

A 15-member advisory committee to study the feasibility of a Lake Charlevoix management plan is to be named by December and begin work in January following action by the Charlevoix County Planning Commission last week.

At its regular meeting Thursday, the commission decided to allow the ten cities and townships bordering the lake to each submit either one name or a list of names to the commission for appointment to the advisory group.

Five other appointments will include a representative from the Lake Charlevoix Association, a member representing the interests of developers, an environmentalist and two representatives of the county at large.

According to County Planner Larry Sullivan, the appointments are scheduled to be made by the commission by December which would allow the committee to begin its work in the new year.

Just exactly what the advisory committee will be out to accomplish was the concern of some local governmental officials on hand Thursday night.

William Ohle, a trustee of Bay Township, pressed for a clear statement of purpose for the new committee saying, "The whole objective of this effort, has to be pinpointed."

Commission secretary Larry Levensgood said that much of the committee's direction will be determined when it begins to study important issues bearing on the future of Lake Charlevoix. But at present, he said, "We don't know what all the issues are."

Levensgood listed some areas the advisory committee might study as the following:

- Marina development.
- The availability of boat pump-out facilities.
- Boat launches and public access sites.
- Green belt preservation.

Will discuss city ice rink site

by DAVE KNIGHT

The location of the city ice skating rink, a topic that attracted considerable attention earlier this year when a new site in East Park site was proposed, will be on a crowded agenda when the Charlevoix Recreation Commission meets Wednesday night.

According to Chairman John Hess, the commission will discuss at least three potential sites for the rink, including its present one just south of the high school.

Also being considered is the Middle School parking lot where the rink was located several years ago. Said Hess of the Middle School site, "We will have to study whether there is enough parking available and also the ability to adequately flood the rink."

Hess said that the proposal for a new rink downtown in East Park has not been discussed at length by the commission but that it is still under consideration.

Also to be discussed at the meeting are plans for Hoffmann Park, the Park Avenue property given to the city by the late Dr. Walter Hoffmann.

According to Hess, the main concern of the commission is why bids have not been let for the demolition of the house currently standing on the property. He said that it was the commission's understanding that the structure was to have been removed by October 1 so that improvements to

William O. Ratigan's death marks end of long, uniquely colorful career

Private graveside services for Dr. William O. Ratigan, 73, author, teacher and counselor, were held Sunday, Oct. 21, at St. Mary's cemetery. The Rev. Casimir Zawacki of St. Mary's Church officiated.

Dr. Ratigan died Oct. 18 at his Park Ave. home.

Born in Detroit Nov. 7, 1910, Dr. Ratigan attended the University of Detroit 1931-33 and transferred to the University of Chattanooga from which he received an AB degree in 1935. While there he was quarterback on the school's football team.

On September 12, 1935, he was married to the former Eleanor R. Eldridge in Denver.

He joined the National Broadcasting Company while in Denver was continuity director and producer 1937-40, pioneering the news department in 1939; was supervisor of the Far East listening post on the west coast 1940-42; managing news editor of the Western division, supervisor of commentators and correspondents in the Pacific Theatre of Operation 1942-45; news editor and scriptwriter at the United Nation Conference in 1945.

In 1946, Dr. Ratigan and his family came to Charlevoix where he continued writing for the Curtis Publishing Co. and other magazines and where he was to become member-at-large on the Advisory Council Naval Affairs, 1957; consultant to the Smithsonian Institution on the technical development of Great Lakes craft, 1959 and was named chief of the Ottawa tribe, Opwananikan Kanotog (Interpreter of Dreams) 1957.

He was the author of books of poetry, NBC War Poems, 1945 and Great Lakes Sea Chanties 1948-58 and books, all of which were written in Charlevoix, Soo Canal with foreword by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, 1954; Young Mr. Big, 1955; Hiawatha and America's Mightiest Mile, 1955 (editor Song of Hiawatha, centennial—facsimile edition); The Adventures of Capt. McCargo, 1956; Struts of Mackinac, 1956; The Blue Snow, 1958; Tiny Tim Pine, 1958; Adventures of Paul Bunyan and the Babe, 1958; The Long Crossing, 1959; Highways Over Broad Waters, 1959 and his last and most popular, Great Lakes Shipwrecks and Survivals, 1960.

He was the recipient of the intercollegiate Odes to Horace award, 1935 and the California Chaparral poetry prize, 1944. He was a member of Alpha Society, Blue Key (president in 1935); the Authors Club (Hollywood, Ca.); Press Club (San Francisco) and the Camp Lucas Officers Open Mess (Sault Ste. Marie).

For many years, Dr. Ratigan could be found, on most summer days, at his business address which he listed in Who's Who in America as The Dockside Press, 1 Shipyard Row, Charlevoix, but to others it was an unnumbered lot on Belvedere Ave. Here he would spend his time writing or, more often, chatting with visitors who dropped by, perhaps to purchase a book from among the many he stocked or who came out of curiosity. They may have left without making a purchase but never without hearing Dr. Ratigan's stories of Charlevoix, the early settlers and always tales of the Great Lakes when travel was by sail and steam as well as more modern sources of power. He'd gathered the history and loved sharing it with anyone who showed the slightest interest, a born storyteller.

In the 1950's Dr. Ratigan returned to school and in 1963 was awarded a Ph.D. degree from Michigan State University. In 1963 he assumed the position of counselor at the Charlevoix High School, becoming the school's first counselor. He held this position until he retired in 1975. He then taught a Michigan State University Extension course at Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City, at the University of Florida, University of Miami, and the University of Wisconsin.

Mrs. Ratigan preceded him in death July 15, 1981.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Arthur A. (Patricia) Ranger of Charlevoix and Mrs. Nicholas (Anne) Ferrarese of Delray Beach, Fla.; a son, Shannon L. Ratigan of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; eight grandchildren and three brothers, Francis O., Bernard J. Jr., and Patrick, all of Detroit.

The family suggests memorials to the William O. Ratigan Memorial Fund at the Charlevoix Public Library.

William O. Ratigan was photographed this summer in his familiar spot at the Dockside Press.

Plan program on Alaska

"North to Alaska" Columbia, taking the will be the theme of the program presented on Thursday, October 25, forty-ninth state, at the Family Night Program of the United Methodist Church in the Peninsula. The Family Night, designed to encourage fellowship and friendship among persons of all ages in the community, begins at 6:30 p.m. with a potluck supper followed by the program at 7:30 p.m. concluding at 8:15 p.m. The Family Night is coordinated by the Family Night, Phyllis Summers, announced that Ralph and Nanni Shepard will be sharing experiences and pictures of their trip to Alaska this summer. The Shepards, traveling by motor home, drove from East Jordan, across the Great Plains, up through British Columbia, taking the Inland Passage north to Alaska. While in the north, the Shepards drove as far north as Fairbanks and visited the Kenai Peninsula. They returned to the lower 48 states by way of the Alaskan Highway.

Charlevoix Yesterday

This early picture of Charlevoix business places and people was furnished by Edwin J. Madill, a Charlevoix native who now lives in Phoenix. He describes it as follows: "This is the only photograph known to exist of the family of S. Orlovski, my grandfather. From left to right

"Louis S. Orlovski, Mrs. S. Orlovski, Josephine Orlovski (Madill), Mary Ann (Mayme) Orlovski. Standing to the left of the delivery wagon is Jess Smith. In the wagon is Mrs. Jess Smith, and the names of the horses were Jack and Jenny. The photograph was taken in the late '80's or early '90's."

Knight on the Town

Just another committee?

Just what are the rascals up to now?

That's a valid question any time government procreates itself by begetting a new bureaucratic layer.

Forming a new committee is often seen as the knee-jerk reaction by a sitting body to any type of problem it cannot handle or does not wish to.

Thus one cannot blame skeptics for casting a wary eye at the county's response to concerns about the future of Lake Charlevoix. A new advisory committee, in their mind, translates only as more tax dollars spent to hold more meetings, create more regulations, more restrictions, more red tape...in short, more government.

To compound the felony, as was pointed out to the Planning Commission last week, this awkward new infant doesn't even have a clearly stated mission yet.

To repeat, just what are the rascals up to?

The analogy may be a little melodramatic but let's go back to the Founding Fathers when, as representatives of thirteen restless, unruly colonies, they sat down together for the first time to discuss a declaration of independence.

At that time, they had no idea of what their rebellion to the Crown would create. They did not develop a 200-year plan with the stated goal of adding 37 more states and becoming the most formidable economic and military power in the world.

What they did establish was a process by which that eventualty occurred.

Sometimes, in the course of human events, we must embark upon uncharted waters with little more than the knowledge that whatever the final result of our actions, it will be better than if we had not acted.

This is not to say that a question of purpose for the Lake Charlevoix advisory committee is not appropriate. It's just not timely.

So far we have very few "givens" in this matter of planning for the future of the lake. One is that a lot more people are going to be wanting to use the lake (that is, live on it, sail on it, fish in it, swim in it, waterski on it, make money off it) than are now.

Another "given" is that some of the above uses are not compatible with others. Accepting those two premises alone, we can assume, then, that conflict between incompatible uses of the lake is going to become more and more prevalent in the future.

Unless we choose to deal with future conflicts as clumsily and expensively as we have some recent ones, a better method of management is necessary.

That is a good enough objective with which to start.

Who knows what the end product will be? Nowhere in the State of Michigan is there a body of water the size of Lake Charlevoix, with all governing and regulating bodies have agreed upon a management plan.

We have no model to work with. In fact, the odds of all ten local units of government - plus the state and federal agencies and the special interest groups involved - reconciling their differences and agreeing on some sort of master plan weigh heavily against such a thing ever happening.

But since when do odds make any difference when we're talking about something as precious as that wonderful lake of ours?

Reply to Hummer

David Lawrence,
Executive Editor,
Detroit Free Press,
321 W. Lafayette Blvd.
Detroit, Mich. 48221

Dear Mr. Lawrence:

You invited your readers to comment on a column by Steve Hummer in the Detroit Free Press.

Following the Detroit Tigers' World Series victory, and to send copies of their letter to you and Hummer's boss.

I don't believe in raving on a fellow wordsmith, so this letter won't leave the state.

Hummer did a first-rate job of ripping Detroit apart for the violence following the last game of the series Oct. 14.

"No mention should be made of Detroit in future considerations of this World Series," Hummer wrote. "Strike its name from every book and boyscore. It has lost its connection to anything decent or human."

Hummer apparently was at the stadium and relates in graphic detail what it was like when the mob took over. It makes good reading if you don't like Detroit. But Hummer totally lacks historical perspective of sports violence in the Motor City.

If Hummer had grown up in Detroit he would have known that Detroiters don't take sports victories - or losses - lightly. When I was a kid on the northwest side, Joe Louis was at his prime and when he fought, every ear in the city was glued to a radio. Whether he won or lost, there was always a celebration in the streets and the tipping over of a few Free Press trucks was not unusual.

What struck me about the violence following the World Series was that it did not appear to be racially motivated. If this is true, it could be a sign that Detroiters are ready to stop fighting each other and start fighting their problems together.

What upset me most of all was Hummer's assertion that Detroit is living in the Middle Ages. If he had made the same charge in the 1930's I would have had to agree. But certainly not today. Fifty years ago, Detroit's schools and neighborhoods were strictly segregated by unwritten laws. White kids went to one school; blacks to another. No blacks lived west of Tireman. Beyond that, the Northwest Civic Association took over. Blacks were always ushered into the upper balconies of downtown theaters. The lunch-counter sit-in at most downtown stores were off-limits to blacks, and the same was true at most of Detroit's finer restaurants. Blacks "knew their place," which is a very ugly expression.

To be sure, a bucolic calm reigned on the city in those days; but it was an unhealthy calm, because it was imposed by one race upon another. The ferment and the turmoil of the 40's, 50's and 60's turned Detroit inside-out and upside-down; but the atmosphere in the city today is far healthier today than it was a half-century ago.

Frankly, Mr. Lawrence I do not believe all of the Free Press' editorial breast-beating on Sunday will do much good. Detroiters are what they are, a motley assemblage of vital forces: labor, management, white, black, rich, poor. The fact that you all get along as well as you do is rather amazing.

Detroit, of course, is not for the timid or the faint of heart; you have to be street-smart to survive. But there is an undercurrent of excitement, of things happening, in Detroit that is missing in many large cities which have not had to cope with Detroit's host of problems.

I am sure many older Detroiters yearn to return to the city they remember when they were young. Pleasant evenings at the Shubert and Cass-theaters, shopping at Hudson's downtown store, frosty glasses of Vemora ginger ale in the plant where it was made, the little Crosstown streetcars with their wicker seats.

One of the few things remaining is the average Detroiters' enthusiasm for sports, violence and all, which may hold the key to a real renaissance for your city.

Very truly yours,
Bob Clock

Proposal C is bad news for roads

To the Editor:

If Proposition C on the November ballot, commonly known as "Voter's Choice", passes, the CHARLEVOIX COUNTY ROAD COMMISSION intends to continue services interrupted through December 31, 1985, but then roads could be faced with "disaster".

Proposition C calls for a rollback of state-collected vehicle fuel and registration fees to their December 31, 1981 level.

Combined with the fact that fuel consumption has declined since then, the effect will be to cut the CHARLEVOIX COUNTY ROAD COMMISSION'S revenue from that source at least 30 percent annually.

After December 31, 1985, we would be forced to eliminate road improvements and to cut maintenance and traffic-safety services drastically. This would include reducing authorized positions 30 percent, cutting salaries and wages of remaining staff.

The full impact of Proposition C would be greater than that of merely the state-collected vehicle fuel and registration revenue roll-back, because without that revenue we will not be able to provide the matching funds required for federal aid and local government contributions upon which most of our road improvements projects depend.

For Charlevoix County roads, the cutback would be to less state-collected revenue annually than was received in 1979, and would be less than two-thirds of the revenue needed to provide the 1979 level of services.

One reason many of our roads are in unsatisfactory condition is that revenues from the state-collected vehicle fuel and registration taxes have not kept pace with the price increases for materials and equipment we use for road repairs.

It is important for the public to realize that Proposition C would seriously cut road funding and the magnitude of the impact.

Our number one priority has been and will continue to be the safety of the traveling public to the fullest extent possible. Our second priority has been and will continue to be the preservation of the existing road system.

Lessor priorities, such as improving the road through widening, straightening, paving, bridge replacements and other upgrades, will be the first to suffer.

The effects of the other Fiscal 1985 cutbacks would not be apparent until much later, as equipment not replaced begins breaking down and repairs to bridges and guardrails that are already over-due have to wait even longer.

The staff cutbacks and resulting service cuts projected for Fiscal 1985 would become immediately apparent. Following are some of the projected cuts:

"Suppliers of labor, equipment and materials for county road improvement projects will lose 100 percent of the County Commission's business."

"Patching of potholes on paved roads will continue at the same level of possible, but response times may be slower."

"Resurfacing of roads by our maintenance forces will be cut to half."

"Road base repairs will be cut 100 percent."

"Gravel road grading will be cut 15 percent."

"Roadside mowing along county roads will be cut 100 percent."

"Curb sweeping on subdivision streets will be cut 100 percent."

"Curb sweeping on other county roads will be cut 50 percent."

"Bridge maintenance will be cut 100 percent."

"Shoulder repairs and reconditioning will be cut 100 percent."

Guardrail upgrading will be eliminated and repairs will be cut 50 percent.

"Edgemarking of pavements will be cut 50 percent."

Please consider a no vote on Proposal C for the benefit of Michigan roads.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Allan J. Burke

Daniel - Burke

Jacelyn Joan Daniel became the bride of Allan J. Burke on Saturday afternoon, September 22, at St. Francis Xavier Church in Petoskey.

Father Medard Buvala officiated at the double-ring rites witnessed by approximately 200 guests.

For the occasion, the altar was decorated with arrangements of carnations, chrysanthemums, and roses.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Daniel of Petoskey, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Burke of Charlevoix.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional wedding gown of chiffon fashioned with a sweetheart neckline trimmed with lace, a ruffled bodice, sheer, full three-quarter length sleeves, and chapel-length train ruffled at the hemline.

Julie George, sister of the bride, assisted as matron of honor. Tammy, Daniel, a cousin of the bride, carried the bride's train.

Series to tell teens it's okay to say 'No'

Young teenagers in Northern Michigan will soon be getting a message that will come as a relief to many of them, thanks to a special grant from the Michigan Department of Social Services (DSS). The message: It's their absolute right to say "No" to teenage sex, no matter what they are told by their peers and the mass media.

Teens will get the message through an educational program entitled "How To Say No," to be offered to schools, churches and youth groups during the next 12 months.

Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood has been selected by DSS to present the program, which will be offered free of charge throughout Northern Michigan.

at an early age. Students participating in the program will use role-playing to practice being assertive in common pressure situations.

Scott Blanchard of Petoskey has been named Project Coordinator for the "How To Say No" Project. Blanchard moved to Petoskey in May 1984 from Copalis, Washington, where he served as a Children's Court Officer and law clerk in the tribal court located on the Quinalt Indian Reservation. He earned a law degree from the University of Oregon, and holds a bachelor's degree in Journalism and mass communication from Project.

According to Linda Lumley, Executive Director of Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood, there is good reason to believe the program's message will be well received by young people. Despite the fact that about half of all teens are sexually active by age 16, recent studies show that many teens get involved with sex before they really want to. Teens say they felt they "had to," and give such reasons as "to be popular" or "to keep a boyfriend," Lumley said.

"What they're saying is they don't feel they have the right to say No, and they don't know how help Blanchard present to," she said.

There is more to this four-part program.

program than simply teaching young people how to say "No" to teenage sex," added Blanchard. "The same skills can be used, for example, where teens are pressured to experiment with alcohol or drugs."

Lumley pointed out that teenage pregnancy is just as serious a problem in Northern Michigan as it is nationally. For example, in 1983 there were 122 pregnancies among teenage girls in Emmet and Charlevoix counties alone. That figure translates to one out of every 16 teenage girls in this area.

It's five straight conference titles for the Rayder cross country team

Charlevoix's Rayder cross country team has won five straight conference titles, a record that is shared by only one other team in the state. The team, coached by Coach Erik Lundgren, won the title for the fifth time in a row on Saturday at the annual conference meet in Gaylord.

The team's success is a testament to the hard work and dedication of the athletes and their coaches. The team has a record of 10-1 in conference play and 12-2 overall. The team's success is a testament to the hard work and dedication of the athletes and their coaches.

At the Rayder

That impresses me is that the kids are peaking at the right time. Most of them set personal records in the conference. They've been bettering their times over the past two weeks. It went on to say that for a bunch of young kids they are doing real well. In the individual meet, the JV division of the Rayders won the title. He added that the team was now prepared to run well at the Gaylord invitational meet on Tuesday and hopefully qualify for state at the Class C Regional meet at Gaylord Saturday. In the conference meet Saturday, Charlevoix with 27 points was followed by Petoskey with 51 points. Gaylord with 72; Rogers City with 83 and Boyne City with 132. In the girls' meet, Petoskey with 25 points came in first followed by Charlevoix with 44 points; Gaylord with 72 and Rogers City with 99. Boyne City did not field a complete team. In the Varsity meet, Anne VanDamm of Petoskey set the pace in a time of 18:43 breaking her own record of 19:24 set earlier this year. Charlevoix's Betsy Haggar, a freshman, finished in fourth place in a time of 20:16. Marlo Hough with a time of 20:51 in 7th place and Heidi Otinger in 8th place in a time of 21:00 placed among the top ten in the meet. Michelle North came in in 11th place in 21:49; Noni Pace, 17th in 23:06; and Lauren Pace 27th in 24:16. Doue Bergmann

Joe Simpson, Pat Rajewski and Carl Haseleer, running in a tight pack, finish fourth, fifth and sixth at the conference meet Saturday. Mike Dohm was just ahead of the three to finish third.

Tom Merta in a time of 17:32; Harold Dave Ekkes finished in 11th place in 18:41; Dan Staublin, 14th in team-mate Sean Henne, coming in second in 18:39. Ed Knight third Charlevoix's Junior Varsity football team defeated Onaway 34-24 in a game played on Saturday at Onaway. The game was a hard-fought battle, with Charlevoix taking the lead in the first quarter. The game was a hard-fought battle, with Charlevoix taking the lead in the first quarter.

Both teams added touchdowns in the final period. Thompson scored on a 40 yard run, Onaway on a 12 yard run. Gibbs, on a 35 yard romp and Onaway one for eight yards giving the Rayders the 34-24 win.

Kent Seymour had 19 tackles, Jason Fetting 14 and Thompson 13. The front offensive line blocked well. Coach Brian Cetta said, Thompson had 181 yards rushing for the 34-24 win.

Rayders put on good show for alums

Any thoughts that the Rayders were just a team of underdogs were quickly dispelled as they put on a good show for their alumni on Saturday at the annual alumni game. The game was a hard-fought battle, with Charlevoix taking the lead in the first quarter.

Mike Loussell heads for the endzone with his second quarter TD reception Friday.

A pair of touchdowns by senior tailback Matt Lignell and another six points added by a Brian Cetta to Mike Loussell's 12-0 rushing led the Rayders to a 24-0 lead at the end of the first half. The game was a hard-fought battle, with Charlevoix taking the lead in the first quarter.

Onaway finally got into the game in the third quarter, but Charlevoix's defense was too strong. The game was a hard-fought battle, with Charlevoix taking the lead in the first quarter.

Michelle Gagnon led the scoring with 16 points; Pischner 11 points and Wagner and Meg Fowler 10 points each. The Rayder JVs added still another victory, this time a 56-25 win, with Barbie Boss scoring 14 points. Stephanie Martin was the top defensive player.

The Charlevoix JV's continued their victory string with a 41-6 win. On Thursday it was Charlevoix all the way as the team went into the second half of its schedule. Charlevoix led all the way 19-12; 28-16 and 47-16 by quarters rolling up 24 field goals.

The seventh graders did not fare as well, trailing 10-5 at halftime, and dropping the game 21-11. Charlevoix had five field goals and the visitors 11 and connected on only one of eight free throw attempts. Melissa Boss, with three points led the scoring for Charlevoix. Cheboygan had one of two from the charity line and 11 personal fouls. Wendy Brown with 10 points was their top scorer.

Freshmen edge Petoskey for their third win of the season

A defensive battle between Charlevoix and Petoskey ended in a 14-14 tie on Saturday. The game was a hard-fought battle, with Charlevoix taking the lead in the first quarter.

With a 54 yard run by Gary Wilson and missed on the conversion to end the period. The game was a hard-fought battle, with Charlevoix taking the lead in the first quarter.

challenge, but the kids hung in there all the way. Lundgren said of his team, "I was happy with the kids. They played their hearts out," he said in conclusion.

For Saints and Sinners

by Fr. Gary D. Hensler
Rector, Christ Episcopal Church

I wonder how the first maps of anywhere were drawn - who did it? How was it done? How did they know what it looked like from the air? How did they fill in all of the details? The art of cartography, the making of maps and charts, has interesting sidelights of the earliest attempts of mapping the "unknown lands." The cartographer would draw information from the explorers, and generally guess at what lay beyond the familiar. On one ancient map of the "new world," with the coast of Europe, the British Isles, and the Atlantic Ocean, was drawn a land as yet unidentified, and upon which the cartographer had written in Old English Script, "Hyerebey Beastes."

That which is unknown to us is often seen to be "beasties," and sadly sometimes it's true! Look to Jesus. We of the Christian community are commanded to know Jesus - one cannot be a Christian without confessing faith in Jesus. And yet, there are many who have been "Christians" all of their lives, who do not know the real Jesus. Even the name of Jesus causes hair on the necks of many to stand. How can this be possible? Because the real Jesus is unknown to them?

The tragedy is that anyone who mentions the Name of Jesus appears to be an expert, and because we may not know the real Jesus, we simply accept what is said about Jesus, and in his name, as gospel. It's time that those of us who know the real Jesus stand up and proclaim the Jesus of Scripture, and identify the other Jesus as "beastie!" Is there more than one Jesus? YES! Paul fears for the Christians in Corinth who may be faced with another Jesus, another spirit, and another gospel (2 Corinthians 11:4). We must understand the language used by those who would deceive, some of them very nice people, fine neighbors, model citizens, and friends. Often the Jesus they proclaim is not the Jesus of Scripture - God the Son, Second Person of the Holy Trinity, whose death and resurrection brought about reconciliation and salvation, and who will reign forever. This is the real Jesus. Anyone who is offered as Jesus who does not meet this criteria of the Christian faith is "beastie!" Jesus is both God and man - neither alone is enough. We who know the real Jesus must be able to stand firm, being fully able to identify. Here be Beastie, and here be Jesus; follow him into life!

of the Arts Council Business Fund Drive, accepted the check from John Lachman representing Hoskins.

RSVP program matches senior citizens with volunteer jobs

The new definition of RSVP is "Retired Senior Volunteer Program." It's part of ACTION, the Federal agency for volunteer services. Persons 60 years of age or older can volunteer under RSVP to do the kind of work they like to do right in their own communities. They may help older people by transporting or visiting them; they may do telephoning, typing, filing, or preparing mailings for service organizations; they may work with children; work at the library; or fill in for a church member or volunteer.

Volunteers are given an opportunity to contribute their time, experience, knowledge, interest, and love to others, thereby enriching their lives and filling them with dignity, purpose, and activity. They work as much or as little as they want; they are covered by insurance while serving in a volunteer assignment, and if the assignment is four hours and over a meal hour, they are reimbursed for the meal. RSVP provides transportation to the volunteers' assignments or reimburses the volunteers for public transportation or for the use of their own cars.

RSVP is a social service program for older people, enabling them to become or remain active in the community through volunteering their talents and experiences gained over a lifetime. RSVP volunteers may now sign up with the local branch located in Petoskey. For further information, write RSVP, 316 1/2 East Mitchell Street, Petoskey, phone 347-5070, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday.

WHY VOTE FOR SEBERON "BOO" LITZENBURGER FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE?

There Are Three Important Answers To This Question:

- 1. Boo is one of the finest legal minds in the north. Among the hundreds of local and appellate and Supreme Court cases he has written, only 21, 170 plus to be exact, were written by Boo. Boo has been developed in Michigan's 147 year history as a state. This is as notable as winning a Pulitzer Prize in other professions.
- 2. Boo cares about people, and the land and water around us. If we want to elect a caring person, and we do, Boo more than qualifies. For fifteen years he has devoted thousands of hours of his life to helping the largest hospital complex in the north has one of the biggest employers in fact, the biggest business in the north.
- 3. Boo is native to this country. Fifty years ago he had a dog tag. Boo brought every one into the world for miles around Charlevoix. Ask anyone who knew him, he was the kind of guy who wouldn't start off on a family vacation unless all his patients were on the road. He was there when you needed him, a real neighbor, a member of everyone's family.

For these three reasons we are going to vote for Boo Litzenburger for Circuit Judge November 6th, and hope you will, too.

IN YOUR HEART YOU KNOW HE'S RIGHT.

Names In The News

BEVERLY H. LARSON has been named Director of the Curriculum Materials Center at Bloomsburg University. Ms. Larson was previously employed at the Keystone Area Education Agency of Elkader, Iowa.

A native of Charlevoix, she earned her bachelor of science degree at Central Michigan University and her master of education degree at Northern Illinois University.

Her mother, Mrs. Helen Looze, resides in Charlevoix.

MIKE R. MARTIN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Martin of Charlevoix, has recently been re-elected to the 12-member student senate at Lake Superior State College.

Martin, a sophomore majoring in mechanical engineering technology, is a 1983 graduate of Charlevoix High School where he was a member of the track team, ski team, marching band and national honor society. At LSSC, he is a member of the pep band and ski club. This is Martin's second year on the senate.

DR. EDWARD NEWCOMBE of Charlevoix has been named a diplomate of the American Board of Family Practice (ABFP) as a result of passing a certification examination offered by the ABFP. He is now certified in the medical specialty of family practice.

The written examination is designed to prove the candidate's ability in the areas of internal medicine, surgery, obstetrics and gynecology, pediatrics, psychiatry and community medicine.

Eastern Star installs officers

Charlevoix Chapter Grubbaugh, Charlevoix No. 72, Order of the Eastern Star, will conduct an open installation of officers at the Masonic Temple at 8 p.m. Saturday, October 27.

At that time, Diane Rosendahl will be installed as worthy matron to succeed Ann Hufford who has filled the office for the past year.

At the same time, Otto Yemmans will be installed as worthy patron; Nancy Geer as associate matron; Raymond W. Wood, associate patron; Janada Rehkopf, secretary; Carla Spencer, treasurer; Rexine Dutcher, conductress; and Lisa Winchester, associate conductress.

The installing staff will be Opal Hastings of Ellsworth a member of F.J. Lewis-Mark Chapter No. 213, installing officer, Mrs.

Sheriff is only county-wide race

by PEG OHLE

Only one County-wide office is being contested in next month's General Election.

The job of Sheriff is being sought by Republican incumbent George T. Lasater and Democrat Paul LeFreniere, a resident of Charlevoix.

Sheriff Lasater is completing his second four-year term in office. He also served six years as a deputy sheriff and six years as a probation officer. The sheriff has a degree in education and has completed a master's degree program in psychology and law enforcement. He lives in Boyne City with his wife, Margaret, and three children.

LeFreniere was born in Charlevoix and grew up on Beaver Island, where he lived until 10 years ago. He is 36 years old, single, and a Great Lakes seaman by trade. He says he is running for Sheriff because "I have as much background for the job as Lasater had when he was elected. Also, I can do a better job than he has."

The uncontested County offices are those of Prosecuting Attorney, in which incumbent Kraag C. Lieberman is the only candidate; County Clerk, for which incumbent Jaee E. Brannon is the only candidate; County Treasurer, for which incumbent Anah H. Potter is the only candidate; Register of Deeds, for which incumbent Charlene M. Gaskin is the only candidate; Drain Commissioner, for which incumbent Clayton Healey is the only candidate; and County Surveyor, for which incumbent Mary E. Feindt is the only candidate.

All of the above are Republicans.

Series on adoption set

The Infertility Support Group of Northern Michigan has organized a three-part series on adoption.

Staff from three Northern Michigan agencies that handle adoptions will present an overview of their services, policies, and procedures, and be available to answer questions.

The Infertility Support Group is encouraging individuals considering adoption to attend all three programs. According to Pat Graybill, volunteer coordinator of the group, "There are some important differences among agencies, and couples can make a more intelligent decision about whether to adopt and which agency to use if they know all the alternatives."

"We put this adoption series together to make it easier for couples to become familiar with all the local agencies. If you check them out on your own, it can take a long time because each agency holds orientation meetings only twice a year."

All programs will be held at Cross of Christ Lutheran Church, 1400 E. Mitchell, Petoskey. There is no admission charge, and all interested persons are invited to attend.

On Wednesday, November 7, 7:30 p.m., Ellen Campbell, Adoption Social Worker, will discuss the Community, Family and Children Services Agency of Gaylord.

Newsstand price to increase Effective with the issue of November 7, the single copy price of the Courier will be adjusted from 25 cents to 30 cents. We are making the adjustment because of increased costs in newsprint and general expenses connected with publishing the Courier.

Will print one day later next week

To be able to carry complete results of local balloting in the November 6 general election, the Courier will be printed one day later next week. That means it will be on newsstands by midday Wednesday instead of Tuesday and, for subscribers, will arrive by mail one day later than usual. News and advertising deadlines will not be affected.

City voters will face a full ballot Tuesday

Mayor: Hill vs. McRae

When Kenneth Staley announced his intention to run for state representative earlier this year, Charlevoix was assured of having a new mayor for the two-year term starting in January, 1985.

Two longtime city residents, Hal M. Hill and Ralph McRae, are running for the position and both have had extensive experience in local government.

Hill, 66, retired as manager of the D-M-E plant last December. A Tennessee native, he came to Charlevoix in 1949 to work in the city electric and water department. Following a brief stint with the Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative, he came back to Charlevoix as public works superintendent and held that position from 1955 to 1969 when he joined what was then the American Mold firm but which is now D-M-E.

Hill and his wife Wanda live at 210 Burns St. and have two grown children, Hal Jr. of Grand Rapids and Mrs. Tom (Julie) Wareck of Prudenville.

His long experience in the fields of business management and public works, says Hill, gives him a good background for the office of mayor.

"I also have the time to devote to city projects and problems," he said. Hill has indicated that he will attempt to involve the citizens of Charlevoix more closely with city government and will hold regular office hours at city hall.

Major issues facing the city in the upcoming term, according to Hill, include water, sewer and electrical rates and operations, taxes, the building of a new fire station, street improvements and storm sewers.

If elected, said Hill, he plans to run city council meetings strictly by Roberts Rules of Order with hopes of shortening meetings and making them more orderly.

In addition to presiding officer of the council, says Hill, the mayor has an important role as ambassador for the city; an expeditor. I also plan to have an open door policy to establish better communication with the people of Charlevoix.

Hal M. Hill

McRae, who listed his age as "over 39," is the former owner of the McRae Lumber Co., a general contracting and building supply firm located in Pellston, McRae's home town. The firm was sold in 1971.

McRae's wife of 30 years, Dorothy, who died last December, was a longtime teacher in the Charlevoix school system. McRae's involvement in city government includes a two-year term served on city council from 1974 to 1976.

While on council, McRae was instrumental in the development of a new city charter and also helped establish the city Housing Commission. Following his term on the council, McRae was appointed to the housing Commission and, as president, oversaw the construction of the Pine River Place senior citizen housing facility.

Separation of storm and sanitary sewers, said McRae, is one area that should be of immediate concern to the mayor and council in the coming year.

"Under present conditions, all too often the sanitary sewer becomes overloaded, backing sewage into basements and overflowing raw sewage into the channel," said

McRae. "Just as often, our sewage plant cannot contain the volume of both sewage and surface water. Some of it must be released into the lake before going through the full treatment process. The resultant contamination touches every person in Charlevoix."

Lowering city tax millages is another of McRae's top priorities.

"First and foremost, I am on the side of the property owners," he said. "Many of our citizens have been paying taxes for thirty, forty and fifty years. It is their money that built the city. I would keep that constantly in mind."

One area where McRae would like to minimize costs is in the operation of the new water treatment plant now being started under the federal Superfund program.

"We must see to it that the plant is as fully automated as possible, cutting down labor costs," said McRae.

"A mayor should be a leader, directing the energy and time of the council to the most important problems," he continued. "Together—we should set up a priority list and establish the program of action. I have great faith in our department heads and the city hall staff."

1st Ward: Wood vs. Porter

The council race in the First Ward pits two candidates with extensive experience in city government, incumbent Raymond Wood and challenger Jeffrey L. Porter.

Wood, 67, has served 11 years on the council. He has also served on the Board of Appeals and has experience with the County Building Department. A contractor, Wood and his wife Nancy live at 302 Michigan Ave. and have five grown children, Sharon, Vance, Linda, Debbie and Brad.

"I am running again for Council because of my pride in our city," said Wood. "It offers so much to the general public in the beauty of the lakes, the small community atmosphere and the great programs sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce throughout the year."

Porter, a dentist, lives at 109 Prospect St. with his wife Nancy. They have two daughters, Shelley, 13, and Wendy, 17. Porter served three two-year terms as First Ward representative on the Council before vacating his seat in 1983 in an unsuccessful bid for the County Board of Commissioners. Prior to his stint on the Council, Porter served three years on the city Charter Commission. He is presently chairman of the Downtown Development Authority, a former Eagle Scout and Scoutmaster and served as a Captain in the U.S. Army with one year of duty in Vietnam. Said Porter, "I am running for City Council because I feel that I have an understanding of the issues facing Charlevoix in the coming year and have had experience dealing with those problems."

2nd Ward: Bellows vs. Russell

The second is the city's one ward assured to have a new representative on the Council next term.

William L. Bellows, who once served for five months as an appointed member to fill a vacancy on Council, and William E. Russell, making his first bid for city office, are running for the seat now held by James Block. Block did not run for re-election.

Bellows, 51, has operated an electrical contracting firm, Bellows Electric, since 1972 when he retired after 20 years from the U.S. Air Force. He has lived in Charlevoix since 1967 when he was transferred by the Air Force to the Bayshore radar site.

He lives at 507 State St. with his wife Bonnie. He has three children, Dana Burleson, William Bellows II and Elizabeth McCoy; three stepchildren, Pamela Williamson, Kimberly Sutherland and Stanley Sutherland; and four grandchildren. In addition to his brief stint on Council, Bellows has served on the city Planning Commission for six and a half years. He is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, the Volunteer Fire Department, American Legion, D.A.V. and Moose Lodge and has served as a Boy Scout scoutmaster.

"I have always been active in local government and want to be more active in what is happening to make our town more progressive."

Russell, 44, owns the Airport Motel, on the city's south edge, where he lives with his wife Cecilia and their children Jeffrey, 17, Lorraine, 16 and Blake, 13. He is also occupied as a semi-truck driver. He is a member of the Veterans of Continued on page 4

3rd Ward: Roloff vs. Burlew

The Third Ward council race is a rematch of the 1982 contest between Shirley Roloff, 100 Hampton Ct., and Paul O. Burlew, 1207 Bridge St.

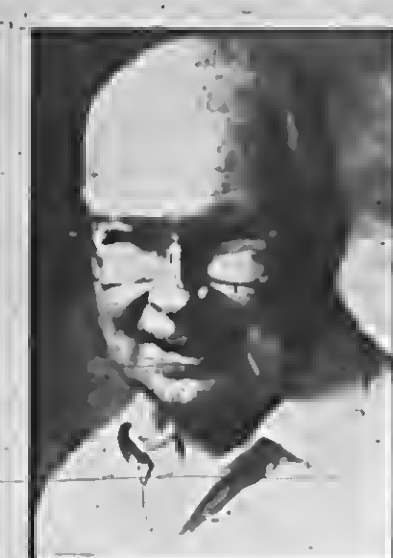

Roloff, the incumbent, has served three two-year terms on the Council while Burlew, who ran unsuccessfully against Roloff in 1982 and against F. Earl Muma in 1983, is seeking his first win in a Council race.

Roloff, 48, is a housewife, salesperson for Charlevoix Canvas Co. and a part-time bartender. She and her husband Bill have five children, Bill, Jr., 24, Bob, 23, Bryan, 21, Beth, 18 and Becky, 10. They also have three grandchildren.

In addition to her service on the Council, Roloff has been a Department of Social Services volunteer with the elderly for nine years, was a member of the Commission on Aging, Planning Committee for the development of the senior citizens health screening program, was a volunteer worker for the American Cancer Society and the Red Cross Blood Bank, spent seven years on the Parent Advisory Council at the Elementary School

"I enjoy serving my community," said Roloff. "Charlevoix is very important to me and I believe we must try to preserve our neighborhoods, our business area and our waterfront resources. With six years of experience, I have more knowledge of the day to day Continued on page 4

Eveline Township files suit against Garbage Service, DNR over landfill

by PEG OHLE

The longstanding conflict between Eveline Township and the Charlevoix Garbage Service Landfill, located within the Township has reached the courts.

On September 11, Eveline Township, through its attorney, Stephen T. Graham, filed suit in Charlevoix Circuit Court against Dawson Way, doing business as the Charlevoix Garbage Service Landfill, the Landfill, and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Count I of the complaint, directed at Way and his business, cites several alleged violations of the Solid Waste Management Act, namely:

Surface water runoff from site is not properly controlled; testing of groundwater samples does not conform to statute and/or rules; landfill design plans do not comply with the requirements of the statute and/or rules; no provision is made to control decomposition gases; no specifications exist for construction of final cover; daily cover is not properly carried out; proper drainage impoundments have not been provided; and proper trench liners are not installed.

As a result of these violations, the defendant's establishment, management, maintenance, and operation of the solid waste disposal area are contrary to law, the complaint states.

Eveline Township is asking the court "temporarily and during pending of case" to restrain, enjoin, and prohibit defendant from

Ghost Ship is back

The ghost ship has returned! That's right! The U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite has returned to port from its annual fall buoy work in time to hosts its annual Halloween party.

The ship is presently being readied for the party to which all the children in the Charlevoix School District, little ones and big ones alike, are invited. CDR. Robert Young, commanding officer, has announced. Crewmen will desert their usual roles to become ghosts, witches and creatures that go "thump" in the night as they escort the young visitors through dens, dungeons and other spooky places to the mess deck where there will be entertainment, games and all sorts of treats.

The hours will be from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Everyone is encouraged to come in costume.

Diabetes tests offered

Free Diabetes testing, for persons not already diagnosed as diabetic, will be held at Boyne Valley Medical Clinic, Wednesday, November 7, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., under the direction of the Charlevoix Area Hospital laboratory.

Charlevoix Area Hospital is bringing this free diabetes testing clinic to Boyne City in anticipation of National Diabetes Detection Week, which begins November 11.

The Michigan Chapter of Diabetes Association estimates that 240,000 persons in Michigan have diabetes and don't know it. Persons most likely to develop diabetes are over 40, overweight, and have a family history of diabetes. Anyone who fits this category should be checked once a year for diabetes.

Diabetes is a serious disease. It is the major cause of heart attack, kidney failure, blindness and death. People can have undetected diabetes without any symptoms. The symptoms, when present, may include frequent urination, abnormal thirst, unusual hunger, rapid weight loss, itching, fatigue, blurred vision, and slow healing of cuts and scratches.

Two hours before the test, one should eat a meal high in carbohydrates. The meal should be eaten quickly, within 15 minutes. People taking the test should not snack between the meal and test. A good breakfast would be fruit or juice, cereal with milk and sugar, two slices of buttered toast with jam, and coffee or tea. A good lunch would be soup, sandwich, cake or pie and a glass of milk.

Test results will be verified and analyzed by the American Diabetic Association in Flint, Michigan. Only people who see tests show a positive result, indicating the possibility of diabetes, will be notified and encouraged to see their personal physician. For people whose tests show no indications of diabetes, no news is good news.

Charlevoix Area Hospital encourages everyone to take advantage of this simple but important testing, at the Boyne Valley Medical Clinic 1624 State St., Wednesday, Nov. 7, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. No appointments are necessary.

Health Dept. issues report

What does the Environmental Health Division of District Health Department No. 3 do?

The Division's annual report indicates that it is involved in many aspects of everyday life of the people in its four-county area. Among the services it provided in 1983 were:

Inspections of 35 children's camps, 31 child care centers, 95 foster family homes, 17 family day care facilities, four group day care facilities, and 12 child care homes.

Licensing of 1,392 fixed food establishments, three retail food stores, 56 mobile home parks, 165 campgrounds, 21 vehicles, 31 septic tank cleaners, 14 rubbish and garbage vehicles, 14 liquid waste facilities, and 124 public swimming pools.

Issuing permits, following inspection, for 376 on-site sewage systems and 516 wells.

In the miscellaneous area, investigating five food-borne disease cases, 23 cases of air pollution, 13 rabies-related cases, 91 communicable disease cases, participating in 14 cases of disaster activity, handling 13 insect control cases and 16 rodent control cases, making reviews of 54 liquid waste sites, and working on 101 cases of water pollution.

The above were part of the 12,696 services undertaken by the eight sanitarians and environmental health officers of Charlevoix, Emmet, Antrim, and Osego Counties in 1983.

Shouldn't the wronged have rights?

Suppose your luck runs out — and you become the victim of a serious crime. What then?

Chances are you'll be called as a witness. But once you've testified, the court is likely to treat you and your concerns as irrelevant.

You won't be told what's happening in the case, or be allowed to protest delays in trial.

You won't be heard on the subject of sentencing. Or get any restitution for the losses and injuries you've suffered.

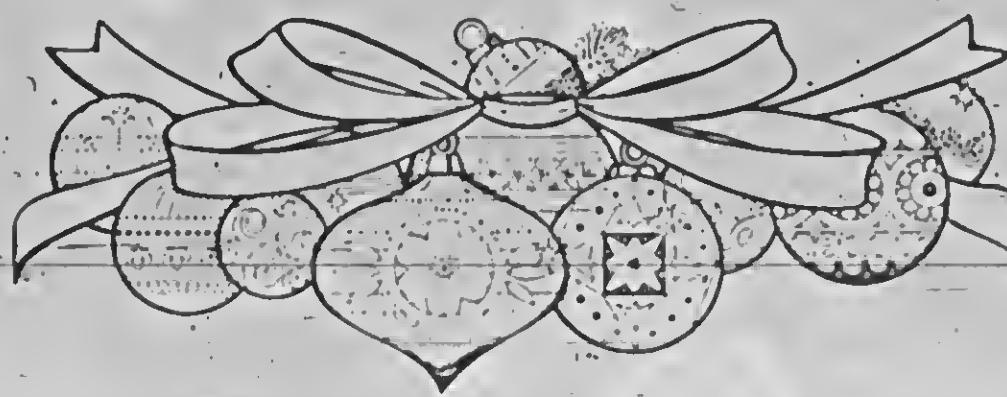

Treating victims this way doesn't seem to be a concern to some people. To them it's just business as usual.

But to Dick Pajtas, it's a crime in itself. How important should victims' rights be to you? Well, that depends.

Just how good is your luck?

PAJTAS for Circuit Court Judge.

It's time someone did us justice.

Knight on the Town

Don't write off the mayor

Someone who has been around town longer than I say that mayoral elections in Charlevoix used to be a lot more colorful when the office actually carried some clout.

The implication is that, since the charter created the position of city manager six years ago, mayors don't figure much anymore in how the city is run.

Looking back through microfilm, I found that some of the pre-charter mayoral races, one would have to agree that Charlevoix has seen some dandies. From those newspaper accounts and stories I'm told by old-timers, the power brokerage enjoyed by the mayor was a political fact of life in the city.

Now that the mayor can vote at council meetings only in the event of a tie and has little to do with the day to day operation of the city, one might be inclined to lose interest in who gets to be "his Honor."

I think that would be a mistake. Leadership, no matter how it is described legislatively, is a factor in which moves things when they are stuck, slows things that are proceeding recklessly, guides things to a wise and constructive conclusion.

Charlevoix has confronted some serious crises over the past few years and many more issues loom that bear directly on the city's future. Leadership will be one aspect of city government to be severely tested.

From the way meetings are handled to the image he shall lend the city in his public role, the mayor will definitely play an important part in how Charlevoix deals with the tag end of the 1980s. I hope city voters realize this.

First Word council race infrastructure is an area that needs prompt attention by Council.

"The city must face up to the needs of our local tax paying citizens," said Wood. "Our streets, sidewalks, and sewers, they need scheduled improvements and maintenance."

Porter also urges completion "as quickly as possible" of the water intake plant, selected earlier this year by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency as the most viable means of providing TCE-free water to the city.

Both candidates see a need for coordinating the city's efforts with those of other agencies and groups working toward a healthy local economy.

Said Wood, "The Council must work closely with the local development Authority and the Planning Commission for the aesthetics and the parking downtown and really strive for development of the Industrial Park to provide jobs for our local citizens."

Said Porter, "I believe City Council should act as an active partner with the private sector and State-Federal government to provide opportunity in the work place for youth growing up in Charlevoix."

Both also expressed concern in the area of growth.

"Planning toward the future," said Porter, "I feel the City Council should attempt to control future growth. Protecting the delicate beauty of our town is most important for its economic health."

Wood said that he is "concerned about the growth that is inevitable."

"Nothing remains the same over the years," he said, "but with good planning and cooperation with the townships and cities, we can make it still more attractive to ourselves and the visiting public. I believe the city and towns are going to require sound planning and I would like to be a part of the decision making."

Clockwise

On the home stretch

In another week, the 1984 presidential election will be over. It certainly has developed into a more interesting race than was promised last summer.

With only days to go, the polls still show Ronald Reagan far ahead. But Walter Mondale doesn't put much stock in polls and is prepared to battle down to the wire.

I still believe the race will be close and your vote will count mightily. So don't miss this chance to cast your ballot. The future of the nation — and perhaps the world — could rest with one vote. Yours.

Washington, witness the huge chunk of money the federal and state EPAs are contributing to Charlevoix's water treatment plant. Davis says he also has been instrumental in securing funds for reinforcing the northeast bank of Pine River Channel.

Stewart, on the other hand, appears to be one of the brightest, best informed candidates to come along in years. He is more idealistic and less pragmatic than Davis, but both types are needed in Congress.

The same problem exists in the 3rd Judicial Circuit. Both Richard Pajtas and Seberon Lutzenberger are strong candidates, well qualified for the position. No matter which way you vote, the people of Charlevoix and Emmet counties will be the winners.

SPEAKING OF Seberon Lutzenberger, where in the world did he get his nickname "Boo?"

Lutzenberger says his friends in kindergarten started calling him "Boo" for no apparent reason. He says he didn't like the name and fought it tooth and nail. But "Boo" stuck.

Which is OK with him, because he doesn't care much for Seberon either.

Second Word council race

Foreign Wars, the American Legion, Naval Enlisted Reserve Association, Fleet Reserve Association and the Charlevoix Lions Club.

His candidacy for the Second Ward council seat marks Russell's first try for elected office.

"As a council member," said Russell, "I think that I can help not only the people in the Second Ward but also the rest of Charlevoix. I do not believe the present administration has been working for the best interest of the people of Charlevoix but rather for mostly out-of-town persons."

Bellevue sees improvement of year-round business and more making more employment available to local residents as important considerations for the upcoming council term. He also favors expansion of the sewer system "to provide more revenue and service."

Russell also considers improvement of the city's business climate as a top priority and emphasizes the need to bring more small businesses into the city as well as keeping the ones already here.

Russell is interested in continuing public works improvements in the city but objects to recent methods by which improvements have been funded.

"We need much more sidewalk and street repair but the present system of home owners paying 50 percent and the city 40 percent is not very fair," said Russell. He also sees a need for administrative improvements at City Hall including reviews of "charters and codes" and a closer working relationship between the Council and the city manager.

According to Bellevue, steps to a stable local economy would include "providing economical, controlled advancement of Charlevoix in keeping with a policy of helping 'Charlevoix the Beautiful,' a progressive town in Michigan."

Both Bellevue and Russell also cite a need for more cooperation with surrounding townships.

In his thoughts on economic development, Russell objected to tax relief incentives saying the city should "discontinue tax breaks for big business such as restaurants, hotels and motels." He also wants the Council to work more closely with the Chamber of Commerce in promoting the city.

"Charlevoix could generate winter tourists if promoted," he said, "which would help the economy."

Continued Russell, "We also have to keep the local taxes down (city and county). They are getting out of control. Charlevoix wastes too much money on land parcel and developments which only benefit other people instead of the local townspeople."

On the subject of taxes, Bellevue said, "The city needs to maintain taxes at no increase or lower and maintain better services by increased efficiency."

Second, establish a program to retain business within the city and stop the exodus to the township. How can we attract new ventures if we can't retain those we already have? Third, stop concentrating on tourism as the panacea for the city's ills.

Rebuttal, tourism has been on the decline since the early 1960s. To support Charlevoix, not Petoskey, Boyne City or Traverse City."

For Roloff, riding the city's water system off of the suspected carcinogen TCE heads the list of her immediate priorities for the next two years.

"The building of the water treatment plant and getting it on line would be No. 1 for me," she said. Roloff also emphasized the importance of planning the Industrial Park and "working on our water and sewer lines."

Both candidates were asked their opinion of the Council's role in providing a stable, healthy local economy.

Replied Barlow, "First, they must question. Second, investigate the request problem and become informed. Third, analyze and study. Fourth, make a logical and practical determination which will represent the best interests of the majority of the electorate."

Said Roloff, "The Council is encouraged to use all incentive measures at its disposal to encourage environmentally sound development. We should encourage year-round economic development because these types of activities will produce a more stable tax base to meet essentially the same public costs that are caused by seasonal economic activity."

Count II of the Township's complaint is directed at the DNR. It states that the DNR knows (or should know) that the defendant is operating a solid waste disposal area in violation of the Solid Waste Management Act and asks the Court to restrain and enjoin the defendant from operating the Charlevoix Garbage facility until the facility's "design and operation comply with the statutes, rules and regulations pertaining thereto."

The DNR's answer to the complaint was filed on October 23 by Kevin T. Smith, State Assistant Attorney General. The answer denies that the Landfill is operating in violation of the Solid Waste Management Act and notes that the plaintiff does not state specifically how the statute is being violated. The answer also says that the Court lacks jurisdiction for injunctive relief (prohibiting operation of the Landfill) since the Court of Claims has jurisdiction over such action.

The DNR also asks that the Court deny any and all relief requested by Eveline Township, and that the Court dismiss the case or grant judgment in favor of the DNR.

In an effort to resolve the case, a meeting was held last Wednesday in Lansing with representatives of the Township, the Charlevoix Garbage Service Landfill, District Health Department No. 3, and the DNR. Because of the impending law suit, the principals in the case refused to comment on the meeting, except to indicate it had been unproductive.

Some grades improve in state testing

The results of the Michigan Educational Assessment Tests given at the Charlevoix Public Schools in late September reveal marked improvement in fourth and seventh grade reading and math while tenth grade results remained about the same as in 1983. Condit Drury, middle school counselor who supervised the administration of the tests, reports:

"You will note that there was definite improvement in the fourth- and seventh-grade results which I think reveals that the adjustments we made in these programs indicate favorable results." He went on to say that the material in the tenth grade tests refers to work that these students might not have had since leaving middle school. Thus, the material is not as fresh in their minds as it would have been had they studied it the year before.

The tests are given annually to fourth, seventh and tenth grade students. The tests serve as guidelines for teachers and administrators, allowing them to determine weakness and strengths in the curriculum. It also is a means of following the progress of students as they advance through the grades, he explained.

In the fourth grade with 91 students taking the tests, 89 percent of the students met the objectives of the math test compared to 81.5 in 1983 and 85.7 percent the reading objectives to 81.5 last year.

High-school blood drive

The Charlevoix High School Student Council will sponsor a blood drive at the high school Thursday, Nov. 8, Maureen Buday, Council president, has announced.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be set up in the high school library from 8:30 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. for the benefit of donors who may walk in at any time. Anyone wishing to make an appointment may call the high school.

The quota for the drive is 40 pints.

This is the first time the Student Council has sponsored a blood drive this early in the school.

Because of the success of the spring drive last March, the Red Cross has asked that the group sponsor two drives annually because of the urgent need for blood, especially O-negative and O-positive types.

Ann Rose

CHIP adds counselor for teens

Adolescence, a stage of growth somewhere between childhood and adulthood, is commonly acknowledged as a time of transition, change and often turmoil.

CHIP Counseling Center in Charlevoix has added a counselor with special skills in dealing with adolescents to its staff. Ann Rose, Ms. Rose will be available to meet with young people and parents, as individuals or families and even in groups, by appointment.

A graduate of George Mason University in Fairfax, Virginia with a Masters in Mental Health Counseling, Ms. Rose has conducted research and served internships working with adolescents. She has worked in a number of adolescent treatment centers in Virginia and New York state and has counseled young people and their families on the full range of adolescent concerns, including communication, drugs and alcohol abuse, social adjustment, sexual concerns, school problems and family issues.

"Adolescence is a period when young people are breaking away from their homes. They are asking 'Who am I? I'm not a kid. I'm not an adult.' I am not all adolescents face similar issues or crisis between the ages of 12 and 19," Ms. Rose observes.

Parents often wonder what is expected normal adolescent behavior and what kind of behavior is a symptom of trouble. Mood swings, Ms. Rose says, are a normal part of adolescence, but when mood swings are radical, when behavior changes drastically, it may be a warning sign of deeper problems. "If a young person's mood stays down for a long time, if he or she can't sleep, those may be warning signs. It may be time to seek professional advice," she explains.

She also urges parents to be aware of symptoms of drug abuse. "And adolescence is a really crucial time for suicide attempts," Ms. Rose says. "Any teenager who says, 'I'm sick of living,' should be taken seriously. We must not brush off such threats."

Recognizing that teens often feel isolated and alone, Ms. Rose says CHIP will be forming a "rap group" for teens. Noting the effects of divorce on sensitive teens, Ms. Rose suggests that such groups could provide important support. "They often think they are all alone. When they learn other people are in similar situations and hear them say, 'I know what you're feeling' they realize they are not so weird themselves."

Ms. Rose will be working primarily through the Charlevoix office of CHIP Counseling Center, but will also see clients by appointment in CHIP's Petoskey office. For more information call Rose, says, "Any" 547-6551.

Grayling Vikings get nowhere against Rayders

It pretty well goes without saying that if your football team can hold the opponents to a grand total of 60 offensive yards, no matter what shape your offense is in, you will most likely win the game.

That axiom proved correct Friday night as the Charlevoix Rayders upped their season's record to 6-2 with a 19-0 victory over Grayling.

Pat Hamlin's 14 tackles led the defensive effort which did indeed hold Grayling to 60 total yards and never allowed the Vikings inside the Rayder 20. Thad Morgan and Chris Hlavens each had 12 while Brent Cole and Marc Himebauch had nine apiece. Cole's two interceptions, Morgan's quick drive that one and Britt, Center's blocked punt also helped the cause. After a scoreless first quarter, Charlevoix took over from Grayling on downs and started a drive on its own 25 with about nine minutes left in the half. With help from a stunning, one-handed catch by Jody Putman, a fourth down reception by Mike Louselle and steady running by Matt Lignell and Thad Morgan, the Rayders made it to the one-yard line in 11 plays, from which Cole burst through for a TD. Ulf Ewaldsson added the extra point.

In the waning minutes of the half, Cole returned a punt to the 44 yards, which, combined with a team rushing total of 217, gave the Rayders 290 yards in total offense. Friday night, the Rayders host an conference crown. At 3-1, Charlevoix could grab a share of the division title with a win over the Saints.

Pair of wins puts girls at 8-2

The Charlevoix girls basketball team pushed its record to eight wins and two losses in Michigan-Huron Shores league competition last week with a 49-33 win over Petoskey and a 50-36 victory over Gaylord.

Playing at Petoskey, Charlevoix overcame an 11-8 first period deficit to go ahead 24-16 at halftime and 36-22 going into the last period.

Charlevoix had 21 field goals and seven of 18 free throws for the game. They had nine personal fouls. Petoskey had 13 baskets and seven of 10 free throws while collecting nine personal fouls. Wagner had 12 points and Michelle Kris Austin plus a strong defense broke the game wide open giving Charlevoix 38-29 lead rebounds. Everyone on going into the final period when they outscored Gaylord 12-7 for the 14 point win. Charlevoix had 19 buckets to Gaylord's 16 and 12 of 20 free throws. Gaylord had four of nine from the line. Charlevoix had 13 personal to Gaylord's defensive player.

In the game with Gaylord, the Rayders had 13 points at the quarter and 25-24 at halftime. The Rayder JVs posted a 45-25 win with Martin scoring 13 points. Barbile Boss had four quick buckets by 10 points. The teams will be at playing by Pischner and Cheboygan on Tuesday.

Freshmen top Petoskey to end season at 4-2

The Charlevoix Rayder freshmen football team defeated the Petoskey freshman 30-16 Wednesday night to close out their season with a 4-2 record.

Coach Erik Lundtgen said he was very pleased with the improvement the team had made throughout the season. "They worked hard, exerted a lot of effort and came through with a fine record."

In Wednesday's game, the young Rayders jumped to a 16-0 halftime lead and increased it to 30-0 before the young Northmen were able to get on the board.

The first touchdown came as a result of a 27 yard pass from Dan Drury to Scott DeYoung running the conversion.

In the third period Drury passed to Roger Smith for 23 yards and a touchdown with Witthoft running the conversion. The Rayder JVs posted a 45-25 win with Martin scoring 13 points. Barbile Boss had four quick buckets by 10 points. The teams will be at playing by Pischner and Cheboygan on Tuesday.

Runners qualify for state

The Charlevoix Rayder Cross Country team finished second in Class C regional competition at Gaylord Saturday to qualify for state competition.

The girls team finished in fourth place but, for the first time, qualified a runner for state competition. She is Betsy Haggard, a freshman, who finished fifteenth to qualify.

Bennie Central teams swept the competition, winning both the boys and girls meet, the boys team with 29 points and the girls with 69.

Charlevoix boys finished in second place with 14 points. Shepherd came in third with 111 points. Both teams along with Bennie Central-qualified for state competition to be held Saturday.

The Charlevoix girls with 146 points finished in fourth place behind Carson City with 79 and St. Louis with 129. These teams with Bennie Central will go to state competition.

Coach Pete Spieles said "The teams ran good races. The boys did well and deserve to be where they are." He went on to say that before the season opened, the team had set two goals for itself: to win the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference meet and to qualify for state.

"We are now looking forward to preparing for state," he said. "I think we did well for the second year that we've been able to field a team. This is the first year we have ever qualified a girl for state. Certainly that shows progress." He added that Betsy ran well for a young runner. He added that Michelle North was just back after recovering from an injury and Molly Bolduc has been hurting with shin splints. The others ran well also, he said.

Coach Spieles did not try to get his runners into the state meet. However, he said they finished in the following order: Mike Dohm, 11th; Carl Daseleer, 14th; Pat Gibbons, 15th; Pat Rajewski, 16th; Joe Bergmann, 18th; Doug Bergmann, 32nd and Kevin McLenon, 33rd. Daseleer and Gibbons are seniors and the others are sophomores. In the girls team, Betsy Haggard finished eighth, the top 13 and Haggard, Olinger and Lauren Pace are sophomores.

In the JV division, Dave Warth finished in fifth place with a time of 18:22. Times of the others follow: Dan Olinger, 9th; Mario Staublin, 18:37; Nick Swanson, 19:19; Dave Eakes, 19:36. Total points: 28.

Ann Vandamm set a new course record of 19:02. Betsy Haggard finished in seventh place in 20:28; Heidi Olinger, 9th; Mario Staublin, 18:37; Nick Swanson, 19:19; Dave Eakes, 19:36. Total points: 28.

The Charlevoix girls finished in second place behind Petoskey whose team total: 44 points.

Marion McKay demonstrated the use of a heart monitoring catheter in the Area Hospital's Intensive Care Unit to Bern Whippo center. Reis (right), representing Security Beta Sigma Phi, last week were visiting the ICU to present a check for $1,000 and as part of their organization's fund raising efforts for the new monitoring equipment. Profits from the successful summer Home Tours and sale of the sorority's Charlevoix Cookbook enabled the organization to give the unit some $4,000 to date. Mrs. Whippo observed that additional donations will be made after the sale of the Charlevoix Cookbook through the Christmas season. Charlevoix Area Hospital began a fund drive last November to raise some $50,000 to underwrite the expense of adding the new catheter led monitoring equipment for critically ill patients and radio-telemetry monitoring for ambulatory heart patients in the medical-surgical wings of the hospital. Combined with other significant donations to the ICU, Charlevoix Area Hospital officers observe the costs of this important hi-tech equipment have been met.

Band Boosters to host soup supper

The Charlevoix School Band Boosters will be serving one of its popular soup suppers at the high school cafeteria on Friday, Nov. 2 prior to the Charlevoix-St. Ignace football game. Serving will begin at 5 p.m. and continue until 7 p.m.

The menu will feature home-cooked chicken soup laden with chunks of chicken and vegetables, jello salads, home-baked muffins, a choice of desserts, milk or coffee.

The tickets for the tasty meal, if purchased in advance, will be $2.50 per person or $10 per family. Tickets sold at the door will be $3.00 per person.

The Band Boosters have issued a invitation to everyone to come out and enjoy a delicious meal and help support the school band program.

THE CHARLEVOIX COUNTY REPUBLICANS opened their campaign headquarters last week at the former Fichtman Oil building in Charlevoix. On hand were, from left, volunteer Cherie Browe, County GOP Chairman Don Hufford and Headquarters Chairman Joan Burke. The headquarters will be open from 12 to 6 p.m. daily until the Nov. 6 election.

KCB to host Wiesner

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful will continue its series of introductory sessions with local officials Saturday when it will have new city manager Michael Wiesner as a special guest at its regular meeting. The meeting will be held in the Weatherstone Terrace conference room at 9 a.m. Saturday, November 3.

OPEN LETTER TO ALL VOTERS:

The present council many of which have served so many years that their chairs have conformed to their bottoms resulting in complacency. These representatives have provided the taxpayer with increased property evaluations which converts to higher taxes and increased costs for water, sewer and electricity. Are we, the taxpayers, going to continue to:

1. Pay increased water, sewer, electricity and taxes?
 2. Accept city budgets which are not totally reported in cash reserves, as opposed to including capital equipment as reserves, which eventually leads to deficits in the general fund and other funds.
- The above are but a few of the items I intend to pursue and rectify. Also, I do not feel that the Southside is the wrong side of the bridge. And, when elected as 3rd Ward Councilman, I shall work diligently to assure that the southside has equal services to the downtown and/or any other ward. Help to make Charlevoix one-step closer to its past greatness.

VOTE—BUREAU FOR BETTERMENT
(Read for by the Committee to elect Paul Burrell)

Edith Chamberlain, Julia Leedy Baer and Jean Miles, Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild Volunteers, discuss the Showcase Gift Shop's Pre-Christmas Showings and bake sale to be held Friday and Saturday, November 2nd and 3rd at the hospital. Organizers say the stocking stuffers, games, jewelry and other small gift items will be better than ever this year.

Hospital Guild prepares pre-Christmas gift show

Stocking stuffers, candies, Christmas ornaments, toys, candles, books, jewelry and more—all very affordable—will be featured at the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild's Annual Pre-Christmas Show, Friday and Saturday (November 2 & 3). And to entice early and wise Christmas shoppers, Guild members are hosting a bake sale throughout the Pre-Christmas show. Cookies, muffins, quick and yeast breads, candies and cupcakes will be for sale.

Plan MSU Alumni tailgate party

The Michigan State University Top of the State Alumni Club will hold a Tailgate Party on November 10 in the new Library Conference Center at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey.

Participants will watch the Michigan State-Louisiana game on the Library's new eight-foot television screen and enjoy a hot buffet lunch and beverages.

Kathy Raney is taking reservations at 347-9604 and John Robe is taking them at 347-7327. The cost is $6 a person.

Annual dues for the Alumni Association are $20 single and $25 a couple. They may be sent to MSU Alumni Association, Inc., P.O. Box 551, East Lansing, 48823.

Current board members of the Top of the State Alumni Club are: John Robe of Petoskey, Kathy Raney of Petoskey, Ignatius Konrad of Harbor Springs, Denny Jason of East Jordan, Sam Milstein of Petoskey, James Dahl of Charlevoix, Dale Meyer of Petoskey, Pat Cooper and Cheyenne, and Bill Carrey of Charlevoix.

"Electricity... The Best Bargain Is Right At Home"

Now that the days are getting shorter and the nights cooler, it's time to think of ways to save money on your electric bills. In Michigan, you can save money by choosing the right electric company for your home.

Should you choose to spend the winter in Michigan, becoming a customer of Florida Power and Light, whose 5000 KW rate was $48.63 (Florida Power Company) was a little cheaper at $41.59. And so was Tampa (Tampa Electric Company) at $41.59.

But if you want to stay in San Diego, look on your wall's San Diego Gas and Electric Company charged $58.93—almost double the rate of the current consumers' power rate ($31.06) (roughly) for the same amount of power.

In fact, the average rate consumers' power residential electric customers paid last winter was 25 percent below the national average.

Church of God women to host luncheon

The Women of the Church of God will host their annual luncheon and Christmas Bazaar at Fellowship Hall at 202 W. Harbor Thursday, Nov. 8.

The luncheon which will feature hot casseroles, a wide variety of salads, rolls, dessert and a choice of beverage will be served from 11 a.m. until 1:30 p.m.

Tickets for the luncheon will be $3.00 for adults and $2.75 for senior citizens. Children under five years free.

The Christmas bazaar will feature hand-crafted articles of every description and homemade baked goods and other goodies.

Chairing the various committees will be: Christmas bazaar, Elsie Joyce and Shirley Lusk; dining room, hostess, Margaret Ann Cunningham; Juilleret; kitchen, cashier, Doris Durance; Marion Iland, Jane decorations, Virginia Sarasin and Agnes Jarvis; beverages, Warner and publicity, Helen Cunningham; Betty Inman and Bonnie dishes, Peg Wells; Vorhes.

CONTEST RULES:

1. Contestants are invited to enter as many categories as they wish but may submit only one recipe per category. You must be 18 years or older to enter.
2. Recipes should be typed or printed on a sheet of paper with the category indicated.
3. To each recipe there should be a separate sheet of paper attached with the contestant's name, address and phone number. The contestant's name should not appear on the actual recipe. As each recipe is received, it will be assigned a number which will be logged with the contestant's name. The names will be removed from the recipes so the judges will not know whose recipes they are judging.
4. Ingredients should be listed in accurate, easily understood amounts and in the order that they are used.
5. Recipes do not have to be completely original. They may be old standards or new variations on familiar recipes. The more original the recipe is, however, the better its chance of winning.
6. If duplicate recipes are received, the one submitted first will be accepted. We will log date and time recipes are received.
7. All contestants must agree to permit their recipes to be published in a special cookbook section of the Charlevoix Courier.
8. Employees of the Charlevoix Courier and Petoskey News-Review and members of their families are not eligible to win the contest.
9. A panel of judges will evaluate the recipes submitted and name three finalists in each of the five categories. The 15 finalists will be notified and asked to prepare their recipes for a final judging session. Judges will then sample the entries and name a winner in each category.

November Sunset by John Carlisle

"There will always be a sunset so I don't need to run to the window of my study to enjoy the present one. Yet there'll never be another quite identical to this—so I stop my busy fingers lest the beauty I should miss.

As I glory in its magic and the scenes it points for me I should never take for granted that tomorrow I can see.

So the sunset I am watching on this brisk November night is my forecast and my promise of the everlasting light."

Greetings to all the saints in Christ Jesus; grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

"Light," there are many references in the bible to "light" from Genesis 1:3-5 to Revelations 21:23. I want to call your attention to two references: first, look at John 1:9, "light" is used here to refer to our Lord Jesus Christ, "the true light," "light of people," and "the light shined in darkness." Light is the source of all life (yours and mine). Without the "light" Jesus Christ we exist in darkness. But light is upon us—everywhere; we cannot escape it. It wakes us up in the morning, when we want to sleep. It warms us throughout our day. It is a guide when we are lost. Jesus is like that—guiding us when we are lost.

"Everlasting light"—forever and always the "light" will guide and comfort you and me. That's great! So reassuring. Such a comfort, especially when the darkness is so near.

Are we to sit back and drink in the "light"? No. Matthew 5:14-16: "You are the light of the world" and "let it shine so that people will see your good works and glorify God." Amen.

After being guided through the darkness by the "light," we want to can't wait to glorify God by reflecting the "light" onto other people. Amen.

Grace and Peace in the Lord Jesus Christ

HANDCRAFTED CLOCKS from the workshop of Rex Supernaw of Charlevoix are being displayed in a special exhibit sponsored by the First State Bank this week. Supernaw is shown above with the exhibit which is located in the lobby of the bank.

Supernaw, a retired engineer who took up woodworking as an avocation, designed all the clocks in the exhibit himself and constructed them in a wide variety of woods including walnut, cherry and teak.

AN ORGANIC JACK-O-LANTERN is city parks caretaker Jerry Knudsen's annual contribution to the Chamber of Commerce building's Halloween decorations. Knudsen used a wide variety of colorful, fresh produce to craft the amazingly human-like pumpkin head.

Official Notice

SYNOPSIS
BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
SEPTEMBER, 1984

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners met in regular session on September 12 and 26. Commissioner Matthew was excused from the September 26 meeting. All other members were present at both sessions.

The Board reappointed Mark Kowalski of Boyne City to a two year term on the Private Industry Council of the Employment and Training Consortium, heard reports from the Community Justice Alternatives director, Probate Court Juvenile Officer, Brad Campbell, and Youth Activities director, Mike Davis.

The Board adopted resolutions authorizing various departmental line item transfers and appropriations, ratifying the 84-85 transportation contract, rescheduling the 1984 proposed millage hearings, designating the Hoskins EDC project area and confirming the purchase of property adjacent to the County Building.

Due to technical deficiencies in the original notices, the Board re-published and re-held public hearings on the 1984 proposed general and transit millages.

Copies of the complete minutes of the proceedings of the Board are on file in the office of the County Clerk and are available for public inspection during regular business hours.

ISSUANCE OF BONDS PROPOSED THEREIN AS SUBMITTED TO THE COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS OF THE COUNTY OF CHARLEVOIX BY THE ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION OF THE COUNTY OF CHARLEVOIX FOR HOSKINS
MANUFACTURING COMPANY PROJECT

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that pursuant to Act 338 of the Public Acts of Michigan of 1974, as amended, the Economic Development Corporation of the County of Charlevoix has submitted project plan to the County Board of Commissioners for its approval.

Said project plan deals with the construction and equipping of a 14,600 square foot addition to an industrial facility to be owned and operated by Hoskins Manufacturing Company. The facility is located on M-66 South, Charlevoix.

Said project plan details all information required by law relative to said project and its impact on the community. No persons will be displaced from the project area as a result of this project. Said project plan also proposes the issuance of revenue bonds by said Economic Development Corporation in a maximum principal amount not to exceed $850,000 to assist in the financing of said project.

The County Board of Commissioners will meet at 10:30 AM on October 31, Eastern Standard Time, on Wednesday, the 14th day of November, 1984, at the Commissioners' Room, located at County Building Annex, Charlevoix, Michigan, and will conduct a public hearing.

The public hearing shall consider the advisability of the County Board of Commissioners approving, modifying or rejecting by resolution said project plan and the issuance of bonds as proposed therein.

THIS NOTICE is given pursuant to the requirements of Sections 10 and 17 of Act No. 338, Public Acts of Michigan, 1974, as amended. The project plan and relevant maps or plats are available for public inspection at the County Clerk's office.

All interested citizens are encouraged and will be offered an opportunity at said hearing to address the County Board of Commissioners concerning said project, said project plan, and the bonds proposed to be issued. Written comments may also be submitted to the County Clerk prior to said hearing.

SYNOPSIS
BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
JULY, 1984

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners met in regular sessions on July 11 and 25 with all members in attendance at each session.

The Board adopted resolutions endorsing the establishment of a regional Community Growth Alliance designating the Emergency Services Director as disaster liaison and authorizing the hiring of part time assistance for the Registrar of Deeds.

In other action the Board heard a report from Mr. and Mrs. Herman Ior of "Woodward Township" who were involved in a concert related traffic accident and a report from the Equalization Director regarding recent hearings before the Tax Tribunal.

Copies of the complete minutes of proceedings of the Board are on file in the office of the County Clerk and are available for public inspection during regular business hours.

Names In The News

KIRK SCHALLER, publisher of the Petoskey News-Review and the Charlevoix Courier, has been re-elected to his third term on the Board of Directors of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce.

Schaller's current two-year term runs through July, 1986. As a director on the State Chamber's 48-member board, Schaller is involved in establishing the group's policy on major economic, legislative, political and social issues.

A northwest Michigan native, Schaller has been in the newspaper business for over 20 years. He is a graduate of Ferris State College. He has served on the Governor's Task Force studying the Single Business Tax, is first vice-president of the Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce and has served as publicity chairman of the nine-county area for the Michigan Week Committee.

SANDI SPIELER of Charlevoix was elected vice president of the Northland Library Cooperative Board of Directors at the board's recent annual meeting in Mackinaw City. Mrs. Spieles, who is a librarian for the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, also started a three-year term on the board.

NORMAN R. OSTRUM recently received a Master's Degree in counseling educational administration and community leadership from Central Michigan University.

Following completion of work on his degree, he has accepted a position at Starr Commonwealth School for Boys at Albion after five years on the staff at Eagle Village.

A 1970 graduate of the Charlevoix High School, he attended North Central Michigan College. After a four-year tour of duty with the U.S. Navy, he returned to school and was graduated from Michigan State University with a major in counseling in 1979.

The son of Mrs. Eldred Ostrum and the late Mr. Ostrum, he presently makes his home in Battle Creek.

Pvt. HENRY A. DEVRIES, son of Henry J. Devries of Charlevoix has completed basic training at Fort Dix, N.J.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Hill to be new mayor; Pajtas, new judge

Hal M. Hill, retired manager of the D-M-E plant in Charlevoix, will take over as mayor in January following a solid victory over opponent Ralph McRae in Tuesday's election.

Only one new face will be on the new council next year as incumbents Raymond Wood and Shirley Holoff won in the First and Third Wards respectively and Bill Bellows was elected in the Second Ward where present council member James Block did not run.

City voters also turned down a charter amendment that would

Hal M. Hill

Raymond Wood

William Bellows

Shirley Holoff

have made the city clerk's position appointed rather than elected. In the tightest area race, Charlevoix Attorney Richard Pajtas edged Petoskey Attorney Seberon Littenburger for the 33rd Circuit Court judgeship.

In the city, Hill outpolled McRae 412-135 in the First Ward, 388-139 in the Second Ward and 369-175 in the Third Ward for a total ballot count of 1161-449. He will succeed Kenneth Hill, who opted out of the race when he ran in the primary for state representative earlier this year.

The closest council race was in the First Ward where Wood beat former council member Jeffrey Porter 288-251. In the Second Ward, Bellows beat opponent William Russell 294-204 and in the Third Ward, Holoff convincingly topped Paul Burlew 360-187.

The charter amendment barely passed in the First Ward, 574-251, but failed 306-201 in the Second Ward and 310-225 in the Third Ward for a 677-708 rejection.

The Pajtas-Littenburger race was finally decided at about 4:30 a.m. Wednesday. Unofficial vote totals showed the Charlevoix candidate winning by a 9594-9363 margin. Pajtas conceded Emmet County by a 5341-4815 margin but took Charlevoix County 4779-4022 for the 231-vote win.

The only county-wide race, that for sheriff, saw incumbent George Lauster beating challenger Paul LaFreniere 7173-2022. A three-way race in Marion Township for trustee saw William Dietrich with 250 votes and Judy Wheat with 217 edge John Martin with 236 for the two spots.

A complete breakdown of area voting will follow in next week's Courier.

Plans for new city fire hall put back on track

by DAVE KNIGHT

A suggestion that architectural planning of a new city fire hall be suspended until such factors as the future of the soon-to-be-vacated post office can be studied sparked lively discussion at the City Council's regular meeting Monday night.

City Manager Michael Wiesner told the council that he had requested architect Bill Cockfield to "put a hold" on the study Cockfield was commissioned by council to start in September.

At that time, council agreed to proceed with tentative plans presented by Fire Chief John Martin to build a new fire hall onto the north side of the city hall building. Under that arrangement, fire trucks would enter and exit on State St. and the house just north of the existing parking lot would be razed and used for parking, as would the former Erber property now owned by the city.

Wiesner told council, however, that he and city planner Gerry Harsh would like some time to examine other alternatives for the fire hall design before the architectural planning gets too far along.

Wiesner said that the U.S. Postal Service has served notice to the city that it plans to relocate the Charlevoix post office to a larger facility when the building's present lease expires in 1986.

He said that since the property was becoming available just as a new fire hall is being designed, consideration should be made of possible ways to incorporate it into the plan.

Wiesner also pointed out that a more careful look should be taken at the effect on energy use an addition to the 40-year old city hall would have.

Strong objection to delaying progress on the Cockfield study was raised by James Elliot, who coordinated the recent drive to raise $160,000 in donations for a new fire truck.

Elliot maintained that the new fire hall, which was ordered earlier this year, will be arriving this spring or summer and that it will need housing long before the post office lease is up in 1986.

Both Mayor Kenneth Staley and council member Michael Greeley agreed with Wiesner's decision to delay final architectural drawings saying that since the fire hall represented a major expenditure and would be serving the city for many years to come, all alternatives should be closely studied.

After an informal poll of the council, however, it was decided to reinstate Cockfield's $1,700 contract but also have Wiesner continue to study the long-range plans for the fire hall.

Also on Monday night, council held public hearings on and gave site plan approval to the following:

-A proposal by William Gengle and Nicholas DeYoung to expand and renovate their office and apartment building at 1801 Bridge.

-A proposal by Clarence Lundwall to create downstairs office use and upstairs apartment at 702 Bridge.

-A proposal by Bruce Krouse to add a used car lot at his present Krouse Tire business at 1108 Bridge.

-A proposal by Irish Marine to construct a boat storage building at the corner of Carpenter and Norwood Rd.

In other business, council

-Confirmed the special assessment bill for sidewalk improvements done in the city this past summer and fall.

-Authorized the payment of $9,000 to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for cost overruns incurred on the Pine River Channel erosion repair project when sheet piling was unable to be installed as planned after it struck what the Corps said were former bridge foundations underground. The council also agreed to pay $480 for the sodding of the bank by Site Planning Development.

Two sisters who thought each other was dead are reunited

by FRANK MARTIN

Because someone willingly responded to an old-made request, "Would you do me a favor?"—two sisters who had lost touch with each other in 1970 have been reunited.

They are Helen McLaughlin of Livingston, Scotland, now 63, and her older sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Allison, 69, who makes her home in Charlevoix with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Mathews, Jr.

As Mrs. Mathews, known to her friends as "Andy," tells it, her parents, with their two children (including Andy) had come to the United States in 1948 because of the poor economic conditions in Scotland following World War II.

The family settled in Pontiac where an uncle of Mr. Allison's obtained a job for him with General Motors as a performance test driver at a company's proving grounds, a job he held until he retired.

In 1959, the Allison family had returned to Scotland to visit relatives for the first time since 1948 for all their relatives had remained in the Glasgow area. Upon their return to this country, the couple had decided to make their home in Florida.

It was after that, while on a trip to Texas, that Mrs. Allison became ill, suffering a heart attack followed by several strokes which kept her hospitalized in Texas for months.

Later, when they returned to their home in Florida, her health improved to a degree but the illness took its toll and communication with her ailing siblings in Scotland eventually broke down as the years went on.

Mrs. Allison continued to live in Florida after the death of her husband in 1978 until 1982 when she came to Charlevoix to live.

Several attempts had been made in recent years to establish contact with relatives abroad but letters went either unanswered or were returned.

When Mrs. Mathews, last summer, learned of the plans of her friends, Charles and Kay Britton and their sons and Mrs. Britton's mother, Mrs. David Jardine of Petoskey, to return to the latter's native Scotland for a visit while touring Europe, she made her request of them "Would you do me a favor? Would you try to locate my mother's family. It would mean so much to her."

It was mid-August when the Brittons were in Edinburgh, Scotland, that they rented a car and made the trip to the community of Livingston, suburb of Glasgow.

Without too much trouble they located the McLaughlin residence only to find no one at home. They left word with a neighbor that they would return.

Here Mrs. Joan Young, one of the McLaughlin daughters who accompanied her mother to Charlevoix, took up the story. She said upon returning home later that August day, her father was told that he'd had visitors from America who had news of their family here.

"My father called me and I called my sister and we went flying to the house. My mother was in England on the next half hour, as prepared to leave for Traverse City to pick them up. It was at this point that her mother, despite her poor health, insisted on making the trip with her. After a stop at Atwood to call home to see if there were any messages about the travelers, they arrived at the airport to find her aunt, whom she had not seen since 1948 when she was a child, and her cousin, waiting.

"In all the excitement, I'd forgotten to mention that my mother was waiting in the car. As we approached the parked car, here was my mother coming to greet us. It was a happy reunion as my aunt flew into my mother's arms. There were tears of joy, laughter, everyone talking at once. It was wonderful. I wouldn't have missed it for the world," Mrs. Mathews related.

"I knew that there would be some difficulties. I'd already had trouble understanding my aunt and cousin through their Scottish brogue but I didn't expect any serious ones. However, as we left the airport grounds and drove onto the highway, my cousin, sitting beside me, screamed as a car approached from the opposite direction. I pulled to the side of the road and stopped to see what was wrong. It turned out that she thought we were headed toward a collision with the oncoming vehicle because we were on the wrong side of the highway. We continued our trip when I explained that here we drive on the right side of the highway. It is something Joan has had trouble accepting."

The last two weeks have flown by for the sisters who have talked, continued on page 4

Mrs. McLaughlin, second from left, embraces her long-lost sister Mrs. Allison, as Mrs. McLaughlin

STATE OF THE SCHOOLS

Fiscal year ended June 30, 1984

Recently, our problem was we have been able to operate a balanced budget and it appears that we are heading in the right direction. Summer tax collection has generally been good and it seems to be doing what it was meant to do, that is, eliminating the large sums of money. The high school parking lot project is complete and with the last few acres of land we are working out exceptionally well. Our Curriculum Guide has been completed and is available for your inspection. The guide is divided by grade and explains what is taught kindergarten through 12th grade in each area. According to the state and national tests it appears our students are achieving exceptionally well. A survey of the graduates of Charlevoix High School will be conducted this year and if you are contacted your cooperation will be appreciated. Both the Curriculum Guide and the Professional Study Committee are working on the North Central Accreditation recommendations from last year. Now for some of the not so good news. The student enrollment continues to decline causing a shifting of personnel when a teacher leaves or leaves the system for some other reason. The Board of Education is providing that as a more limited community available for all students. This may be a problem in the future as we are working with other schools in the area. The school is in general and the track in particular are in need of repair. The Board of Education Building and Site Committee has been seeking input from the community to help with the problem.

Many of you have the opportunity to visit school through such activities as the recently held grandparents day, where about 200 grandparents visited the elementary through adult education, athletic contests, etc. However, some of you do not have the opportunity to visit school for a specific reason. If you would like to go to a school to see what it is happening please feel free to call me. Also give me a call if you have any questions or suggestions.

Thanks for the support you have given the schools.

Charlevoix Yesterday

This aerial picture, taken in 1934, shows Bridge Street beginning just north of the bridge, continuing through town, and joining US-31 at the southern limits of Charlevoix. In the left foreground, north of the bridge, can be seen the Charlevoix Lumber Company, and in the right foreground, the Argo Mill. The last swing bridge spans the Pine River Channel, and the old Opera House is nearby, on the north side of the street.

Across the street is Fred Myers' store, and two doors south of that is the Sentinel office. In the center of the picture is the laundry, hiding behind the huge trees. Just beyond, on the south shore of Round Lake is Both Fisheries, now Bellingham Marine Service. To the left, the REOMAR is docked at her berth, now converted into the Harbour Club condominiums. In the distance can be seen circus tents set up on what is now the High School grounds. As can be seen, traffic was light in 1936.

Salmon run on Jordan not up to expectations

by PEG ONILE

All the concern about installing a temporary fish weir in the Jordan River this year may have been "much ado about nothing," Lee Seibert of Tempotech Industries, which operates the weir and buys the salmon it catches, told the Courier last week that the weir has produced very few salmon. While he could not provide definite figures, Seibert said he understood the "take" was around 300 up until last week. He also said he does not know why this is because the run on other streams in the state have been good.

Many thousand chinook salmon fingerlings have been planted in the Jordan River, and it was expected that a large number would return this year to spawn and die. The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) anticipated some problems as the salmon returned, including illegal fishing methods, trespassing, littering, and making the stream less suitable for other species of fish. In order to diminish these problems, the DNR decided to install the temporary weir upstream from Rogers Bridge to harvest the salmon and closed the river to anglers from the mouth of the river to the weir.

The weir was installed and the Jordan closed on August 15, with notification that it would remain closed until November 30.

This brought forth the ire of many local fishermen who object to a commercial company being able to take salmon from "their" river while being denied that right themselves.

Tempotech Industries, with headquarters in Hart, has a 10-year contract with the State of Michigan to operate weirs and harvest excess salmon, not only in the Jordan River, but in several other rivers throughout the State. Some weirs are permanent and others, like the one on the Jordan, are temporary. According to Seibert, temporary weirs may be operated one year and not the next, as was the case in the White River, where a weir was located last year but not this year. It is possible, therefore, that if few enough salmon are caught in the Jordan River this year, there will be no need for a weir next year.

Tempotech Industries pays the state from 3.5 cents a pound down to slightly more than a tenth of a cent a pound for the salmon it harvests. The latter figure is for "mortality" (dead salmon). Salmon harvested in temporary weirs, as in the Jordan, are paid for at the rate of about a cent and a half a pound. Loose salmon eggs are worth 15 cents a pound to Tempotech.

These prices are considered low by those opposed to commercial harvesting of salmon in Michigan rivers. Seibert defends the prices by saying they are comparable to those paid for harvesting salmon river runs in Washington and Oregon for several years. He also notes that 42 percent of the weight of the fish is lost before it can be processed (four percent by mortality and 38 percent by unusable heads and entrails). Figuring this way, Tempotech actually paid 23 to 24 cents a pound for the salmon, Seibert added.

As to the total amount of money Tempotech pays the State each year, Seibert said that in 1983 it amounted to $435,000 in savings and payments. The per pound price Tempotech pays the State is negotiated each year.

The quality of salmon harvested in Michigan can be compared to that of hamburger in beef cattle, Seibert explained. "They are in the last stages of life, soft and mushy. Spawning salmon are of less market value than ocean caught salmon due to a natural deterioration process which causes them to end their life cycle after spawning."

Tempotech sells most of its harvest to brokers, wholesalers, canners, and smoke houses, which may process it into any number of products from breaded patties and jerky to smoked salmon. The company does not sell the salmon for animal food because the State requires that it be used for human consumption.

At the site of some weirs, freshly caught salmon are sold to local retailers, such as IGA stores.

As with all companies marketing Michigan-caught fish, Tempotech must comply with State regulations governing PCB levels. Since most PCB's are found in the fatty tissues and entrails of the fish, Tempotech disposes not only of the entrails but of the fatty tissues, reducing the fish to steaks or slices similar to filets.

Even so, State agencies require that pregnant women be warned of the PCB dangers in Michigan-caught fish, suggesting they eat it only once a week, if at all.

Tempotech Industries is selling its story about Michigan's salmon industry to the public, especially in areas where sports fishing is an important past time. To that end, it has prepared a slide film presentation which has been shown to sportsmen's and service clubs throughout the State. Seibert says he has shown it in East Jordan and Boyne City and would now like to show it to Charlevoix area people. Interested groups may contact him at Tempotech Industries, Inc., P.O. Box 31, Hart, Michigan, 49420, phone (616) 873-7111.

PWC meeting set

On Monday evening, Nov. 12, at 7:00 p.m. at the Charlevoix library, a group against drug and alcohol abuse. The meeting will feature a panel discussion of (formerly Parents Who Care) will rekindle their efforts to provide a community concern George Lasater, a school official and Ann Rose of Chip Counseling Center.

To sponsor soup supper

The First Baptist Church will sponsor its second annual vegetable-potato, fruit, and dessert products. The food bags will then be distributed among the needy families in the area. In 1983, the bags were delivered to the needy elderly in the county. The soup supper will be followed by Bible study at 7 p.m.

Wednesday the Rev. Thomas Black, pastor of the church, has announced.

In emphasizing the needy in the local community, each family attending the supper is asked to bring a complete non-perishable meal in a bag.

A non-perishable meal should consist of meat-chicken-fish.

New committee to promote dentistry in area

by ANNE KELLY

A Community Dental Health Committee, organized by the local dental professionals and sponsored through the Michigan Dental Association's Vacationland Dental Society, has been formed and a first meeting held. The goal of the committee is to provide better dental service and education in the community. Some of the activities planned include mouthguard programs for sports, school field trips to dental offices, making available educational films and speakers, and the periodic screening of all school-aged children.

All dentists in the immediate area have been encouraged to participate in the Community Health Program. Those included on the committee are: Dr. John Kempton and Kevin Steley; Central Lake: Dr. David Dibble; Boyne City: Dr. Arnold Bauer; Richard Fish and Dr. Robert Pulley; and Atwood: Dr. James Smith. Also on the committee are representatives from the elementary, middle and high schools.

The Committee is considering possible senior citizen programs, and programs for W.I.C. expectant teens, Strawberry, and Dr. Robert Tollas; East program at Grandview Chelsea Gorkiewicz, above in the dentist's chair, was one of a group of Charlevoix kindergartners who visited the dental offices of Dr. John Merrill, above, and Dr. David Strawberry last week as part of a program to promote positive attitudes toward dentistry.

Obituaries

JOHN C. MCKENNEY, SR.
Funeral services for John C. McKenney, Sr., 57, of East Jordan, were held Oct. 30 at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. David W. Yingling of the United Methodist Church officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. McKenney died Oct. 28 at Little Traverse Hospital.
Born in East Jordan Jan. 19, 1927, Mr. McKenney served in the U.S. Navy during World War II. On Aug. 14, 1947, he was married to the former Frances Joan Poole of Charlevoix at Petoskey. They always made their home in East Jordan. He was a Great Lakes sailor and since 1950 had been employed aboard the Inland Steel Co. fleet as a steward. His last ship was the MV Joseph L. Block. In recent years they had spent the winter months in Florida.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two sons, John, Jr., of Boyne City and Morris of East Jordan; two daughters, Mrs. Tim (Teena) Wiltjer of Charlevoix and Kim Derenzny of East Jordan; eight grandchildren and three brothers, Jim of Muskegon, Jerry of East Jordan and Jimmy of Ellettsville.

The family suggests memorials to the American Cancer Society.

ELRITA BEER
Funeral services for Sister Elrita Beer, 76, former Petoskey resident and aunt of Mrs. Mary Ann Farkas of Charlevoix were held Oct. 19 at Holy Family Convent Chapel, Manitowoc, Wis. Interment was in the Holy Family Convent Cemetery. She died at Holy Family Convent Oct. 18.

Born in Petoskey March 17, 1908, the former Elizabeth Catherine Beer entered the order of Franciscan Sisters of Charity at Manitowoc in 1924 and professed her vows Aug. 14, 1927.

She received a B.A. degree from St. Norbert's College at DePere, Wis., and did graduate work at the University of Notre Dame and Michigan State University. She taught at schools in Delaware, Ohio and Michigan including St. Francis Xavier school in Petoskey. She also taught at various schools in northern Wisconsin. She retired to the convent in Manitowoc in 1979.

In addition to the Franciscan Sisters of Charity, she is survived by a sister, Paulette Beer of St. Phillips convent, Green Bay Wis., and her niece, Mrs. Farkas.

Knight on the Town

TV revisited

By Dave Knight

It was about two years ago that the right-household decided to turn to unplug live support systems from its ailing television. I donated its useable organs to the high school fix-it class and try life without the tube.

For the first three weeks it was a shock. Much like smokers who suck on a pipe when trying to quit, we missed ourselves to listen to records, crossword puzzles, in short, find surrogate activities to occupy the time that had previously been spent watching TV.

I, for one, was so fearful of getting bored those first few weeks that I wound myself into a frenzy of doing a lot of things I really didn't want to do at all. Like cleaning the aquarium.

But when I finally realized how much television had exerted a subtle influence on our daily routine, "We can't go out tonight! There's a great show on!" and that we were now free to set our own schedule, I relaxed.

I can say with total honesty that post-TV life has been great. We listen to the radio a lot. Ernie Harwell and Paul Carey became part of the family the past two summers. I read more, talk more and am working and playing a lot better. Much more often.

Now we get to thinking, "What if we don't have television?" and we're without television.

I decided to rent a set. I thought it would be the other way around, turned on "Seamus" and watched our three-year-old son.

She loved Bert, was a bit tentative about Ernie. Then came Little House on the Prairie. While making supper I lost track of the story line but, remembering this ongoing saga from years back, I made a bet to myself that by the end of the show, either Michael Landon or Melissa Gilbert would be crying. They both did.

Next came some deal where evidently a guy gets to look at three girls, choose one to go out with and then come back and tell about it. Steve was 33, in advertising, divorced and wore contacts that bothered him. He smiled a lot. Said he really liked his date, even though a studio audience poll said he picked the wrong chick.

Then she came on. She said didn't want to go out with Steve again. He just kept smiling and blinking, incredulous.

Needless to say, it has been fascinating to view television again after such a long hiatus. Its inimitable al but jump out at you but even they are curiously entertaining.

Certainly there is a lot of decent programming to catch up on and we're enjoying the opportunity. I don't think this "fix" means that I'll definitely run out and buy a TV again. Maybe.

I do know that even if we get another set, the positive experience of going without will prevent TV from ever playing as dominant a role in our lifestyle as it once did.

By the way, I turned on this Judge Wapner character the other day and decided to clean the aquarium instead.

Clockwise

Life is losing its sonctity

By Bob Clock

The world was treated to a large portion of murder and mayhem last week.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was assassinated in India and citizens are spared the guilt trips which certainly must afflict many residents of other states where capital punishment is a way of life — or a way of death, if you prefer. If not, why the vigils outside prison walls whenever executions take place? Obviously someone is bothered.

Don't get me wrong. I am as shocked as anyone by the ghastly crimes meted out by the ghastly courts. But I think it is hypocritical for any society to condemn killing, and then cold-bloodedly arrange to dispatch its wayward sons and daughters with massive electrical discharges, deadly gas, bullets or paralyzing drugs.

When we read about executions in Iran, we are likely to accuse the Ayatollah Khomeini of brutality. Yet we read about executions at home while sipping our morning coffee and scarcely give them a second thought.

A better solution? I don't have one. But I do believe that once the sanctity of human life is accepted as gospel, reasonable alternatives to this vexing dilemma are sure to emerge.

no uniformity among the states as to who should be killed and who should be permitted to live.

Michigan, fortunately, has banned capital punishment and its citizens are spared the guilt trips which certainly must afflict many residents of other states where capital punishment is a way of life — or a way of death, if you prefer. If not, why the vigils outside prison walls whenever executions take place? Obviously someone is bothered.

Chance comment results in reunion of two sisters continents apart

Unfamiliar from past acquaintanceship, being brought to the attention of family news, visitors have found northern Michigan's very beautiful, especially during winter, still shows their "old" colors when they first see them. Though they were past their prime, they have so many different shades and they are so colorful. "I have," they said, "Your houses are so large and so different in color and they're painted so many colors." It was another comment. Though northern Michigan doesn't have large malls and stores that aren't found in the city, they were surprised at the wide choice of items found in grocery stores and the selection of items of every description in clothing stores. They couldn't get over the service in the supermarket where the cashier checks out your groceries which would be known as Messengers in Scotland; then bags them and, if necessary, sees that you have assistance with them to your car. "At home you bring your own bags to the store or buy them there, but here they carry them to your car. Not all the service you get here," they explained.

One of the things that Mrs. Young has found to her liking is the rocking chair. There are several in the Mathews home and she has tried them all. "They're so comfortable and it's such fun to rock. That's the one thing I'd like to take home with me," she said of the type of chair. Americans take so much for granted.

Then there's the matter of eating. Mrs. Mathews discovered that her visitors did not pick up a sandwich and eat it as one does here. They cut it with their knife and eat it with a fork, she explained. Knowing that, she decided to have a little fun by serving lasos. There's only one way to eat it, she said. "After seeing up in one's hands. After seeing up the situation, they did as we did and had a good time doing it," she said.

Then there was the matter of symatics which took a bit of explaining, because American cookies are Scottish biscuits and other things are different. For instance, the lovely sweater which Mrs. McLaughlin picked up in a department store and admired by saying, "My, isn't this flaky?" Actually, the sweater was a colorful tweed which hardly could be described as the American concept of "flaky". There were a number of ordinary words used here every day that needed explanation because one just did not use them in Scotland.

The past two weeks have been busy ones as Mrs. Allison and her daughter have tried to show them around the north county with a trip to Canada via the Mackinac and International bridges, to points of interest elsewhere, to visit friends and to give a taste of life in this country.

When asked what this reunion has meant to them, the sisters almost in unison said, "It's been wonderful!" but the look in their eyes and the warmth in their voices said far more than their words.

Satisfied that her beloved Liz is well and in goodhands at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mrs. McLaughlin and her daughter returned to Scotland Monday, laden with good news about their American family and their visit here.

All because someone was happy to respond to the request "Would you do me a favor?"

Mr. and Mrs. Jack B. Niswander

Crickenberger-Niswander

Debra Lee Crickenberger became the bride of Jack Bryan Niswander on September 29 at the Charlevoix Assembly of God Church.

The Reverend Aubrey Donahue of Canton, Ohio read the double ring rites before approximately 180 guests.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Crickenberger and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Niswander, all of Charlevoix.

The altar before which the rites were read was decorated with large satin bows and greens. The unity table was decorated with brass candle holders and a large white candle with the invitation to the wedding, waxed in and surrounded by helia and white silk roses. The steps to the altar were decorated with large white chrysanthemums.

The bride wore a Victorian gown of sheer polyester lined in acetate tulle with Chapel-length train trimmed in lace. The close-fitting bodice with Schiffli-embroidered yoke and standup neckline had a Basque waistline with ruffled trim and leg-of-mutton sleeves with ruffled flounce trim. The bride wore a hat trimmed in face with streamers and white satin ribbons and carried a fan with white silk roses and buds, baby's breath, and white satin ribbon. She was given in marriage by her father.

Jeannie Becker, sister of the bride, attended as matron of honor, and the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Niswander, were bridesmaids. They wore "suede rose faustous polyester gowns with chuffon bodices laced in front with elastic waistlines tied by belts. Each carried long-stemmed helia silk roses and baby's breath.

William Niswander, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man; Joseph Niswander, cousin of the bridegroom, and Gordon Russell were groomsmen; and Dave Oshaben and Bob Smith were ushers.

France Boss, organist, presented a program of traditional wedding music and a special number, "Chariots of Fire", at the entrance of the bride's mother. Steve and Sara Stargardt sang "The Wedding Song", and Cheryl Donahue sang "Evergreen".

The bride's parents hosted a reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church. The wedding cake made by Sarah Cummings, was served by Lori Holtzman and Becky Holecbeck, and punch by Shelly Erber, all sisters of the bridegroom. Cynthia and James Mansen presided over the buffet-style reception dinner. The rehearsal dinner, given by the bridegroom's parents, was held at the V.I.P. in Charlevoix.

The newlyweds traveled to Niagara Falls, Ontario, for a wedding trip and are now at home in Charlevoix. (Photography by James Mansen)

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Berdanier, III

Biddick-Berdanier

Anne Kathryn Biddick and Charles Albert Reese Berdanier, III, exchanged marriage vows on Saturday afternoon, September 8, in the Martin Luther Chapel in East Lansing.

Pastor David Dressel presided over the candlelight ceremony before approximately 80 guests. For the occasion, the altar was decorated with red roses and the pews were marked with candles, red roses, and greens.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford R. Biddick of Charlevoix and the Drs. C. Reese Berdanier, Jr. of Athens, Georgia are parents of the bride and bridegroom.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father and mother, wore a white satin bridal gown fashioned with long puffed sleeves, dropped waist, five-foot train, and face-trimmed bodice. The three-tiered veil was trimmed with floral lace in a pattern matching the dress. She carried a cascade bouquet of long-stemmed white and sweetheart roses with a touch of pink and baby's breath.

Karin Syverud served the bride as maid of honor, and Karen Thorp and Lynn Berdanier were bridesmaids. They wore long gowns of deep red velvet and carried treaderop bouquets of red and white mini carnations.

Joe Mischelen served as best man, with Bruce Blodgett and Phil Ischirhart assisting as groomsmen. Clifford D. Biddick and Robert Berdanier were ushers.

A reception in the Fellowship Hall of the Chapel followed the ceremony, with Clifford D. Biddick and Laurie Weir serving as host and hostess. The rehearsal dinner was given by the bridegroom's parents at Robert's of East Lansing.

The newlyweds are at home in Lansing. Both are students at Michigan State University, she a junior and he a senior. (Photography by Ken Kawamura)

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Mann

Berger-Mann

Susan Davis Berger and Edwin Michael Mann were married this summer at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Lansing.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don J. Berger of Dimondale, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Mann of Charlevoix.

The Reverend Thomas C. Nolan of Rosindale, Massachusetts officiated at the double ring ceremony witnessed by 200 guests.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore her mother's wedding gown of heavily beaded ivory satin fashioned with a long train. Her bridal veil of Belgian lace was brought from Belgium by her father in 1964.

Sue Mass of Troy served the bride as maid of honor, and Tami Durfee of Charlevoix, the bridegroom's sister, and Lisa Simmons of East Attos Hills, California, cousin of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore lavender floor-length sun dresses with matching jackets and carried bouquets of lavender and white flowers.

Timothy De Young of Charlevoix was best man, with Thomas Workup and Ronald Wilson, both of Charlevoix, assisting as groomsmen. Steven and David Berger, brothers of the bride, served as ushers.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the Country Club of Lansing following the ceremony. The rehearsal dinner was a family picnic hosted by the bridegroom's parents at the Lansing KOA.

The newlyweds are at home in Dimondale, where the bride is swim coach at Marquette High School, and the bridegroom is a student at Northern Michigan University. (Photography by Ray Kober)

Knight on the Town

TV revisited

by Dave Knight

It was about two years ago that the knight household decided to unplug life support systems from its aging television and donate its usable organs to the school fix-it class and try life from the tube.

For the first three weeks it was such a relief. Smokers who suck on a pipe when trying to quit, we used ourselves to listen to records, crossword puzzles, in short, find surrogate activities to occupy the time that had previously been spent watching TV.

For one, was so fearful of getting bored those first few weeks that I wound myself into a frenzy of doing a lot of things I really didn't want to do at all. Like cleaning the aquarium.

But when I finally realized how much television had exerted a subtle force on our daily routine, "We can't do without it," there's a great deal of truth in that. And we were now faced with our own schedule, I mean!

It was with total honesty that I said, "I've been great." And then I said to the radio a lot. Ernie MacNeil and Paul Carey became part of the family the past two weeks. I read more, talk more, and work more and playing games much more often.

But when I got to thinking, about how bleak Election Day would be without television, I decided to rent a set.

And I found the other day that I had been in the store for three hours.

She loved Bert, was a bit tentative about Ernie. Then came Little House on the Prairie. While making supper I lost track of the story line but, remembering this ongoing saga from years back, I made a bet to myself that by the end of the show, either Michael Landon or Melissa Gilbert would be crying. They both did.

Next came some deal where evidently a guy gets to look at three girls, choose one to go out with and then come back and tell about it. Steve was 33, in advertising, divorced and wore contacts that bothered him. He smiled a lot. Said he really liked his date, even though a studio audience poll said he picked the wrong chick.

Then she came on. She said didn't want to go out with Steve again. He just kept smiling and blinking. Incredible.

"Needless to say, it has been fascinating to view television again after such a long hiatus. Its inaneities all but jump out at you but even they are curiously entertaining."

Certainly there is a lot of decent programming to catch up on and we're enjoying the opportunity. I don't think this "fix" means that we'll definitely run out and buy a TV again. Maybe.

I do know that even if we get another set, the positive experience of going without will prevent TV from ever playing as dominant a role in our lifestyle as it once did.

To wit: I turned on this Judge Wapner character the other day and decided to clean the aquarium instead.

Clockwise

Life is loosing its soncity

by Bob Clock

The world was treated to a large portion of murder and mayhem last week.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was assassinated in India and subsequently 1,000 others died in the streets.

In Manila, a hotel burned, killing 12.

Hundreds starved to death in Ethiopia.

Hundreds more died in traffic accidents and air crashes around the world.

And then society — not satisfied by the grim toll — claimed three more lives with executions in Texas, Louisiana and North Carolina, including the first woman to be put to death in the United States in 22 years.

Oh, I know all of the arguments in favor of capital punishment. How it acts as a deterrent to other would-be killers. How it reduces the number of repeat offenders. How costly it is to feed, clothe and house prisoners ad infinitum. How it is more humane to execute than to sentence a true criminal to life behind bars. The rationale makes a lot of sense.

But I am still puzzled how a civilized society, one that condemns killing generally, sees fit to include killing in its grab-bag of punishments — particularly when there is no uniformity among the states as to who should be killed and who should be permitted to live.

Michigan, fortunately, has banned capital punishment and its citizens are spared the guilt trips which certainly must afflict many residents of other states where capital punishment is a way of life — or a way of death, if you prefer. If not, why the vigils outside prison walls whenever executions take place? Obviously someone is bothered.

Don't get me wrong. I am as shocked as anyone by the ghastly crimes most of these felons have committed. But I think it is hypocritical for any society to condemn killing, and then cold-bloodedly arrange to dispatch its wayward sons and daughters with massive electrical discharges, deadly gas, bullets or paralyzing drugs.

When we read about executions in Iran, we are likely to accuse the Ayatollah Khomeini of brutality. Yet we read about executions at home while sipping our morning coffee and scarcely give them a second thought.

A better solution?

I don't have one. But I do believe that once the sanctity of human life is accepted as gospel, reasonable alternatives to this vexing dilemma are sure to emerge.

Chance comment results in reunion of two sisters continents apart

Newspost, reminiscing, the two families, being brought back to the family news.
Visitors have found northern Michigan very beautiful, especially the area which still showed their old colors when they first came, though they were past their prime and they are so colorful. Because the maples which we have here they said "Your houses are so large and so different in color and they're painted so many, it was another comment."
The northern Michigan doesn't just have malls and stores that are found in the city, they were surprised at the wide choice of items found in grocery stores and the selection of items of every description in clothing stores. They couldn't get over the service in the supermarket where the cashier checks out your groceries which would be known as "Mrs. MacNeil in Scotland" then bags them and, if necessary, sees that you have assistance with them to your car. At home you bring your own bags to the store or buy them there, but then yourself and carry them to your car. Not all the service you get here," they explained.

One of the things that Mrs. Young has found to her liking is the rocking chair. There are several in the Mathews home and she has tried them all. "They're so comfortable and it's such fun to rock. That's the one thing I'd like to take home with me," she said of the type of chair Americans take so much for granted.

Then there's the matter of eating. Mrs. Mathews discovered that her visitors did not pick up a sandwich and eat it as one does here. They cut it with their knife and eat it with a fork, she explained. Knowing that, she decided to have a little fun by serving tacos. There's only one way to eat them, by picking one up in one's hands. "After sizing up the situation, they did as we did and had a good time doing it," she said. Then there was the matter of symatics which took a bit of explaining, because American cookies are Scottish biscuits and other things are different. For instance, the lovely sweater which Mrs. McLaughlin picked up in a department store and admired by saying, "My, isn't this flaky?" Actually, the sweater was a colorful tweed which hardly could be described as the American concept of "flaky". There were a number of ordinary words used here every day that needed explanation because one just did not use them in Scotland.

One of the funniest things happened one evening when the Mathews and their guests were invited to a family dinner being hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Mathews, Sr. While discussing the evening ahead, Mr. Young inquired if there would be any talent present. "Good heavens, I thought, are we supposed to have entertainment for them?" Mrs. Mathews recalled. "It was quite by accident that I found that by talent she meant any eligible young men," Mrs. Mathews said.

The past two weeks have been busy ones as Mrs. Allison and her daughter have tried to show them around the north country with a trip to Canada via the Mackinac and International bridges, to points of interest elsewhere, to visit friends and to give a taste of life in this country.

When asked what this reunion has meant to them, the sisters almost in unison, said "It's been wonderful," but the look in their eyes and the warmth in their voices said far more than their words.

Satisfied that her beloved Liz is well and in good health at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mrs. McLaughlin and her daughter returned to Scotland Monday, laden with good news about their American family and their visit here.

All because someone was happy to respond to the request "Would you do me a favor?"

Board approves early graduation, awards snow bid

By FRANK MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education, at its regular meeting Monday, approved an early graduation, awarded the snow removal bid for the winter, approved an overnight trip for the girls basketball team and presented a certificate of appreciation to Charles Bentley in behalf of Sheriff George T. Lasater. The board also heard several reports.

A request for an early graduation was granted to Joseph B. Tilton who will have completed graduation requirements by June.

Hugh Lambert was granted the snow removal contract for the current winter season, his bid being the lower of two received. His bid was $22 per hour for the pick-up truck and plow and $40 per hour for the loader.

The girls basketball team was granted permission to attend the state finals at Kalamazoo in mid-December. The trip is financed by the team members. They will be accompanied by their coach, Henry Wagner, who made the request.

Max Novak presented a certificate of appreciation to Charles Bentley, high school counselor, who, at the request of Sheriff Lasater, had assisted with sergeant's Javel

Mary Ann Gibbons opens bed 'n breakfast business

by PEG OHLE

Charlevoix's first Bed and Breakfast facility has been opened at 300 North Bridge Avenue in the house formerly called the Otis Guest Lodge.

Mary Ann Gibbons, who grew up in Charlevoix, has moved back to start the business in the house she recently purchased. She is remodeling and redecorating the rooms and has set aside the winter months to remove the paint from Gibbons, and the sister door and window of eight Gibbons boys, frames and restore. She says she has been in them to their original finish.

There are five bedrooms on the second floor of Mary Ann's Bed and Breakfast house, each with a separate bath. There is a separate apartment on the first floor, which is also rented out, and the rest of the first floor is used by Mary Ann and her family for living purposes.

Mary Ann is the daughter of the late Dr. Gerald and Mrs. Gibbons, and the sister of eight Gibbons boys.

The senior Mrs. Gibbons presently makes her home with Mary Ann. There are also two daughters and a son in the family.

Names In The News

LT. J.G. LORETTA J. HOCH has joined the crew of the U.S.C.G.C. Mesquite. She comes to Charlevoix from U.S. Coast Guard headquarters in Washington, D.C.

A native of Boston, Mass., she is a graduate of the University of Notre Dame. She enlisted in the U.S. Coast Guard in 1982 and graduated in January 1983 from Officers Candidate School at Yorktown, Va., as an Ensign.

LT. J.G. Hoch is the second woman assigned to the U.S.C.G.C. Mesquite. In June, Ensign Monique Foster, a 1984 graduate of the U.S. Coast Guard Academy, became the first woman assigned to the ship.

LAURA CUSTER GALLOWAY, above, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Custer, has been named the coordinator for a new pre-certification program for hospital admission in Burlington, North Carolina.

This certificate program is sponsored by the medical community, including physicians, two hospitals, nursing homes, and the home care program for the entire county. The program assures cost-effective quality medical care for the area.

Mrs. Galloway is a graduate of Charlevoix High School and received her Associate's degree in nursing from North Central Michigan College. She continued her education at the University of North Carolina, where she earned a Bachelor's degree in nursing and recently a Master's degree in public health with emphasis on occupational nursing.

COL. ROBERT J. RAJEWSKI, above, was recently installed as president of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club to succeed Garret C. Miller. Other officers who will serve during the 1984-85 club year are: Clifford Biddick, president elect; James Mills, vice president; and Herbert Dishing, secretary. Directors are James Block, Robert Frame, Bill Nall, J. George Sevastian, Richard Meyer, John Kurtz and Wayne Woods. David Meyer of Petoskey was the installing officer. The Charlevoix Kiwanis meets at the Grey Gables for a luncheon meeting every Tuesday.

CATHERINE STEBE of Charlevoix was elected to the office of Pomona, one of 16 officers of the Michigan State Gange, at the Grange's annual convention held October 29 in Haultail.

RE-ENLISTING for three more years in the Coast Guard last week was Chief Quartermaster William Giles of Toledo, right. Presiding over the swearing-in ceremony.

QMJ William S. Stacey, above, a veteran of two years in the U.S. Coast Guard, was named "Sailor of the Quarter" aboard the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite for the fourth quarter ending September 1984.

The "Sailor of the Quarter" is nominated by the crew. The selection is based on the crewman's military bearing and etiquette, uniform appearance, work habits, professionalism and leadership.

In recognition of being named "Sailor of the Quarter", Stacey will be granted a 96-hour pass, have his name engraved on the ship's plaque, receive a parking space and head-of-the-line privileges for the next quarter.

Stacey is the son of William R. and Joyce G. Stacey of Rockford, Ill. He joined the U.S. Coast Guard in March 1982 after attending Michigan Technological University for 2½ years. He received his basic training at Cape May, N.J., and served for 1½ years at Coast Guard Station, Block Island, R.I. He then received formal training as a Quartermaster at the U.S. Naval Training Center, Orlando, Fla., before joining the crew of the U.S.C.G.C. Mesquite in December 1983. He now resides in Charlevoix.

His mother, Mrs. Valois Avery, and his wife, Danielle, pin new insignia on Chief Petty Officer Thomas S. Avery following his recent promotion.

Avery promoted to Chief Petty Officer

Thomas S. Avery, 29, a veteran of nine years in the U.S. Navy, was promoted recently to the rank of Chief Petty Officer, thus becoming one of the youngest men in the U.S. Navy to attain this rank in less than the usual time frame of 12½ years.

His mother, Mrs. Valois Avery and his wife, the former Danielle Rowland of Norfolk, Va., pinned his new insignia on his uniform during a ceremony aboard the USS A.W. Radford DD568 at the Norfolk Naval Base recently.

He has maintained a 3.84 evaluation rating out of a possible 4.0. Since his assignment as shop supervisor of the auxiliary Division aboard the Radford in April 1983, the ship participated in a seven months' Mediterranean cruise that included the support of the U.S. Marines stationed in Beirut, Lebanon. While on this cruise, he was awarded his second Good Conduct medal and Sea Service ribbon.

After basic training at Great Lakes, Ill., he attended Englewood Class "A" School, advancing to the rank of Achievement Medal Englewood third class. After an assignment aboard a yard tugboat at Rota, Spain, he attended General Motors Diesel Technical School, graduating third in a class of 24, in January 1978 and Class "C" Controllable Pitch on this cruise, he was awarded his second Good Conduct medal and Sea Service ribbon.

He was transferred to the Naval Submarine Base at Groton, Conn., and while there, was advanced to the rank of Engineer, First Class. In December 1982, he was transferred to the USS A.W. Radford DD568 at the Norfolk Naval Base recently.

He was awarded the Meritorious Unit Commendation ribbon Class "A" School, and the Navy Advancing to the rank of Achievement Medal Englewood third class. After an assignment aboard a yard tugboat at Rota, Spain, he attended General Motors Diesel Technical School, graduating third in a class of 24, in January 1978 and Class "C" Controllable Pitch on this cruise, he was awarded his second Good Conduct medal and Sea Service ribbon.

Site plan presented for lake water treatment plant

by DAVE KNIGHT

City Council got its first look Monday night at the site plan for a proposed lake water treatment plant to furnish a new source of water for the city.

The plant is being funded through the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Superfund as a response to the contamination by trichloroethylene (TCE) of city water. Traces of TCE, a suspected carcinogen, were discovered in city water in 1981 and as of last testing were present at a level of 30-40 parts per billion.

John W. Adams, project manager for the engineering firm of McNamee, Porter and Seely which has been contracted by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to design the treatment plant, presented the site plan to council at a special meeting.

According to the proposed plan, the plant will be constructed on the Lake Michigan shoreline south of the pier near the location of the present pumping station.

The existing pumping station will be removed, said Adams, since the cost of its renovation and integration into the new system was estimated to be at least as much as building a completely new facility.

The existing clear well under the pumping station will be filled in. Water for the treatment plant will be collected by an intake structure extending 1,500 feet into Lake Michigan. According to Adams, the collection point will be at a point of from 28 to 32 feet of water depth and under eight feet of sand.

The site plan for the treatment plant itself features a sand-colored, concrete building to house filtration and flocculation equipment, a smaller building for the high service pump and a concrete-covered reservoir.

The complex will be fronted on the lake side by a concrete retaining wall and fenced around its inland perimeters by high security fence.

Renderings of both a top view of the plant's configuration and an elevation of how the plant will look from the lake were presented to council.

Adams said that the plant will not prevent use of the beach for recreational purposes and that its operation will be no louder than the present pumping station.

The proposed treatment plant is designed to be capable of providing three million gallons of water a day. EPA and the DNR have agreed to provide funds for a 2 million gpd plant. The City of Charlevoix will pay for the difference, an amount for which a $500,000 bond proposal was passed in August and for which the specific cost figures are to be announced next week.

If everything goes as planned, said Adams, the treatment plant will be bld this spring with construction beginning in the summer. A 1½-year construction period - a conservative estimate, according to Adams.

would put completion sometime in the fall of 1986.

The Department of Public Health has given the city until January 1, 1987 to have a new water system on line.

'Victory' to live again!

A FAMILIAR SIGHT for many years to boaters and strollers along the Pine River Channel was the miniature sailing craft Victory lying on the bank next to Ricciardi's Inn, formerly the Weather-vane Restaurant. The boat, a scaled down version of a vintage square-master, was built by Allie Moore as a novelty and could actually be sailed. The boat has now been donated to the Charlevoix Historical Society. Society president Lou Orjowski is shown above with the vessel in storage. See page 7 for more on the story.

Plan Commission seeks names for lake advisory panel

by PEG OHLE

Names of prospective members of a Lake Charlevoix Advisory Committee to help develop a Lake Management Plan are being sent to the Charlevoix County Planning Commission.

The Planning Commission recently requested the governing bodies of townships and cities bordering Lake Charlevoix to suggest persons who would be willing and qualified to serve on a committee "to identify issues, problems, and concerns regarding the types and levels of activities taking place, both in the lake and on the land, that affect the lake."

The Planning Commission and the County Board will select one person from each township and city as well as a representative from the Lake Charlevoix Association, a representative from an environmental group, a representative from developmental interests, and two members to represent the County, to the Advisory Committee.

Larry Sullivan, Charlevoix County Planner, explained that the principal reason for the Advisory Committee is to provide liaison with local governments. They will also be asked to look at data provided by technical and professional resource people and decide where development should or should not occur, based on that data and the feelings of people in the communities they represent. All of this information will go into the Lake Management Plan.

Lake Charlevoix is located entirely within the County. Its welfare is essentially a County matter, and the Planning Commission has elected to find out what must be done to keep the lake the natural asset it is now.

In a statement of need for a Lake Management Plan, the Planning Department noted, "Lake Charlevoix is host to a wide variety of activities and uses, both in the water and on the adjoining lands. These rapidly expanding types and quantities of use are to a point where minor inconveniences are rapidly becoming major problems. We can only expect these problems to increase over time."

Among the problems cited were the rights of private land owners to utilize their property versus the rights of the public to make use of, and enjoy, the surface water area; the effect of intensive development on water quality of the lake; the carrying capacity of the lake for increasing numbers of boats of all sizes, from large freighters to flashing rowboats; and the introduction of large numbers of salmon into the Jordan River and Medusa Creek, which will require additional facilities such as launching ramps, parking lots, fish cleaning facilities, and marina slips.

The Advisory Committee will produce a draft Lake Management Plan which will include listings of current and possible future conflicts, environmental data regarding the ability of Lake Charlevoix to handle additional development, and to what extent, and desired alternatives and options, along with overall recommendations for the development and use of the lake. After public hearings, recommended changes will be incorporated into the draft plan, then the Plan will be submitted to the County Planning Commission, County Board of Commissioners, and the various municipalities involved for approval. On-going activities will include working with municipalities to get them to incorporate Management Plan recommendations into their own plans and ordinances, and to recommend changes in State laws and policies in accordance with

Post office faces possible move from downtown area

by DAVE KNIGHT

Having outgrown its familiar, flagstone building next to city hall on Mason Street, the U.S. Postal Service is looking for new quarters in Charlevoix and there is a good possibility the search may lead them out of the central business district.

"We're not out to take the post office out of the downtown," said Robert T. Wilkes, Jr., really management and a acquisition specialist for the Postal Service last week. "We're just trying to find a location that will provide the most competitive leasing or purchasing arrangement. If that happens to be downtown, so much the better."

First official word of the Postal Service's intention came by way of a letter to Mayor Kenneth Staley in June from Michigan district manager John M. Horne.

Wrote Horne, "Our tentative plans call for a building with approximately 4,144 square feet of interior space on a site to provide at least 20 parking spaces. An existing building which would meet our basic requirements in terms of building and site size, location and physical condition will be considered as an alternative to new construction."

Wilkes indicated last week that the Postal Service's preference for interior square footage was actually closer to 5,000 square feet with lot size at ¼ acre or slightly larger.

According to Wilkes, this makes Charlevoix a borderline case when it comes to the question of whether the Postal Service shall lease, an existing facility or build a new one.

"As a general rule," said Wilkes, "we prefer to lease buildings of 5,000 square feet or less and own buildings of greater than 5,000 square feet. Charlevoix is a borderline situation as we could probably go either way. If we find rental rates high, it is likely that we'll switch position and go to a Postal Service-owned facility."

The present post office has about 2,800 square feet of space. It is owned by Fred Willis and the lease, which was to expire in 1985, has been extended one more year to 1986.

Wilkes mentioned that one advantage to the community of a lease arrangement is the fact that taxes continue to be paid on the property. Should the Postal Service purchase a lot and build on it, he

For Saints and Sinners

by Sister Barbara Ann Seymour

As an itinerant preacher, Jesus didn't seem to have a steady source of income. It seems as though He and His band of disciples were dependent upon the generosity of others for food. Presumably, there may have been times when they went hungry. An incident related in Matthew (12: 1-8) shows how their hunger touched off a debate between Jesus and the sly Pharisees on the subject of the Sabbath. Nevertheless, it was their need for food that triggered the confrontation.

In this day when money is no problem for many, we still have the few for whom it is a problem. How many times has someone come to our door asking for a bite to eat? How have we responded? Did we see Christ or did we respond as a Pharisee?

Many communities respond to the poor and hungry with various types of soup kitchens. Some have centrally located food pantries supplied by various church groups. Others have tables in their churches where garden crops can be placed by some and picked up by others. Then there are those who think of the hungry only at Thanksgiving and Christmas time.

People who share food share their lives. Is our faith strong enough for this? We cannot worship God on Sunday and forget about the problems of the poor and hungry. When we meet our Maker will He say to us, "You did not feed me, nor clothe me nor give me anything to drink?"

Several years ago when the Three Musketeers candy bar first came into our lives, the advertisement told us to share it with friends. It even had indentations so that it could be easily broken into three parts. Not too long ago the ads for this same candy bar showed people hiding in the closet to eat the bar so that they wouldn't have to share it with anyone because it was so good. Forgive, Lord, Forgive!

USCG Station Charlevoix marks change of command

A formal Change of Command ceremony was held at the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station Friday. BMC John G. Foster was relieved of command of the station and retired after 20 years in the U.S. Coast Guard. Prior to assuming command at the station, he was stationed aboard the U.S.C.G. Cutter Sundew and later the Mesquite. He had come to Charlevoix from the U.S.C.G. Plaisance at Anchorage, Alaska, in Aug. 1977. He is a native of Cleveland where he enlisted in November 1964. He, his wife, Helen, and their two children will remain in Charlevoix.

Chief Simmons, who succeeds Chief Foster as commanding officer at Station Charlevoix, comes to Charlevoix from the U.S.C.G. Cutter Buckhorn at Sault Ste. Marie. He is a veteran of 14 years in the U.S. Coast Guard, having enlisted at St. Louis, Mo. in August, 1970.

He has been accompanied here by his wife and family.

Amateur standing

There has been considerable speculation this year, both locally and in state golfing circles, about the future of the Michigan Amateur tournament which was held last June at the Belvedere Golf Club for the 22nd straight year.

Over the past two decades, the Michigan Am has become as much a part of early summer in Charlevoix as high school graduation and the opening of the fudge shops.

Tradition aside, however, rumblings have been louder than ever about the possibility of a revamped tournament format and a new site.

The Golf Association of Michigan (GAM), which operates the Michigan Am, has something of a gentleman's agreement with Belvedere to hold the tournament here through 1988. But nothing's on paper and both parties know that a change could be made at any time.

Golf writers at both major Detroit daily papers stirred the simmering pot into a controversy far earlier this year when they openly suggested that Belvedere's hold on the Amateur was becoming increasingly tenuous.

"A number of courses are interested in the Amateur and the Michigan Open," wrote Jack Saylor in the Detroit Free Press and he went on to quote officials from several Northern Michigan golf courses who would covet the prestige of hosting a statewide tournament like the Amateur.

Jack Berry of the Detroit News paid his respects to the venerable Belvedere course writing, "Belvedere is a tradition worth keeping."

But he criticized both the qualifying format and the course's condition saying, "The only wrong with Belvedere is that the greens aren't anywhere close to championship speed." For non-sufferers, read the grass is too long! Belvedere isn't the only game in town," Berry continued. "The GAM should be in a position of strength and it should remember that the championship is for the players and they deserve the best possible conditions."

Opinion

Unsung heroes

by PEG OHLE

Among the unsung heroes of Election Day evening are those election inspectors and clerks who bring their precinct ballots to the Charlevoix County Building.

It's a long way from Chandler Hill or Huffman Lake to Charlevoix and it's even a longer way back after waiting an hour or two or three for their turn at the computer-counter.

In fact, it was after four o'clock last Wednesday morning, before the Boyne City ballots were counted and those election inspectors told they could go home.

I asked Rivard if such world-class courtesies were developed nearby as the Jack Nicklaus "Bear" at Grand Traverse Resort, Arnold Palmer's new course at Shanty Creek and Boyne Mountain's expanding complex are not attracting the interest of the GAM.

"Resort courses are not your competition," he said. "They are too commercially oriented and too expensive for us. Besides, when a tournament is held on a big resort course, the course tends to want more control of it and we do not want to give up our autonomy."

In January, Rivard will announce a new qualifying format for the Amateur that, he thinks, will quiet many critics.

In the recent past, all qualifying rounds have been held during tournament week using both Belvedere and one other local course. This resulted in a crowd of almost 400 golfers in a chaotic and, many say, unfair method of pairing, down the field for match play.

Under a new system involving some exemptions and a series of qualifying opportunities around the state, tournament play will start at Belvedere next June 22 with 168 players. Finals will be held on Friday instead of Saturday as in the past.

While there may be fewer players involved, said Rivard, the field will be much better, adding prestige to the tourney. He also pointed out that, instead of just one week of publicity for Charlevoix, the Belvedere course and the community's name will be mentioned in news accounts of each of the qualifying events at various locations leading up to the finals, thus resulting in much more media exposure.

A welcome break in the long wait last Tuesday night was provided by the refreshment table laden with sandwiches, cookies, and coffee. Presiding over the table was Helen Kalchik, mother of County Clerk Jane Brannon, who kept the coffee urn full and the sandwiches "coming" all night long.

Everyone appreciated the soothing effects of the food and drink, but they did not know that it was all prepared and contributed by Mrs. Kalchik, who, incidentally, lives outside of Charlevoix County—in Petoskey.

Mrs. Kalchik has served refreshments every election night since her daughter has been County Clerk. She says she does it because she enjoys it and "wants to help."

Mrs. Kalchik is another unsung hero.

Clockwise

Just wait; we'll get ours

Northern Michigan, noted for its cold winter weather, is still basking under sunny skies with nary a flake of snow on the ground or in the air.

Meanwhile southeast Michigan is digging out from its first snowstorm of the season—from three to five inches of slush, according to press reports.

I must have a mean streak, because, as a transplanted Detroit, news of the storm gave me all kinds of warm-fuzzies. I was awfully glad to be north in the tropics.

Of course, we seldom get the same weather as Detroit, unless we are in the grips of a big "general storm" that blankets the entire Midwest.

True, we do get more winter precipitation than the Motor City, but most of ours isn't really snow. It's light and fluffy "lake effect," and you're not supposed to notice it until it slides off your roof and breaks your neck.

Or keeps your car in the driveway.

BUT OUR TURN is coming. Deer hunters reportedly like a little snow before the season opens to help them track whitetails. Snow also helps keep deer cold. But, come to think of it, hunters don't complain too loudly if deer season dawns bright, sunny and snowless. And if the beer is tepid, so what?

Fair weather certainly makes a day in the woods more pleasant. Ski resort operators, of course, are hoping for snow, although some of them have been able to cover their hills with the artificial stuff.

But somehow skiing is not the same without marshmallow drifts around the lodge and a wintry landscape stretching as far as the eye can see from the crest of every hill.

But, when it comes down to cases, we could sail through the whole winter without any natural snow and who would really care. Let's have a snow machine.

MIKE AND MARILYN Gibbons think Charlevoix was lucky to have such two such qualified mayoral candidates as Hal Hill and Ralph McRae. They also think it's a shame that one of them had to lose.

They wonder if Charlevoix could change its charter to allow for the election of two mayors—who would take turns presiding at council meetings. It one wanted to take a few weeks off in the winter and go to Florida, fine. The other mayor would step in and take over.

Of course, we have something similar in state and federal government, with the election of governors and lieutenant governors and presidents and vice presidents.

The closest parallel on the local level is the selection of a mayor pro tem from among the members of the council. The mayor pro tem chairs the meeting in the mayor's absence.

The idea is not exactly new. Oligarchies have flourished from time to time in Central America and other corners of the world. For a while, Russia was governed by a troika, or three-member administrative panel. The phrase, incidentally, was derived from a sleigh or wagon drawn by three horses abreast.

The Gibbons' proposal is interesting and bears some investigation. The mayor's desk, of course, would need a new sign with an arrow: The buck stops here. Or over there.

At this point, no funding has been authorized by the Postal Service for a new facility. The site selection process is in a "preliminary survey" stage, said Wilkes.

A likely timeframe, he said, would have the recommendation on a new site to the Postal Service district office made sometime between February and April. The ensuing process of advertising bids if necessary and completing other procedural tasks would extend another 90 days so the soonest any final action could be taken would be next summer.

Lake Management Plan objectives. To give the Advisory Committee a special tool to work with, the Planning Department will make an "attitudinal study" of the entire County to learn what residents feel about Lake Charlevoix, its impact on their lives, and how it can be protected.

Charlevoix County is seeking a $12,500 Coastal Management Program grant to help defray the expenses of the Local Lake Management Plan. According to Sullivan, the possibilities of receiving the grant "appear favorable."

The townships to be involved in the Lake Management Plan are Hayes, Bay, Evangeline, South Arm, Eveline, Marion, and Charlevoix, and the cities are Charlevoix, East Jordan, and Boyne City.

The deadline for suggesting local representatives to the Advisory Committee is November 30. Those wishing to serve are asked to contact their township or city clerk.

At present, the city purchases power on a wholesale basis from Consumers and resells it to its customers. MPPA is seeking $7,000 in up-front costs from Charlevoix to participate in the new program. Both Petoskey and Harbor Springs have agreed to participate. With no objections voiced Monday night, the Charlevoix council is expected to authorize participation, at its November 19 meeting.

A power supply study recently completed by MPPA estimated that Charlevoix could save up to $2,681,000 over the period of 1985-2003. According to James Brinker, who represents Charlevoix on the MPPA commission, the proposal could provide a hedge against wholesale rate increases expected to be granted Consumers Power and other major electricity providers by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission as early as next January.

Adams said that any delay on the construction of the intake structure will not affect progress on the treatment plant. The intake structure was to have been in place before the end of the year to provide an emergency source of water should TCE levels in the present water supply suddenly increase. Council approved the site plan unanimously.

Sex education nothing new at Middle School

by ANNE KELLY

"There's been a lot of publicity lately about the sex ed programs that have been adopted by local schools," said Middle School Principal Dave Smith. "I tell that the community should know that we've had a very fine program for 10 years and that Toni Felter is responsible for its success."

It was ten years ago that Ms. Felter and Barb Cook, another Middle School instructor, seeing the need, started the program. At that time discussions about sex education in the schools was still controversial, so it was necessary to engage a large community committee to review materials and approve curriculum decisions. But Ms. Felter, whose qualifications for teaching such state requirements by her commitment and continually updating her own education on the subject, believed strongly then as she does now, that at least by middle school, students must be exposed to "information about themselves and the opposite sex. Body awareness and basic sexual information, she believes, is a necessary inclusion in any health education curriculum."

Subsequently, state guidelines for teaching sex information in the schools were issued in directives from the Michigan Dept. of Education, "Sex Education Guidelines, Including Reproductivity, Health and Family Planning." The state's mandates merely put theory into practice. Sex Education went public or became official at this point, and the curriculum evolved into a definite schedule for including sexuality education in the Middle School Health and Physical Education program taught by Ms. Felter and Norm Probert.

At the present, eighth grade students are given a two-day overview; seventh grade—one week; eighth grade—two weeks.

In sixth grade, students learn why they should study about sex. Boys and girls receive separate education via filmstrips and discussions to help them understand bodily changes.

In seventh grade, again boys and girls are separated for more indepth sexuality education which reviews and broadens their knowledge of physical growth. Students receive handouts, see films and discuss dating, friendship and decision making. They also see a film on venereal disease.

Eighth graders have the most extensive program. More advanced information is given to boys and girls separately. Films, handouts and discussions deal with their bodies, the relationship of sexual intercourse, fertilization and development through birth. The problems of teenage pregnancy is presented and discussed.

Before the unit is presented in each grade, materials and films may be previewed by parents.

"Very few parents have ever objected to having their children participate in the program," reports Mr. Smith. "No one has ever said, 'I don't want my child taught about sex, per se.' Those who object may say, 'This material is not for my child yet,' or 'we wish to teach our child about sex at home.'"

Parents seem to realize as do educators, that kids have to have knowledge before they can make knowledgeable decisions.

As for the students, Mr. Felter reports that little discomfort at first, before long after receiving handouts describing facts, myths, decision-making, and stereotypes, the students' discussions begin to roll.

"They (the handouts) always get them going," Ms. Felter said. "I think a lot of kids appreciate the information because it's not a lecture."

St. Mary's students can now work with their own computer.

Computer training welcomed by St. Mary's students on order thanks to Glen's slips and generous donations from the Gels and Kang families. First graders are learning basic skills on a Texas Instruments Computer.

Right now we are utilizing educational material available through Char-Em, for reinforcement of developmental skills and decision-making skills," explained Sister. "The kids just had a fundraiser from which they made a $2,300 profit. We're going to use that to purchase software for our own."

The students are enthusiastic about their new equipment and the programs. Their favorite? "Hangman," according to some of the sixth graders.

"Of course they like the games," explained Sister. "But they're not starry-eyed; they have an educational purpose."

St. Mary's has joined the computer age and are glad they did. Just ask the kids waiting for their turn.

Society rescues Moore boat

A replica of an early Allie Moore sailing vessel which was a part of the Weathered Inn landscape on the north side of Pine River channel for many years has been donated to the Charlevoix Historical Society. The remaining few may be purchased at the organization, announced at the recent meeting held at Harsha House. A storage place for the little vessel is being sought until it can be restored and displayed again. Anyone who would like to lend a hand on this project is asked to call Orlowski at 547-2848.

At the same meeting, Mrs. C.D. Gelken advised that only a limited number of Bob Miles' Charlevoix books remain to be sold. It was also announced at the meeting that the pictorial history of the community, donated by the society by Mr. Miles, have been sold. The remaining few may be purchased at the organization, announced at the recent meeting held at Harsha House. V.F.W. auxiliary hosts district president Barbara Harrington of Indian River, Northern District V.F.W. Auxiliary president, made her annual inspection of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary No. 1153 at a recent meeting held at the post home.

At the business meeting that followed the formal inspection, the auxiliary voted to make a donation to be used to purchase Christmas gifts for the needy of the area. Children's gifts again be distributed by Santa who has already scheduled a stop at the party to which all members of both organizations and their families are invited.

...If you're a member of the First State Bank Christmas Club...
Max Novak says, "Regardless of your income it is the best way to save. I've had a Christmas Club for about 15 years. You don't miss the money when you're putting it in and you have a little extra money at Christmas."
Not everyone uses their Christmas Club money for Christmas presents. Some members simply use it as a regular savings program for taxes, end of the year expenses, or as a savings bonus. First State Bank invites you to join the 1985 Christmas Club beginning Nov. 2 or anytime thereafter. You can join from one dollar to 20 dollars a week and First State Bank will pay 5% interest on completed clubs.

Fish planting tanks are loaded onto the Mesquite.

Mesquite completes fish planting mission

What is spawned in October, hatched in December, planted the following October, and watched on your fishing line some 2 years later. Thanks to the ongoing efforts of the Jordan River National Fish Hatchery, lake trout are making a comeback in the Northern Great Lakes. Just this past October 14 and 15, some 100,000 yearling trout were off-loaded from the deck of the USCGC MESQUITE into the middle of Lake Michigan, as the U.S. Coast Guard continued its support of the Fish Hatchery's project.

According to Frank Stone, a fisheries biologist who has worked at the National Fish Hatchery for 7 years, "fish planting" is one of the strategies being used to restock the Great Lakes' trout populations which had been severely depleted in the 1940's. At that time, overfishing by commercial fishermen, large losses of mature trout to sea lampreys, and a deadly infection on young trout all contributed to the trout's virtual extinction from the Great Lakes' State and federal waters.

First, practically all commercial fisheries were banned. Then, the development and use of the toxic lampicide killed the sea lamprey that were consuming the trout's young. Having eliminated at least two of the trout's predators, the restocking phase of the project commenced. By 1965, the Jordan River National Fish Hatchery had been established.

Stone recalled that originally, the fish were planted in the spring from the lakes' shores. "Trucks carrying the fish tanks travelled along the coasts of the northern lakes to assigned spots, where the fish were released at the water's edge," Stone explained. He went on to point out, however, that a study done in Holland, MI, indicated that possibly 90% of the shore planted fish were shortly killed by natural predation. "We concluded that the shallow, sandy areas along the coast make survival for the young fish more difficult," Stone continued.

In 1974, the idea of offshore fish planting was realized. By determining the locations of the best fishing areas in the lakes, it was possible to predict where the prime spawning habitats are for lake trout. While the spring shore plantings have continued, fall offshore plantings now supplement the hatchery's efforts. The job of spawning and hatching the 23 million baby trout each year is up to Frank Stone and his staff. Off-loading the fish into the middle of the lakes is a job now delegated to the U.S. Coast Guard. Thus, this past October found the USCGC MESQUITE in Grand Haven where, over a 2 day period, 7 tanks were loaded onto the ship and sailed out to the designated sites in Lake Michigan. Each tank holds 100 gallons of water and approximately 30,000 baby trout — or the equivalent of 1400 lbs. Once the desired area had been reached, large hoses were attached to the tanks and the 8 inch fish were pumped into their new neighborhood. For Frank Stone and the people working at the National Fish Hatchery, the effort remains an ongoing success story. For the crew of the MESQUITE, the project remains an interesting alternative to buoy tending. And for the trout fishers of the Great Lakes, the entire production means fish on the table!

WW meeting

The November 20th meeting of the Welcome Wagon Club will be held at the Charlevoix Public Library beginning at 12 noon.

Each person should bring a sack lunch; beverages will be provided. The program will focus on craft ideas for Christmas gifts. Each newcomer is asked to bring a craft item to show and tell the others about. Bill Washburn will also help create an ornament.

Talent Show

The Charlevoix High School Performing Arts Students have issued an invitation to area residents with a talent to participate in their second annual talent show scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 1, at the high school gymnasium. Talent of every type is being sought in order to organize a diversified and entertaining program. Prizes this year will be given according to three age categories: adults; high school students; middle school and younger. First prize in each division will be $30 and second prize $20. Those planning to enter the show are asked to call 547-2474 to register or for further information.

Obituaries

FREDA J. TORREY

Funeral services for a former resident, Mrs. Freda J. Torrey, 80, of Oxford, were held Saturday at the Bonardet Funeral Home in Oxford. Interment was in an Oxford cemetery.

Born in Charlevoix Jan. 12, 1914, the former Freda Jean Willis was graduated from the Charlevoix High School and Michigan State University with a Master's degree in Special Education. She was married to Alfred E. Torrey at Charlevoix March 18, 1943. They always made their home in Oxford except for a few years spent in Montana. She had been a Special Education teacher in the Pontiac School System until stricken with multiple sclerosis about 20 years ago.

She is survived by her husband; three daughters, Mrs. Robert (Carol) Lundquist of Frankfort, Ill., Mrs. Peter (Alice) Greko of Troy, and Mrs. Keith (Mary) Smith of Ogden, Kan.; a son, Fred W. of Pontiac; 19 grandchildren and two sisters, Mrs. Richard (Betty) Lennos of Northville and Mrs. Harold (Mary) Pomeroy of South St. Paul, Minn.

HARRY R. FLORA

Funeral services for Harry R. Flora, 83, of South Arm Township, were held Nov. 7 at the East Jordan Missionary Church. The Rev. James Duncan officiated. Interment was in Sunset Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Flora died Nov. 5 at Charlevoix Area Hospital. Born at Amber, MI, Nov. 12, 1900, Mr. Flora was married to the former Evelyn Gibson May 4, 1927, at Grand Rapids where the couple lived until moving to South Arm Township in 1931. He was a farmer and later was employed at the East Jordan Iron Works for 18 years. From 1958 until he retired in 1963 he was employed at the Thorsen Lumber Co.

He was a member of the East Jordan Missionary Church. Besides his wife, he is survived by a son, Wayne Robert of Grand Rapids; three daughters, Mrs. Richard (Janet) Pomeroy and Mrs. Vern (Margaret) Counsellor, both of Lansing, and Beverly Little of Blackfoot, Ida.; 10 grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; a brother, Howard, of Belmont and four sisters, Mrs. Ada Kitchum and Mrs. Blanche Neilson, both of Muskegon, Mrs. Cors Lammer of Rockford and Mrs. Carolyn Jones of Grandville. Recreation Plan suggests improvements to most popular bicycling routes

One outdoor recreational activity which receives considerable attention in the recently completed Recreation Plan for Charlevoix County is bicycling. The plan makes note of the fact that there is noticeable bicycle traffic along a number of roads in the County. The riders are of two groups, according to the plan: Touring groups that are destined for areas north of the County, and local residents and visitors to the County.

The touring traffic is mostly confined to the major north-south highways, US-31 and US-131. These highways are used by individuals and groups as they travel to the Mackinac Bridge area and usually do not spend much time in the County.

Typical bicycle riders throughout the County, M-88 between Charlevoix and East Jordan, 13 miles. Charlevoix County is the

To hold makeup session

Teenage girls in the community are invited to attend a "make-up" session at the Charlevoix Public Library Saturday, Nov. 17, 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. The session, scheduled at the library at 11 a.m. will be given by Gloria Laisure representing a popular cosmetic company. She will be assisted by others so that those attending will have an opportunity to try various techniques. All girls attending are asked to bring a hand mirror.

Teenage boys in the community attended a hunter safety session at the library last Saturday given by Tom Sweet of the DNR.

The sessions are offered as a community service to the young people of the area.

BEACH HOTEL, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Charlevoix Yesterday

The picture of The Inn, one of Charlevoix' early resort hotels, we ran a few weeks ago brought forth some comments from newcomers such as "I didn't know there was ever anything like THAT in Charlevoix". The picture above is of another early resort hotel, the Beach Hotel, which was located at the Lake Michigan end of Dixon Avenue, now the present site of LaCrosse Condominiums. The Beach Hotel complex also included several cottages which surrounded the hotel building.

Several readers identified the house in last week's paper as being at the top of the South Bridge Street hill, on the east side of the street. Also, Mrs. Lydia Alcock was identified as the grandmother of Mrs. James (Millie) Hiller, who lives on M-66. From another source came the information that the house had recently been sold to an architect who intends to restore it to its original lines.

CHS blood drive successful

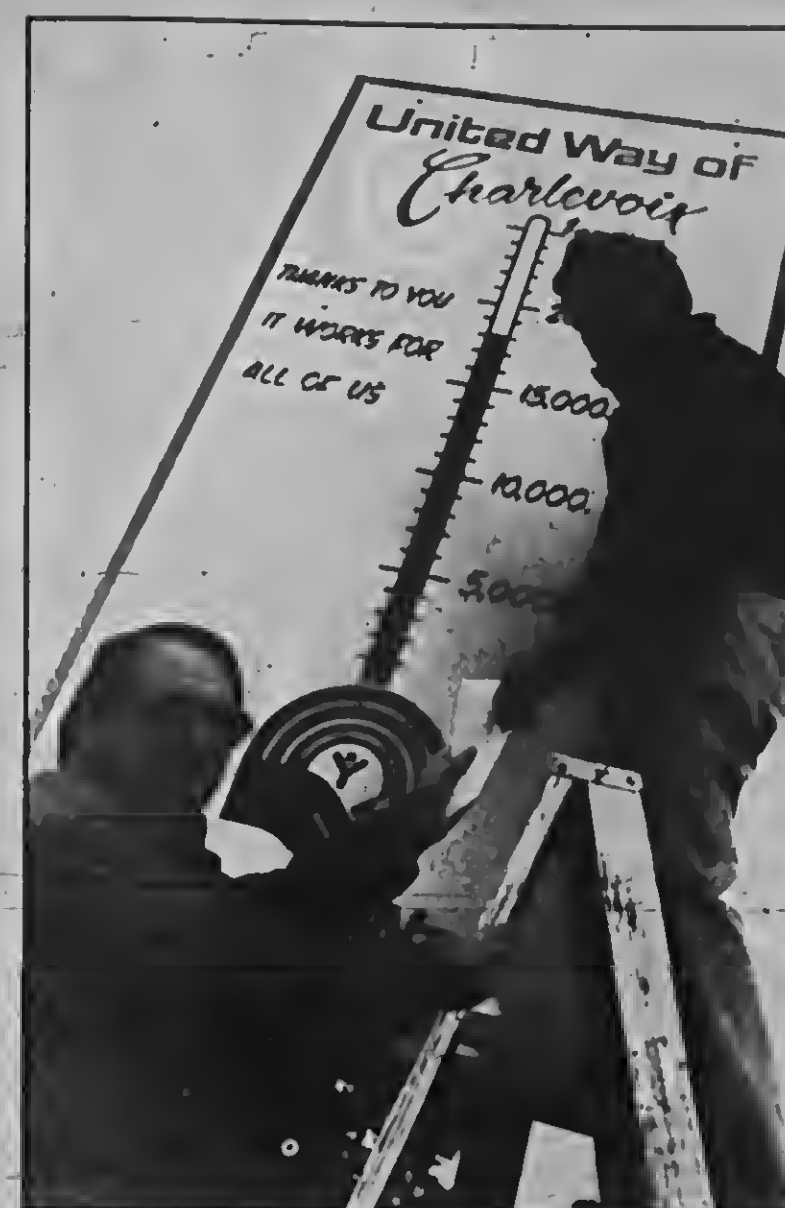

The recent blood drive at the Charlevoix High School sponsored by the Student Council resulted in 55 pints of blood being donated, most of it by students. Maureen Boddy, president of the Council, has announced. The Bloodmobile is scheduled to return for another Student Council sponsored drive in March.

Now selling Christmas cards

The Northwest Michigan Council for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect is selling Christmas cards as a fund raising program. Proceeds from the sale of the cards will be going to the National Committee as well as the Northwest Michigan Council.

Each box contains 25 cards on recycled paper. There are three card designs available: "Evergreen Tree" and "Teddy on the Sled" sell for $7 a box and "Dove" sells for $8 a box. Samples of the cards are on display at various community agencies. In Charlevoix, orders and purchases can be made through November at the Department of Social Services on M-46 south of town.

Those wishing more information are asked to contact Lucia Kadzielski at the East Jordan Family Health Center, 536-2243.

NEARING ITS GOAL of $25,000 was the Charlevoix United Way last week after receiving a check for over $4,000 from the employees of the Consumers Power Big Rock Point nuclear plant through a payroll deduction plan. Charles E. MacInnis, left, public affairs director for the plant, handed the donation to Jim Marshall, president of the local United Way, who displayed the new total on the United Way sign in East Park.

Prisoners in county jail to pay for stay?

by PEG OHLE

Prisoners incarcerated in County jails in Michigan may now be required to pay at least part of their upkeep while in jail.

The Prisoner Reimbursement Act (Public Acts 118-121 of 1984) became effective June 1. It provides for certain powers and duties of County officials and for the reimbursement of certain expenses incurred by prisoners sentenced to County jails.

Sheriff George T. Lasater and Deputy Sheriff William Cousineau appeared before the County Board of Commissioners last week to answer questions about this new legislation. They explained that general rules for implementing the law had not yet been fully spelled out, although the law itself provides certain guidelines, notably:

reimbursement for not more than $30 a day of the actual per diem cost of maintaining the prisoner in jail, whichever is less. Before seeking any reimbursement, the County must determine the prisoner's family responsibilities and his financial situation, but in no way shall the County enforce any judgement against the homestead of a prisoner. Any reimbursement secured under the Act would be credited to the County's General Fund and made available for General Fund purposes. The Sheriff and his Deputy expressed some doubt that they would be able to collect very much money from the average Charlevoix County jail prisoner because of the usual financial situation of prisoners. There was some hope, however, of collecting from the so-called "weekend inmates", those serving three-day sentences for impaired driving or operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. No action will be taken by the County until the rules implementing the law are available and it can be determined whether the collection effort will bring in enough reimbursement to make it worthwhile.

Fight asphalt tank fire with foam

Thursday morning.

The Charlevoix Volunteer Fire Department was called to the Bay Shore plant of Hodgkiss & Douma to extinguish a fire in a 20,000 gallon asphalt tank that was being cleaned in preparation for winter storage early a.m. reported the fire.

A TRANSPORTATION UNIT led to a bunching project of their own. A group of children, including some from the Charlevoix County State Bank, held up a banner that read "Friday morning with a note about balloons". Each balloon bore the name of a child. But others blew away with the wind, destination yet unknown.

People Who Care discuss alcohol abuse

Emergency food to be stored away

Almost $14,000 worth of staple food items will be bought and stored in pantries around Charlevoix County to care for emergency needs of local people during the winter months. The food will be purchased locally from funds supplied by the Federal Emergency Management Administration. A committee representing several County agencies recently met to set up final plans for the food needs, 15 percent of the program. Participating food will be stored in the Rainbow Charlevoix, 15 percent Shoppe of Charlevoix at the Department of (Charlevoix Ministerial Social Services, 40 Association), Share and percent in Boyne City Care-in-East Jordan, and Boyne Falls, and 30 Community Services percent in East Jordan. Department of the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Boyne City, Charlevoix food will actually be stored in the Department of Social Services (Doug McComb), and the County Board of Commissioners (Don Smith).

by ANNE KELLY

A recent People Who Care meeting which featured Sheriff George Lasater, Ann Rose of Chip Counseling Center and high school counselor Chuck Bentley, served as a forum for voicing some community concerns regarding drug and alcohol abuse.

Grim statistics, cited by Sheriff Lasater, were as follows: a 264 percent increase in drunk driving arrests in 1983; in 1983 13 out of 15 traffic fatalities in Charlevoix.

County involved alcohol abuse; in 1983 there were 25 accidents involving teenagers drinking and driving. Of these there resulted 2 deaths, 9 personal injuries and 15 cases of property damage. High school counselor Chuck Bentley agreed that alcohol was being covertly used by high school students. He stated that the school's policy regarding alcohol use by students is this: if a student is suspected of alcohol consumption, his parents are notified and must retrieve the student. Ann Rose, Chip counselor on the panel, advised parents not to ignore signs of alcohol consumption by their child, but to meet the problem openly. A suggestion for parents who children are not involved in drinking and will hopefully will not become involved, was that of making the home the center of activity for children and their friends. All the panel members agreed that parents should watch their own drinking habits if they expect their children to refrain from alcohol abuse. Lasater, who considers the increase in alcohol abuse in Charlevoix County to be "frightening and discouraging", suggested that there seems to be a general apathy regarding the problem by the general public and the community. "Every time I see beer commercials on TV that make drinking look so appealing, I ask myself, 'What are we doing?'"

Knights the Town

The town of Emmet County, Michigan, is a place of many legends and stories. One of the most famous is the story of the Bay Shore Barrier. This barrier, which is a natural formation of sand and dunes, has been a part of the town's history for many years. It is a place of great beauty and interest, and it is a place that has inspired many writers and artists. The barrier is a unique feature of the town, and it is a place that is worth visiting. It is a place that has a rich history and a beautiful landscape. It is a place that is a true gem of the town.

You are a weather buff, you are interested to know that the Bay Shore Barrier is still there. It is a natural formation of sand and dunes, and it is a place of great beauty and interest. It is a place that has inspired many writers and artists. The barrier is a unique feature of the town, and it is a place that is worth visiting. It is a place that has a rich history and a beautiful landscape. It is a place that is a true gem of the town.

What happened Monday when Charlevoixans awoke to find their first snow cover of the season? The answer is, it wasn't enough snow to call for a plow, but the pavement was slippery. If you were among the commuters it behooved you to be cautious.

At the viaduct, patches of snow began to appear. At the intersection in Bay Shore, the highway was visible. And a snowmobile was seen in Emmet County.

Read signs... Continued from page 1... buy the posts for the signs. The Road Commission would do the erecting of the signs. The signs would be needed or how the town would cost, although estimated they would be between $100 and $150 each. The County Board would send the Townships a letter indicating its position in the numbering system.

Residents throughout the county have long felt the need for a numbered numbering system to assist emergency vehicles such as fire, ambulance, and Sheriff's patrol, the Post Office Department, and others in finding certain people's homes when necessary.

Could the Pilgrims have made it on their own in a 1984 world?

by PEG OHLE

We have all read the history book stories about how the Pilgrims celebrated their first harvest in the New World. It had been a good harvest, that summer and fall of 1621, following a cold, hard winter in which almost half of the Pilgrim colony died of cold and disease.

It is known that this first harvest feast, which has since become "Thanksgiving," lasted for three days, but the exact dates are lost in time, except for speculation that it was sometime before the first of December.

Neighboring Indians joined the Pilgrims in the feasting and brought their share of wild turkeys, venison, cod and bass, corn and barley, and nutmegs. Even without greens and sweets, this sounds like nourishing and tasty food.

Harvesting the crops, hunting the turkeys and deer, and catching the fish must have taken a lot of time and energy in a day when everything was done crudely "by hand." We began to wonder if a small colony of men and women could come to Charlevoix County this year with no more facilities than the Pilgrims had when they landed in 1620, clothe and feed their families, and grow sufficient crops for a bountiful harvest feast the following year.

We asked this question of one of Charlevoix's greatest outdoorsmen, Clayton Smith, and his answer was, "Yes, if they wanted to live the way people did then, if they had enough pioneer spirit."

Realizing that the Pilgrims landed in the New World too late to plant and harvest crops, that "pioneer spirit" the first winter, according to Clayton would mean foraging for unharvested corn left in the fields by the Indians, picking fruits and berries from trees and bushes, digging roots, and harvesting nuts. Then there would be the wild birds and game and fish.

Today, wildlife is less abundant, but it is there for the catching, be it porcupine or suckers, Clayton points out. And there are all kinds of wild apple trees and hedge rows filled with unharvested grains.

Clayton was packing his lunch and getting ready to go out and check his traps last Friday when we talked to him. Trapping is mostly a hobby now, but he likes to keep busy, and besides, it was deer hunting season, and he was going to take his gun along "just in case." He told us he had a favorite sport for eating lunch.

Sara Teasdale, who summered here, was born 100 years ago

by DAVE KNIGHT

Of the legion of artists who have drawn inspiration from the beauty and ambience of Charlevoix over the years, few attained as much prominence in their field as Sara Teasdale.

Referred to by scholars as the "Poet of Love," Miss Teasdale published her first book of poems, "Love Songs," in 1907. Her next work, "Love Songs," earned the Columbia Poetry Society of America Prize, a forerunner of the Pulitzer.

Though somewhat neglected in academic circles, the work of Sara Teasdale enjoys a large and loyal popular following which is in the process of celebrating the centennial anniversary of Miss Teasdale's birth in 1884.

Just this past weekend, a Sara Teasdale conference was held at St. Louis University. In addition to at least two studies now being done on the poet, a television documentary on her life and work is being prepared and is supposed to be completed sometime this fall.

St. Louis residents, the Teasdale family started spending their summers in Charlevoix in 1900 when Sara was six years old. John Teasdale, her father, was a highly successful businessman in St. Louis.

The hospice works with terminally ill persons and their families, assisting them through a coordinated program using professionals and volunteers. The goal of Charlevoix County Hospice is to enable people with a terminal illness to choose to die at home. Hospice's focus is on the quality of life remaining.

November marks the first anniversary of the County Hospice being "in service" and the 10th anniversary of Hospice nationwide.

Sara Teasdale

Louis and became well known in the Charlevoix resort community as well over the "23 summers the family spent here."

When he died in 1923 at the family's summer home at 303 Michigan Ave. (next to the current site of the Pointner-Dingwidy office building), William Drake, author of "Sara Teasdale: Woman and Poet," described her as "pathologically reclusive."

Mrs. Laura Jean Wullman, a Charlevoix resident during the years the Teasdales summered here, recalled in Edith Gilbert's book "Summer Resort Life" her one experience with Sara: "One day I saw Miss Teasdale in the lookout of her house writing. My mother had told me she was a poetess and had read to me a couple of Miss T's poems which

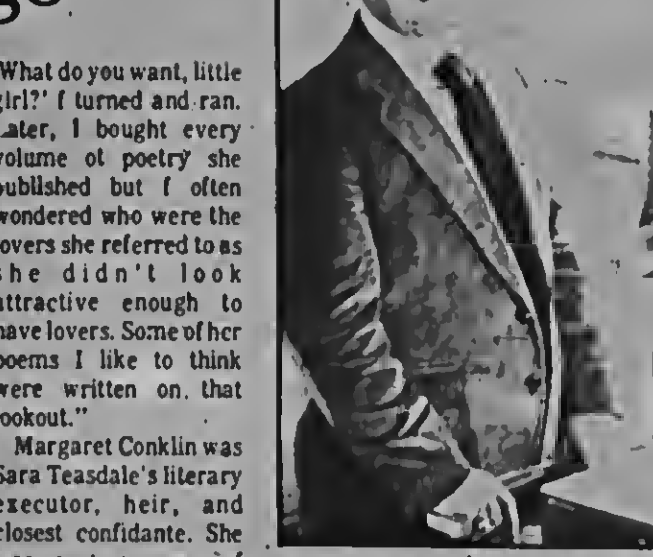

I believed had appeared in either Atlantic Monthly or Harpers. I wanted a closer look at a poetess so I quietly edged my way toward interrupted at that her I stopped about twenty feet from her. It may well have been in that "little summer house" that Sara and Teasdale wrote the irregular features, a melancholy pean rather sharp face. She looked up and asked Charlevoix harbor:

Here by the blue lake harbor
I watch the ships steam in;
Up the clear wind of morning
Their smoke climbs black and thin.
Their whistles break the brittle air;
They beat an angry track;
But oh, the gentle sailing ships
That never will come back!

Where is the scarlet Rosabelle
That brought the mill's grain,
Her white sails dripping with the sun,
Or grayed against the rain?
Where is the Northern Lady,
With cedar logs weighed down,
Whose cabin with a wooden leg
Went creaking up and down?
And the little Queen of England,
That had so fresh an air
When the captain's wife leaned on the rail
With the sunshine on her hair?
The Good Squaw, and the Jager B.,
The Pearl, The Golden Bough—
O gentle ships, O gentle ships,
Where are you anchored now?

What do you want, little girl? I turned and ran. Later, I bought every volume of poetry she published but I often wondered who were the lovers she referred to as she didn't look attractive enough to have lovers. Some other poetess I like to think were written on that lookout."

Margaret Conklin was Sara Teasdale's literary executor, heir, and closest confidante. She was sent a copy of "Summer Resort Life" when the book was published in 1976 and in a letter to Mrs. Gilbert, wrote: "I think I understand that Mrs. Wullman remembers Sara was an intensely private person; no one ever just 'dropped in' on her, not even her closest friends. She did use that little summer house to write poetry in and I imagine she did not want to be edged my way toward interrupted at that her I stopped about twenty feet from her. It may well have been in that "little summer house" that Sara and Teasdale wrote the irregular features, a melancholy pean rather sharp face. She looked up and asked Charlevoix harbor:

The monitor, which the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild recently purchased for the OB Department, keeps track of a newborn's heart and respiration rates and sounds an alarm if either go too high, too low or if the infant stops breathing.

This monitor may be used on all newborns with suspected heart and respiratory problems and on any infant whose family has had other children stricken by Sudden Infant Death Syndrome.

The gift of the monitor to the OB Department is one of several major donations the guild has made to the hospital this year. Other gifts include decorative wall hangings to brighten the front lobby, a sliding partition to permit the Chapel area of the solarium to be closed off for privacy, large window blinds throughout the hospital, the funds toward new color television sets for patient rooms.

Ms. Ingram said donations from the guild this year total some $9,425. She credited the many volunteers who work at the shop and maintain the Showcase Gift Shop and Food Cooler for helping to raise these donations.

Pizza Hut chips in for local hospice

The Charlevoix Pizza Hut Restaurant is helping celebrate National Hospice Month. Next Saturday, November 24, Pizza Hut will serve up all the pizza its customers can eat for $3.79 for adults and $1.99 for children under 10. Then they will donate $1 of the $3.79 price and 50 cents of the $1.99 price to Charlevoix County Hospice, Inc.

Hospice is a non-profit organization supported by donations, memorials, and membership dues. Local headquarters are in East Jordan, phone 536-2842. Volunteers are needed for all kinds of work.

November marks the first anniversary of the County Hospice being "in service" and the 10th anniversary of Hospice nationwide.

Obituaries

LAWRENCE E. HULL
Funeral services for Lawrence E. Hull, 70, were held at the Winchester Funeral Home on Nov. 14. The Rev. Walter Hastings of the Community Church of God officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Hull died Nov. 12 at Little Traverse Hospital.

Born in Charlevoix Oct. 25, 1914, Mr. Hull went to Detroit in 1934 and, for the next 34 years, was employed as a Hilo operator at the Ford Motor Co. He retired in 1971 and returned to Charlevoix to make his home. He was a member of the Community Church of God.

Surviving are his wife, Esther; a daughter, Mrs. Edward (Sandra) Skowronski of Mt. Clemens; a step-son, James Crounman of Royal Oak; a step-daughter, Shirley Adamski of Chatham, Ont.; nine grandchildren and two sisters, Mrs. Charlotte Willis of Charlevoix and Mrs. George (Ruby) Brown of Potosky.

The family suggests memorials to the American Cancer Society.

JOHN J. LUCAS

Funeral services for John J. Lucas, 84, were held at St. Mary's Church Friday, Nov. 16, with the Rev. Casimir Zawacki officiating. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery. The Rosary was recited at the Winchester Funeral Home Thursday evening.

Mr. Lucas died Nov. 14 at his North Point home.

Born in Cleveland Aug. 6, 1900, Mr. Lucas was married to the former Mae Kolar at St. Petersburg, Fla. Jan. 8, 1928. They made their home in Cleveland where Mr. Lucas owned and operated Lucas Foods until his retirement in 1963 when he came to Charlevoix to make their home. He was a member of St. Mary's Church.

He is survived by his wife, a son, John Robert Lucas of Kodiak, Alaska; three daughters, Mrs. Charles Jacqueline Meier of Charlevoix, Mrs. John Jeanette Moran and Mrs. William Barbara Gleason, both of Cleveland; 15 grandchildren, 28 great-grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Margaret Weaver of Orlando, Fla.

FRED A. TORREY

Funeral services were held Sunday, November 11 for Fred A. Torrey, 60, of Oxford, Michigan. A Charlevoix native, she died at her home November 8. Rev. Arthur Habermehl presided over services held at the Immanuel Congregational Church in Oxford.

Mrs. Torrey was born in Charlevoix January 10, 1924 to Fred and Alice (Burns) Willis. A Charlevoix High School graduate, she attended Michigan State University and Oakland University. Mrs. Torrey lived in Oxford since 1953 where she taught school in the Oxford and Pontiac area and was a member of both the Michigan Education Society and the National Educational Society. She was also a lifetime member of the National Geographic Society, a member of the Immanuel Congregational Church in Oxford and served on the Oxford Library Board.

She is survived by her parents, her husband, Alfred E. Torrey; three daughters, Mrs. Lundquist of Illinois, Mrs. Alice Gray of Troy and Mrs. Mary Smith of Oden, Kansas; one son, Fred Torrey of Pontiac; ten grandchildren; and two sisters, Mrs. Betty Lennox of Nashville and Mrs. Mary Pomeroy of St. Cloud, Michigan.

Burial was in the Oxford Cemetery with arrangements handled by the Rosardet Funeral Home. Memorial gifts are suggested to the National Geographic Society or the Multiple Sclerosis Fund.

Northern Michigan Chorale plans Holiday Concert

The Northern Michigan Chorale will be presenting the Third Annual Holiday Concert at the Petoskey High School. The concert will be held on Sunday, November 25 at 4:00 p.m. and on Monday, November 26 at 8:00 p.m. For the 1984 Holiday Concert, the Chorale will perform Christmas melodies along with a variety of sentimental songs, patriotic selections and comedy numbers.

The 80 voice chorus will be singing a medley from West Side Story, a patriotic composition by Don Lange entitled Uncle Sam, and a comedy number featuring Al Scott and Dick Kutekai. A Little Tin Toy to celebrate the holiday season, the chorus will sing several Christmas selections including I'll Be Home for Christmas, and a set of Alfred Burt Carols.

and Christmas Day. Small ensemble groups will include in their selections Mississippi M. & D. by the Rhythmites, Amber Bell Rock by the Double Daters quartet and Vince and Mary will sing An Old Fashioned Wedding.

CHRISTMAS COLORING CONTEST

As the song goes, we sing with glee,
About the partridge in a pear tree.

The merriest Christmas time is here,
Abound with laughter, joy and cheer.

Festive carolling voices fill the air,
Hailing the season... joy is everywhere!

Peace, love and brotherhood abounds,
Along with the holiday sights & sounds.

Families gather from far and wide,
To worship together at Christmastide.

With a wave of his hand and a 'ho, ho, ho,'
That jolly old man is all ready to go.

Brightly wrapped gifts under the tree,
Make a beautiful holiday sight to see.

Rejoice in the miracle and the glory,
Of the very first Christmas story.

Three wise kings traversed from afar,
Guided by a solitary nighttime star.

About this contest

Entrants in the fourth annual Charlevoix Courier Holiday Recipe Contest submitted numbered recipes with names attached on a separate sheet of paper in five categories: Salads, Breads, Casseroles, Cakes & Pies and Cookies. Judges reviewed all the recipes and selected three finalists from each category. Those 15 people were then invited to prepare their dishes and bring them to a final judging session held last Thursday in the Market Mall. The three judges, Mark Neal, chef at Ricciardi's Inn of Charlevoix, Karl Gilewicz of Karl's Pastry Shop and Tom Warth, owner of 218 Bridge St., tasted each of the finalist recipes and selected a first place winner in each category. First place winners each received a $20 in groceries from Glen's Oleson's, $20 in groceries from Glen's Edwards and $10 in cash from the Courier.

November "Ghost Suppers" are Native Americans' traditional way of honoring departed relatives

By KATHY MENDOZA
November is the month when "spirits go abroad" or "souls are released." Throughout the world, down through the centuries, most civilizations have performed rituals during this month to honor their dead.

Native Americans throughout the United States hold annual Ghost Suppers to honor their departed relatives, though the celebrations are much different than they were centuries back.

Three hundred years ago the Feast of the Dead, as it was then known, was held every ten years or so. People of neighboring villages gathered together to bury their dead in a common grave. This was one way of showing tribal unity - and renewing friendships with both the living and the dead. Sometimes only one village was involved, but usually several villages who shared ancestry and friendship joined in the Feast.

All Huron tribes, as well as Algonquins and others, had a village of the dead that lay in the direction of the setting sun. The Feast was the way of giving the souls what they needed for their journey to this village in the sky world.

All of the early Native Americans believed that the soul passed through a series of ordeals on this journey, the most common of these being the "quaking log" or "Water Monster" which bridged a raging river that must be crossed before the soul could reach the afterworld.

The span of time for this journey was recognized differently by the various nations. Chippewas viewed it as a four-day journey, while the Hurons believed it took many months to reach the village of the dead.

Many Native Americans still believe that the village of the dead lies in the west, and though much more conventional methods of burial are used today, their dead are still laid to rest with their feet to the West. In areas where the small grave houses are still built over the graves, an opening is left in the west end so that the soul can exit.

There was, and still is in some cases, the belief that each person had two souls. One died with the body and one hovered near the corpse until the Feast of the Dead, when it was released to travel along the Milky Way or "Path of Souls" to the village of the dead. It was for this soul that "oh-ki-we'h," the Feast of the Dead, was held.

As the centuries passed, the Feasts were held more often, but with less ceremony, and with the coming of Christianity they soon became known as "All Souls Suppers," and later Ghost Suppers.

In the Northern Lower Michigan area, Ottawas and Chippewas decide well in advance which night each family will hold their feast, with several are held during November without a conflict of dates.

Much preparation is needed for the Feast. Traditional food must be prepared by the daughters of the inviting elder with help from other women in the immediate family.

Foods likely to be found at a Ghost Supper are: giigoon (fish), bkweshgan (fry bread), mdaaminaaboo (corn soup), gak (porcupine), waabooz (rabbit), esabaar (raccoon), and sa-nago (squirrel). Also served are vegetables, salads, and desserts.

Traditionally, each member of the extended family knew which departed relative they would be representing, though in some families this is no longer the way it is done. Today many friends as well as family are invited to partake of the Feast; the belief being, the more the living are nourished - the more the souls of the departed will be nourished.

When all is prepared, those assembled are asked to eat, perhaps with the words, "kinaa go weyaa wishni" which means "everybody eat."

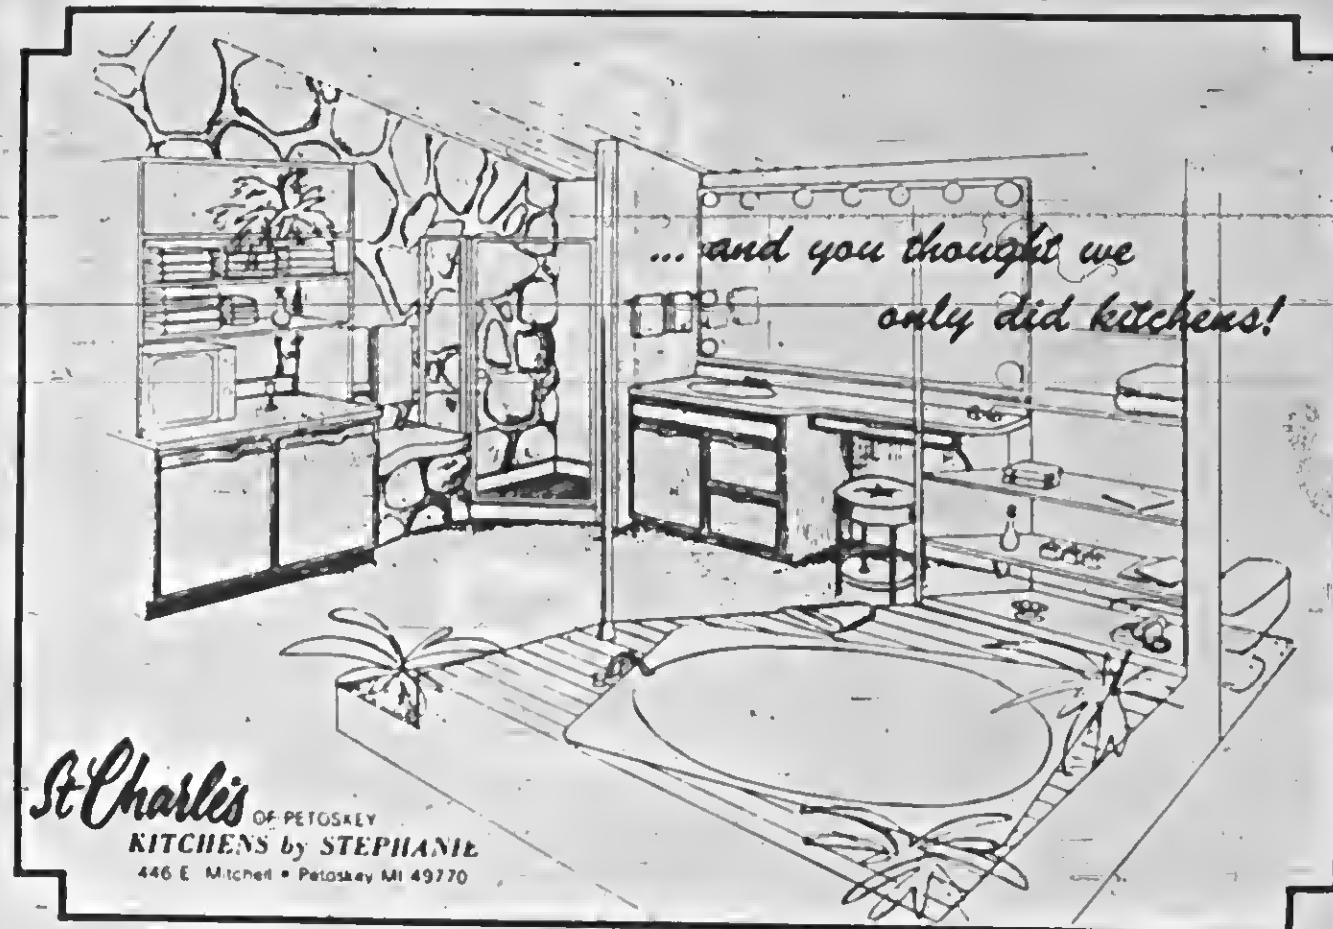

After all have eaten and the table is cleared, a small portion of each food is put on one or more plates. This serving is left on the table for the souls who will come for nourishment after the household is asleep. In the morning this special serving is buried as a part of the ceremony.

Because this method of honoring the dead is something handed down from generation to generation, some parts of the Ghost Supper Ritual vary from one family to the next. I heard small variations on the subject from the seven different Ottawa and Chippewa family elders I talked with.

One of my Native American friends shared the following, written by a young man about his grandmother who was a native of Good Hart, the former homeland of many Ottawa people.

When she was asked, "Do you really believe that the souls come and eat," the wise grandmother replied to the tourist, "Do you really believe that on Memorial Day your departed come up and smell the flowers that you put on their graves?"

For dieters, here's a complete Weight Watchers' Thanksgiving dinner

This month marks the beginning of a special time of the year for most of us. It is a time of joyous celebration, starting with an act of thanksgiving in appreciation for all the best in our lives, and proceeding through the first of January with a look forward to even better things to come in a new year.

A hallmark of this season of festivity is the feast. Almost every bit of usual, everyday nutritional sanity seems to disappear in a flurry of fat and salt laden gravies and sugar laden desserts. But is this truly the celebration we think it is?

Concentration on food often takes the focus away from the real spirit of the holiday, from people and participation. When done in excess, it may create feelings of guilt and physical discomfort, not holiday happiness.

According to Florine Mark, Area Director of Weight Watchers, there is an alternative to the eating excesses that so many seem to struggle with during the holiday season.

"There are thousands of members who have been successful on our Quick Start Program, and will be enjoying the holidays even though they're still in the process of losing weight. Many won't be seen as visibly dieting, because the secret of enjoying the holiday is in the relationships with those around you, and the secret of good holiday food is not in the fat, salt, and sugar added to the meal. To prove the point that holiday food does not have to be fattening to be good, we're glad to share our Thanksgiving recipes with the general public, along with our best wishes for a happy holiday."

Following are Weight Watchers recipes for a traditional Thanksgiving meal with a hint of a difference. The meal is planned to please family and friends, without a hint of dieting from anyone.

SHERRIED MUSHROOM SOUP
(Makes 8 servings)
1 tablespoon plus 1

teaspoon margarine
1/4 cup finely chopped scallions (green onions)
2 cups thinly sliced mushrooms
1 1/2 tablespoons plus 1 teaspoon all-purpose flour

1/4 teaspoon white pepper
1 1/4 quarts water
4 packets instant chicken broth and seasoning mix

1 tablespoon plus 1
teaspoon dry sherry
In 2-quart saucepan heat margarine over medium heat until bubbly and hot; add scallions and saute, stirring occasionally, for 3 minutes. Add mushrooms and saute until softened, about 3 minutes. Add flour and pepper and cook, stirring constantly, for 1 minute; continuing to stir, add water and broth mix and bring to a boil. Reduce heat to low, cover, and let simmer for 5 minutes. Stir in sherry and let simmer 2 minutes longer.

(Each serving provides: 1/2 vegetable exchange; 1/2 fat exchange; 15 calories optional exchange)

CRANBERRY-PINEAPPLE SAUCE
(Makes 8 servings, about 1/4 cup each)
1 cup cranberries
1 1/4 cups canned crushed pineapple (no sugar added), divided
1 tablespoon plus 1

teaspoon dry Marsala wine
2 teaspoons honey
1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger

In small saucepan bring 1/4 cup water to a boil; add cranberries and cook until skins of berries pop open, about 5 minutes. Stir in 1 cup pineapple and the wine, honey, cinnamon and ginger. Reduce heat to low and let simmer, stirring occasionally, for 5 minutes. Remove from heat, stir in remaining 1/2 cup pineapple and let cool slightly. Pour into small bowl, cover with plastic wrap and chill until ready to serve.

(Each serving provides: 1/2 fruit exchange; 10 calories optional exchange)

SWEET POTATO PIE
(Makes 8 servings)

1 1/2 pounds pared sweet potatoes or yams, thinly sliced
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon white pepper
1 tablespoon plus 1

teaspoon margarine
1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
Preheat oven to 350°.

In medium bowl soak potato slices in cold water to cover for 5 minutes; drain and, using paper towels, pat dry. Spray an 8 or 9 inch pie plate with nonstick cooking spray. Arrange potato slices in plate in an overlapping concentric circular pattern; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover with foil and bake until slices are just tender, about 25 minutes. Remove pie from oven and turn oven control to broil.

In small metal measuring cup melt margarine; stir in cinnamon and drizzle over pie. Broil until edges begin to brown, about 3 minutes.

(Each serving provides: 1 bread exchange; 1/2 fat exchange)

CREAMED BRUSSELS SPROUTS
(Makes 8 servings)

1 tablespoon plus 1
teaspoon margarine
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1 cup skim milk
1 cup water
2 packets instant chicken broth and seasoning mix
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
4 cups cooked brussels sprouts

In 2-quart saucepan heat margarine over medium heat until bubbly and hot; add onion and saute until softened. Add flour and cook, stirring constantly, for 1 minute; continuing to stir, add milk, water and broth mix and bring to a boil. Reduce heat to low, add nutmeg and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is smooth and thickened. Add sprouts and cook, stirring constantly, until thoroughly combined and heated. Transfer to serving plate and pour any remaining sauce over brussels sprouts.

(Each serving provides: 1 1/2 vegetable exchange; 1/2 fat exchange; 25 calories optional exchange)

PUMPKIN-SPICE CAKE
(Makes 8 servings)

1 1/2 cups all purpose flour
1 tablespoon double-acting baking powder
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
4 eggs, separated
2 tablespoons plus 2 teaspoons firmly packed light brown sugar

2 tablespoons plus 2 teaspoons vegetable oil

1/4 cup canned pumpkin
1/4 cup orange juice (no sugar added)
1 1/4 teaspoons grated orange peel, divided
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/4 cup dried currants
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon plus 1

teaspoon confectioners' sugar
1/4 teaspoon hot water
Into medium bowl sift together flour, baking powder, cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves; sift again and set aside.

Preheat oven to 350°F. In large mixing bowl combine egg yolks, brown sugar and oil; using electric mixer, beat until mixture begins to thicken, about 3 minutes. Stir in pumpkin, orange juice, 1 teaspoon orange peel and the vanilla. Gradually stir in all but 2 teaspoons of the flour mixture; toss currants with reserved flour mixture to coat, then stir into batter.

In medium bowl, using clean beaters, beat egg whites with salt until stiff peaks form. Gently stir 1/4 of whites into batter; fold in remaining whites.

Spray 6-cup fluted aluminum mold with nonstick cooking spray and spoon batter into mold. Bake in middle of center oven rack for 1 1/4 hours (until a cake tester, inserted in center, comes out clean). Invert cake onto wire rack and let cool completely.

In small bowl combine confectioners' sugar with remaining 1/4 teaspoon grated orange peel; add hot water, stirring, until sugar is dissolved. Drizzle icing over cake; if necessary to thin icing, add additional water, a few drops at a time.

(Each serving provides: 1/2 protein exchange; 1 bread exchange; 1/2 vegetable exchange; 1 fat exchange; 45 calories optional exchange)

Holidays need not bust budget

Don't fall victim to the ads that tell you Christmas has to be lavish and expensive to be fun.

You don't have to spend a lot of money to make Christmas a special day.

There are things that can be done to make Christmas magical and memorable, no matter how limited your budget is.

Christmas dinner, for example, can still be special, even if you have to count your food dollars carefully. Buy larger cuts of ham or turkey than you will need and use the leftovers creatively to feed the family for several meals. Turkey, especially is a good buy this time of year.

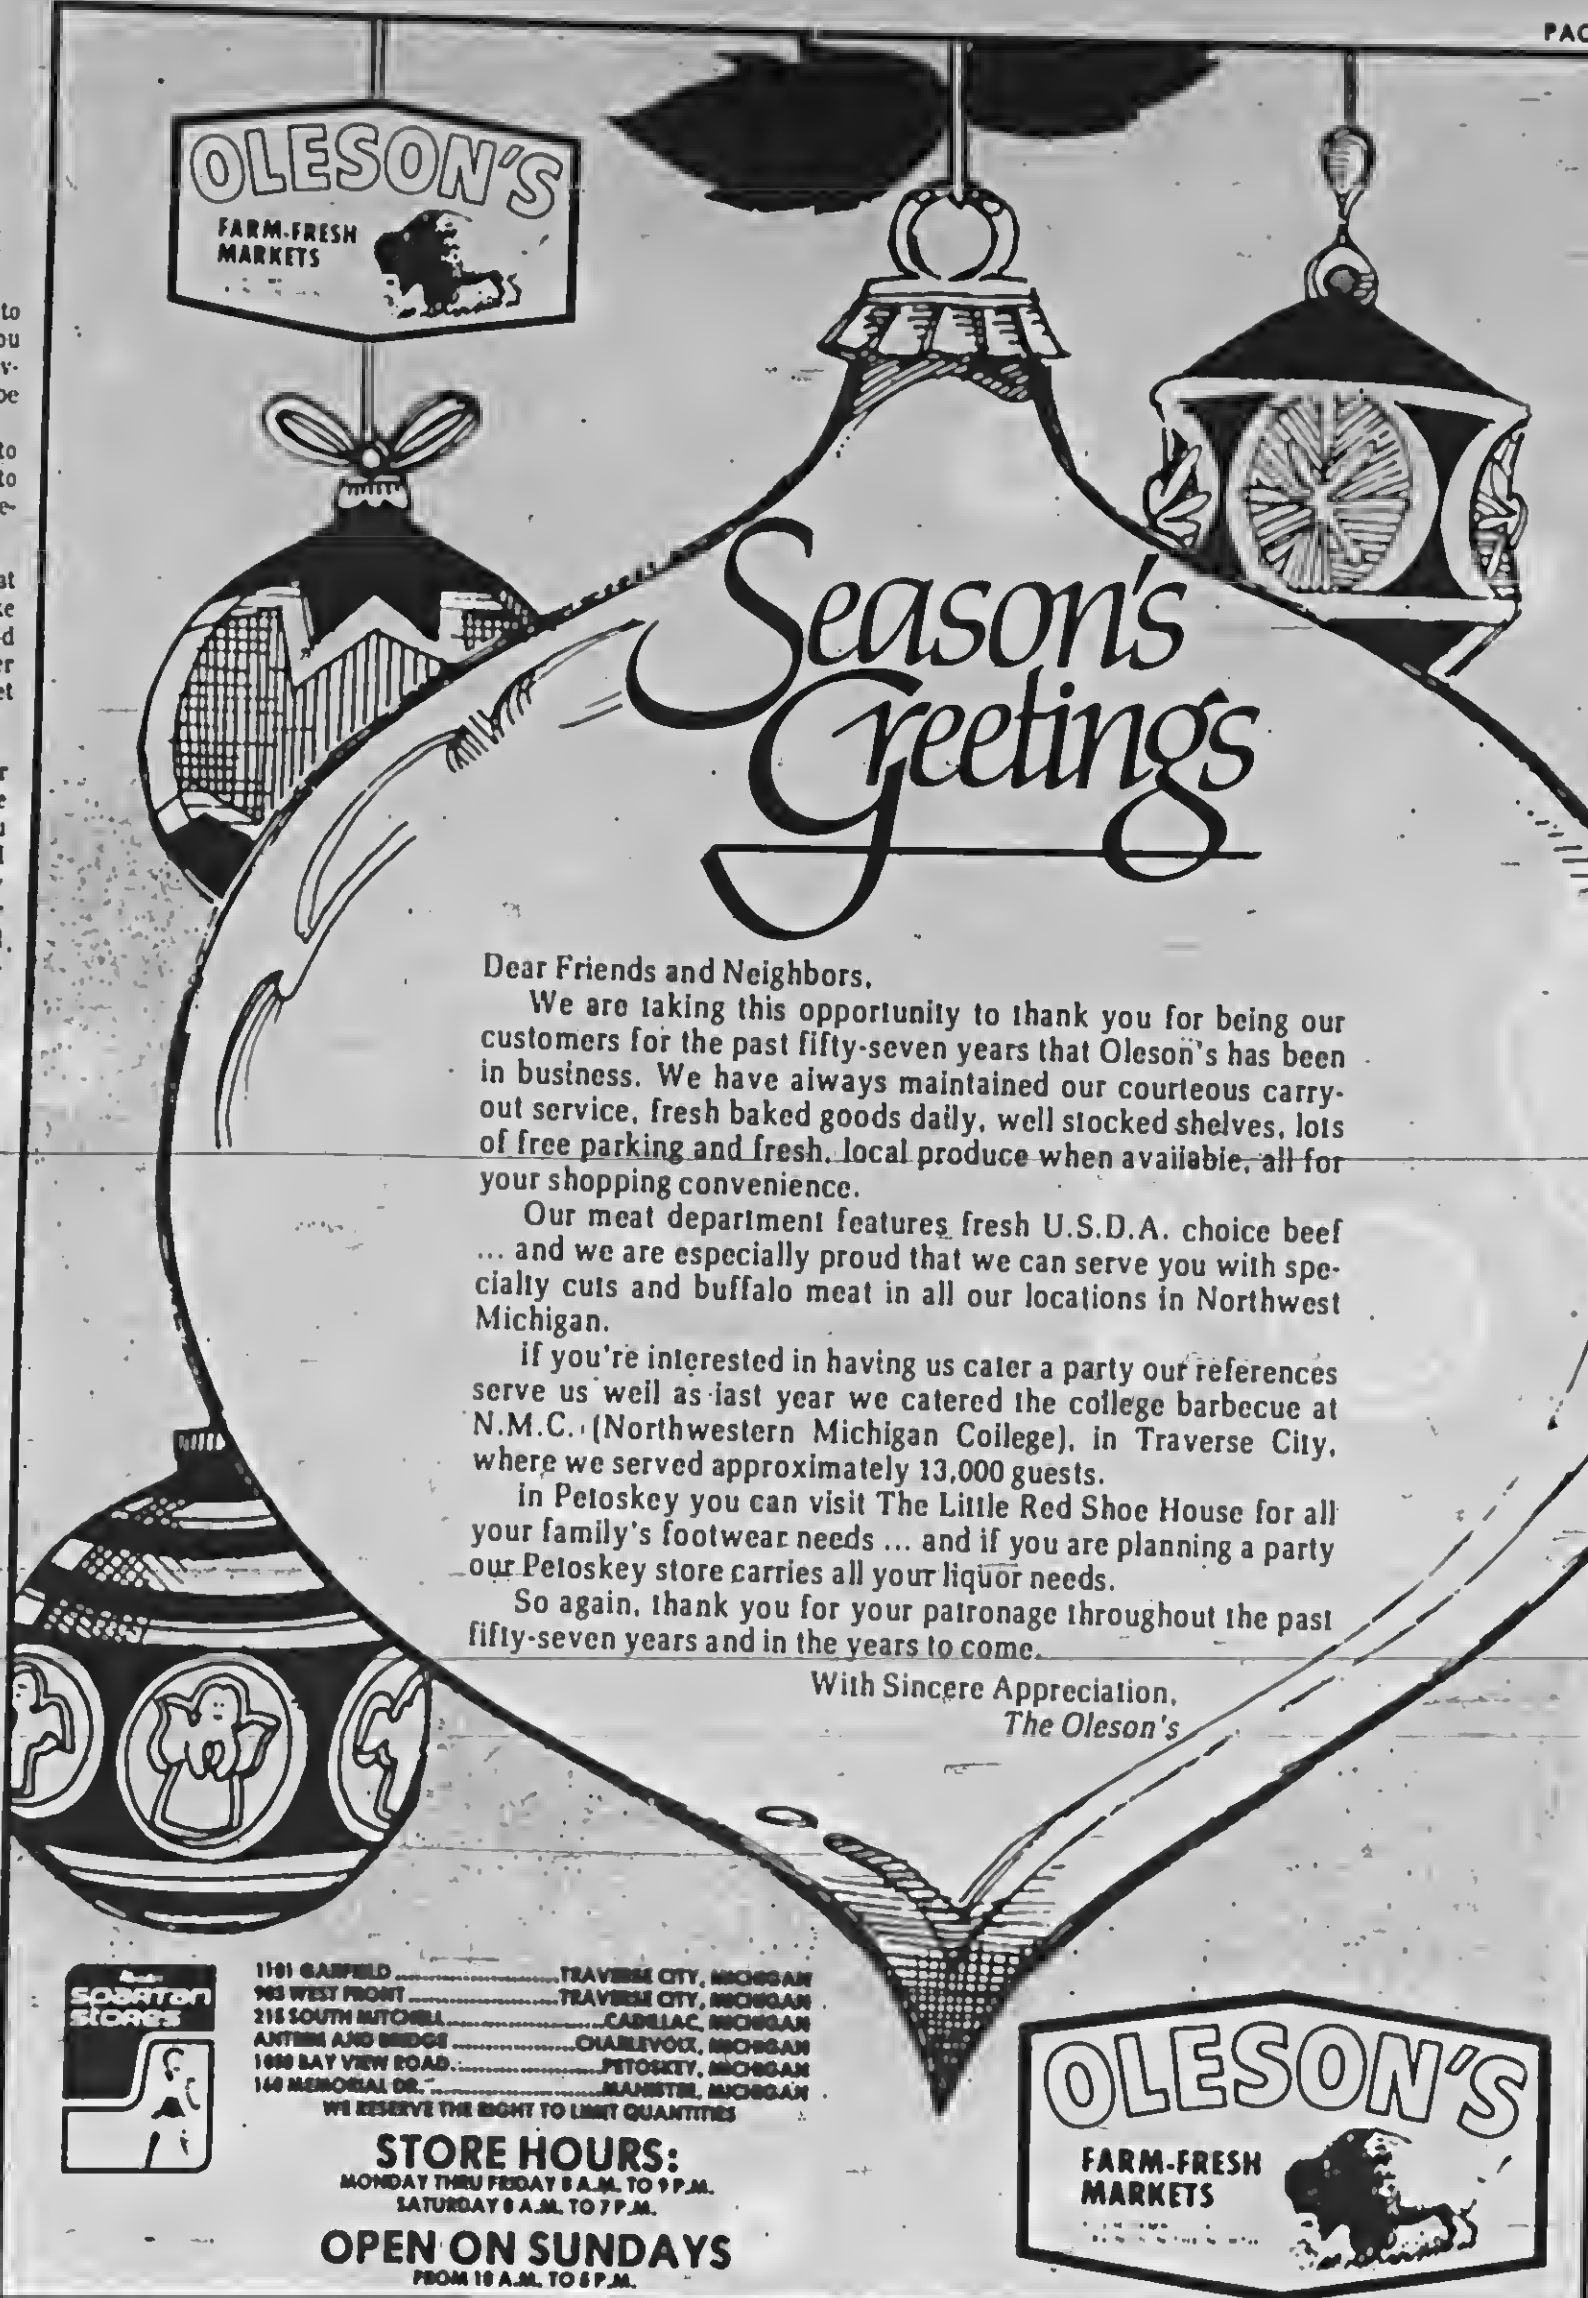

You can substitute a variety of fruit breads for the more expensive traditional fruitcake. Cranberries, apples and pumpkin are in season — and all make tasty breads.

The cost of entertaining can be reduced in several ways. If you plan to serve alcoholic beverages, why not have a hot spiced cider or wine bowl instead of a variety of drinks and liquor.

You needn't serve expensive hors d'oeuvres, either. A large vegetable platter with an easy-to-prepare dip, such as sour cream and onion soup mix, will serve the purpose just as well.

Remember, too, that the way the table is set will contribute greatly to the festivity of the occasion.

What about presents? Many people are relying on their creative skills and talents to help make ends meet. These same talents can make Christmas a special day. The list of thoughtful, homemade gifts is endless.

Season's Greetings

Dear Friends and Neighbors,

We are taking this opportunity to thank you for being our customers for the past fifty-seven years that Oleson's has been in business. We have always maintained our courteous carry-out service, fresh baked goods daily, well stocked shelves, lots of free parking and fresh local produce when available, all for your shopping convenience.

Our meat department features fresh U.S.D.A. choice beef ... and we are especially proud that we can serve you with specialty cuts and buffalo meat in all our locations in Northwest Michigan.

If you're interested in having us cater a party our references serve us well as last year we catered the college barbecue at N.M.C. (Northwestern Michigan College), in Traverse City, where we served approximately 13,000 guests.

In Petoskey you can visit The Little Red Shoe House for all your family's footwear needs ... and if you are planning a party our Petoskey store carries all your liquor needs.

So again, thank you for your patronage throughout the past fifty-seven years and in the years to come.

With Sincere Appreciation,
The Oleson's

BREAD DOUGH:

2 pks. dry yeast
1 c. warm water

3 c. flour
3 T. cooking oil

1/4 t. sugar
1/4 t. salt

FILLING:

1 beaten egg

3 c. shredded muenster cheese

1/2 c. snipped parsley
1/2 t. garlic salt

1/4 t. pepper

Soften yeast in water.
Beat in 1 1/2 cups of flour, oil, sugar and salt. Stir in enough of remaining flour to make a moderately stiff dough.

Turn out onto lightly floured surface; knead till smooth (5-8 minutes). Place in lightly greased bowl, turning once to grease surface. Cover; let rise (1 hour). Punch down; divide into 2 portions.

Cover and let rest 10 minutes. Roll one portion to a 13" circle. Place circle on a greased pizza pan.

Combine egg, cheese, seasonings. Spread over dough. Roll 2nd portion of dough into 13" circle. Place over filling. Trim & flute edges. Bake in 400 degree oven 20 minutes. Remove from oven.

Slightly beat together 1 egg and 1 T. water. brush top of bread. Sprinkle with sesame seeds. Bake 12-15 minutes more. Cool slightly and cut into narrow wedges (like pie wedges).

This bread goes over great at parties as an appetizer.

SKYLINE APPLE MUFFINS

(from Orlando International Airport)
Pearl Frieden
Bozette City

Combine the following in a bowl:
1 1/2 c. firmly packed brown sugar
2-3 c. vegetable oil
1 egg

In another bowl combine:

1 c. sour milk or buttermilk
1 t. each: baking soda, salt, vanilla
Add milk mixture to sugar mixture alternately with 2 1/2 c.

flour. Mix well after each addition.
Fold in: 1 1/2 c. diced apples (do not peel) and 1/2 c. chopped pecans.

Pour into muffin pans or paper cups and sprinkle with butter. Bake at 325 degrees for 30 minutes or until cake tester comes out clean. Yield: 15 muffins

1 1/2 c. milk
1/2 c. butter
1/2 c. sugar
1 t. salt
1 egg

In a large mixer bowl combine both flours with yeast. In saucepan heat the milk, butter, sugar and salt until warm (115-120 degrees) and butter is almost melted, stirring constantly. Add to flour mixture; add egg. Beat at low speed 1/2 min. scraping bowl constantly. Beat 3 minutes at high speed. Stir in as much remaining flour as you can mix in with a spoon. On a lightly floured surface knead in enough remaining flour to form a moderately soft dough that is smooth and elastic (6-8 minutes). Shape into ball; place in greased bowl and turn once. Cover, let rise until double (about 1 hour). You can use frozen bread or 2 cans crescent rolls.

STUFFING:

1/2 lb. sausage
1/2 lb. hamburger
1/2 c. chopped onion
1/2 clove garlic, minced
1 T. parsley flakes
1/2 t. leaf basil

While dough is rising thaw out spinach and squeeze out excess moisture.

Brown meat, add all seasonings, onion and paste; simmer for 3 minutes. Combine cottage cheese, egg, and parmesan cheese.

Punch down dough and let rest for ten minutes. Roll dough into a 15x13" rectangle. Spoon half of meat mixture onto dough leaving border on sides and enough dough at top and bottom to enclose ingredients like a letter inside an envelope. Top with cheese mixture, 3 chopped eggs and spinach. Then the other half of the meat mixture, 3 chopped eggs, spinach and sliced mozzarella last. Pinch dough closed with fingers. Brush loaf with milk and sprinkle with sesame seeds. Cut several small vents in top. Bake in 375 degree oven for 25-35 minutes, covering with foil the last 15 minutes to prevent over browning. When done brush the crust with butter. Cut crosswise into 1" strips, then cut in half lengthwise to serve. Makes 24 appetizer servings. Do not make more than two hours ahead or the bread will become soggy.

PAUL'S EASY CORN BREAD
Dianne Coolman
Charlevoix
1 c. self rising cornmeal
2 eggs
¾ can of cream style corn (8 oz. can)
1 c. sour cream
½ c. salad oil
Combine above ingredients and mix well. Pour in greased 9" square pan. Bake at 400 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes.

NO-KNEAD SWEET RAISED DOUGH
Ellen Wimmer Brouwer
East Jordan
2 pkgs. dry yeast
2 t. sugar
½ c. very warm water
2 c. milk
½ c. shortening
1 t. salt
½ c. sugar

2 eggs
5½ to 6 c. unbleached white flour
Mix first 3 ingredients in small bowl and allow yeast to bubble, about 10 min. Heat milk and shortening to about 120 degrees. Put salt and sugar in large bowl. Add eggs and mix well with wooden spoon or wire whisk. Pour in yeast mixture and mix. Add flour, gradually, a cup or so at a time, mixing well after each addition. The resulting dough will be rather sticky. Cover with a towel and let rise in a warm place until doubled, about 1 to 1½ hours. Mix down with a spoon and let raise again, covered about 15 minutes.
The dough is now ready and can be used for your favorite style of rolls or coffee cake.

After making either put on or in a lightly greased pan and cover and allow to raise 30-45 minutes in a warm area. Bake at 325 degrees until golden brown, about 15-20 minutes for rolls or 30-40 minutes for coffee cake. After baking, allow coffee cake to cool and drizzle thin powdered sugar frosting over top if so desired.
My favorite ways to use this dough:
ROLLS:
Roll out ½ of dough on lightly floured surface to about ¼" thick. Cut into strips about ¾"x4". (A pizza cutter does this very easily) Tie each strip into a knot. Place on lightly greased cookie sheet. Brush with melted butter and top with poppy seeds and sesame seeds. Bake as directed.
COFFEE CAKE:
Press ½ of the dough into lightly greased 8x12 pan. Brush with melted butter and top with ½ c. sugar and sprinkle with cinnamon to taste. Bake as directed.
STOLLEN:
Roll out ½ the dough into a rectangle about 4" thick. Brush with melted butter and spread with one can of Solo poppyseed filling. Roll this up jelly roll fashion along the long edge and gently pinch seam when entirely rolled. Bring ends together to form ring and gently pinch together. Place in lightly greased 10" deep pie pan. Bake as directed.

BANANA BREAD
Dawn M. Otto
Petoskey
1-3 c. shortening
½ c. white sugar
2 eggs
1½ c. flour
1 t. baking powder
½ t. soda
1 c. banana's (2 med. ripe)
½ c. chopped walnuts, or raisins
Cream together shortening and sugar; add eggs, flour, & b. powder. Mix soda and bananas together. Mix all ingredients for about 2 minutes. Pour into well greased pan (9x5). Bake at 350 degrees until golden brown or until knife comes out clean.

3½-4 c. flour
½ c. wheat germ
3 T. sugar
1 T. salt
1½ c. very warm water
2 pkgs. dry yeast
2 T. butter
1 egg white
1 T. water

In large mixer bowl, combine 1½ c. flour, wheat germ, sugar, salt and yeast. Mix well; add butter and warm water. Blend, then beat at medium speed for 2 minutes. Add ½ c. flour and beat at high speed for 2 minutes. Stir in 1 to 1½ c. flour to make a stiff dough. Knead on floured surface for 8 to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Let rise about 1 hour, or until doubled. Punch down, cover with bowl; let rest 15 minutes. Divide dough into 12 smooth balls. Make a 1" hole in each. Cover and let rest 5 to 10 minutes. In large skillet, heat a 1" depth of water to a simmer. Drop 3 bagels into water; simmer for 3 minutes, turn, cook 2 minutes, turn cook 1 minute. Drain on towels. Place on greased baking sheet. Brush with egg white and water mixture. Sprinkle with additional wheat germ. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. Cool on rack.

The Mesquite enters channel as the high school band plays a farewell song.

Community bids farewell to Mesquite for the winter

As Charlevoix High School Band played and friends and family waved, the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite slipped from her Round Lake berth Monday morning and started off for Grenada for special winter duty.

In a brief ceremony held at the dock, a decorated Christmas tree was presented to the officers and crew of the ship. Selected and decorated by Mary Novotny of Charlevoix Floral, the live tree was festooned with 33 red ribbons, one for each crew member. Lt. Com. Robert Young, skipper of the Mesquite, was told to return the tree in the spring so it could be planted in the park. Said Young, "Now we have an added responsibility to get back on time."

Also presented to the crew by Jacquie Merta, executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce were eight boxes of apples from Friske Orchard as a reminder of Northern Michigan.

As part of the ceremony, Mayor Kenneth Staley bid the ship farewell and Pastor David Yingling of the United Methodist Church offered a blessing.

There were many sad good-byes.

The Mesquite heads out of the channel.

Snowmobiling in city would be regulated by ordinance

by DAVE KNIGHT

The first draft of a proposed ordinance to regulate snowmobiling in the City of Charlevoix was reviewed by City Council at its regular work session Monday night.

Among other things, the proposed ordinance designates where snowmobiles can travel in the city, what special rules of the road they must follow in the city and other guidelines of operation.

Several area snowmobilers were on hand for the meeting and were apparently successful in persuading council to ease some of the restrictions included in the draft proposal of the ordinance.

In the first draft, for instance, was the provision that "no snowmobile may be operated on or across U.S. 31 within the city limits."

William Merwin, mayor of East Jordan and a representative of the East Jordan Snowmobile Club, pointed out to council that, under state law, snowmobiles are allowed to cross any highway in the state so they should be able to cross U.S. 31 in Charlevoix as well.

Said Merwin, "I also question sending people out of town to cross the highway where the traffic is traveling at 55 miles per hour instead of letting them cross in town where the speed limit is 25 miles per hour."

Council agreed to amend the ordinance to allow crossing U.S. 31 but left intact the ban on riding on the highway itself. Further, council member Michael Greeley suggested that highway crossings be allowed only at certain intersections which can be designated and marked.

Snowmobilers in the audience Monday night also objected to a flat 10 mph speed limit for all snowmobiles in the city proposed in the first draft of the ordinance.

Mark Koontz told council that a snowmobile traveling at 10 mph in a traffic zone with other vehicles traveling at 25 mph poses an unnecessary safety hazard. Council went along with the snowmobilers' suggestion to eliminate the 10 mph speed limit and instead will require snowmobilers to observe "posted speed limits" within the city.

Also in the first draft of the ordinance was a requirement that all snowmobiles operating in the city must "come to a complete stop at all

Jacquie Merta steps down as Chamber director

By FRAN MARTIN

Jacquie Merta, executive secretary of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce for the past 9½ years, has resigned the position effective December 15.

In her letter of resignation sent to Chamber board members, Mrs. Merta said she had appreciated the opportunity to work for the chamber and the confidence, cooperation, loyalty and comradeship that members had given her during the 9½ years she had served as executive director.

"I have every confidence that the Chamber Board of Directors will continue programs that will serve the chamber membership and the Charlevoix community, maintain and expand the economic welfare of Charlevoix and continue to have the chamber play the lead role in the development of the community," Mrs. Merta said.

Mrs. Merta is leaving the post to accept a position as director of sales for the dinner boat, Star of Charlevoix, headquartered here.

"During the time I have been executive director, it has been a pleasure to work with many loyal and reliable volunteers. This network of volunteers has accomplished much through the years," she continued. Among the accomplishments have County studying alliance program with Emmet, Antrim

by PEG OHLE

Charlevoix County may soon have another vehicle with which to promote itself as a desirable commercial area.

A Community Growth Alliance (CGA) is being formed by a consortium consisting of Charlevoix, Antrim, and Emmet Counties to help business and industry in northern Michigan get a fair share of Federal procurements and enable them to compete successfully in all markets.

The CGA joins the County's Economic Development Corporation and the Small Business Task Force as a tool to help local businessmen.

As a part of the State's Northwest Regional Development area, the three counties will propose to the State Department of Commerce that they be considered a "District" for the purpose of securing State funds and "know how" for commercial development.

According to Charlevoix County Board Chairman Lee Moerland, the three counties have been exploring cooperative possibilities for some time and now seem to be in general accord about the benefits such a liaison would afford each county, especially since they could not receive State aid as individual counties.

When finally approved, the Community Growth Alliance will receive a grant from the State for "start up" purposes and eventually will be entitled to $50,000, as well as other special grants, to carry on its program of assisting the economy of the area, which in the end will mean more jobs. Besides financial assistance, the Department of Commerce will refer to the counties requests for information received from business and industrial organizations which might want to relocate in this area, and from prospective buyers seeking sources of certain manufactured products that might be supplied by local industry.

Moerland, who, as a member of the 10-county Regional Manpower Consortium, has worked for several years in behalf of area business and industry, says of the CGA, "We are doing what we can to better the area and assist with economic problems. All three counties must work in concert in the Alliance, not in competition."

The first organizational aide designed to promote the economy of Charlevoix County was the Economic Development Corporation (EDC), which began operating in March, 1981. The EDC was formed primarily to assist existing businesses and industries obtain low cost financing through bonds issued by the County. Because of all the legal ramifications, the cost of arranging bond issues is quite high.

Knight on the Town

Off to Grenada

By Dave Knight

It was a touching scene that is probably played out every day at naval ports all over the world. Bolting from the ship for a final hug and kiss, sailors clutched leavies and girlfriends; tried to look stern as they lectured the children on being good in their absence and promised letters every day.

Then, reluctantly answering the bosun's final beckoning, they scrambled aboard ship. Not uncommon, perhaps, at Newport News or San Francisco from which naval fleets regularly depart for long sea duty.

But this was Charlevoix and the ship was the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite, a buoy tender and ice breaker sequestered for most of its recent existence in the freshwater confines of the Upper Great Lakes.

Winters for the Mesquite, and its sister ship predecessor in Charlevoix, the Sundew, have traditionally meant a quiet respite along the downtown city dock, time to catch up on some painting, perhaps, or other chores before spring buoy season.

Even ice breaking missions out of Charlevoix have been rare since the decline of winter shipping and the deployment of smaller, ice-breaking tugs by the Coast Guard.

There will be little time for housekeeping this winter, however. Monday morning the Mesquite left on an adventurous voyage out the St. Lawrence Seaway, down the east coast and eventually to the Caribbean where it will be stationed for the winter off the island nation of Grenada.

No buoy run, this. Precise details of the ship's mission are understandably classified. We are told that she will be training locals on maritime law enforcement while also patrolling and providing search and rescue support.

Sounds innocuous enough until put into the context of recent events in that particular corner of the world. It was only one year ago that U.S. troops engaged Cubans and other hostile forces on Grenada in a surprise action still cloaked in some degree of mystery. Just last month, the United States announced a major naval blockade of drug-running vessels coming out of nearby Columbian ports. In general, many Central America countries and Caribbean islands have been rocked repeatedly by insurgency and terrorism in recent years.

Thus there was an extra measure of concern and outright worry evident on the Charlevoix city dock Monday morning as the Mesquite cast off.

I suppose this is part of life in the military. When orders come down, they are followed. Families of service men and women are expected to understand.

But that doesn't necessarily make it easy.

Stand in any one place long enough in Charlevoix this time of year and you're bound to get struck with little white lights.

Clockwise

Nome from the post

By Bob Clock

Sunday's Detroit Free Press carried a brief obituary of retired U.S. Coast Guard Lt. Cmdr. Russell L. Bergh, 80, first skipper of the Cutter Sundew, formerly berthed in Charlevoix.

However, Bergh retired from the Coast Guard Lighthouse Service in 1984, before the Sundew was assigned to Charlevoix.

Bergh probably will be remembered by Great Lakes sailors in the area. From 1964 until his second retirement in 1974, Bergh worked as a captain for the John Roen Steamship Co., whose ships were frequent visitors to these waters over the years.

Bergh also served for a while as skipper of the Coast Guard Cutter Woodruff.

Bergh died Nov. 20 at his home in Jacobsville, a tiny hamlet overlooking Keweenaw Bay. Funeral was Saturday in Calumet.

The Sundew presently is homeported at Duluth, Minn.

SNOWBIRDS who suffered through the recent three-day blow in Florida might be interested to know that Charlevoix has just enjoyed its most glorious post-Thanksgiving weekend in history: Balmly south-westerly breezes all weekend with temperatures in the high 50s. The pre-Thanksgiving snow has all but disappeared, except for a few danks in parking lots.

The air was filled with the aroma of burning leaves, a la October, and the buzz of chainsaws, could be heard throughout town as backyard woodcutters worked in their shirt sleeves.

Most of the cars in town got their last good scrubbing before winter sets in in earnest.

THERE'S A convention of fireflies downtown every night. Tiny Christmas lights are ablaze in the Bridge Street locust trees and the street definitely has taken on a Christmasy look.

Shopkeepers have done a first-rate job of dressing up their stores for the holidays and shoppers — both local and out-of-town — were out in force Saturday morning, browsing and buying.

A nice way for our businesses to top off a very successful year.

I FOR ONE HOPE city fathers and postal authorities are able to find a suitable downtown location for the new Charlevoix Post Office.

As you know, the Postal Service has declared the present location on Mason Street too small to meet future needs and it's casting about for a larger building. If it can't find one in the valley, a move to the "suburbs" is a distinct possibility.

Which may be O.K., but I feel the post office serves a social function as well as a business function in towns the size of Charlevoix. I'd hate to see the post office end up in the sticks, like the state liquor store.

Bay Shore's is not the only barrier

County alliance

and therefore not feasible for issues under $500,000, Mierland explained. However, EDC assistance is credited with keeping one large manufacturer in Charlevoix and has assisted two others in issuing bonds for plant expansions.

The EDC is also interested in generating new business for the area, but because it has not had a full-time director or office staff, it works along these lines by supporting the three area Chambers of Commerce and the Business and Industry Task Force.

Antrim and Emmet Counties also have their own Economic Development Corporations to support economic growth within those counties.

Charlevoix County is the only one of the three area counties which supports a Business and Industry Task Force. The Task Force became a reality early this year after being proposed by a group of local businessmen and the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

It was first conceived as a local Charlevoix organization to assist existing area businesses and to attract new business to Charlevoix. However, as the plan developed, financial assistance from the Charlevoix County EDC was sought and received. So was financial assistance from the cities of Charlevoix, Boyne City, and East Jordan, the support of the Chambers of Commerce in Boyne City and East Jordan, and help from private industry county-wide. The Business and Industry Task Force thus became a County entity.

The EDC contributed $3,000, the cities of Charlevoix and Boyne City $3,000 each, East Jordan $1,500, private industry over $10,000, and the State Department of Commerce came up with a grant of $25,000.

The Task Force hired Richard Beagle, an experienced business developer, in July and set up headquarters offices in Boyne City.

The Task Force is now assisting existing businesses with day-to-day relationships with government from the local to Federal levels and also working to attract new industries and help them in start-up operations. The Task Force helped the Charlevoix County State Bank in coordinating the successful Industrial Fair in October.

So, with the EDC, the Task Force, and now the Community Growth Alliance, the business climate of Charlevoix County should improve.

Dear Bob (Clockwise): I read with interest your story in last week's Courier about the "Bay Shore Barrier," because I know of another east-west barrier.

My barrier can be seen and felt on the Charlevoix-Boyne City Road at a point somewhere between Burgess and Maple Grove Roads.

It can be clear and dry when I leave Horton Bay in the morning, but by the time I pass Maple Grove Road, if the weather is at all unsettled, it can be snowing or raining, depending on the temperature. If I leave home in precipitation, it can clear up beyond Maple Grove. The same is true going home — sunny in Charlevoix, quite often something else there, or a welcome clearing from stormy here to dry there.

There's no county line at my barrier, so we can't blame the politicians. Once in the past when I thought of this phenomenon, the words of Rudyard Kipling came to mind, "East is east and west is west and never the twain shall meet."

Perhaps the twain is meeting here and it is the agony of the meeting that causes the weather-line barrier.

Yours for good weather on both sides of the barrier, Peg Ohle

Festival of Carols to brighten holiday season with full orchestra and chorus Sunday

The sounds and sight of Christmas will for the orchestra "Of emanate from St. Mary's Catholic Church at 5 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 2, when the 30-voice community choir and the 25-piece area orchestra, under the direction of Ellen Addington, presents a Festival of Carols.

The "sight" of Christmas will be Jane Erskine who is an interpreter for the deaf. She will be "signing" or interpreting each song which is sung. Indeed, this form of communication is singing because the interpreter uses timing, facial expression and dynamics of the music.

The orchestra will be playing Leroy Anderson's "A Christmas Festival" as well as accompanying the chorus in the very popular Alfred Burt Carols. The Burt Carols have an interesting history. The carols were first written and sent to friends as Christmas cards by the Rev. Bates Burt, an Episcopal priest at St. Paul's Church in Pontiac, Michigan. When his son, Alfred, became a professional musician, he collaborated with his father in writing the carols. After the father's death, Alfred and a good friend of the family, Willis Hutson, continued the tradition until Alfred's untimely death at 33.

Ma. Hutson has included "It Came Upon a Midnight

continued to be a very successful published lyricist and composer and only recently had a collection of 18 carols published. Her most recent composition "This is the Time," an echo carol which is still in manuscript will be given its first performance at the Festival of Carols.

In addition to the original compositions and the Burt Carols, the chorus will sing several carol-anthems and 16th and 17th century carols accompanied by recorder, finger cymbals and drums. The audience will have an opportunity to lift its voice in some of the traditional carols including "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," "Joy to the World," "O Come All Ye Faithful," "Angels We Have Heard on High" with soprano deans, "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "Away in a Manger," "The First Noel" climaxed by the beautiful "Silent Night."

The members of the chorus and orchestra come from a wide area including East Jordan, Eastport, Norwood, Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Soloists will be Mae Charbeneau, Joann Danniker, telen Moerland and the Rev. Dan Strawnbridge.

Council weighs snowmobile ordinance

intersections, whether or not such intersection is a stop street for vehicular traffic."

It was again pointed out that snowmobiles stopping where other traffic does not much create undue hazards. Council agreed and deleted the "stop at all intersections" clause. Under the ordinance, snowmobilers would still have to obey "all traffic signals, signs and devices."

Mervin and others in the audience also objected to a proposed curfew that, under the first draft of the ordinance, would have forbidden snowmobiles from operating in the city from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m.

Mervin said that snowmobilers on long evening trail rides out of town are often not able to get back by 11 p.m. He added that stringent noise reduction regulations placed on snowmobile manufacturers since the late 1970s have resulted in much quieter machines.

In place of a time restriction, council decided to insert language into the ordinance forbidding "excessive noise."

Some other provisions of the proposed ordinance include the following:

"No snowmobile may be operated in the downtown district, which boundaries shall be described as Dixon on the north side, State St. on the west side, Huribut St. on the south side and May St. on the east side."

"Snowmobiles may only be driven within the City of Charlevoix for the purpose of gaining ingress or egress to areas outside city limits."

"Snowmobiles shall not be driven on any plowed sidewalks within the city."

"No person may operate a snowmobile on private property within the city without consent of the property owner or their agent."

"No more than two people shall be allowed on any one snowmobile."

"No snowmobile shall be operated across any street except at a street intersection."

Also included is a provision that would allow confiscation of police of snowmobiles operated by violators of the ordinance.

Following revision of the draft as directed by council, dates will be set for a formal public hearing and final action on the measure.

Solution. Development of a method of projecting future facilities needs for housing both juvenile and adult offenders. Develop these needed facilities on a multi-county or regional basis, to take advantage of economies of scale.

The report, which is signed by County Board Chairman Lee Moerland, contains the following additional comment:

"If a method or means could be established by which a greater share of tax dollars could be retained within the local taxing jurisdiction (rather than going to Lansing and Washington and being handled, cycled and recycled with associated personnel and bookkeeping costs) individual communities could select those infrastructure items that need attention and use those tax monies for those improvements."

Balch resigns City Clerk; job may be downscaled

by DAVID KENNEDY

The trend toward downsizing of government has reached Charlevoix County.

City Clerk Robert Balch, who has been in the position since 1978, is expected to resign his position.

Testing expert complimentary of Chx. schools

by FRAN MARTIN

The secret of testing students is analyzing the test results and then using the finding to get the most from the students was, in essence, what Bob Hoffman of the Psychological Corporation of Muskegon told the faculty of the Charlevoix Public Schools and the Beaver Island Community School during a recent in-service training session. The corporation Hoffman represents compiles the tests and makes them available to schools throughout the U.S.

The tests Hoffman referred to are two among several available to schools; the Otis Lennon School Ability Test and the Metropolitan Achievement Test. He explained that the Otis Lennon test pinpoints the student's capacity to learn and how the student can deal with school-related material while the Metropolitan Achievement Test reveals how the students are using the subject matter as compared with students elsewhere.

"When you match the tests, you can see if the student is producing results as a starting point, the teachers have to come up with the learning materials needed to keep students on target; that is, to keep every student at his or her level of capacity to learn.

Your teachers have developed an innovative system whereby every student has to work at his level of capability. It has meant the compilation of a lot of individualized material for use at every level as far as students are concerned Hoffman said.

"From a teacher's viewpoint, it wouldn't be easy to work in the Charlevoix schools"

Bob Hoffman

Hoffman said about the teaching staff. "To accomplish what they are doing you need a lot of individualized plans to teach in an individualized style plus developing materials rather than using a series of textbooks. In other words, each child is being addressed at his own level."

Parents should be aware that the teaching staff has a personal interest in each of their students, he continued.

The diversified teaching approach that is being used in the Charlevoix schools is not easy to pull off from a teacher's standpoint, Hoffman emphasized. It takes a productive staff that can handle the multi-approach that is being used here. It is, by far, not the easiest thing to accomplish," he added.

To illustrate his point, he referred to the use of a one to nine scale. Using the national average for the sixth grade, he explained that 23 percent of the national average, relating to ability that is, the capacity to learn, students at the bottom of the scale, 60 percent in the middle three (4, 5, and 6 stanines) and 21 percent in the top three.

Comparing the national average, relating to ability that is, the capacity to learn, with local results. They're smart enough to figure out how the three percent of its system works and then get by with only average work. In other words, they don't perform at the peak of their capabilities."

In Charlevoix the staff has used the tests to determine where each student belongs on the scale and then put together a combination of materials to challenge him in order to keep him at the level of his capabilities. 58 of his capabilities. If a child needs remedial help or acceleration, the teachers have the right combination to help him reach his potential.

Hoffman continued. In conclusion, he said that he felt Charlevoix teachers had developed such a good system that they should be out peddling it.

In fact, he added that he would be advising teachers elsewhere to

"You can see that you don't have much of a bottom end here as far as ability and achievement are concerned, you have a solid middle group and more than a typical group at the top of the scale," Hoffman pointed out.

"Bright kids," Hoffman said, "have a tendency to slip back."

They're smart enough to figure out how the three percent of its system works and then come to Charlevoix to the material they are seeing what is being done here to keep students abreast of the capabilities, both in committee headed by their capacity to learn. Sally McNamara of the K-5 staff.

School bands ready Dec. 12 concert

On Wednesday, December 12 the Charlevoix High School Band and the eighth grade band will present their annual Christmas Concert at 8:00 p.m. in the high school gym.

The high school Brass Sextet will open the concert with a medley of traditional Christmas Carols. Included in the selections which the eighth grade band will play are: "Themes from March Slav" by Tchaikovsky, "Jefferson County Overture" by John O'Reilly, and a special arrangement of the carol "Good King Wenceslas" by Gregory Kerkorian.

The high school band will open its segment of the concert with "The Free Lance" march by John Philip Sousa. Also on the program will be "Three Songs From Sussex" by Stuart, "Northwest Suite" by John O'Reilly and "Autumn" from "The Four Seasons" by Antonio Vivaldi. The band will close the concert with the traditional "Christmas Festival" arranged by Leroy Anderson.

The concert is open to the public and admission is free. The hat will be passed during the concert for voluntary contributions to the band fund.

A band booster's meeting will be held at 7:00 p.m. in the high school study hall before the concert. All band parents and other supporters of the band program are urged to attend this meeting.

Hospital wants TV stars to buckle up

Should Hardcastle and McCormick, The A-Team, Knight Rider, Dukes of Hazard, Simon and Simon, Magnum, P.I. and other TV heroes snap seat belts before roaring off in hot pursuit of adventure?

Charlevoix Area Hospital thinks so and so do the school children of Emmet, Antrim and Charlevoix Counties, as well as children and parents across the country.

Joining a national campaign to get TV heroes to wear seat belts, Charlevoix Area Hospital's Community Education committee, is working with District Health Department No. 3 and area school children to circulate petitions asking where TV heroes survive crashes and roll-overs without seat belts as "irresponsible public broadcasting" that must be stopped.

The campaign is based on the following facts: More than 25,000 children and young adults are killed annually in auto accidents.

Some 500,000 children are seriously injured each year in car crashes.

And studies show that if these children had been wearing shoulder and seat belts or in child safety seats, over half the deaths and injuries might have been prevented.

"Most TV heroes, powerful role models for American children and young adults, do not buckle up," according to Dr. E. Scott Geller, a member of the Psychology Department of Virginia Technological Institute, who began the nationwide campaign. If TV heroes, who our children spend hours observing and admiring, wore their seat belts, Geller certainly contribute to a nationwide increase in safety belt wearing by children and young adults... those whose quantity and quality of life are threatened by vehicle accidents."

Hollywood has been asked before to "buckle up" the TV heroes, by representatives of both government and the auto industry, Geller reports.

But, the TV industry refuses, saying that if these TV heroes wore seat belts it would weaken "their macho image and jeopardize ratings," Geller says.

Calling situations where TV heroes survive crashes and roll-overs without seat belts as "irresponsible public broadcasting" that must be stopped, Geller began the nationwide petition drive in November. Geller hopes to have millions of signatures on the petitions by mid-December.

Bert Nolte of the District Health Department No. 3, Anyone wishing to join the campaign may obtain additional petitions from the admissions desk at Charlevoix Area Hospital or any District Health Department No. 3 office.

Knight on the Town

Off the hook

As early as last year, samples from test wells located in the area of the Charlevoix Middle School were consistently yielding the highest TCE concentrations within the known plume of contamination, a plume we have become so well acquainted with since discovering it in the city's groundwater in 1981.

So it comes as little surprise that Environmental Protection Agency and Department of Natural Resources officials have finally concluded that somewhere on the Middle School black lies the long-sought source of the TCE contamination.

There is still no smoking gun. No leaking drums have been located nor any other physical evidence of precisely how or why the TCE got into the groundwater.

There were no such things as vocational classes at the Middle School building (formerly the mechanics classes might have used TCE as a degrading agent. And the chemistry lab was primitive at best with only minuscule amounts of a limited number of substances, probably not including TCE.

So where's it coming from? The most logical speculation seems to be that the TCE made its way into the ground at the former dry cleaning shop on Grant and Mason, which operated for many, many years. Gradual movement of the plume toward the lake may explain why high concentration levels are not presently found at the property.

This, however, was one of the first sites suspected by investigators and it has gotten as thorough an examination as anywhere. Still no conclusive evidence.

Speculation aside, it is part of the Superfund process to locate a source so that future recovery of cleanup costs can be sought. And right now, that source, as far as EPA officials are concerned, is the school.

Does this mean a potential liability to the district or the city of a couple million dollars?

Under original Superfund policy, states or municipalities involved with a contamination site on municipally-owned land would have had to share at least 50 percent of the cleanup costs.

Now, that policy has been clarified to state that the municipal government must both own the site and have some responsibility for the contamination before the 50 percent match requirement is imposed.

Since there appears to be no way the school could have caused the contamination, although the DNR is studying that possibility thoroughly before completely discounting it, there will be no liability question and the Superfund's share of 90 percent of replacement costs will stand.

Older people resisting new careers?

by PEG OHLE

Sometimes people, especially older people, want to do things their own way.

That may be why AEROW has not been a successful program. Ever since last April, the Academy for the Economic Recovery of Older Workers (AEROW) has been in existence with the stated purpose of training low income unemployed or under-employed men and women over 55 for specific jobs for which they have indicated an aptitude.

An "Executive Summary" of the project, prepared last January, stated that "The project design is focused on both classroom training and on-the-job training for low income persons over 55...A concentrated effort will be made to develop part-time positions with primary emphasis on jobs in hotel and motel business, home health aide agencies, retail sales, and developing a home-owned business."

Funds for AEROW, in the amount of $200,000, came from the Governor's office for Older Workers under the Job Training Partnership Act. In this area, the project is run by the Northwest Michigan Area Agency on Aging, headquartered in Traverse City. It was originally directed at training 70 persons in the ten-county Northwest Michigan Region, of which Charlevoix is part.

These persons would receive 80 hours of classroom work on such subjects as "What hidden skills do you have?", "Where to look for jobs", "How to get interviews", "How to sell yourself in an interview", and "How to write a resume or qualifications brief". These 80 hours would also include such skills as general maintenance, homemaker, health aide, and retail sales, using the resources of local colleges, businesses, and social organizations.

A clearing house of jobs in service industries would be developed to provide 80 hours of on-the-job training for participants in the ten-county area.

Despite an aggressive advertising campaign in newspapers and television, as of last week only one person from Charlevoix County had signed up with AEROW, although the County was supposedly eligible for seven of the placements.

Somehow, learning how to be hotel maids, waitresses, hospital orderlies, retail clerks, and other similar physically-demanding jobs does not seem to appeal to those over 55. They may feel that their backs and feet won't stand the strain, or they may feel that they already know how to run vacuum cleaners, make beds, repair faucets, wait tables, or sell hot dogs.

AEROW was planned down to the last figure. Its goals were 32 enrollees in hotel-motel services, 18 in home-maker-home health services, and 20 in retail sales.

However, the planners knew from past experience that only 60 percent, or 42, of the enrollees would finish the classes and be eligible for jobs. Therefore, only 20 spots could be filled in hotel motel services, 10 in home-maker-home health services, and 20 in retail sales.

Dot Johnson, who is trying to recruit AEROW applicants in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties, is a hard-working, dedicated woman. She doesn't quite understand why senior citizens don't want to be educated through her program, although she has run into many who need financial help.

Ms. Johnson feels about these people much as a social caseworker feels about her clients. She wants to help them but they don't want to sign up for classes, so she refers them to other agencies for assistance. They want to do things their own way.

AEROW is not doing much promotion during December, according to Ms. Johnson, but intends to put on a big "push" in January and February, hoping to meet its quota of enrollees.

But there is another aspect of AEROW that should concern everyone. Even if somehow works out as planned and actually trains 42 senior citizens Region-wide, the training will have cost $4,761 ($300 divided by 42) for each person's 160 hours (four weeks) of training, about the same as a year's tuition at many colleges. Perhaps it would be better to let our senior citizens do it their own way.

Clockwise

Looking back, and ahead

A TOUCHING ceremony was held recently at the Norwood United Methodist Church.

A red maple was planted in the church yard by C. L. VanDusen of Grand Rapids, in memory of his mother, Nellie Brown VanDusen who was organist of the church at the turn of the century.

The church celebrated its 100th anniversary Nov. 8.

I AM NOT QUITE as old as the Norwood Church, but so many changes have taken place in the world since I have been around forever.

Remember when the common cold was something to be dreaded? It's not that we minded the sniffles all that much, but so many potential fatal ailments started as common colds - including the dreaded pneumonia.

Until the sulfa drugs, penicillin and other antibiotics came along, almost any infection was fraught with danger and you'd better take care of it quick before it took care of you. Both of my grandfathers died in their 30's of minor infections that probably wouldn't even require a trip to the hospital today.

All of which is prologue to the miraculous story of Bill Schroeder and his fantastic artificial heart.

Schroeder, as you know, had a plastic and metal heart implanted in his chest two weeks ago at Louisville's Humana Hospital Audubon. But unlike the first artificial heart recipient - Dr. Barney Clark - Schroeder appears to be effecting an extremely rapid recovery.

In fact, doctors have hooked him up to his portable 11-pound power pack on several occasions and he has been able to put around the intensive care unit under his own power. Which to me is amazing. Simply amazing. Remember, this gentleman no longer has a heart, in the conventional meaning of the word.

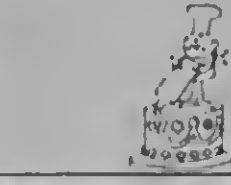

Before the end of the week he probably will be transferred to a private hospital room. And, barring complications, he will be able to move into a new family home near the hospital early next year.

Most of the time, of course, he will be connected to a heavy-duty pumping unit at the foot of his bed. However, he will be able to switch over to the portable unit for several hours at a time to venture outdoors to golf, fish, shop, visit friends, or whatever.

The power pack shouldn't be too much of a burden. It must be something like carrying a small house in camera case.

Without the artificial heart, Schroeder probably would have died sometime in the past two weeks. Instead, he has achieved a degree of immortality with a heart which won't quit beating until somebody stops it.

Which brings us back to the Norwood Church. Wouldn't the folks who built it have been surprised if they could have looked ahead 100 years at the progress we have made in the area of medical science? And if we could look ahead 100 years, I wonder what new miracles lie just around the corner?

Weddings

Mrs. and Mrs. Lon Kowalske
Blakey-Kowalske

Jeanne Carolyn Blakey and Lon James Kowalske exchanged wedding vows on Nov. 24 at Christ Lutheran Church in Boyne City. The Rev. Ken Berthel performed the double ring ceremony before the altar decorated with an arrangement of white and rose carnations.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. William Blakey of Shelby, N.C., and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Kowalske of Boyne City and the late Elaine Kowalske.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Victorian style gown with a high neckline, sheer sleeves and appliques of flowers and sequins. The gown fell to a chapel length train and her veil was attached to a crown of lace.

Amy Roisen, organist, played a program of wedding music and duets were sung by Diane Hausler and Martha Krona, sisters of the groom.

Susan Haskell attended the bride as maid of honor and Gloria Zimmerman, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. They were dusty rose gowns with long sleeves and sheer lace jackets. Each carried a bouquet of white and rose carnations.

A reception, given by the parents of the bride was held at the VFW in Boyne City, assisted by Dee Nagle. Juanita Hadix played the piano, Karen Kassaba served the wedding cake and Deb Weisler helped with the buffet and served punch.

On Nov. 23, Lyle and Alice Kowalske hosted a rehearsal dinner at their home.

The newlyweds are making their home in Boyne City. The groom is employed by the Ronald Agnello CPA firm in Charlevoix and the bride is employed at Summer Tree Residential Center in Boyne City and is attending North Central Michigan College. (Photo by Valentine Studio)

Garden Club to meet for work session

The Charlevoix Garden Club will meet at the home of Anna Belle Webb at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 12, for a workshop meeting.

Favors for patients' trays for Christmas will be made at the meeting.

Mrs. Webb, as hostess, will be assisted by Nancy Fowler and Lillian Swinson as co-hostesses.

The club has made Christmas-tray favors for the Charlevoix Area Hospital for many years as a club project.

At a recent meeting, members were treated to a taste of Hawaii when they met at the home of Lucy Witthoft who presented an interesting lesson on orchids and illustrated

New pledges to the Kappa Sigma chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority were honored recently at a ritual initiation dinner at the Grey Gables Inn. The pledges are (l to r): Pam Newcomb, Cindy Benson, Cindy Urban, Carol Hisey, Stephanie Hafeez and Barbara McKewen.

Goshen-Dayle

The marriage of Mona Davenport Goshen to James H. Doyle has been announced by the bride's mother, Mrs. Dean Davenport of Charlevoix.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Matthew Doyle of Petoskey and Florida.

The wedding was an event of November 3 at the First Presbyterian Church in Petoskey. The Rev. Robert C. Keiser officiated at the service. Mrs. Walter Fairbairn, at the organ, played a program of traditional music. Mr. and Mrs. James Alger, also of Charlevoix, were their only attendants.

A small reception for their families and close friends followed at the Sugar Bush Knoll home of the bridegroom.

After a brief northern Michigan wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Charlevoix.

Letter of thanks

FROM THE CREW OF THE MESQUITE

Surprise and touched are two of the words that express our feelings at the tremendous send-off on Monday morning. Emotions were running high among the crew in the face of a month's deployment - the anxiety of leaving families and loved ones coupled with the excitement of the pending trip. It was certainly a great consolation for everyone about to receive such an enthusiastic demonstration of support and good-wishes upon our departure. I'm sure it meant a lot to our families as well.

The entire crew extends its sincere appreciation and thanks to everyone involved in the event. Despite the fear of leaving someone, I should mention Mayor Rich Staley, Jacques Meria, Dave Knight, Reverend David Vangelia, Tom Dammann, Bill Supernaw, Dr. Dave and his "Toothfaires" the Charlevoix High School Marching Band for learning a song that probably won't get much mileage except for MESQUITE departures.

Semper Paratus, and of course Fran Martin who always seems to be at the bottom of it when something like this happens. Last but not least thanks to all of our families and friends for seeing us off.

The lines have been cast and the watchstains - manned. But the departing scene on City Dock gives each of us something to look forward to on our return hopefully with a love but slightly used Christmas Tree! On behalf of the crew of the MESQUITE, I extend our heartfelt gratitude to all. Thank you, Robert Young Commanding Officer.

The County will have to pay for its lawyer and all other legal expenses incurred as a result of the appeal, for the many hours of overtime work put in by Equalization Department employees preparing for the hearing, and for the living expenses of County representatives while in Lansing.

According to County Board Chairman Lee Moerland, it is estimated that legal expenses alone could run between $15,000 and $20,000.

As to future action, the County Board expressed the hope that the Tax Tribunal ruling will put an end to the appeals, but added that, "Should the litigation continue to the Michigan Court of Appeals, thousands of dollars will be spent in addition to the substantial amounts already expended, and the County Board will have no alternative but to ask the Court of Appeals to award costs to the County." The County Board of Commissioners question what taxpayers would gain by continued litigation.

TC St. Francis ends tourney hopes for Rayder girls

The Charlevoix girls basketball team bowed to one of the top rated teams in the state, Traverse City St. Francis, by a score of 54-39 in their first appearance in the Class C tournament at the Central Tuesday night.

The game meant the end of their prep school careers for three of the Rayder starters. Ann Wagner who had 11 points for the game and closed out her high school career with 841 points. McGowan and Dianne Loder, both key defensive players in the team's 1983 season.

Charlevoix finished with a 13-7 overall record, including Tuesday's game. The team's league record was 10-4 leaving them in second place behind Grayling which had a 13-1 record in league play.

In Tuesday's game, Charlevoix got off to a 12-9 first period lead but after a bad second period in which they were outscored 13-4 fell behind 32-15 at halftime. Loder contributed 10 points, 35-28 going into the final period when they were outscored 18-12.

Traverse City, which had 12 of 17 shots from the free throw line, hit 12 of 13 free throws.

Coach Henry Wagner said of the game, "Lawless is one of the smoothest players I've seen in a long time. The team is built around her with everyone feeding the ball to her. The team is really good."

Of his own team, Wagner said, "We had a far better season than I anticipated. The young players came through very well to help give us the good season we had. A second place in league standings."

Carrie Lawless, an all state candidate, had 31 points for Traverse City St. Francis; her total included nine of 11 free throws.

Grinders, CCSB win in OT; Carsons, Erbers also win

Two overtime games Thursday night climaxed the action in the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League last week. The first game was between the Grinders and CCSB. The Grinders won in overtime 58-56. The CCSB won in overtime 58-56.

Steve Dunkelberg paced the scoring for his team with 26 points. Cliff Haas had 22 points. Larry Schippergosh with 13 and John Hutchinson with 14 were in double figures for the winners. Dave Norton had 27 points, Jim Ulrich 12 and Mike Crain 11 for CCSB.

Five players were in double figures as the Grinders were ahead 58-56 until Tim Carey connected at the buzzer to throw the game into overtime. The Grinders won 58-56.

Carson's won 54-46 over Erbers. Carson's scored 34-31 in the first half and 20-15 in the second half. Erbers scored 20-15 in the first half and 14-11 in the second half.

Volleyball team now forming

Try-outs for the 1985 volleyball season at the Charlevoix High School will get underway early this week. Coach Bryan Bryson has announced that try-outs will be held on Wednesday, December 5, at 7 p.m. in the gymnasium.

With the basketball season ending only last Tuesday, there has been no time to get together with potential candidates for this year's squad which will not begin until this week. Coach Bryson said that he expects to have a number of candidates who saw action on the Pelee Island Invitational last year.

VASA races coming up in TC

By popular demand the North American VASA series, which is held in Traverse City and includes two warm-up races in December and January, is back again.

The Holiopet is scheduled over the holidays on December 29 and the Gran Traverse is slated for January 19. Both of these races grew from the demand of the skiers who compete in the VASA. They wanted some practice trails to test their endurance and timing," explained Ted Okerstrom, Race Chairman.

"We tried it last year and both we and the skiers were pleased with the results, so we've rescheduled them this year."

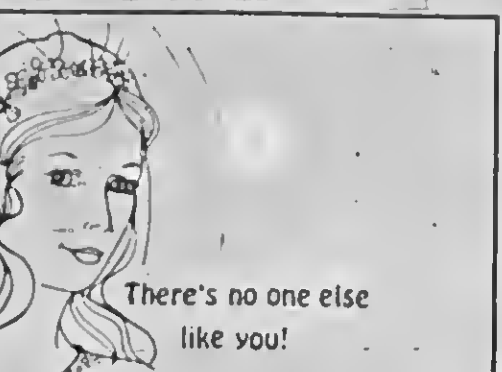

Both races will be run over portions of the new VASA trail. The Holiopet will start at Jollystone Park at 12 noon and offer two distance choices — 18 or 7 kilometers. The Gran Traverse will begin at Hanch Hudell at 10 a.m. and offer two distance choices — 30 or 18 kilometers.

The entry fee for both races is $15 until December 1 when it will go up to $20. The second race in the series will again increase to $25 on January 1. The entry deadline for both is the day before the race. Inclusive in the cost of both races is a pre-race waxing clinic, which will be conducted by a local Swiss representative.

"You need not be a VASA entrant to participate in the two warm-up races, according to Okerstrom. "These races offer various opportunities to different levels of skiers. For the established skier it offers a chance to work on timing and endurance. For the novice it offers an opportunity to try cross-country competition at distances not as great as the VASA."

The culmination of the event, of course, is the North American VASA scheduled for February 9. This prestigious race is a leg of the Chase series. It is expected to draw close to 2,000 skiers. In 1984 approximately 1,400 were registered. It is an annual stop over from the U.S. Ski Team.

For more information on any of these events stop in at your favorite sporting goods store or write: VASA, 1004 E. verse City 49681, call Elgith St., Box 381, Traverse City 49781-4622.

A generous donation from Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Witthoft to the recently organized Community Dental Health Committee, enabled the group to purchase educational dental programs available to teachers on all levels, K-12.

The teaching aids include study models to assist in tooth brushing and flossing instruction and oral health packets geared for specific grade levels. To promote better oral hygiene, Jerry Brady, school nurse, demonstrates how the brushing and flossing model can help teach the correct method of oral hygiene.

Coordinators of this program, Nancy Porter and Jan Merrill, have informed all teachers as to how they may secure these classroom aids.

KCB Christmas party is Dec. 6

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful will dispense with its December business meeting in favor of a Christmas party and social gathering.

The party will be held Thursday evening, December 6, at 7 p.m. at the 218 Bridge Street Restaurant. The dinner will be Dutch treat and there will be an open bar.

Reservations should be made before 10 a.m. Thursday by calling 547-4425.

Seeking those in need

The Food Pantry operated by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association will receive a quantity of food from "Food for Folks", the Charlevoix food cooperative.

According to Kitty Chaspe, cooperative members will donate certain food items from their December order to the Pantry. Also, the cooperative is offering food at cost to any organization or person wanting to buy bulk food for the Pantry. The cooperative will deliver the food direct to the Pantry.

Food orders must be placed by December 10. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Chase at 547-5555.

Obituaries

JEROME W. EBERTS
Private committal services for Jerome W. Eberts, 77, long-time resident at the Belvedere Club, were held Tuesday at Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Eberts died Nov. 29 at his home in Delray Beach, Fla.

Mr. Eberts, whose family had been residents of the Belvedere Club for many years, had lived in Grand Rapids where he had been president of the Eberts Cadillac for many years and in the Detroit area. He had made his home in Delray Beach for the past 15 years.

He is survived by his wife, Jane; two sons, F. William and James B., both of Delray Beach, and one grandchild.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

LEE J. SCOTT
Lee J. Scott, 64, former Charlevoix resident, died Nov. 27 at Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey.

Born in Charlevoix Nov. 6, 1920, the son of Walter and Rita Scott, Mr. Scott was a graduate of Charlevoix High School. During World War II he served as a sergeant in the U.S. Army. On Nov. 6, 1946 he was married to the former Dawn George in Petoskey where they had always made their home. He was employed by Hodgkiss & Douma for 36 years, retiring in 1982.

He is survived by his wife; two sons, Marc of Concord, Mass., and Eric L. at home and two grandchildren.

Stone Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Financial aid availabilities, requirements to be explained

The process of applying for financial aid for college students is a complex one. The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners will hold a workshop, intended for parents and students, to explain the various types of aid available and the methodology used to determine eligibility for aid. In announcing the workshop, Bentley said, "The majority of parents approach the process of applying for financial aid for college students the same way they approach filing income tax forms. However, there is one significant difference in all the paper work that accompanies each situation, that is, with financial aid application they stand a reasonable chance of securing some funds for secondary education. The forms to be used for applying for aid will be available at the workshop as well as a number of pamphlets and handouts dealing with financial aid. Parents who would be interested in an estimate of their eligibility for aid are encouraged to bring a

Charlevoix Kiwanis Club Fiftieth Anniversary

Kiwanians to mark half-century of community service, fellowship

It was Tuesday, December 5, 1934 that 26 men gathered at the Hotel Charlevoix to organize a new branch of Kiwanis International, the service organization that had been founded in Detroit only 19 years earlier.

The golden anniversary of that event is to be commemorated by Charlevoix Kiwanians this week with a banquet Tuesday night, December 4, at the Grey Gables.

Charlevoix's club was sponsored in 1934 by the Petoskey Kiwanis Club. Its official acceptance as an affiliate of Kiwanis International came at a Charter Night ceremony held March 19, 1935 at which Pelosky Kiwanian and then District I. Gov. H. Carl Spiller presented the new club with its charter.

Though Dr. Frank Wilkinson had actually been elected first president, Dr. Wilkinson was tragically killed in an auto accident before Charter Night so Oscar P. North is regarded as the club's first president.

Other officers included Meyer A. Levinson, secretary and Dr. F.F. McMillan, treasurer. Directors were Dr. R.B. Armstrong, Robert Bridge, Arthur Bergeon, Fenton R. Bulow, Clarence B. Meggison, Clarence Wood and Harry A. Craig.

Of the 26 charter members, two are still alive. Harry Bingham now resides in Sterling Heights and Charles Heise still lives in Charlevoix.

At that Dec. 5, 1934 gathering at Hotel Charlevoix, it was decided to hold the club's first actual meeting two nights later, Thursday, Dec. 7 at Mont's Cafe. Regular meetings were eventually established on Tuesdays at 6:15 p.m. The club still meets on Tuesdays but now it is for lunch at the purpose of Kiwanis betterment, much sponsorship and participation in community and civic activities may be looked forward to following organization."

By any measure those hopes have been more than fulfilled over the past half-century. Charlevoix Kiwanians have contributed an estimated $150,000 to a variety of community projects and causes. In addition to the Boy Scouts, which the club has sponsored for 40 of its 50 years, Kiwanis has supported Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, Interlochen students, music scholarships, mathematics and science awards, Boys State, Camp Daggett, Ann Arbor, Mary Free Bed Handicapped Center, Herman Meyer Project (Northern Michigan Hospital Pediatrics), Halloween movies for kids, Special Olympics and the Bergmann Center.

The club has raised funds over the years with white elephant sales, scrap paper drives and peanut sales but the major fund raising effort of recent years has been its Sextet.

The unofficial title of "Sweetest Club in the Michigan District."

Tuesday night's program will be highlighted by an address by James B. Dye of Saginaw, Governor of the Kiwanis Project (Northern Michigan Hospital Pediatrics), Halloween movies for kids, Special Olympics and the Bergmann Center.

Special thanks for help in the preparation of this supplement to Ralph Hamilton, long time secretary, treasurer and unofficial historian of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club.

Dr. F. F. McMillan, 1945, R. F. Sloan, 1938, Meyer Levinson, 1937 and Harry Bingham, 1942.

KIWANIS SPONSORED AMATEUR NIGHT

An Amateur Night show used to be sponsored by Charlevoix Kiwanians in the old high school, now the Middle School. In this undated photo, we don't know what's happening on stage but it has apparently caught the full attention of the standing-room only crowd.

Happy Birthday Kiwanis!

Perhaps the most unique and successful ongoing project for Charlevoix Kiwanians is its maple syrup operation. Each spring about 600 trees are tapped in the city by club members and volunteers. In the above old photo from around the 50s, workers watch the sap being unloaded into vats at the old "Sugar Shack".

Wrestlers return four from last year's squad

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestling team will open its 1984-85 season at home on Thursday when they host Gaylord and Grayling at 5:30 p.m.

"We have a young team this season," Coach Greg Bryan said. "However, we have the largest turnout for the sport in several years. The majority of the candidates have had some experience which should give us a good start in filling most of the weight categories" he added.

Four returning letter winners from last season, Matt Hull in the 138 pound category, Dan Kelly in the 145, Bill Marquardt in the 198 and Jeff Mervyn in the heavyweight division will form the nucleus for this year's squad Bryan said.

Steve Millios, a 138 pound transfer from Grand Ledge, a sophomore with a history of 10 years on the mats and two other transfers, the Roberts twins, Chris and Jim, will add depth to the lightweight division. They are 105 and 112 pounds respectively.

Other candidates are Toby Young and Chad Thorp, though freshmen, can be expected to give the team depth in the 98 pound division. Coming out for the first time are two seniors, Pat Hamlin (200 pounds) and Dave Miller (167) whose experience on the mats goes back to middle school.

Other candidates are Rick Clark (105), Mark Sebastian (119), Mike Gauthier (119), Kevin Pearsall (155), John Gray (160), Brian Miller (155), Jim Tilton (185), Steve Gauthier (253) and Brian Anderson (105).

Coach Bryan went on to say that he was looking forward to this season when he would be able to fill 11 or 12 of the 13 weight classes as compared to the last few years when the team was lucky to fill seven.

"This will make us more competitive. With only two seniors on the team we can look forward to being strong contenders in the conference next year. As for this year, we're untried and untested and I have no idea how we will fare but we'll be in there trying."

The team will open at home Thursday against Gaylord and Grayling. "This should give us an indication of what we can do" Bryan added.

Wrestling Team

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestling team, coached by Greg Bryan, has attracted 20 candidates this season, the largest number in recent years.

Varsity Basketball

Can cagers make it four in a row?

The Charlevoix season. After non-league games with East Jordan and Harbor Springs the following Tuesday, the Rayders will travel to St. Ignace to take on the Saints in their first conference game. The game will be played in Charlevoix.

The Rayders will be seeking their fourth straight title with the opening of the current season's championship squad. The list includes opening of the current

Smith said of his squad and the forthcoming season. "We have height, depth, players who can shoot and now we are seeking that 'special something' that will bring us together as a team," Smith said. Returning are five seniors from last season's championship squad. The list includes Will Syvertsen, 6'6", center; Doug Sloan, 6'4" guard-forward; Brent Cole, 6'1" guard; Jim Martin, 6'1" center and John Pearl, 6'1" forward, all seniors. Giving the team depth will be seven players that average better than 6-1 up from last year's JV ranks. These players are Tim Plagge, 6-3 center; Jody Putman, 6-0 forward-guard; Joe Hayes, 6-4 and Tim Salmonson, 6-2 forwards; Sean Ferguson, 6-2, Packy LaBlance 5-11, and Marc Himebauch, 6-1 guards. In discussing the strength in the league, Smith said that Cheboygan and Grayling should be strong and Rogers City could be good but not attitude, they're coachable and they respond well to direction", he said of the players. In conclusion he added "If the pieces fall together, it could be an exciting season." The team will travel to Boyne City on Dec. 18 and will host Petoskey Dec. 21 prior to the Christmas recess.

JV Cheer-leaders

On hand at all Charlevoix Rayder JV basketball games will be this squad of junior varsity cheerleaders, also coached by Joyce Ketchman.

Skiers have talent, experience; now all they need is the snow

The Charlevoix Rayder Ski Team will not take to the slopes in competition until early in January but Coach Erik Lundteigen has had them involved in their training routine since mid-November. Assisting him this season is Mike Bonello, former Rayder coach.

"I'm optimistic about the season. We should do well. We're starting out with a number of experienced skiers among the boys and girls. The kids are enthusiastic and are responding well to training," Lundteigen said.

Despite his enthusiasm about the team, he said that there was still a lot of hard work to be done before they would be ready for competition which will begin with a five-team meet at Nob's Nob

January 9. "We've got a long way to go even now. Hopefully this will be a good year for us" he continued.

Thirty-three candidates have been reporting regularly for training sessions Lundteigen said. Among that number are 18 skiers who are returning with at least one year's experience plus a large group of freshmen who are experienced skiers.

Among the returnees are Nonie Pace, a junior, who qualified for state competition last season; seniors Lenore Erber, Cheryl Aull, Christie Pace, Mark Trimmer and Sam Supernaw.

Another candidate who is a senior, Neal Houseworth, a transfer from the Lansing area, will add experience and depth to the team Lundteigen said.

Returning juniors are Brian Wilmut, Sue Miller, Nonie Pace, Matt Lignell, Julie Balmer, Jason Brindel and Jim Morgridge.

The list of sophomores includes Rusty Coolman, Karl Erber, Charlie Steele, Curt Hall, Sheryl Miller, Dave Warth, Brian Phillips, Derk VanKuiken, a transfer and Heath Moore.

Freshmen out for the team include a number of youngsters who have been skiing for several years and are expected to be strong contenders for the team Lundteigen said of the newcomers. They include Monica Havens, Lauren Pace, Wendy Balmer, Julie Bickersteth, Allison Hall, Sheryl Miller, Dave Warth, Brian Phillips, Derk VanKuiken, a transfer and Heath Moore.

"All we're waiting for now is some snow so we can put all out training into use on the slopes. So far we haven't had any cooperation by the weatherman but I'm sure we will have snow one day soon," Lundteigen said in conclusion.

The Charlevoix Rayder Ski Team, coached by Erik Lundteigen and Mike Bonello, assistant coach, has been training since mid-November for the season which will open with a five-team meet at Nob's Nob January 9.

Second row: Monica Havens, Sam Supernaw, Wendy Voisin, Lori Gleason, Julie Balmer, Lauren Pace, Wendy Balmer, Julie Bickdrsteth.

Third row: Allison Hall, Sheryl Miller, Curt McCandless, Matt Dixon, Neal Houseworth, Dave Warth, Brian Phillips, Jason Brindel.

Council turns rezoning for 24-unit rental complex back to planners

by DAVE KNIGHT

Whether a vacant lot on Petoskey Ave. just west of the Chez Charlevoix condominiums shall be rezoned to allow a proposed rental housing development will not be known until sometime in January following a decision by City Council Monday night to turn the matter back to the Planning Commission.

Representatives of the Tecklin Corporation, an East-Lansing firm, which has developed apartment buildings in 16 Michigan cities, were on hand at the special council meeting to present their plans for a two-building, 24-unit complex on the site.

Although city council has entertained and lent support to at least two multiple family development proposals for the property over the past four years, it was discovered this fall that only one half of the parcel was zoned R-4 for multiple family housing. The other half, according to the city's zoning map drawn in 1978, is zoned R-1, single family dwelling.

Efforts to rezone the R-1 portion to R-4 have been opposed, however, by residents of Chez Charlevoix. Barbara Bump told council Monday night that all 11 owners of the complex are opposed to the rezoning. She also said that, since one side of the property borders the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course, "I feel the entire city should have been notified about this rezoning because the golf course belongs to everyone in the city."

Tecklin vice president Michael Niedzielski explained that his firm's proposal would entail one two-story, 16-unit building and one two-story, eight-unit building. The complex would be built with low interest loans from the Farmers Home Administration, said Niedzielski, which would allow rental costs of $225 plus electricity for use in gathering community attitudes.

At its November 28 meeting, the Planning Commission denied the rezoning request but City Attorney Jeffrey VanTress explained that the issue in front of the commission at that meeting was solely rezoning and that they did not have the benefit of a site plan at that time.

Following an executive session, held because of the threat of litigation facing the city, Mayor Kenneth Staley announced that council had decided to refer the rezoning question back to the Planning Commission, this time accompanied by the Tecklin site plan.

Council is not expected to have the commission's recommendation until after the first of the year and will most likely act no sooner than its second meeting in January, said Staley.

Meeting as a committee of the whole, council:

-Approved a request by the Historical Society to move the Allie Moore boat Victory into the former Erber Auto garage for restoration.

-Reviewed a proposed residency ordinance which will require all fulltime officers and employees hired by the city to live in the city and which will come up for final approval at the council's Dec. 17 meeting.

-Agreed to City Manager Michael Wiesner's proposal that no street, sewer, water or sidewalk construction be included in the 1985-86 city budget to allow for a complete system inventory and construction planning effort.

Committee named to study lake plan

by PEG OHLE

A Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Committee of 14 men and one woman will soon begin studying the many issues affecting the lake, preparatory to writing a Lake Charlevoix Management Plan in cooperation with the County Planning Commission.

The Advisory Committee was appointed last week by the Planning Commission from a list of names supplied by townships and cities bordering on the lake, environmentalists, and other interested persons.

The members will act as liaison persons with local governments, study data provided by technical and professional resource people, and decide where development should or should not occur, based on that data and the desires of the people they represent. They will also assist in the development of an attitudinal survey for use in gathering community attitudes.

Serving on the Advisory Committee are Dr. John Hall, a physician and member of the board of directors of the Lake Charlevoix Association; Jerry Puhl, a school teacher and member of WATCH, a Charlevoix environmentalist group; J. Richard Smith, a real estate developer (The Harborage in Boyne City and Wildwood on Walloon); Irvin Sturm, an engineer with Site Planning Development, representing Bay Township; Clarence Goldsmith, a retiree and chairman of the Charlevoix Township Zoning Board, representing that Township; William Wasylowski, an employee of the Boyne City Cooperative and zoning administrator for Evanston Township, representing that Township; Alan Sibinic, a veterinarian and Eveline Township planning commission member, representing that Township.

Also, Leah Green, head of 4-11 activities for the County Extension Service and Hayes Township Trustee, representing that Township; John Frey, a farmer and Marion Township planning commission member, representing that Township; Robert (Bud) Cummins, an employee of DCL in Charlevoix and a South Arm Township Trustee and member of the planning commission, representing that Township; William Grimm, retired head of the Airport's new snow fleet recycled but ready

by DAVE KNIGHT

"They may not be pretty," John Wayne might have said about the Charlevoix Municipal Airport's snow removal fleet. "But they can fight!"

Indeed, the trio of units now poised on the airport tarmac waiting to do battle with winter's fury are a hodgepodge of new and old, stock and custom, conventional and unconventional.

But, mongrels though they may be, the snow removal equipment at the Charlevoix airport is now the best of any community airport in Northern Michigan, according to Richard Hodgson, president of Island Airways, the firm contracted by the city to operate the airport.

Starting with the acquisition and refurbishing last winter of a heavy-duty snowblower, Hodgson has gradually built up Island Airways' snow removal fleet over the past year primarily by recycling old, unwanted equipment.

When Hodgson located the truck-mounted snowblower he eventually bought from an equipment dealer in

1942 Army surplus truck and a rebuilt 1952 truck-mounted snowblower.

Boston last December, it was, in his words, "not really even in running condition."

Hodgson and his crew took the 1952 four-wheel drive Oshkosh truck, replaced its gasoline engine with a 180 horsepower diesel and added a massive 390 hp diesel to drive the snowblower.

The unit, which can clear drifts up to eight feet high, is the only one of its kind in the county. In emergency situations, said Hodgson, it will be available to city or county road crews.

With the snowblower completed, Hodgson's project for the summer was the conversion of a 20-year old diesel truck tractor bought from the Medusa Cement Company. The former semi-tractor was fitted with an underbody scraper and plow and is now ready for action in its new life.

Looking at the unlikely semi-turned-plow, Hodgson pointed out, with a chuckle, that "this thing is almost totally built with someone else's junk."

Rounding out the fleet is a 1942 surplus relic that, up until last year, was the city's only piece of snow removal equipment for the airport. Island Airways purchased the truck from the city and installed a new 210 hp gasoline engine.

Santa's coming!

Santa Claus is coming to town! That's the word from the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce and the Charlevoix Volunteer Fire Department who have joined in arranging the "Lighting of the Yule" and Santa's visit Saturday.

The event is scheduled for 12:45 p.m. when Mayor Ken Staley will light the community Christmas tree in East Park.

Immediately following at 1 p.m. Santa will arrive via fire truck to distribute boxes of candy and nuts to the children of the Charlevoix area. Marina LaBlanc, director of music at the Charlevoix Elementary School, will be present to lead the singing of Christmas carols.

At 1:30 p.m. the Charlevoix County State Bank will host the children of the area at a showing of the Dickens' childhood classic, "The Old Curiosity Shop" at Cinema III. Those planning to attend may pick up tickets without charge at the Charlevoix County State Bank.

The community Christmas tree is located in East Park near the intersection of Bridge St. and Clinton St. opposite the traffic light.

Jacque Merta, executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, is coordinating the event. The candy and nuts are supplied by the City of Charlevoix and packaged by the Charlevoix Volunteer Fire Department.

THELMA F. KNUSEN

Funeral services for Mrs. Thelma F. Knudsen, 68, were held at the Winchester Funeral Home at 1 p.m. Wednesday. The Rev. Russell Kruse of the Ironton Congregational Church will officiate. Interment will be in Sunset Hill Cemetery at East Jordan.

Mrs. Knudsen died Nov. 30 at Duke City, Fla., hospital. She was stricken shortly after arriving at her winter home at Zephyrhills, Fla.

Born in Wilson Township Oct. 3, 1916, the former Thelma Fay Hudkins was graduated from the East Jordan High School. On Sept. 15, 1939, she was married to Douglas G. Knudsen at Charlevoix. They had always made their home in Eveline Township. She was a member of the Ironton Congregational Church. She had served as church secretary and as a 4-H leader for many years.

For the past five years, the couple had spent the winter months in Zephyrhills, Fla.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a son, Peter H. of Benicia, Calif.; three daughters, Mrs. Jim (Marie) Vettaw of East Jordan, Mrs. Emory (Wendy) Sloan and Mrs. John (Glenda) Ferguson, both of Charlevoix; seven grandchildren; a sister, Mable Hudkins and a brother, Marion Hudkins, both of East Jordan.

The family will meet friends at the Winchester Funeral Home from 7 until 9 p.m. Tuesday.

The family suggests memorials to the Ironton Congregational Church.

CARLTON F. IKENS

Funeral services for Carlton F. Iken, 70, were held Dec. 10 at the United Methodist Church. The Rev. David W. Yingling officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Iken died Dec. 7 at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Born in Charlevoix Oct. 9, 1914, to Floyd and Matilda Iken, Mr. Iken attended Charlevoix Schools. On April 4, 1937, he was married to the former Marjorie Chaw at Charlevoix where they always made their home. He was a self-employed brick mason by trade. He was a member of the United Methodist Church.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Mark (Donna) White of Charlevoix and Mrs. Charles (Judy) Kiel of Mt. Pleasant; four grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Clarence F. Marie Rabach of Charlevoix and a brother, Harold Iken of Vanderbilt.

The family suggests memorials to the United Methodist Church of the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Charlevoix Yesterday

Marilyn Izor, new president of the Women's Guild of the Charlevoix Area Hospital, found this charming mother-baby picture among Guild records. It must have something to do with the Guild and/or the Hospital, but no one seems to know what or when. Who can help?

(The Courier is running low on pictures for "Charlevoix Yesterday". Anyone having old pictures they would like to share is asked to send them to the Courier at 405 Bridge Street or bring them in. Good care and prompt return are promised.)

IT'S A CHRISTMAS TRADITION at Charlevoix Area Hospital that babies born during the Christmas season receive a stocking big enough to wear.

For ten years, members of the Hospital Guild, led by Mrs. Eleanor Squire of Boyne City, have been sewing the bright red flannel Christmas stockings with hand applied designs. This year Mrs. Squire's helpers were Marion Schulich and Margaret Bennett, both of Boyne City. Mrs. Squire is shown here with three day old Ann Marie Pattenau daughter of Keith and Edith Pattenau of East Jordan.

County budget faces possible 8% boost by PEG OHLE Higher in 1985 than it was in 1984. The figure of $3,211,567 for operating during 1985, compared with $2,966,771 in 1984. Although as of last week, the budget had not been determined, a quick study of the proposed budget shows that the increase of $244,796 is accounted for largely by increases of $43,000 in the Judicial branch, $37,364 in Public Safety, $15,972 in Health Care, $80,323 in Welfare, $82,226 in Insurance and Bonds, and $10,000 in Audit Expenditures. The cost of General Government service divisions, including the four elective offices of Clerk, Treasurer, Register of Deeds, and Prosecuting Attorney, was reduced by approximately $10,000. The Budget Hearing will be held on Friday, December 21, at 10 a.m. in the Commissioners' Room of the County Building Annex. A more complete report on the budget will be made following that hearing.

Seek input for city Reg. Plan

Input from local citizens on what should be included in an update of the City of Charlevoix's recreation plan will be sought at a public hearing scheduled for 7 p.m. Wednesday, December 12 at City Hall.

The hearing will be conducted by the City Parks and Recreation Commission which is in the process of drafting a new, five-year update of the recreation plan which was enacted in 1980. Almost all proposals for capital improvements outlined in that plan have been completed over its five-year time line, according to commission chairman John Iles.

City recreation director Dwight Bass presently located at the high school but for which several other locations have been suggested, including East Park, Middle School and Mt. McSaubia.

Improvements at the ball parks such as in the concession stand at Hoffman Park including the razing of the house now standing on the property and the landscaping of the park along the channel.

Improvements to East Park including construction of new rest room facilities.

Development of or suggestions for city's parks and other recreational facilities to additional 300 feet of Lake Charlevoix saying, "The commission needs to know what the people want before they can draw up a new plan."

Chances look good for beach funding

The City of Charlevoix's chances for obtaining state matching funds for the purchase of 300 feet of Lake Charlevoix frontage appear to be very good following a December 5 meeting of the Michigan Land Trust Fund Board of Directors.

At the meeting, the board left unchanged Charlevoix's request for $120,000 which would be matched by the city for the purchase of a 1.4 acre lot to expand the Ferry Ave. Beach park area.

The city has an option to purchase the property for $215,000 from the Charlevoix Development Company under an arrangement in which the CDC will obtain the parcel from an Ohio bankruptcy court for the same price.

The next step for Charlevoix's proposal to the Michigan Land Trust Fund is a January 9 meeting of the MLTF board to finalize the list of projects recommended for funding, a list which will then be submitted to the legislature for final authorization.

According to Gary Fralick, an aide to St. Sen. Mitch Irwin, the January 9 meeting is "normally just a formality" so the fact that Charlevoix's proposal has been carried forward fully intact to that session is an indication that the proposal will probably obtain funding.

Said Fralick, "It looks pretty good right now."

Thomas Fleck, a Land Trust Fund staff member, said that "51 or 52" proposals totaling from $22 to $25 million have been carried forward.

"Charlevoix's proposal appears to have a good chance," said Fleck, "But it should be remembered that this is a thoroughly fluctuating process."

request

A request by Coldwell Banker Realtor to hook into a school portable sewer line was granted by the Charlevoix Board of Education at its regular meeting Dec. 3.

The sale of a small building adjacent to school property for use as an auto repair shop was contingent on the request. The prospective owner needed the line so toilet facilities could be installed in the structure.

Vane Smith, high school principal, advised that there would be a demonstration of a language laboratory at the high school Wednesday. He also advised that the basketball and wrestling seasons would begin later this week.

The last meeting of the board for 1984 will be held Dec. 17. Max Novak, board president, advised that members with business to be concluded this year, should bring it to that meeting.

The board adjourned to executive session to discuss a personnel issue.

Knight on the Town

It's all in how you ask

By Dave Knight

If there wasn't so much money in weekly newspaper editing, I think I'd be interested in owning a toy store right about now.

Indications are that Christmas season toy sales will reach booming proportions this month. Retail sales are being projected by the Toy Manufacturers of America trade association at $12.5 billion nationwide compared to last year's sales of only $10.4 billion.

We're talking about a lot of toys here.

But even more fascinating than the volume being moved is the oncoming determination of what's hot and what's not.

From what I read, a Christmas tree without a Cabbage Patch Kid, or a Care Bear, or a Gobot, or at least a Fisher-Price Camera Underneath is just not acceptable to the discerning youngster.

Nothing wrong with providing chic toys to your kids but be forewarned that the quest for a thoroughly modern toy chest can be an elusive one.

Today's Care Bears are tomorrow's hula hoops.

I have also discovered that seeking out some of the more trendy toys can pose something of a threat to one's well being.

Last year, about a week before Christmas, a friend called from Petoskey. She was searching frantically for a certain super-hero doll that her child could not go on living without and which was evidently nowhere to be found in Petoskey.

By phone she had located one last specimen of the doll at a local gas station convenience store in Charlevoix. She pleaded with me to dash over to the station and claim the prize before it disappeared.

Sensing the urgency of the situation, I ran out to my car, hurried to the station, rushed up to the counter where a pretty big guy was standing and blurted: "I'm looking for a He-Man!"

His expression was sufficient reminder that one does just not run into gas stations and shout that he is looking for a He-Man without providing further explanation, right away!

Clockwise

The chemical trade-off

By Bob Clock

Do you ever yearn for the good old days before mankind acquired a chemical dependency?

Reference, of course, is to the accident at the Union Carbide plant in Bhopal, India, which killed more than 2,000 persons and left thousands of others dying or blinded. The exact toll probably won't be known for years.

The chemical was methyl isocyanate, 25 tons of which vaporized and settled over the city. It is the active ingredient in some rather common garden pesticides.

The cause of the spill has not been revealed, since the officials involved reportedly are under house arrest in the plant; but the awful consequences have shocked the world.

However, the toll may well be minuscule compared to the millions of Indians who might have died of starvation over the years if pesticides had never been invented. Witness the drought-related deaths occurring daily in Ethiopia and other bone-dry nations on the fringe of the rapidly expanding Sahara Desert.

Closer to home, the chemical trichloroethylene (TCE) is seeping from somewhere into Charlevoix's municipal water supply. TCE is suspected of causing cancer in humans, but no one knows for sure.

Charlevoix's problem has been less dramatic than the wholesale eradication of human beings and animals in India. But both situations stem from our growing dependence on chemicals to make life easier.

If you're a gardener, you know it's easier to dust your potatoes with Sevin than it is to murder potato bugs in cold blood with your bare fingers.

It is also no secret that commercial cleaners (TCE?) work better than elbow grease in cleaning engine parts and tools befouled with a variety of contaminants. Degreasers make the job easier.

But like all of the good things of life, we have had to strike a Faustian bargain in order to live in a chemical society. We either accept the risks or we forfeit the benefits.

In most instances we have chosen — for better or worse — to accept the risks; but our devil-may-care attitude is last catching up with us, thanks to our bottomless ignorance in the areas of chemical handling and waste disposal.

The state Department of Natural Resources last week published a list of Michigan's 300 most highly contaminated waste disposal sites. It goes without saying that there are hundreds of others that are contaminated, but not to the same degree.

Michigan, of course, is only one state among 50 — all of which have their own waste disposal problems.

Is it possible that — in our search for the good life — we not only have befouled our nest but have destroyed some of the very things that make life worth living, such as pure water and pure air?

For the survivors of the Union Carbide accident in Bhopal, India, that question is scarcely rhetorical.

Letter of thanks

To the Editor:
The Charlevoix Lions Club, Friends of Camp McSaubia, Inc., the Camp McSaubia staff and the many children who use the camp would like to thank all the people and businesses who made the November 9 and 10 Las Vegas Nites program a tremendous success.

A grand total of $25,548.84 was netted from this activity. We would be remiss if we did not extend our appreciation to those 446 people who were gracious and generous enough to attend this Charlevoix Beautiful fall fund raising activity.

As stated earlier all proceeds will go into the Camp McSaubia Capital Improvements Fund. To date, with the monies raised by the Knights of Columbus 1983 Las Vegas Nites program, a total of over $10,000 has been earned. This money has been earmarked for the restroom expansion and renovation program at Camp McSaubia.

It is hoped that all construction will be completed by the time the Camp welcomes children for its tenth year, June 24, 1985.

Thank you, Charlevoix, and have a very special Merry Christmas and prosperous New Year!

Doll auction to benefit

Chx. County Hospice

More than 50 dolls, dressed by friends of Charlevoix County Hospice, will be available for silent auction Dec. 17 at the main office of Northwestern State Bank in East Jordan, according to Joan Lemerand.

Mrs. Lemerand and Vickie Olson, both employees of the bank, are in charge of the project. This is the second year the bank has sponsored the doll auction.

In addition to providing dolls to be dressed, the bank also furnishes prize money and matches the amount the bidders pay which is then donated to Charlevoix County Hospice.

Last year Hospice received $400 from the sale and donations.

Persons wishing to dress dolls have until Dec. 14 to return them to the bank. Dolls will be judged Dec. 17. The person costumeing the best-dressed doll can earn a $50 savings bond. Second place will receive a $10 cash prize and third place $5.

Sue Brill, director of the Charlevoix County Senior Citizen Center in East Jordan, said Maunie Griffin, age 92, has crocheted outfits for six dolls. Barbara Poliknski, a Hospice volunteer, donated two dolls which she created and dressed.

Bidding on the dolls continues until Dec. 20. Persons winning dolls will be notified Dec. 21. Any dolls not purchased will be given to needy children, Mrs. Lemerand said.

Warn of winter's hazards

"Watch out, it's winter," warns the Safety Committee at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Harry S. Custer, M.D., and the hospital's Safety Committee, recently developed a checklist of items to watch out for as winter roars in, even though, as the physician says, "Winter can be a beautiful and happy season."

The Charlevoix Area Hospital Safety Committee is just as concerned about problems which may bring people to the hospital as it is keeping the hospital as a safe environment. Thus, be aware of the following potential hazards:

Warming up the car in the morning: watch out for the accumulating carbon monoxide gas. Make sure you crack your car window, have plenty of ventilation and do not warm up the car in a closed garage.

Heating the home with wood: The smoke from wood burning creates potentially dangerous fumes. Adequate ventilation is essential. Make sure the stove is properly insulated, placed well away from combustible materials, and avoid over-heating.

Cutting wood: Be cautious with chain saws and axes. Wear protective hard hats and don't fell trees alone. People with heart or lung conditions should be especially careful. Don't carry heavy loads of wood after large meals, and wear a ski mask or scarf to avoid inhaling cold air directly into your lungs.

Slips and falls: The Emergency Room sees an increase of injuries due to falls in winter. Take the necessary precautions to avoid wet and slippery spots.

Snowmobilers, children on sleds and cross country skiers all may be unexpected hazards for which drivers must be prepared. Watch out for children darting out from between parked cars. Allow more time to stop on slippery roads.

School buses and away from any fire hazards.

Charlevoix Area Hospital and the Safety Committee wishes everyone a safe and Merry Christmas.

A sure-fire indicator of the coming of winter is the lessening number of permits issued by the Department of Building Code Inspection. In November, Department issued 34 permits, compared with 68 in October. Winter is ahead of last year in this regard.

The permits included seven for new houses, 13 for additions to or remodeling of houses, four for garages, two for decks and porches, two for new commercial buildings, two for additions to or remodeling of commercial buildings, two for mobile homes, four for residential outbuildings, and two for commercial outbuildings.

One new house will be built in Bay Township, one in Boyne Valley Township, one in Evangeline Township, one in Eveline Township, one in Melrose Township, one in Norwood Township, and one in Wilson Township.

TAKE A LOOK AT ALL THE WONDERS OF CHRISTMAS AND ENJOY THE SPECIAL SPLINDORS OF THE HAPPY SEASON!

James B. Dye, above, of Saginaw, was the featured speaker at the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club's 30th birthday celebration held last Tuesday night, December 4, at the Grey Gables Inn. Dye is the Governor of the Michigan District.

VIPs, spouses join Kiwanians for birthday celebration

No birthday party would be complete without a birthday cake so a special version marking 30 years for the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club was baked and decorated by Nancy Rajewski, wife of the club's president, Robert Rajewski.

Ralph Hamilton, above right, secretary-treasurer of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club for 22 years, was presented with a 35-year Legion of Honor award by Lt. Gov. Louis Tebbe, left. Also receiving the award, presented to 35-year members, was Pat Hawley.

Clinic to cover
livestock feed management

4-H and FFA market livestock members and others interested can learn about proper feeding and feed management in order to get the best rate of gain at the least cost in their current steer project at a market livestock feeding clinic for steers to be held Saturday, December 15 from 1:00-3:00 p.m. at the Emmet County 4-H Center.

Rod Cortright and Keith Larkin, Charlevoix and Emmet County Extension Directors, will be the instructors. These topics will be covered: ruminant digestion, determining finish weight, determining rate of gain, forming rations to meet the rate of gain at the least cost, success stories from 4-H members and record keeping.

A similar clinic will be held about hogs and lambs in early April to assist members in those market projects. This information will be useful even if these species are being raised for production instead of market.

Bergmann Center now has 38 enrolled from throughout Charlevoix County

by PEG OHLE
Bergmann of Charlevoix, an early benefactor, the Center 38 clients enrolled. They come from all over the County: 20 from the Charlevoix area, 10 from Boyne City, three from East Jordan, and five from Hudson Township. They range in age from 21 to 65.

Many Charlevoix industries have supported the Bergmann Center by sub-contracting work to them. Manufacturing, Midwest International, Weather Shield, Lexalite, Charlevoix Manufacturing, and Bond-A-Cove all participated in the work program during the past year. Among the projects are: engravings, Badge-A-Mini buttons, quilts, rugs, Love Lites, pine cone wreaths, and candle holders.

Most of the operating funds for the Bergmann Center come from the Michigan Department of Mental Health and the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, administered through the Northern Michigan Community Mental Health Services Board.

Last year, the Center also received funds from the Charlevoix United Way, Boyne City United Way, and public and private donations. During the year, garage sales, a fund-raising event, and a "due to the generosity of the Charlevoix area citizens that donated all the items." A loom was donated by the parents of one of the Center's clients, which made it possible to sell several rugs at the Charlevoix and

by Sister Barbara Ann Seymour
St. Mary's Catholic Church

It's that time of year again; snow, sleigh bells, pretty lights, joyful decorations, gift buying and giving, caroling. When we really stop to think about it, it's the most beautiful, cheerful and generous of all the holidays that we celebrate; and rightly so. It's the birthday of the King of Kings!

In all of the hustle-bustle we many times forget the real reason for all of the hoop-la. We forget the spiritual dimension of December 25th; the re-birth of Christ in our hearts and souls.

There are those of us who say, "But how can I keep Christ in my Christmas preparations when I have all of these other things to think about?" God sent His Son to us because He loved us. He gave us the greatest gift of all time. Each gift made or purchased should be given because we love. If given for any other reason our gift is bare. The same motive holds true for cards. We send them to share a message of love with those whom we won't see at Christmastime. Conversations at our social gatherings can also reflect love, be uplifting, supportive of one another, build self-esteem of others. At home we can be more understanding of each other's problems; tell others in word or action that they are loved and appreciated. As we decorate our Christmas tree we can think of the evergreen as the eternity of God; the green as a sign of hope and the lights as Christ the light of the world.

If we can put Christ in our time of preparations for Christmas, then He certainly will be there when we celebrate His birthday and maybe He'll become a part of our daily lives.

CUSTOM MOUTHGUARDS for the Charlevoix High School boys varsity and junior varsity basketball players were provided at a special fitting session last week through the coordinated efforts of Drs. Merrill, Porter, Stewart, Strawbridge and Tallas. Coach Dave Smith arranged for the local dentists to set up an "on-location" dental lab in the school gym after a practice. Above, Dr. Strawbridge helps Sean Ferguson with his mouthguard. Drs. Porter and Stewart provided the same service to girls basketball teams last September.

The Twelve Days of Christmas

Traditional English

Gaily

The Twelve Days of Christmas lie between December 25 and Epiphany, January 6. It was on January 6 that the Three Magi brought gifts to the Christ Child in the manger, the first Christmas gifts. It was common folk belief that on the eve of January 6 animals were given the power to speak.

Substance abuse case overload?

by PEG OHLE

The number of substance abuse related court cases in Charlevoix County is increasing steadily, and District Court needs help in handling them, as well as other cases.

That is the conclusion of an 18-month study of the court system completed by Community Justice Alternatives of Traverse City. The study was presented to the County Board of Commissioners last week for its study and action.

The study involves 222 District Court cases, broken down into seven categories. Assault, 13 cases or five percent; substance abuse, 167 cases or 75 percent; property damage, 32 cases or 14 percent; fraud, four cases or two percent; traffic, nine cases or four percent; trespass, three cases or one percent; and other, four cases or two percent.

Included under substance abuse are such things as being drunk and disorderly, disorderly conduct, being a disorderly person, disturbing the peace, furnishing alcohol to minors, impaired driving, operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, unlawful blood alcohol level, and possession and/or use of marijuana.

The increase in substance abuse related cases is due largely to the implementation of drunk driving legislation which was passed in March, 1983, and funded for enforcement in Charlevoix County on October 1, 1983. Since then, these cases have risen 48 percent.

Increased numbers of arrests mean more than increased numbers of court appearances, the study shows. There are pre-sentencing investigations by the probation department, which average 60 to 90 days; there are jail sentences, which are burdening an already overcrowded jail; there is probation supervision, which requires the probation officer to have contact with offenders for an average of 14 months; and there are referrals to substance abuse agencies for everyone convicted of a substance abuse crime.

While the drunk driving legislation provided supplemental funds for local law enforcement agencies, it did nothing to help pay for the costs of probation officers or counselors, leaving in Charlevoix County, one probation officer to handle a caseload of 285 probations. This is the largest caseload of any county in northern Michigan, and Charlevoix District Court personnel have expressed concern that with this heavy caseload, the court may not be able to provide a complete follow-through on all cases.

The study notes that the Charlevoix County District Court probation department's higher caseload of substance abuse related cases is not unique. All court systems have been required to tackle this social-criminal problem. The cost of increasing the volume without providing clear guidelines and additional resources for a better

Growth Alliance pushed

by PEG OHLE

Members of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners last week heard recommendations from Dennis Jason of the County Economic Development Corporation and Tad Malpass of the Business and Industry Task Force that the County join the proposed three-county Community Growth Alliance.

The Alliance, which has been under consideration by Charlevoix, Antrim, and Emmet County officials for some time, is described as a means of promoting the area as a desirable place for businesses and industries to operate, and as a source of needed goods of many different types.

The Alliance, as explained by Jason and Malpass, would assist the three counties in getting a fair share of Federal procurements and enable them to compete in all markets. This would be done through an Area Development Office working with existing businesses and industries and active recruiting of new businesses and industries.

To make the area more desirable for these ventures, the Alliance would embark upon a program of assistance along many lines. An industrial facility tax abatement district, a worker's compensation pool, a temporary labor pool, local regulation reform, designation of the area as a free trade zone, a mutual self-help network, personnel training programs, and a venture capital association.

The other major function of the Community Growth Alliance would be that of a Small Business Assistance Center. This group of activities would include direct assistance to businesses, such as Alliance staff attending business meetings through the area to become familiar with business people and their problems, assisting with problems of local, state, or federal regulations, licensing, or tax problems; assisting with financing or re-financing problems; and assisting with technical management help and business plans.

The Alliance proposal calls for an annual budget of approximately $150,000. $35,500 for the Area Development Office and $64,500 for the Small Business Assistance Center. These offices would be funded by the State, $75,000 in cash; local governments, $45,000 in cash; and local in-kind, $30,000.

The local cash grant would amount to about 75 cents a person for each person in the three-county area, a total of $15,150 for Charlevoix County.

Council renews option on Ferry Beach property

With a series of three motions Monday night, City Council renewed its option on 300 feet of Lake Charlevoix frontage adjoining Ferry Beach Park for which the city has applied for state matching funds.

The city's current option with Charlevoix Development Co. expires December 31, 1984. Under action taken by council Monday, the option to purchase is renewed and will be ready for further review at council's January 7 meeting.

City Manager Michael Wiesner explained to council that although the possibility of obtaining funds for the purchase from the Michigan Land Trust appears likely, Charlevoix's application is ranked Ironton marina plans to be aired

by DAVE KNIGHT

Plans for the construction of docks and a launching ramp to be used in a commercial marina operation on the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix at Ironton will be the subject of a public hearing at 7 p.m. Wednesday, December 19 in the Charlevoix County courthouse.

Ironton Cove, Inc., a Charlevoix-based firm of which George Duke is majority stockholder, has filed an application with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to build two main piers extending up to 225 feet in length which, with finger piers and mooring piles, will provide 54 boat slips.

The proposed docks would replace four existing piers on the property which has most recently been used for vacation cabin rental. Plans by Ironton Cove, Inc. are to raze the five cabins now standing on the property, which is located between the Ironton Landing restaurant and the DNR public lake access, and convert the existing office and home into shower and toilet facilities.

Also planned for the site is a storage building with capacity for 98 boats on racks and a launch ramp from which boats can be put into or taken out of the lake by forklift. The ramp will not accommodate trailer launching, according to the developers' announced plans.

Sherman A. Chamberlain, Jr. of Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering, which has handled design and planning of the project, responded in a December 10 memorandum to some concerns raised about the project in letters submitted to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers by interested parties. As of last week, five letters had reportedly been received by the Corps with inquiries about the project.

Wrote Chamberlain, "This facility is designed to service the smaller boats that use Lake Charlevoix - up to 28 ft. in length. There will be 54 slips in the water, most of which will be available for rental in the summer on a lease basis, with a few reserved for docking those boats that are returned to the facility too late to be put back in the storage building."

Chamberlain added that the emphasis at the planned marina will be on storage service and short term dock usage. Gas pumps and a pump out station for public use if disposal capacity allows are also planned.

Addressing concerns that earlier this year plagued a condominium boat slip project at the Hemingway Pointe Club just across the South Arm from Ironton, Chamberlain wrote, "There are no plans to sell boat slips and thus create a condominium situation by selling so-called public bottomlands."

According to Chamberlain, "Those people renting the boat slips will be discouraged from living on their boats for any extended length of time. Indeed, this will be restricted by the rental contract and also by the size of their boats."

For waste water disposal, Ironton Cove, Inc. proposes to utilize the property's existing septic system which Chamberlain described as "relatively new and considered to be adequate for this facility."

The developers will be working closely with the District Health Department No. 3 to determine the capacity of the system, said Chamberlain.

Attorney Thomas D. Pointner, representing Ironton Cove, Inc., added last week that "We are prepared to live within the maximum permissible limit of onsite wastewater disposal as determined and monitored by the Health Department."

Another issue that has been cited recently in regard to several proposed developments on Lake Charlevoix is the potential for overuse of the lake by too many boaters.

Chamberlain maintained that the Ironton Cove facility would not contribute significantly to increased boating traffic on the lake since a large percentage of its customers are already using the lake.

He also said that, based on the experience of other marina operators on the lake, at any one time an average of 15 to 20 percent of their boats are actually on the water with that figure reaching a high of 30 percent on holiday weekends.

According to Chamberlain, since Ironton Cove will serve two different

Many Charlevoix residents will remember Johnny DiCicco, who provided piano entertainment at the Weatherline Inn several years ago. He is shown here with his accordion and two other musicians, Tommy Vaughn with guitar and the late Joe Pullin with bass, entertaining a group of Belvedere Club members. Charlotte Ross Lee of Petoskey, who furnished the picture, believes it was taken in the 1960's. Mrs. Lee reports that Johnny DiCicco now lives in Florida and runs a mobile home business.

Mrs. Davenport and her daughter Marjorie are on the far right of the front row in the picture. Others identified by Mrs. Davenport in the photo include Mrs. Percy Durand and daughter Donna, Mrs. Margaret Wallace and daughter Nancy, Mrs. Bertha Potter and son Ivan and Mrs. Kathryn Mayne and daughter Roberta.

Local RSVP program receives grant

The Retired Senior Volunteer Program is entering its fourth year of operation. According to Director Cynthia Sparks, the program has received a grant from ACTION, an independent government agency, according to Northern Michigan Congressman Bob Kava.

The $29,792 grant will help the program meet expenses as it enters its fourth year of operation. The grant will be used to reimburse the 172 senior volunteers for the expenses they incur while working as RSVP volunteers in the three-county area. Sparks said, the program is very successful in reaching out and volunteering their time and experience to assist community needs, such as schools, courts, health and day care, rehabilitation clinics, youth programs and other groups. The volunteers contribute an aggregate total of 2,500 volunteer hours per month to local communities. Congressman Davis said he was pleased that the grant was awarded, and he noted that the Retired Senior Volunteer Program is a non-profit organization which utilizes the knowledge and experience of area residents who are 60 years of age or older.

Alcohol abuse is a serious problem, particularly among people who are not of legal drinking age. The 7-Eleven stores in this area want to help do something about this problem. We want to assure that the laws regarding the sale of alcoholic beverages to those not of legal drinking age are upheld in our stores. We are asking our customers who are age twenty-five and younger to have a driver's license or military identification available for inspection when purchasing alcoholic beverages from us. We try to be good neighbors and to live up to our responsibilities as a corporate citizen. This is not the first time we have been involved in community concerns. We've been involved with you in the Mothers March of Dimes. We enlisted your aid in the fight against muscular dystrophy and, through your generosity, 7-Eleven stores have raised over $35 million to fight this crippling disease.

Now we ask your cooperation and support in helping us adhere to the law. If you come to 7-Eleven to purchase alcoholic beverages, please come of age.

Our concern is people.

B.I. assessment test results told

The results of the Michigan Assessment Tests given at the Beaver Island Community School in September have been announced by Shari A. Hogue, school principal.

The tests are given in the fourth, seventh and tenth grades every fall shortly after school opens. The tests reveal the strengths and weaknesses of a program and offer an opportunity to administrators and teachers to upgrade their programs in Math and Reading at the various levels.

In the fourth grade where six students were tested, 100 percent achieved at least a 75 percent score on the Math objectives and 83.3 percent achieved at least a 75 percent score on the Reading objectives.

The results reveal low needs and stability in both subjects Ms. Hogue remarked.

In the seventh grade, eight students were tested and 50 percent achieved at least 75 percent or better on the Math objectives and 87.5 percent achieved at least 75 percent on the Reading objectives.

There are moderate needs with improving in Math and low needs in improving reading and

Ms. Hogue said.

Nine tenth graders were tested with 66.7 percent achieving 75 percent or better on the Math objectives and 77.8 percent achieved at least 75 percent on the Reading objectives.

As a result, there will be moderate needs in Math and stable, and low needs in reading and improving, Ms.

Hogue reported.

How the students did as compared with state averages will not be known until state results are released later this month or early in January. However, in the past, the students at the Beaver Island Community School have scored well above state averages.

AS A PRELUDE to the annual Eighth Grade and High School Christmas Concert held Dec. 12, the CHS brass sextet performed six traditional carols. Included in the ensemble

ne hundred years ago, Charlevoix County State Bank opened its doors and a few months later, wished their first customers "Merry Christmas". Many things have happened in that century and we are still here. Pleased that our family of friends and customers have grown. Even though some of you live in many different areas of the country, we are grateful that we are still able to say to you,

"This special Christmas greeting Can't really take the place of seeing you and saying Merry Christmas face to face. Though we can't get together This greeting is the next best way of wishing you much happiness and joy on Christmas Day."

Harbor, St. Ignace fall to Rayders

by ULF EYALDSSON

Last week Charlevoix Rayder Varsity put two more games under their belt by beating Harbor Springs 70-51 at home and in their first conference game for the season, winning in St. Ignace, 82-60.

In Tuesday's game, Harbor Springs John Pearl and Doug Sloan shocked their guests by helping the Rayders to a 90-lead before the Rams could score, and the Rayders made sure that they kept the distance through the whole game. Seemingly another four buckets, Brent Cole, Sean Ferguson and Pearl made the score 17-10 at the end of the first quarter. Mike Erickson, Doug Tippett, Dan Reed and Joe Ketchum provided their team with the 10 points.

The second quarter ended 25-30, which means that both teams scored only 22 points during that stanza. Both squads had lots of turnovers and, according to coach Dave Smith, the Rayders' 23 were far too many. "We turned the ball over too much, and we had kept the ball better, we could have won by an essentially higher score," he said.

Charlevoix has a tall team this year, and they found it hard to adjust to the shorter Rams. After 48-33 in the third quarter, the Rayders really pointed out their dominance on the floor and cruised to a safe 70-51 win. Points for Rayders: Cole 24, Sloan 13, Pearl 12, Will Syvertsen 7, Ferguson 6, and Joe Hayes and Packer LaBlance 4 each. Pearl had 13 rebounds, Syvertsen 10 and Sloan 8.

Friday night, the Rayders continued to play well, whipping the Saints 82-60. The Rayders jumped to a 20-lead in the first quarter. Mike Erickson, Doug Tippett, Dan Reed and Joe Ketchum provided their team with the 10 points.

"We couldn't get the rebounds," and we'll have to work on our defense more," Rick Ledy, coach for the Saints, said after the game. The Rayders really made sure that their antagonists couldn't get the rebounds. Pearl had 11 rebounds, Ferguson 8, Putman 5 and Sloan 4. 41-21 became 67-38 at the end of the third stanza and coach Dave Smith put in his second string. Doing an excellent job, they finally brought it up to 82-60.

"We were more aggressive, and our shot percentage was really good," Coach Smith commented after the game. "Pearl, Sloan and Ferguson had some splendid rebounding, as well."

Pearl scored 23 points, Ferguson 16, Cole 15, Tim Salmonson 8, Sloan and Tim Plagge 5 each. Putman and LaBlance 4 each and Hayes and Syvertsen one bucket each.

Scoring players for the Saints were Brad Erskine, Andy Brown, Clyde O'Rourke, Sean Heavie, John Belonga and Andy Luepnitz.

The Rayder wrestlers placed seventh among the eight teams entered in the St. Ignace Invitational tournament Saturday. Kalkaska emerged the winner. Other teams were Gaylord, Gladstone, Onaway, Manistique and the host team, St. Ignace.

In the tournament, the coaches seeded the top four competitors in each of the 13 weight classes, and then drew in the remaining participants.

Each wrestler then competed until he lost twice. The only Rayder wrestler seeded was Dan Kelly, who was seeded second and Chad Thorp (98) was seeded third.

Kelly won his first two matches to qualify for the finals, winning over B. Settling of Kalkaska, a quick pin in 1:45 and D. Vance of Gaylord in 4:36. In the finals, Kelly lost to T. Horn of St. Ignace by a pin in 1:46.

As a freshman, Thorp did an excellent job. Coach Greg Bryan said, "Seeded third with a 9-3 record, Thorp was one point away from being in the finals. He first pinned B. Bruce of St. Ignace and then lost to G. Korchev of Gladstone in a close 4-3 score. Korchev went on to take the title in his weight class. Thorp went on to defeat D. Leonard of Manistique in a pin in 2:4. He then lost a thriller in overtime 2-2 on a criteria decision to B. Monforton of Grayling to take fourth place.

The other Rayders did not fare as well as the result of the draw which pitted them against first and second seeds in the first round. Chris Roberts (105) lost two on pins. Jim Roberts (112) lost two on pins. Nick Mellos (126) lost two on pins. Matt Hull (138) lost by an 8-6 decision, won a second match on a pin and then lost by a 6-0 decision. Kevin Pearsall (145) lost two on pins. Derek Duthier (167) lost on a pin and then on a 7-2 decision. Jeff McVyn (175) lost a close one in the semi-finals on a 10-7 decision and then on a pin in 4:12. Bryan said the team performed well. "We are showing steady improvement. Pearsall and the Roberts looked especially good. This was the first tournament for most of the team and they handled it with composure. Despite their record, the team has improved quite impressively."

Charlevoix will travel to Gaylord to meet the Blue Devils and Rogers City on Thursday for the last match until after the holidays.

Judy's Restaurant will be playing First State Bank and the Clothing Company will be meeting Erber-McKeown Auto.

Games on Thursday will close out the 1984-85 season of the schedule.

Three members of the Charlevoix Rayder girls basketball teams were named to the Michigan-Huron-Shores Most Valuable Players team and three others received honorable mention. Coach Henry Wagner reports.

Heading the list are two seniors: Ann Wagner, the league's top scorer for the season, and Meg Fowler, a scrappy little guard, and sophomore Amy Fischer. Receiving honorable mention are Dianna Loder, a senior, and two juniors, Kris Austin and Meebe Gagnon.

The players are nominated by their coach and team-mates and selected by conference coaches.

John Pearl gets his kicks at the expense of a Harbor Springs player last week.

Independent basketball league scores

Kit Carson Lumber rolled up a score of 109-87 over Dr. Dave's Green Grinders and Ferguson Surveying-Holm Auto downed Judy's Restaurant 80-69 in action in the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League Tuesday.

On Thursday, County State Bank bested the Clothing Company 71-55. Auto edged First State Bank 61-60 at the buzzer.

Five players were in double figures as Carson rolled up 100 points after trailing until the final period when they poured in 38 points to the Grinders 18 for the win. Trailing 24-20, 40-36, and 71-62 by quarters, and all-out effort in the final period earned the game for Carson.

Vince Left led the attack with 27 points, Bulch Klooster and Bo Boss had 22 each, and Barney Way and Doug Frye, 10 each for the winners. Steve Dunkelberg matched Left's scoring with 27 points followed by Dean Hicks with 18; Dan McKenzie with 16 and Dave Storm with 15.

Ferguson Surveying-Holm Auto when they outscored Judy's restaurant 25-9 rescued the game for Ferguson-Holm after they had trailed 45-43 lead after trailing 13-10 after the three-quarter mark. They had led Judy's by slim margins of 20-18 at the first period and 39-38 at halftime.

Dave Norton had 27 points, Mike Crain 16 and Ed Holm and Doug Winnell 10 each for the winners. Jim Elminga with 12 points, Clay Jones with 11 and Randy Holechek with 10 points were top scorers for Judy's.

In action on Thursday, County State Bank came from behind to defeat the Clothing Company after trailing 17-14, 33-26 and 43-40 at the quarters.

Cliff Haas led the attack with 27 points, Bulch Klooster and Bo Boss had 22 each, and Barney Way and Doug Frye, 10 each for the winners. Steve Dunkelberg matched Left's scoring with 27 points followed by Dean Hicks with 18; Dan McKenzie with 16 and Dave Storm with 15.

Auto Dealers the game. Erber-McKeown, had gone ahead for the first time at the third period with a 45-43 lead after trailing 13-10 after the three-quarter mark. They had led Judy's by slim margins of 20-18 at the first period and 39-38 at halftime.

For Saints and Sinners

by Rev. Dr. Gary D. Heniser Christ Episcopal Church

St. Nicholas the Wonder Worker (adapted from "The Orthodox Way", the parish newsletter of St. Nicholas Orthodox Church, Flint, MI)

On December 6 Christianity celebrated the feast of St. Nicholas the Wonder worker, archbishop of Myra. Nicholas was born around 280 AD near Myra, in Turkey. Born of pious and sincere Christian parents and probably an only child, he showed from the beginning that he wanted to please God; he was a good student and attended worship regularly where by assisting the older men he might benefit from their example and guidance.

Nicholas' uncle was bishop of a neighboring community. Under his uncle's direction Nicholas quickly mastered the church services, showed a remarkable quick mind and sincere devotion, was ordained to the priesthood at 19 years of age, and was placed as overseer of his uncle's parish. Nicholas showed himself a generous advocate of the poor and those in need. He always preferred to accomplish his deeds in complete secrecy, avoiding praise. Nicholas was probably elected bishop of Myra in the early 4th century when the persecution was in full fury, and he was seized, tortured, chained, and thrown into prison with many other Christians. He was released by emperor Constantine I and attended the first Council of Nicea in 325. It was said that his teaching prevented the spread of the Arian heresy in his diocese. Nicholas died in 342 and was buried in his cathedral in Myra.

St. Nicholas is the special patron saint of Greece, Russia and many cities in western Europe. He is also the patron of mariners, merchants, bakers, travelers, and children. In medieval England many churches and chapels were dedicated to him. The Protestant reformation frowned on the veneration of the saints and so St. Nicholas, while remaining a popular children's figure, especially in Holland, was gradually diminished as a "saint figure". The Dutch brought the custom of St. Nicholas as the children's gift giver to New York, and it was from there that our modern "Santa Claus" developed, aided by the famous poem by Clement Clark Moore written in 1822, "A Visit from St. Nicholas". The word images of St. Nicholas provided by Moore gave illustrations their key and thus, the fat, pleasant old man in a red suit, driving a sleigh pulled by reindeer - Santa Claus - came to be.

The Intensive-Coronary Care Unit at Charlevoix Area Hospital received an unexpected Christmas present from Charlevoix's sorority Beta Sigma Phi last weekend, when the daughters of sorority members presented hospital representative Diane Novotny with a check for $1,000 for the ICU. Left to right are Wendy Engler, Maria Tullberg, Janice Tullberg, Jennifer Frabis and Julie Holman. The sorority presented the organization's gift to Mrs. Novotny.

The sorority chose the hospital's ICU to be the recipient of the profits from their summer "Home Tours and the sale of the Charlevoix Cook Book, when the hospital announced the addition of complex new catheter fed heart monitoring equipment to the ICU's monitoring capabilities.

The Hi-Tech equipment was installed last spring, while hospital supporters helped raise over $40,000. The sorority has now donated $3,000 to the project.

Hospital Administrator, Richard Krueger, speaking for the Board of Directors, reflected, "Such great continued support is extremely important to the hospital and makes it possible for us to constantly improve and expand upon our services."

Four big stories of 1984

Hoskins Manufacturing Company's 15,000 square feet of new manufacturing space, above, was one of several expansion projects among local industrial firms in 1984.

Year saw dramatic industrial upturn

After a long period of recession-induced decline, industry in Charlevoix made a remarkably hearty comeback in 1984. Plant expansions and production increases at many local firms contributed to a quiet but considerable industrial rebound for the community. A total of over 70,000 square feet of manufacturing space was added by local firms, creating many new jobs and welcome work for area building contractors. Also contributing to a more secure future for the local economy was the resolution of long-standing conflicts at two major employers, the Big Rock nuclear plant and Medusa Cement Company, and the creation of a county business advocate program.

In February, Wojan Aluminum broke ground for a 30,000 sq. ft. addition to its Stuver Rd. plant. The $500,000 expansion project, aided by a 12-year tax abatement certificate granted by the City of Charlevoix, Continued on page 4

A congregation of very busy, above, is what the First Congregational Church looked like after volunteers to the Charlevoix Christmas Project gathered about hundreds of toys and books for the needy and placed them in the church pews for pickup. The volunteers, left from all churches, also gathered and distributed many Christmas presents for the less fortunate.

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to all of my friends and supporters who assisted me during the recent campaign.

Best wishes for a most joyous holiday season. I look forward to working with you in the future.

Clean water is on the way

In a practical sense, 1984 saw no real change in Charlevoix's lingering water contamination dilemma. Thirty to 40 parts per billion of trichloroethylene (TCE) still show up in the city's water supply, just as it did in September of 1981 when the industrial chemical and suspected carcinogen was first detected in the system. But what did occur this past year to finally improve the outlook on the situation was a firm commitment to a course of action to eliminate the contamination. Although actual construction has not started, some materials are on site and architectural plans are being finalized for a $3,612,800 lake water intake and treatment plant that will replace the city's present well system with water from Lake Michigan.

As the year started U.S. Environmental Protection Agency officials were leaning toward a "two-track" approach to the problem in which work toward an alternative water supply could proceed while the search for the source of contamination continued. Meanwhile, the city, acting under a May 1 deadline to submit to the Michigan Department of Public Health its plan for dealing with the contamination, spent about $60,000

Hope for a new city well was given up after a test well drilling program was unsuccessful.

Military retreat

U.S. Air Force and Coast Guard personnel have been part of the local scene in Charlevoix for decades. But 1984 saw the last of the local Air Force contingent leave for good and a shipload of Coast Guardsmen depart, ostensibly until next spring. It had been long been rumored that the Bayshore site of Detachment 6, 1st Combat Evaluation Group was to be phased out by the Air Force and as equipment and personnel gradually dwindled in recent years, the closing appeared inevitable.

The first solid indication that this year was to see a total evacuation of the site came, however, in April when a letter was made public from senior officer of the Strategic Air Command (SAC) to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. NRC staff had been instructed to determine the Air Force's intentions regarding training flyers of military aircraft in the vicinity of the Big Rock Point nuclear plant.

In the letter, Col. Dennis K. Bush assured that flyers at Bay Shore would cease September 30 and that the site would be completely closed by January 1, 1985. That schedule held and, in an October 2 ceremony, the flag was lowered at Bay Shore for the last time. In its 21-year stay at Bay Shore, Detachment 6 saw maximum deployments of up to 125 people. When it closed, however, there were only about 50 stationed at the site, most of whom were transferred to a new Wyoming location. In September, word leaked that the U.S. Coast Guard cutter

The flag was lowered at the U.S. Air Force Bay Shore site for the last time October 2.

Mesquite had been assigned to special duty in Grenada for the winter months. For the Mesquite, the mission represented a unusual challenge since the Charlevoix-based buoy tender-service breaker had spent most of her recent existence performing routine navigational aids duty in the Upper Great Lakes.

For Charlevoix, the assignment represented one of the longest absences of a Coast Guard cutter from the city's downtown berth since the Sundew was first stationed here over 25 years ago. On November 26, a crowd of family, friends and other well-wishers - including the high school band - bid farewell to the Mesquite and her crew of 55, according to the most recent reports, the Mesquite has left the St. Lawrence Seaway after a long delay at a stuck drawbridge and is now on a non-stop course for the Caribbean.

Coast Guard officials say that the Mesquite will be back in time for the spring buoy-setting season in April.

Is a plan in Lake Charlevoix's future

Concern about the future of Lake Charlevoix, stimulated by at least two major lakeshore development projects proposed in 1984 and a new awareness of other growing usage pressures, resulted this year in a broad-based effort to create a comprehensive management plan for the lake. In March, a Detroit-based development group headed by William Fox presented the Hayes Township Planning Board with a proposal to convert the 227-acre former Camp Charlevoix site into a 220-unit condominium complex featuring an 18-hole golf course and 40-slip marina on Oyster Bay. That plan was rejected by the township planners as was a revised proposal offered by Fox in September. Nothing has been presented to the board since.

The future of Lake Charlevoix as a recreational resource and a setting for future development will be studied by a newly appointed committee.

County Board adopts budget

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners last week adopted its budget for operating the County during 1985, in the amount of $3,211,559, or $245,196, or approximately eight percent, over 1984. The budget was passed by a vote of 5 to 1, with Commissioner Don Smith casting a nay vote followed by a statement explaining why. By departments, the budget expenditure figures are: JUDICIAL, $413,002. (Includes Appeals Court, Circuit Court and Reporter, District Court, Friend of the Court, Jury Board, and Probate Court.) GENERAL GOVERNMENT, $284,724. (Includes Births and Deaths, Building Authority Administration, Building Code Administration, House Numbering, Cooperative Extension, Copy and Recording, County Clerk, County Building and Grounds, County Building Annex, Drain Commissioner, Elections, Equalization, Assessing, Sub Department, Mapping, Project, Planning, Plat Board, Prosecuting Attorney, U.R.E.S.A., Register of Deeds, Soil and Water Conservation, Surveyor, Tax Allocation Board, Data Processing, and County Treasurer.) PUBLIC SAFETY, $568,372. (Includes Animal Control, Emergency Services, Jail, Marine, Sheriff, and Secondary Road Patrol.) HEALTH, $218,551. (Includes Contagious Diseases, Medical Examiner, District Health Fund, Harbor Hall (Rehabilitation Center), Mental Health, Child Counseling Center, and State Institutions.) WELFARE, $434,269. (Includes Child Care Fund, Youth Activities Program, Commission on Aging, Social Services Fund, and Veterans Affairs.) LIBRARIES, $4,000. (County Library.) RECREATION, $25,168. (Whiting Park and Recreation.)

Commissioner Smith's statement reads as follows: "The following objection is submitted regarding the method used in developing the County Budget for fiscal year 1985. Participate in student exchange

by ANNE KELLY

What classes are students in other schools taking? How is their school day different from ours? What about the lunches? Do they have sports? Dances? Student councils?

These are all questions Charlevoix Middle School 8th grade "exchange students" and their counterparts from Harbor Springs might have asked each other on Student Exchange Day, Dec. 19.

The exchange program allows students to experience another school environment for a day and find out for themselves what makes each school special in its own way. Visitors and hosts exchanged letters prior to exchange day.

Three more exchange programs are scheduled for 8th graders during the course of the year involving Gaylord, Cheboygan and Petoskey.

To hold Watch Night service

The First Baptist Church will host its traditional Watch Night service New Year's Eve at the church located on M-46 from 8 p.m. until 12 midnight the Rev. Thom Black, pastor of the church, has announced.

The service will open with the Ordinance of the Eucharist at 8 p.m. This will be followed by the film "Zack" which tells the story of John Zachary, a private investigator, as he embarks on the most unusual week of his life. It allows the viewer to get to know and like Zack and then to identify with him as he begins to realize how essential and beneficial a Christian's commitment to his local church body is.

This will be followed by congregational singing, testimonies and a message by the pastor entitled "Life's Highway" taken from Proverbs 3:1-12.

A potluck lunch will be served during the evening. The public is cordially invited to attend the service.

School board approves payment, names track field committee

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education at its Dec. 17 meeting approved the payment of interest on bonds, accepted bids on two school buses and heard a report from the building and site committee.

Approval was given to the payment of $1,736 in interest on bonds dated April 1969 (high school) to the First of America Bank-Detroit and $10,403 to the National Bank of Detroit on the bonds dated July 1968 (K-5 school).

The purchase bids for two buses, a 1973 and a 1974 model Chevrolet, submitted by Cass Russell, being the highest among several received were accepted. The bid on the 1973 Chevrolet was in the amount of $865 and $965 for the 1974 vehicle. Five bids ranging from $350 to $985 were received for the 1973 bus and three ranging from $200 to $965 were received for the 1974.

Ron Moore of the Building and Site Committee advised the board that his committee has made recommendations regarding the proposed renovation of the football-track facility including lights at Kippe Field. Moore said the committee recommended the formation of an Ad Hoc Citizens Advisory Committee which would be charged with investigating the Year's Day, two Masses will be celebrated at the facilities at the field, and exploring and evaluating all options and alternatives regarding the proposed improvements. The committee will be asked to report to the School Board on March 15.

Named to the committee were Bob Drenth, John Ferguson, Jack Gebott, Ray Kippe, Hal Hill, Dale Burge, athletic director, and Rhonda Brown and Sean Ferguson, students.

The board also approved the use of a bus as a spectator bus to Jan. 1. The response will determine if the bus will continue to be available.

Sixteen cheerleaders and approximately 30 students will make up the passenger list. The

Opinion

Knight on the Town

By David A. Knight

When the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners convenes on the second Wednesday of January, it will mark the beginning of the second term for this six-man board, which is charged with running a "business" that now values and spends over $3 million a year.

The first term of this Board was marked by the institution of monthly Committee of the Whole meetings. In supplementing the monthly Board meetings, these extra meetings have Board members a chance to talk out projects they did not otherwise have time for because of the pressure of other important business.

Several times during the year, Board members have met in the privacy of their homes to discuss the business of the county. These meetings have been a success, but they have also been a source of controversy. Some Board members have felt that the meetings were a waste of time, while others have felt that they were a necessary part of the Board's business.

In this last year, one of the most controversial items on the Board's agenda was the proposed sale of the county's land. The Board has been divided on this issue, with some members favoring the sale and others opposing it. The Board has been unable to reach a decision on this issue, and it will be one of the first items on the agenda when the Board convenes in January.

The Board's decision on this issue will have a significant impact on the county's future. If the land is sold, the county will receive a large sum of money, which can be used for a variety of purposes. However, if the land is not sold, the county will be forced to find other sources of revenue to maintain its operations.

The Board's decision on this issue will also have a significant impact on the county's residents. If the land is sold, the county will be able to provide better services to its residents. However, if the land is not sold, the county will be forced to raise taxes to maintain its operations.

The Board's decision on this issue will be a test of its ability to run a "business" that values and spends over $3 million a year. It will be a test of its ability to make decisions that are in the best interests of the county and its residents.

Time for county to modernize

by FEG O'LE

When the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners convenes on the second Wednesday of January, it will mark the beginning of the second term for this six-man board, which is charged with running a "business" that now values and spends over $3 million a year.

The first term of this Board was marked by the institution of monthly Committee of the Whole meetings. In supplementing the monthly Board meetings, these extra meetings have Board members a chance to talk out projects they did not otherwise have time for because of the pressure of other important business.

Several times during the year, Board members have met in the privacy of their homes to discuss the business of the county. These meetings have been a success, but they have also been a source of controversy. Some Board members have felt that the meetings were a waste of time, while others have felt that they were a necessary part of the Board's business.

In this last year, one of the most controversial items on the Board's agenda was the proposed sale of the county's land. The Board has been divided on this issue, with some members favoring the sale and others opposing it. The Board has been unable to reach a decision on this issue, and it will be one of the first items on the agenda when the Board convenes in January.

The Board's decision on this issue will have a significant impact on the county's future. If the land is sold, the county will receive a large sum of money, which can be used for a variety of purposes. However, if the land is not sold, the county will be forced to find other sources of revenue to maintain its operations.

The Board's decision on this issue will also have a significant impact on the county's residents. If the land is sold, the county will be able to provide better services to its residents. However, if the land is not sold, the county will be forced to raise taxes to maintain its operations.

The Board's decision on this issue will be a test of its ability to run a "business" that values and spends over $3 million a year. It will be a test of its ability to make decisions that are in the best interests of the county and its residents.

Clockwise

The dreaming worked!

By Ron Clark

WHO SAYS DREAMING of a white Christmas doesn't pay? After a mostly green December, Charlevoixans awoke Sunday morning to find between eight and 14 inches of fresh powder snow on the ground, with depths depending on where you live in town. Charlevoix has gotten more than the surrounding area, which probably means it was a "fake effort" storm.

But it was snow and it was beautiful. The white looks exactly as it should at Christmas, with that soft, white blanket and snow-laden branches.

Of course, feasibility studies will be necessary, but I think Charlevoix has sufficient ambience to attract small-to-medium sized convention from throughout the Midwest during our so-called "off-season" — without even touching the big convention business of other area resorts.

In fact, it is hard to believe that to date we have practically ignored the convention trade — when the potential has been there all along.

A convention center, of course, is central to the Altman Project, and that obviously would be the best way to go. But would it be making any money plans just to go?

ARE YOU A better winter card signer? For years we sent Christmas cards, but as postal rates started creeping up, we decided that Christmas would be a good time to catch up on our correspondence. So we sent letters instead of cards.

Apparently we aren't alone in causing every year we get more and more letters. Not numerous epistles but beautiful personal letters. Of course, they take longer to write, but they're more fun to read. And you certainly don't need a lot of letters to tell you what is happening to family and friends.

It could be a trend.

Letters from Readers

July 1st

Dear Sirs:

I am writing to you to express my appreciation for the work you have done in the past year. I have been a subscriber for many years and I have always found your publication to be of high quality and interest.

I am particularly impressed by the way you have handled the recent election. Your coverage was thorough and fair, and I appreciate the way you have kept us informed throughout the process.

I am sure that your publication will continue to be a valuable source of information for many years to come.

Sincerely,

The Charlevoix County Planning Commission has decided in August to apply for a $12,500 Coastal Zone Development Grant for a study of the lake that would consider not only environmental issues but also the economic and recreational benefits of the lake.

The grant would be used to hire a consultant to conduct a study of the lake's resources and to develop a plan for the lake's future. The plan would take into account the lake's role in the county's economy and its recreational value.

The Commission has also decided to hold a public hearing on the grant application in January. The hearing will give the public a chance to voice their opinions on the grant and the study.

The Commission is also considering other projects for the lake, including the construction of a new boat launch and the improvement of the lake's shoreline.

First State Bank to sponsor essay contest

The First State Bank of Charlevoix has announced a two-part scholarship fund competition to assist high school seniors to enter the local and the national essay contests. The contest is available both at the bank and the school, but entries are to be made through the school. Entries must be submitted by January 23, 1985 to be eligible for both judgments. Prizes will be awarded directly to the winners in mid-March.

The scholarship fund was established to honor the career of Howard Bell, a retired executive director of IBAA, and his wife, for 25 years of service to the national banking association. Charlevoix, to invite seniors to submit short professional essays on the organization operated exclusively for the independent bank country's smaller banks.

Local 7-Eleven employees taught responsibilities of selling alcohol

By ANNE KELLY

State wide crackdown on alcohol abuse have prompted many businesses that sell beer, wine and liquor to re-evaluate their own policies regarding the sale of alcoholic beverages.

One such company is 7-11, which is making positive strides in this direction, by initiating an employee training program known as "Come of age." The program has been conducted throughout northern Michigan.

At a 2 1/2 hour seminar recently conducted by GARB-KO, Inc., Northern Michigan District Manager Jan Peterson, instructed Charlevoix's 7-11 franchise owner Ken Gray, and his employees, that failure to know the law regarding the proper sale of alcoholic beverages could lead to fines, loss of liquor license, and possible imprisonment.

"It is against the law to sell alcoholic beverages after hours. Hours are: Weekdays 7 a.m. to 2 a.m., Sundays 12 p.m. to 2 a.m."

"It is against the law to sell to an intoxicated person."

"It is against the law to open or drink alcohol on the store premises."

Employees were advised that violating any of the laws or local ordinances regarding prohibited alcohol sales could cost the store its liquor license and could cost the employee his/her job. Gray emphasized that his store policy in this matter is concurrent with these dictates and that there is "second chance" for any employee who fails to comply.

Peterson cited cases in northern Michigan where "STING," an effort to expose illegal sales, revealed that about 1 to 4 of stores and restaurants that sell beer and wine, do not properly I.D. their customers. Those exposed through this operation faced fines and a variety of sentences.

"What is proper identification is proof of age and only the following I.D.'s are acceptable in the case of proving age for the purpose of purchasing:

attempt at illegal purchasing; and instructing them in the skills of refusing prohibited alcohol sales.

What exactly is the law regarding the sale of alcoholic beverages? "It is against the law to sell to a minor; in Michigan that is, a person under 21."

"It is against the law to make a second party sale; this is a sale which is purchased by an adult with the obvious intent of being distributed to minors."

Rogers City, Gaylord hammer grapplers

The Charlevoix Rayder matmen, hampered by injuries, illnesses and inexperience dropped two matches during the week, to Gaylord by a 6-6 score and two Rogers City 62-18.

The team's next outing will be on the home floor Jan. 3 when the Rayders host the Soo and Traverse City St. Francis.

In the recent meet held at Gaylord, Coach Greg Bryan said Chad Thorp wrestled very well, defeating M. Lehman by a 5-2 decision. Lehman had won the championship at the recent St. Ignace tournament.

The results of the Gaylord tournament follow:

98. Chad Thorp won by decision over M. Lehman by a 5-2 decision in the 98 pound class.

105. Brian Anderson lost to K. Sanders in a pin in 1:02.

112. Jim Robert was pinned by M. Dutcher in 1:30.

125. Larry Drost lost to T. Freeman in 1:20.

138. Matt Hull was pinned by B. Rau in 1:10.

145. Kevin Pearsall lost to B. Cature by a pin in 1:45.

155. Dan Kelly won by a 14-8 decision over P. Vance.

167. D. Wilson of Gaylord by forfeit.

185. Jim Tilton lost to D. Peppers by a pin in 3:33.

198. J. Williams won by forfeit for Gaylord.

Heavy Weight: Bill Marquardt lost by a pin in 3:50 to D. Miller.

In the meet with Rogers City, Charlevoix fared a little better. The results follow:

98. Thorp pinned J. Toschin in 2:28.

105. Anderson won by forfeit.

112. Jim Roberts lost to S. Hein in a pin in 1:10.

119. R. Kortman won by forfeit for Rogers City.

138. Larry Drost lost to J. Vanloosen by a pin in 2:34.

Petoskey, Boyne fall to Rayders

By ULF EYDALSSON
And Rayders just keep on winning and winning.

Last week, dealing with two more conference games, they didn't seem to have any problems winning in Boyne City 21-62 and beating Petoskey Northmen 52-40 on the home floor.

Through these two victories, they stay undefeated with a satisfying 5-0 record. Before last week's wins they have whipped East Jordan, Harbor Springs and St. Ignace.

"We played well and had a safe lead during the first three quarters, but in the end we started to turn the ball over and the Ramblers began to catch up with us," Rayders' coach Dave Smith said after the combat in Boyne Tuesday.

At the end of a half the Rayders started to turn the ball over and at the same time, Ramblers' shots became more accurate. Altogether, they caught a 17-8 lead in the first quarter. Ramblers' offense didn't work very well; they wasted a lot of chances to score by turning the ball over. In addition, their shot percentage was too low, which gave players like John Pearl, Will Syvertsen and Doug Sloan chances to show how good rebounders they are. In the middle of the second stanza Jody Putman scored a free throw making it 27-10. Brent Cole added three field goals along with Jim Martin and Doug Sloan's one basket each, and a 37-22 lead went to the Rayders at halftime.

Best scorers for the Ramblers in the first half were Nick Redman, Jeff Johnson and Mike Gabel. Johnson scored all the points for Ramblers in the third quarter, but what good did that do when Pearl, Sean Ferguson, Cole and Putman continued to provide Rayders with more points bringing it up to 58-40 going into the last stanza.

When Petoskey Northmen visited Charlevoix Friday night, Rayders went on playing calmly and organized, and Northmen did never become any kind of threat to their superior opponents.

Scorers for Rayders were Sloan 12, Putman 12, Ferguson 10 each, Cole 8 and Syvertsen 6. Cole 4 and Syvertsen 3 per capita. Best scorers for Northmen were Jim Hayes, Steve Mann and Daryl Bur. Syvertsen and Martin did a good job for the Rayders, and so did Tim Plagge, when he came into the game in the final quarter.

Basketball teams will enter TC tourney

The Charlevoix Rayder Varsity and JV basketball teams will play in the Traverse City St. Francis Invitational Holiday tournament this week.

The tournament will be open on Thursday with four teams participating.

The Rayder Varsity five will clash with Glen Lake at 7 p.m. Thursday with the best team, Traverse City St. Francis, meeting Suttons Bay at 8:30 p.m.

The teams in the consolation bracket will play at 7 p.m. Saturday.

The championship game scheduled for 8:30 p.m.

Action in the JV division will begin at 2:30 p.m. Thursday when Charlevoix will play the Glen Lake JV squad. The second game at 4 p.m. will find St. Francis and Suttons Bay meeting.

The consolation game in this division will be played at 2:30 p.m. and the Championship game at 4:00 p.m. on Saturday.

The tournament will be played at the Traverse City St. Francis Gymnasium.

Middle School boys open hoop season

The Charlevoix Middle School Boys Basketball teams opened their season on the home floor against Cheboygan Wednesday.

The seventh grade team, coached by Stan Martin bowed to the visitors by a 37-35 score and the eighth graders, coached by Barry Pierce lost by a 42-38 score.

The teams will not return to the hardwoods until Jan. 7 when they travel to Petoskey.

In Wednesday's game, the Charlevoix eighth graders, overcame a 10-8 first period deficit to go ahead 14-10 at the half.

Basketball teams scored in the final period 15-8 and losing the game by two points.

James Corwin had 17 points for Charlevoix. Eliot Grondin had 14 and JD Benton 13 for the visitors.

After playing to a 10-10 first period tie, Cheboygan pulled away for a 22-16 halftime lead and a 10-point 36-26 margin at the third period before posting the win.

In Wednesday's game, the Charlevoix eighth graders, overcame a 10-8 first period deficit to go ahead 14-10 at the half.

Freshmen win their two games

The Charlevoix Rayder Freshman team posted two more victories this week, a 68-44 win over Boyne City and 64-42 victory over Petoskey.

The games will mark the last for the squad until Jan. 7 when they travel to Cheboygan.

The young Rayders held decisive leads at the end of all periods by scores of 16-10, 36-22 and 53-32 before coasting to a win.

Roger Smith poured in 25 points and Scott DeYoung added 16.

Mike DeSchryver had 24 for Boyne City.

In the Petoskey game, the story was pretty much the same as the Rayders led 16-8, 34-24 and 53-32 by quarters.

Chad DeYoung added 12 and Roger Smith 10. Ted Pestering and Tracy Piehl had 12 each for Petoskey.

Kit Carson at 6-0, leads city basketball

Kit Carson Lumber with a 6-0 record is leading the Charlevoix Independent Basketball League as the 1984 division of the schedule draws to a close.

In second place is Erber-McKeown Ford with a 5-1 record followed by Dave's Green Grinders, 4-2; County State Bank, 4-3; First State Bank, 3-3; The Clothing Co. and Carson's overcame 14-13 first period and 33-30 halftime deficit to go ahead 50-48 going into the last period before taking the game by a 14-point margin.

Vince Left led the attack with 25 points with 80 Boss adding 19 and Larry Potter 10. Cliff Haas had 22 and Larry Skippergosh 14 for the Clothing Co.

Wojan's got off to a good start, leading Ferguson-Holm 20-18 and 39-33 at the first two quarters before Ferguson-Holm took over 55-51 going into the last period and 75-72 at the buzzer.

Mike Crain had 20 points, Dave Norton 18, Ed Holm 12 and Jim Uh- rick 11 for the victors.

Stan Martin had 19 points and Frank Curtis and Dick Putman 12 points each for Wojan's.

DRUNK DRIVING KILLS!

Will alcohol claim you as yet another victim of escalating statistics? Each year, the scene is the same. Friends gather together, ringing in the holidays, and will have a drink or two...or three. Then it's time to go home. Whether around the block or long distance, the effect of even one drink makes you a threat to yourself and others!

Reflexes become sluggish and judgement is impaired. In short, you become a potential killer as soon as you get behind that wheel. This holiday season, if you drink, use your head. Don't drive. If a friend has had one too many, encourage him to find another way home. Don't let your celebrating lead you down a dead end street...permanently!

Day One

There are 365 days ahead for all of us. No one knows what is going to happen on those days. Many will be days to be remembered. Let us take this year one day at a time. Let us fill each day with peaceful thoughts and with love for our neighbors. Day Two, Day Three, even Day Three Hundred may then be as full of hope and joy as Day One.

To everyone who reads the Charlevoix Courier, our best wishes for a very happy 365 new days.
